Major

In order to ensure that a student's education involves not simply exposure to many disciplines but also development of some degree of mastery in at least one, she must choose a major subject at the end of the sophomore year. With the guidance of the major adviser, a student plans an appropriate sequence of courses. The following is a list of major subjects:

- Anthropology
- Astronomy (at Haverford College)
- Biology
- Chemistry
- Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology
- Classical Culture and Society (see “Greek, Latin and Classical Studies”)
- Classical Languages (see “Greek, Latin and Classical Studies”)
- Comparative Literature
- Computer Science
- East Asian Studies
- Economics
- English
- Fine Arts (at Haverford College)
- French and Francophone Studies
- Geology
- German and German Studies
- Greek (see “Greek, Latin and Classical Studies”)
- Growth and Structure of Cities
- History
- History of Art
- Italian
- Latin (see “Greek, Latin and Classical Studies”)
- Linguistics (at Swarthmore College)
- Linguistics and Languages (at Swarthmore College)
- Mathematics
- Music (at Haverford College)
- Philosophy
- Physics
- Political Science
- Psychology
- Religion (at Haverford College)
- Romance Languages
- Russian
- Sociology
- Spanish

Minor

The minor typically consists of six courses, with specific requirements determined by the department or program. A minor is not required for the degree. The following is a list of subjects in which students may elect to minor. Minors in departments or programs that do not offer majors appear in italics.
Africana Studies
Anthropology

Theater Studies

Concentration

The concentration, which is not required for the degree, is a cluster of classes that overlap the major and focus a student’s work on a specific area of interest:

- Environmental Studies
- Gender and Sexuality
- Geoarchaeology (with a major in Anthropology, Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology, or Geology)
- Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Peoples and Cultures
- Middle Eastern Studies
- Neural and Behavioral Sciences (with a major in Biology or Psychology)
- Peace and Conflict Studies

Key to Course Numbers

001-099: These course numbers are used by only a few departments. They refer to introductory courses that are not counted towards the major.

100-199: Introductory courses, generally taken in the first and second years.

200-299: Introductory and intermediate-level courses, generally taken in the first two years.

300-399: Advanced courses.
400-499: Special categories of work (e.g., 403 for a unit of supervised work).

Some courses listed together are full-year courses. Students must complete the second semester of a full-year course in order to receive credit for both semesters. Full-year courses are indicated by the phrase “both semesters are required for credit” in the course description. Other courses listed together are designed as two-semester sequences, but students receive credit for completing either semester without the other.

A semester course usually carries one unit of credit. Students should check the course guide for unit listing. One unit equals four semester hours or six quarter hours.

Key to Requirement Indicators

Quantitative Skills: Indicates courses that meet the requirement for work in Quantitative Skills.

Division I: Indicates courses that meet part of the divisional requirement for work in the social sciences.

Division II: Indicates courses that meet the laboratory science part of the divisional requirement for work in the natural sciences and mathematics.

Division III: Indicates courses that meet part of the divisional requirement for work in the natural sciences or mathematics, but not the laboratory science part of the Division II requirement.

Division I or III, II or III, etc.: Indicates courses that can be used to meet part of the divisional requirement for work in either division, but not both.

Neighboring College Courses

Selected Haverford College courses are listed in this catalog when applicable to Bryn Mawr programs. Consult the Haverford catalog for full course descriptions. Students should consult their deans or major advisers for information about Swarthmore College, University of Pennsylvania and Villanova University courses pertinent to their studies. Catalogs and course guides for Swarthmore are available through the Tri-Co Course Guide. Catalogs and course guides for Penn and Villanova are available through each institution’s Web site.

Course Descriptions

In parentheses following the description are the name(s) of the instructor(s), the College requirements that the course meets, if any, and information on cross-listing. Information on prerequisite courses may be included in the descriptions or in the prefatory material on each department. Descriptions for cross-listed courses are listed once in the home department of the cross-listed course.

The course offerings and descriptions that follow were accurate at the time of publication. Whenever possible, courses that will not be offered in the current year are so noted. There may be courses offered in the current year for which information was not available at the time of this catalog publication. For the most up-to-date and complete information regarding course offerings, faculty, status and divisional requirements, please consult the Tri-Co Course Guide, which can be found on the College Web site at http://www.trico.haverford.edu.

The Africana Studies Program brings a global outlook to the study of Africa and the African diaspora. Drawing on analytical perspectives from anthropology, history, literary studies, political science and sociology, the program focuses on African people and African cultures within the context of increasing globalization and dramatic social, economic and political changes.

Bryn Mawr's Africana Studies Program participates in a U.S. Department of Education-supported consortium with Haverford and Swarthmore Colleges and the University of Pennsylvania. Through this consortium, Bryn Mawr students have an opportunity to take a broad range of courses beyond those offered in our program by enrolling in courses offered by the three other participating institutions. Also, Bryn Mawr's Africana Studies Program sponsors a study abroad semester at the University of Nairobi, Kenya, and participates in other study abroad programs offered by its consortium partners in Zimbabwe, Ghana and Senegal.

Students are encouraged to begin their work in the Africana Studies Program by taking Introduction to Africana Studies (HIST B102). This introductory level course, which provides students with a common intellectual experience as well as the foundation for subsequent courses in Africana Studies, should be completed by the end of the student’s junior year.

Minor Requirements

The requirements for a minor in Africana Studies are the following:

1. One-semester interdisciplinary course Bryn Mawr HIST B102: Introduction to Africana Studies (ICPR 101 at Haverford).
2. Six semester courses from an approved list of courses in Africana studies.
3. A senior thesis or seminar-length essay in an area of Africana studies.

Students are encouraged to organize their course work along one of several prototypical routes. Such model programs might feature:

1. Regional or area studies; for example, focusing on blacks in Latin America, the English-speaking Caribbean or North America.
2. Thematic emphases; for example, exploring class politics, ethnic conflicts and/or economic development in West and East Africa.
3. Comparative emphases; for example, problems of development, governance, public health or family and gender.

The final requirement for the Africana Studies minor is a senior thesis or its equivalent. If the department in which the student is majoring requires a thesis, she can satisfy the Africana Studies requirement by writing on a topic that is approved by her department and the Africana Studies Program coordinator. If the major department does not require a thesis, an equivalent written exercise—that is, a seminar-length essay—is required. The essay may be written within the framework of a particular course or as an independent study project. The topic must be approved by both the instructor in question and the Africana Studies Program coordinator.

Africana Studies courses currently offered at Bryn Mawr include:

Anthropology is a holistic study of the human condition in both the past and the present. The anthropological lens can bring into focus the social, cultural, biological and linguistic variations that characterize the diversity of humankind throughout time and space. The frontiers of anthropology can encompass many directions: the search for early human fossils in Africa, the excavations of prehistoric societies and ancient civilizations, the analysis of language use and other expressive forms of culture, or the examination of the significance of culture in the context of social life.

Major Requirements

Requirements for the major are ANTH 101, 102, 303, 398, 399, an ethnographic area course that focuses on the cultures of a single region, and four additional 200- or 300-level courses in anthropology. Students are encouraged to select courses from each of four subfields of anthropology: archaeology, bioanthropology, linguistics or sociocultural.

Students may elect to do part of their work away from Bryn Mawr. Courses that must be taken at Bryn Mawr include ANTH 101, 102, 303, 398 and 399.

Honors

Qualified students may earn departmental honors in their senior year. Honors are based on the quality of the senior thesis (398, 399). Units of independent work may be taken with the approval of the instructor in the department.

Minor Requirements

Requirements for a minor in anthropology are ANTH 101, 102, 303, one ethnographic area course and two additional 200- or 300-level courses in anthropology.

Concentration in Environmental Studies

The Department of Anthropology participates with other departments in offering a concentration within the major in Environmental Studies.

Concentration in Geoarchaeology

The Department of Anthropology participates with other departments in offering a concentration within the major in geoarchaeology.
ANTH B101 Introduction to Anthropology
An introduction to the place of humans in nature, primates, the fossil record for human evolution, human variation and the issue of race, and the archaeological investigation of culture change from the Old Stone Age to the rise of early civilizations in the Americas, Eurasia and Africa. In addition to the lecture/discussion classes, there is a one-hour weekly lab. (Davis, Su, Division I)

ANTH B102 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
An introduction to the methods and theories of cultural anthropology in order to understand and explain cultural similarities and differences among contemporary societies. (Kilbride, Hyankova, Division I)

ANTH B111 Introduction to Peace and Conflict Studies
(Neuman, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B111)

ANTH B185 Urban Culture and Society
(Arbona, McDonogh, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B185)

ANTH B190 The Form of the City: Urban Form from Antiquity to the Present
(Cohen, Hein, Division I or III; cross-listed as CITY B190 and HART B190) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B200 The Atlantic World 1492-1800: Indians, Europeans and Africans (Gallup-Diaz, Division I or III; cross-listed as HIST B200) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B203 Human Ecology
The relationship of humans with their environment; culture as an adaptive mechanism and a dynamic component in ecological systems. Human ecological perspectives are compared with other theoretical orientations in anthropology. Prerequisites: ANTH 101, 102 or permission of instructor. (Davis, Division I)

ANTH B204 North American Archaeology
For millennia, the North American continent has been home to a vast diversity of Native Americans. From the initial migration of big game hunters who spread throughout the continent more than 12,000 years ago to the high civilizations of the Maya, Teotihuacan and Aztec, there remains a rich archaeological record that reflects the ways of life of these cultures. This course will introduce the culture history of North America as well as explanations for culture change and diversification. The class will include laboratory study of North American archaeological and ethnographic artifacts from the College’s art and archaeology collections. (Davis, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B206 Conflict and Conflict Management: A Cross-Cultural Approach

ANTH B209 Human Evolution
The position of humans among the primates, processes of biocultural evolution, the fossil record and contemporary human variation. Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or permission of instructor. (Su, Division I)

ANTH B210 Medical Anthropology
This course examines the relationships between culture, society, disease and illness. It considers a broad range of health-related experiences, discourses, knowledge and practice among different cultures and among individuals and groups in different positions of power. Topics covered include sorcery, herbal remedies, healing rituals, folk illnesses, modern disease, scientific medical perceptions, clinical technique, epidemiology and political economy of medicine. Prerequisite: ANTH 102 or permission of instructor. (Pashigian, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B209) Not offered in 2009-10.
ANTH B212 Primate Evolution and Behavior
An exploration of the aspects of the biology and behavior of living primates as well as the evolutionary history of these close relatives. The major focus of this study is to provide the background upon which human evolution is best understood. (Su, Division I)

ANTH B214 Third World Feminisms
The course focuses on the figure of the “exploited Filipina body” as a locus for analyzing the politics of gendered transnational labor within contemporary capitalist globalization. We will examine gendered migrant labor, the international sex trade, the “traffic in women” discourse, feminist and women’s movements, and transnational feminist theory. (Velasco, Division I)

ANTH B220 Methods and Theory in Archaeology
An examination of techniques and theories archaeologists use to transform archaeological data into statements about patterns of prehistoric cultural behavior, adaptation and culture change. Theory development, hypothesis formulation, gathering of archaeological data and their interpretation and evaluation are discussed and illustrated by examples. Theoretical debates current in American archaeology are reviewed and the place of archaeology in the general field of anthropology is discussed. Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or permission of instructor. (Davis, Division I)

ANTH B226 Post-Communist Transitions in Eastern Europe
After the fall of communism around 1989, there was widespread acceptance of a capitalist free-market model. This course will compare pre-communist and post-communist social formations in Eastern Europe in specific nation-states. We will consider social changes as it has influenced various spheres of life such as family, morality, religion, economic institutions, and nationalism. Prerequisites: any introductory social science course or permission of instructor. (Hyankova, Division I)

ANTH B227 Ragas to Rap: Music and Performance in South Asia
Examines contemporary music scenes of South Asia and the South Asian diaspora. Approaches music and performance anthropologically, examining the historical, social and cultural contexts of different genres including north and south Indian art musics, film songs, experimental fusion music, bhangra and rap through a combination of written material, sound recordings, live performances and films. Prerequisite: one course in music, dance or anthropology or consent of the instructor. (Weidman) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B229 Comparative Urbanism
(McDonogh, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B229, EAST B229, and HART B229)

ANTH B231 Cultural Profiles in Modern Exile

ANTH B232 Nutritional Anthropology
This course will explore the complex nature of human experiences in satisfying needs for food and nourishment. The approach is biocultural, exploring both the biological basis of human food choices and the cultural context that influences food acquisition and choice. Material covered will primarily be from an evolutionary and cross-cultural perspective. Also included will be a discussion of popular culture in the United States and our current obsession with food, such as dietary fads. (staff, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B234 Forensic Anthropology
Introduces the forensic subfield of biological anthropology, which applies techniques of osteology and biomechanics to questions of forensic science, with practical applications for criminal justice. Examines the challenges of human skeletal identification and trauma analysis, as well as the broader ethical considerations and implications of the field. Topics will include: human osteology; crime scene investigation; search and recovery of human remains; taphonomy; postmortem... interval; trauma analysis; the development and application of innovative and specialized techniques; and the analysis and review of current forensic case studies and media representations. (staff, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B236 Evolution
(Gardiner, Marenco, Division II; cross-listed as GEOL B236 and BIOL B236)

ANTH B240 Traditional and Pre-Industrial Technology
An examination of several traditional technologies, including chipped and ground stone, ceramics, textiles, metallurgy (bronze), simple machines and energy production; emphasizing the physical properties of various materials, production processes and cultural contexts both ancient and modern. Weekly laboratory on the production of finished artifacts in the various technologies studied. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (Davis, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B242 Urban Field Research Methods
(Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B242 and CITY B242) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B243 Culture of Technology: Aesthetics, Senses and the Body
Examines the impact of technologies such as photography, film, sound recording and the internet on ideas of authenticity and cultural value. Using readings on Western and non-Western contexts, considers how such technologies affect notions of space and time, the conceptualization of the body and the definition and status of the “human” itself. Prerequisite: ANTH 102 or permission of the instructor. (Weidman, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B247 Gender, Nation, Diaspora
This course examines the relationship of gender to both the nation and the diaspora, within a context of globalization. We will study the co-constitutive relationship of gender, sexuality, race/ethnicity, and class in national and transnational contexts. Although focused primarily on Filipino American/Philippine cultural production, we examine multiple geopolitical sites. (Velasco, Division I)

ANTH B249 Asian American Communities
(Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B249 and CITY B249) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B253 Childhood in the African Experience
An overview of cultural contexts and indigenous literatures concerning the richly varied experience and interpretation of infancy and childhood in selected regions of Africa. Cultural practices such as pregnancy customs, naming ceremonies, puberty rituals, sibling relationships and gender identity are included. Modern concerns such as child abuse, street children and other social problems of recent origin involving children are considered in terms of theoretical approaches current in the social sciences. Prerequisites: anthropology major, any social sciences introductory course, Africana studies concentration, or permission of instructor. (Kilbride, Division
I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B256 Applied Anthropology
An introduction to the application of anthropological knowledge in the contemporary world.
Applied anthropologists work in government, NGO and corporate settings around the world and advise and implement development projects, commercial ventures and mediate cultural relations.
Ethical implications of this work will be discussed and new applications of anthropology explored.
Prerequisite: ANTH B102 or permission of the instructor. (staff, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B258 Immigrant Experiences
(Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B246) Not offered in 2009-10.
ANTH B259 Ethnic Minorities in Europe
Drawing on anthropological and other social science and historical sources, this course will consider ethnic minorities in Europe and compare ethnic conflicts in the Balkan regions, tensions between Flemish and Walloon populations in Belgium and the situations of Catalans and Basques in Spain. In the context of politics of indigenous people, it will include Sami in Norway, Sweden, and Finland and the gypsies in Europe. Prerequisite: any introductory social science course or permission of instructor. (Hyankova, Division I)

ANTH B261 Palestine and Israeli Society
Considers the legacy of Palestine and the centrality of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict as key in the formation of Israeli society, shaped by ongoing political conflict. New ethnographic writings disclose themes like Zionism, Holocaust, immigration, religion, Palestinian citizenry, Middle Eastern Jews and military occupation and resulting emerging debates among different social sectors and populations. Also considers constitution of ethnographic fields and the shaping of anthropological investigations by arenas of conflict. Prerequisites: sophomore standing and POLS B111 or ANTH B101 or B102 or permission of the instructor. (Neuman, Division I; cross-listed as HEBR B261 and HIST B261)

ANTH B267 The Development of the Modern Japanese Nation
(Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B267 and EAST B267) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B270 Geoarchaeology

ANTH B272 Conflict and Inequality in Latin America
An overview of Latin America focusing on social conflict and inequality through consideration of the construction and operation of ethnic boundaries, the “neo-colonial” role of the United States, and the ecological, social, economic and political problems in the region. Studies the dynamics of contemporary Latin American societies and the nature of their inequality and power relations. Prerequisite: ANTH B102 or permission of instructor. (staff, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B274 Bioarchaeology
An introduction to human osteological analysis, a subfield of human anatomy. Lab work emphasizes identification of landmark features on each bone, and techniques of sexing and aging human skeletal material. Lecture introduces skeletal biology and covers the fundamentals of bioarchaeological analysis. Topics include nutrition, diet, stress and deprivation, determination of gender and age, population affinities, and principles of paleopathological identification. Prerequisite: ANTH B101 or equivalent, or permission of the instructor. (staff; cross-listed as ARCH B274) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B275 Cultures and Societies of the Middle East
Through a close reading of ethnographic, historical and literary materials, this course will introduce students to some of the key conceptual issues and regional distinctions that have emerged from classic and contemporary studies of culture and society in the Middle East. The course will survey the following themes: orientalism; gender and patriarchy; democracy and state formation; political Islam; oil and Western dominance; media and religion; violence and nationalism; identity and diaspora. Prerequisite: Introduction to Anthropology or equivalent. No knowledge of the Middle East is assumed. (Neuman, Division I)

ANTH B281 Language in Social Context
Studies of language in society have moved from the idea that language reflects social position/identity to the idea that language plays an active role in shaping and negotiating social position, identity and experience. This course will explore the implications of this shift by providing an introduction to the fields of sociolinguistics and linguistic anthropology. We will be particularly concerned with the ways in which language is implicated in the social construction of gender, race, class and cultural/national identity. The course will develop students’ skills in the ethnographic analysis of communication through several short ethnographic projects. (Weidman, Division I; cross-listed as LING B281) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B286 Cultural Perspectives on Ethnic Identity in the Post-famine Irish Diaspora
Theoretical perspectives and case studies on exclusion and assimilation in the social construction of Irish ethnic identity in the United States and elsewhere in the Irish diaspora. Symbolic expressions of Irish ethnicity such as St. Patrick’s Day celebrations will consider race and gender. A colonial model in various nations will be considered concerning Irish adjustment in Africa and elsewhere. Racism and benevolence in the Irish experience will highlight a cultural perspective through use of ethnographies, personal biographies and literary products such as novels and films. Prerequisite: introductory course in social science or permission of instructor. (Kilbride, Division I)

ANTH B303 History of Anthropological Theory
A consideration of the history of anthropological theories and the discipline of anthropology as an academic discipline that seeks to understand and explain society and culture as its subjects of study. Several vantage points on the history of anthropological theory are engaged to enact an historically charged anthropology of a disciplinary history. Anthropological theories are considered not only as a series of models, paradigms or orientations, but as configurations of thought, technique, knowledge and power that reflect the ever changing relationships among the societies and cultures of the world. Prerequisite: at least one additional anthropology course at the 200 or 300 level. (Kilbride, Division I)

ANTH B312 Anthropology of Reproduction
An examination of social and cultural constructions of reproduction, and how power in everyday life shapes reproductive behavior and its meaning in Western and non-Western cultures. The influence of competing interests within households, communities, states and institutions on reproduction is considered. Prerequisite: at least one 200-level ethnographic area course or permission of instructor. (Pashigian, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B327 American Colonial History: Indians of the Americas

ANTH B335 Mass Media and the City
(McDonogh, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B335) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B337 Settler Colonialism
This course aims to comparatively examine the key features of settler colonialism and its legacy in the 20th century. Settler colonialism will be re-examined in light of recent scholarship which defines it as a particular kind of colonial venture that has focused on eliminating indigenous populations and seizing land. (Neuman)

ANTH B342 Middle Eastern Diasporas
Focuses on Middle Eastern diasporas, particularly Arab, especially Palestinian, Turkish, Iranian and Jewish communities living outside the Middle East or in the transnational communities within the region. Examines the range of experiences covered by the term “diaspora.” Seeks to understand how ethnic identities and social bonds are created, extended and perpetuated in relation to Middle Eastern places of origin, and how plurality of experiences forge real and imagined links to various homelands. Prerequisites: sophomore standing, POLS B111 or ANTH B101 or B102 or permission of the instructor. (Neuman, Division I; cross-listed as HEBR B342) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B347 Advanced Issues in Peace and Conflict Studies: Utopias, Dystopias, and Peace
(Neuman; cross-listed as POLS B347)
ANTH B350 Advanced Topics in Gender Studies: African Childhoods
A gendered perspective on selected topics in the experiences of children and youth in Africa concerning indigenous cultural practices such as initiation ceremonies and sexual orientation. The extended family, sibling relationships and infancy rituals will be portrayed. Postcolonial concerns such as HIV/AIDS, street children and formal education also involving gender will be considered from a social, cultural and economic perspective. Life stories, case studies and ethnographic methodology will be featured. (Kilbride, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B354 Identity, Ritual and Cultural Practice in Contemporary Vietnam
This course focuses on the ways in which recent economic and political changes in Vietnam influence and shape everyday lives, meanings and practices there. It explores construction of identity in Vietnam through topics including ritual and marriage practices, gendered socialization, social reproduction and memory. Prerequisite: at least ANTH B102 or permission of the instructor. (Pashigian, Division I; cross-listed as EAST B354) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B359 Topics in Urban Culture and Society
(Arbona, Division I or III; cross-listed as CITY B360 and HART B359) Not offered in 2009-10.

ANTH B397 Senior Seminar in Environmental Studies
(Oze, Stroud, Barber; cross-listed as GEOL B397, BIOL B397, and CITY B397)

ANTH B398, B399 Senior Conference
The topic of each seminar is determined in advance in discussion with seniors. Sections normally run through the entire year and have an emphasis on empirical research techniques and analysis of original material. Class discussions of work in progress and oral and written presentations of the analysis and results of research are important. A senior’s thesis is the most significant writing experience in the seminar. (Davis, Hyankova, Kilbride, Division I)

ANTH B403 Supervised Work
Independent work is usually open to junior and senior majors who wish to work in a special area under the supervision of a member of the faculty and is subject to faculty time and interest. (staff)

ANTH B425 Praxis III: Independent Study
(staff)

Haverford College currently offers the following courses in Anthropology:

Arabic language instruction is offered through Tri-College cooperation. Courses are available at Bryn Mawr, Haverford, and Swarthmore Colleges. The teaching of Arabic is a component of the three colleges’ efforts to increase the presence of the Middle East in their curricula. Bryn Mawr offers courses on the Middle East in the departments of Anthropology, Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology, Comparative Literature, General Studies, History, and Political Science.

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College’s foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing ARAB 003 and 004 with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of 2.0 or better in ARAB 004.

ARAB B001, B002 Intensive First Year Modern Standard Arabic

This is a year-long course. This intensive introduction to Arabic aims to develop the four language skills of speaking, writing, listening, and reading. The spoken component covers formal and casual forms of speech. Cultural aspects are also built into the course. This course sequence helps students to rapidly advance in Arabic and prepares them for more advanced work on literary Arabic, as well as to work, travel or study abroad. By the end of the sequence, most students will reach the intermediate-low level, according to the ACTFL proficiency rating. (Kim, Mermer, Harmaneh, Language Level 1; cross-listed as GNST B001) Offered at Bryn Mawr and Haverford in alternate years; in 2009-10 at Haverford. Drills taught on both campuses.

ARAB B003, B004 Second Year Modern Standard Arabic

Combines intensive oral practice with writing and reading in the modern language. The course attempts to increase students’ expressive ability through the introduction of more advanced grammatical patterns and idiomatic expressions. Introduces students to authentic written texts and examples of Arabic expression through several media. (staff, Language Level 2) Offered at Bryn Mawr and Haverford in alternate years; in 2009-10 at Bryn Mawr. Drills taught on both campuses.

ARAB S011, S012 Third-Year Modern Standard Arabic

This is a year-long course. It is designed to (1) conduct a quick review of the basic structures, grammar and the first 1,000 most frequent words of modern standard Arabic (MSA) learned in earlier courses; (2) introduce the next 1,500 high-frequency words in a variety of contexts with strong cultural content; (3) drill students in the more advanced grammatical structures of MSA; and (4) train students in developing reading skills that will assist them in comprehending a variety of MSA authentic reading passages of various genres and performing reading tasks ranging from intermediate high to advanced levels on the ACTFL scale. (Hamarneh) Offered at Swarthmore.

Arts Program

Students may complete a minor in Creative Writing, Dance or Theater and may submit an application to major in Creative Writing, Dance or Theater through the independent major program. Students may complete a major in Fine Arts or a major or minor in Music at Haverford College. English majors may complete a concentration in Creative Writing.

Chair

Mark Lord, Professor and Director of Theater and Chair of the Arts Program

Faculty

David Brick, Lecturer in Dance
Madeline Cantor, Senior Lecturer and Associate Director of Dance
Linda Caruso-Haviland, Associate Professor and Director of Dance
James Christy, Lecturer In Theater
Tom Ferrick, Jr., Lecturer in Creative Writing
Amy Herzog, Lecturer in Creative Writing
Hiroshi Iwasaki, Senior Lecturer and Designer/Technical Director of Theater
Karl Kirchwey, Associate Professor and Director of Creative Writing Program
Mark Lord, Professor and Director of Theater and Chair of the Arts Program
Elizabeth Mosier, Lecturer in Creative Writing
Catherine Slusar, Instructor in Theater
Asali Solomon, Visiting Assistant Professor, English Department and Creative Writing
J.C. Todd, Lecturer in Creative Writing
Daniel Torday, Lecturer in Creative Writing

Courses in the arts are designed to prepare students who might wish to pursue advanced training in their fields and are also for those who want to broaden their academic studies with work in the arts that is conducted at a serious and disciplined level. Courses are offered at introductory as well as advanced levels.

Arts in Education

ARTA B251 Arts Teaching in Educational and Community Settings
This is a Praxis II course intended for students who have substantial experience in an art form and are interested in extending that experience into teaching and learning at educational and community sites. Following an overview of the history of the arts in education, the course will investigate underlying theories. The praxis component will allow students to create a fluid relationship between theory and practice through observing, teaching and reflecting on arts practices in education contexts. School or community placement 4-6 hours a week. Prerequisite: at least an intermediate level of experience in an art form. This course counts toward the minor in Dance or in Theater. (Cantor, Division III; cross-listed as EDUC B251)

Creative Writing

Courses in Creative Writing within the Arts Program are designed for students who wish to develop their skills and appreciation of creative writing in a variety of genres (poetry, prose fiction and nonfiction, playwriting, screenwriting, etc.) and for those intending to pursue studies in creative writing at the graduate level. Any English major may include one Creative Writing course in the major plan. Students may pursue a minor as described below. While there is no existing major in Creative Writing, exceptionally well-qualified students with a GPA of 3.7 or higher in Creative Writing courses completed in the Tri-College curriculum may consider submitting an application to major in Creative Writing through the independent major program after meeting with the Creative Writing Program director. When approved, the independent major in Creative Writing is often pursued as a double major with another academic major subject.

Minor Requirements

Requirements for the minor in Creative Writing are six units of course work, generally including three beginning/intermediate courses in at least three different genres of creative writing (chosen from ARTW 159, 231, 236, 240, 251, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 268, 269) and three electives, including at least one course at the 300 level (ARTW 360, 361, 362, 364, 366, 367, 371, 373, 382), allowing for advanced work in one or more genres of creative writing which are of particular interest to the student. The objective of the minor in Creative Writing is to provide both depth and range, through exposure to several genres of creative writing. Students should consult with the Creative Writing Program director by the end of their sophomore year to submit a plan for the minor in order to ensure admission to the appropriate range of courses.

Concentration in Creative Writing

English majors may elect a three-course concentration in Creative Writing as part of the English major program. Students interested in the concentration must meet with the Creative Writing Program director by the end of their sophomore year to submit a plan for the concentration and must also confirm the concentration with the chair of the English Department.

ARTW B159 Introduction to Creative Writing
This course is for students who wish to experiment with three genres of creative writing: short fiction, poetry and drama. Priority will be given to interested first-year students; additional spaces will be made available to upper-year students with little or no experience in creative writing. Students will write or revise work every week; roughly four weeks each will be devoted to short fiction, poetry and drama. There will be individual conferences with the instructor to discuss their progress and interests. Half of class time will be spent discussing student work and half will be spent discussing syllabus readings. (Todd, Division III)

ARTW B231 Poetry as Performance
Takes the poem off the printed page from poetry to performance and considers poetry form, style, theory, and techniques of “Spoken Word” artistry. Performance theory will be coupled with cutting-edge work in the anthropology of performance. Students will maintain a poetry journal, write and edit original poetry, complete syllabus readings, write weekly response papers and participate in discussions and performances. The course culminates in a radio broadcast and a full-length performance piece. (Williams-Witherspoon, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTW B236 Contemporary Literature Seminar
Surveys the work of literary writers reading in the Creative Writing Program Reading Series. Students will read and discuss at least one work by each of the authors appearing, and whenever possible will meet individually with the authors in class as well as attending their public readings. Authors represented have included poets Lucille Clifton, Derek Walcott and Richard Wilbur, fiction writers E.L. Doctorow and James Salter, and memoirist Patricia Hampl. This is a half-credit course; students may receive credit for either or both semesters. Approximately 15 pages of critical prose writing will be required for each half-credit. (Kirchwey, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B236) Not offered in 2009-10.
ARTW B240 Literary Translation Workshop
Open to creative writing students and students of literature, the syllabus includes some theoretical readings, but the emphasis is practical and analytical, considering parallel translations of certain enduring literary texts as well as books and essays about the art of translation. Literary translation will be considered as a spectrum ranging from Dryden’s “metaphrase” (word-for-word translation) all the way through imitation and adaptation. The course will include class visits by working literary translators. The Italian verbs for “to translate” and “to betray” are neighbors; throughout, the course concerns the impossibility and importance of literary translation. (Kirchwey, Division III; cross-listed as COML B240) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTW B260 Writing Short Fiction I
An introduction to fiction writing, focusing on the short story. Students will consider fundamental elements of fiction and the relationship of narrative structure, style and content, exploring these elements in their own work and in the assigned readings in order to develop an understanding of the range of possibilities open to the fiction writer. Weekly readings and writing exercises are designed to encourage students to explore the material and styles that most interest them, and to push their fiction to a new level of craft, so that over the semester their writing becomes clearer, more controlled, and more absorbing. (Torday, Solomon, Division III)

ARTW B261 Writing Poetry I
This course will provide a survey of craft resources available to students wishing to write print-based (as opposed to spoken-word) poems in English: figure, line, measure, meter, rhyme and rhythm. In concert with close reading of model poems, students will gain experience writing in a variety of verse forms, including haiku, Anglo-Saxon accentual verse, sonnet, free verse and prose poem. The course objective will be to provide students with the skills to explore poetic form, both received and invented, and to develop a voice with which to express themselves on the printed page. (Kirchwey, Division III)

ARTW B262 Playwriting I
An introduction to playwriting through a combination of reading assignments, writing exercises, discussions about craft and ultimately the creation of a one-act play. Students will develop their unique voices as they learn the technical aspects of writing for the stage. Readings will include plays by John Guare, Lynn Nottage, Jose Rivera, Tony Kushner, Suzan-Lori Parks, Edward Albee, Paula Vogel, and others. Short writing assignments will complement the reading assignments. The final assignment will be to write an original one-act play. (Herzog, Division III; cross-listed as ARTT B262)

ARTW B263 Writing Memoir I
The purpose of this course is to provide students with practical experience in writing about the events, places and people of their own lives in the form of memoir. Initial class discussions attempt to distinguish memoir from related literary genres such as confession and autobiography. Writing assignments and in-class discussion of syllabus readings explore the range of memoirs available for use as models (excerpts by writers including James Baldwin, Lorene Cary, Annie Dillard, Arthur Koestler, Rick Moody, Lorrie Moore, and Tim O’Brien) and elements such as voice and perspective, tone, plot, characterization and symbolic and figurative language. (Kirchwey, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTW B264 News and Feature Writing
Students in this class will learn how to develop, report, write, edit and revise a variety of news stories, beginning with the basics of reporting and writing the news and advancing to longer-form stories, including personality profiles, news features and trend stories, and concluding with point-of-view journalism (columns, criticism, reported essays). The course will focus heavily on work published in The Philadelphia Inquirer and The New York Times. Several working journalists will participate as guest speakers to explain their craft. Students will write stories that will be posted on the class blog, the English House Gazette. (Ferrick, Division III)
ARTW B265 Creative Nonfiction
This course will explore the literary expressions of nonfiction writing by focusing on the skills, process and craft techniques necessary to the generation and revision of literary nonfiction. Using the information-gathering tools of a journalist, the analytical tools of an essayist and the technical tools of a fiction writer, students will produce pieces that will incorporate both factual information and first person experience. Readings will include a broad group of writers ranging from E.B. White to Joseph Mitchell, George Orwell to David Foster Wallace, David Sedaris to Dave Eggers, Joan Didion to John Edgar Wideman, among many others. (Torday, Division III)

ARTW B266 Screenwriting
This combination discussion/workshop course is an introduction to dramatic writing for film. Basic issues in the art of storytelling will be analyzed: theme, dramatic structure, image and sound. The course will be an exploration of the art and impulse of storytelling, and it will provide a safe but rigorous setting in which to discuss student work. What is a story? What makes a character compelling, and conflict dramatic? How does a story engage our emotions? Through written exercises, close analysis of texts and the screening of film, we will come to better understand the tools and dictates of film writing. (Doyne, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTW B269 Writing for Children
In this course, students have the opportunity to write imaginatively for children and young adults. Through reading and in-class discussion, we will examine the specific requirements of the picture book, the chapter book and the young adult novel. This analytical study of classic and contemporary literature will inspire and inform students’ creative work through the discoveries they make about style and structure, creating compelling characters, the roles of illustration and page composition in story narration, and the ever-evolving fairy tale. Students will receive guidance for their creative work through in-class exercises, peer review and private conferences with the instructor. (Mosier, Division III)

ARTW B360 Writing Short Fiction II
An exploration of approaches to writing short fiction designed to strengthen skills of experienced student writers as practitioners and critics. Requires writing at least five pages each week, workshopping student pieces, and reading texts ranging from realist stories to metafictional experiments and one-page stories to the short novella, to explore how writers can work within tight confines. Prerequisite: ARTW 260 or work demonstrating equivalent expertise in writing short fiction, comprising a writing sample of 5-10 pages in length (prose fiction) to be submitted to the Creative Writing Program in order to be considered for this course. (Torday, Division III)

ARTW B361 Writing Poetry II
This course presumes that reading and writing are inextricably linked, and that the only way to write intelligent and interesting poetry is to read as much of it as possible. Writing assignments will be closely connected to syllabus reading, and may include working in forms such as ekphrastic poems, dramatic monologues, prose poems, translations, imitations and parodies. Prerequisite: ARTW 261 or work demonstrating equivalent familiarity with the basic forms of poetry in English, comprising a writing sample of 5-7 poems to be submitted to the Creative Writing Program in order to be considered for this course. (Kirchwey, Division III)

ARTW B362 Playwriting II
This course challenges students of playwriting to further develop their unique voices and improve their technical skills in writing for the stage. We will examine how great playwrights captivate a live audience through their mastery of character, story and structure. Students will complete bi-weekly playwriting assignments of 10-12 pages and, ultimately, a one-act play of 30-40 pages. Readings include plays by Beckett, Chekhov, Lorraine Hansberry, Ibsen, Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams, August Wilson and others. Prerequisite: ARTW 262; or suitable experience in directing, acting or playwriting, as demonstrated in a work sample of 10 pages of dialogue to be submitted to the Creative Writing Program in order to be considered for this course. (Herzog, Division III; cross-listed as ARTT B362) Not offered in 2009-10.
ARTW B364 Longer Fictional Forms
An advanced workshop for students with a strong background in fiction writing who want to write longer works: the long short story, novella and novel. Students will write intensively, and complete a long story, novel or novella (or combination thereof) totaling up to 20,000 words. Students will examine the craft of their work and of published prose. Prerequisite: ARTW 260 or proof of interest and ability, comprising a writing sample of 5-10 pages of prose fiction to be submitted to the Creative Writing Program in order to be considered for this course. (Torday, Division III)

ARTW B366 Writing Memoir II
This course will enable students to complete one or two longer memoirs in the semester. The syllabus readings will focus on book-length memoirs by authors such as Frank Conroy, Patricia Hampl, Kathryn Harrison, Mary McCarthy, Vikram Seth, John Edgar Wideman and Tobias Wolff. Discussions of syllabus reading (part of the syllabus reading will be selected by the students) will alternate with discussions of weekly student writing assignments. Prerequisite: ARTW 263 or work demonstrating equivalent expertise, comprising a memoir or personal essay of 5-10 pages in length to be submitted to the Creative Writing Program in order to be considered for this course. (Kirchwey, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTW B382 Poetry Master Class
Four leading contemporary poets who are also accomplished teachers will each conduct a three-week-long unit in this course. Students will have their poems reviewed by each of the visiting poets, who will also present a public reading of their work. Poet-teachers will include Cornelius Eady, Marilyn Hacker, Mary Jo Saller and Gerald Stern. Prerequisite: ARTW B231 or ARTW B261 (ARTW B361 is also strongly recommended) or equivalent proficiency in writing text-based verse. A writing sample of 5-7 poems must be submitted to the Creative Writing Program in order to be considered for this course. (Kirchwey, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTW B403 Supervised Work
Students who have completed beginning-, intermediate-, and advanced-level courses in a particular genre of creative writing and who wish to pursue further work on a tutorial basis may meet with the Creative Writing Program director to propose completing a one-semester-long independent study course with a member of the Creative Writing Program faculty. (staff)

Haverford College currently offers the following courses in creative writing:

ENGL H291 Poetry Writing: A Practical Workshop
ENGL H292 Poetry Writing II: Contemporary Voices
ENGL H293 Fiction Writing: From the Conventional to the Experimental ENGL H294 Fiction Writing

Dance

Dance is not only an art and an area of creative impulse and action; it is also a significant and enduring human behavior that can serve as a core of inquiry within the liberal arts. The Dance Program has, accordingly, designed a curriculum that provides varied courses in technique, composition, theory and performance for students at all levels of skill, interest and commitment. A full range of technique courses in modern, ballet, jazz and African dance is offered regularly. More specialized movement forms, such as classical Indian and flamenco, are offered on a rotating basis. The core academic curriculum includes advanced technique courses, performance ensembles, dance composition, independent work, courses in dance research and in Western dance history as well as courses that present perspectives extending beyond this theatrical or social tradition. Students can minor in dance or submit an application to major through the independent major program.
Minor Requirements

Requirements for the dance minor are six units of coursework, three required (ARTD 140, 142, and one credit which may be distributed among the following: 230, 231, 330, 331, or 345) and three electives. Students may choose to emphasize one aspect of the field, but must first consult with the dance faculty regarding their course of study.

ARTD B140 Approaches to Dance: Themes and Perspectives
This course introduces students to dance as a multi-layered, significant and enduring behavior that ranges from art to play to ritual to politics and beyond. It engages students in the creative, critical and conceptual processes that emerge in response to the study of dance. It also explores the research potential that arises when other areas of academic inquiry, including criticism, ethnology, history and philosophy, interact with dance and dance scholarship. Lectures, discussion, film, video and guest speakers are included. (Caruso-Haviland, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTD B142 Dance Composition I
An introduction to the process of making dances that explores basic elements including space, time, rhythm, energy, dynamics, qualities of movement and gesture, and both traditional and postmodern structures. Compositional theory will be approached through the practice of making dance studies, starting with simple solo phrases and moving towards complex and interactive group forms and processes. Students will be expected to develop and broaden their understanding of dance as an art form and their abilities to see and critique dances. Readings and viewings pertaining to the choreographic process will be assigned. Concurrent attendance in any level technique course is required. (Brick, Division III)

ARTD B240 Dance History I: Roots of Western Theater Dance
This course investigates the historic and cultural forces affecting the development and functions of pre-20th-century dance as well as its relationship to and impact on the development of Western culture. It will consider nontheatrical forms and applications, but will give special emphasis to the development of theatre dance forms. It will also introduce students to the varied forms of the historic documentation of dance and to a view of history not only as a linear progression of events but also as process, change and cultural shift. Lecture, discussion and audiovisual materials. (Caruso-Haviland, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTD B241 Dance History II: A History of Contemporary Western Theater Dance
The study of the development of contemporary forms of dance with emphasis on theater forms within the broader context of Western art and culture. Lecture, discussion and audiovisual materials. (Caruso-Haviland, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTD B242 Dance Composition II
The goal of this course is to build on work accomplished in Composition I and to develop an understanding of and skill in the theory and craft of choreography. This includes deepening movement invention skills; exploring form and structure; investigating sources for sound, music, text and language; developing group design; and broadening critical understanding. Students will work on a selected number of projects and will have some opportunity to revise and expand work. Readings and viewings will be assigned and related production problems will be considered. Concurrent attendance in any level technique course is required. (Cantor, Division III)

ARTD B250 Performing the Political Body
This course explores how artists, activists, and intellectuals have used dance and performance to support political goals and ideologies or to perform cultural interventions in the public sphere according to particular expectations of social and political responsibilities. We will focus on how dance as an embodied practice is a useful medium for analyzing ideologies and practices of power particularly with reference to gender, class, and race. Students will also investigate the body as an active agent of social change and political action. The course includes an in-class mini-performance project, but willingness to explore movement or other performance approaches is more important than prior dance training. (Caruso-Haviland, Division III)

ARTD B254 Nation, Gender and Class in Latin American Dance
Social and theatrical dance in Latin America, focusing on salsa, tango and ballet as samples of native, imported and exported forms practiced on the continent. Highlights how dance embodies issues of nationality, class and gender relevant to Latin American countries. Readings, visual media, class discussions and presentations, guest lectures, field trip, and some instruction in salsa/tango. Prerequisite: a dance academic course or a course in anthropology, sociology or Latin American, Latino, and Iberian peoples and cultures, or permission of the instructor. (Tome, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTD B266 Dancing Desire in Bollywood Films
Explores the shifts in sexuality and gender construction of Indian women from national to transnational symbols through the dance sequences in Bollywood. Examines the place of the erotic in reconstructing gender and sexuality from past notions of romantic love to desires for commodity. Primary focus will be on approaches to the body from anthropology and sociology to performance, dance and media studies. (Chakravorty, Division I or III; cross-listed as ANTH B266) Not offered in 2009-10.

Dance Technique
Three levels of ballet and modern dance are offered each semester. Improvisation, African dance and jazz are offered each year. Courses in techniques developed from other cultural forms, such as hip-hop, classical Indian dance or flamenco, are offered on a rotating basis as are conditioning techniques such as Pilates. All technique courses are offered for physical education credit but students may choose to register in some intermediate and advanced level courses for academic credit.

ARTD B230 Intermediate Technique: Modern
(Cantor, Division III)

ARTD B231 Intermediate Technique: Ballet
(Cruz, Division III)

ARTD B330 Advanced Technique: Modern
(Caruso-Haviland, Malcolm-Naib, Division III)

ARTD B331 Advanced Technique: Ballet
(Mintzer, Division III)

ARTD B342 Advanced Choreography
Independent study in choreography under the guidance of the instructor. Students are expected to produce one major choreographic work and are responsible for all production considerations. (Cantor, Caruso-Haviland, Division III)

Dance Performance
Dance Ensembles (modern, ballet, jazz, African, and Dance Outreach) are designed to offer students significant opportunities to develop dance technique, particularly in relationship to dance as performance art. Original works or reconstructions from the historic or contemporary repertory choreographed by faculty or guest choreographers are rehearsed and performed. The Dance Outreach Project is a dance performance/education program that tours Philadelphia and suburban schools and community groups. Dance Ensembles are open to intermediate- and advanced-level dancers by audition or permission of the instructor, and may be taken for physical education credit or academic credit. Concurrent attendance in any level technique course is required.
ARTD B345 Dance Ensemble
Dance ensemble offers course sections in African, Ballet, Jazz and Modern Dance. (Cantor, Caruso-Haviland, Cruz, Division III)

ARTD B390 Senior Project/Thesis
(Cantor, Caruso-Haviland)

ARTD B403 Supervised Work
Research in a particular topic of dance under the guidance of an instructor, resulting in a significant final paper or project. (Cantor, Caruso-Haviland, Malcolm-Naib, Division III)

Fine Arts

Fine arts courses at Bryn Mawr are offered through the Department of Fine Arts at Haverford College. Courses on either campus are offered to students of both colleges with the approval of the respective instructors. Prospective Fine Arts majors should plan their curricula with the major instructor. Throughout their progression, these students should strive to develop a portfolio of artwork showing strength and competence and a sense of original vision and personal direction appropriate for a major or minor candidate.

For major program requirements and course descriptions, see Fine Arts at Haverford College.

Music

The Department of Music is located at Haverford and offers well-qualified students a major and minor in music. For a list of requirements and courses offered, see Music at Haverford.

Music Performance

The following organizations are open to all students by audition. For information on academic credit for these groups, and for private vocal or instrumental instruction, see Music at Haverford.

The Haverford-Bryn Mawr Orchestra, with more than 70 members, rehearses once a week, and concerts are given regularly on both campuses. The annual concerto competition affords one or more students the opportunity to perform with the orchestra in a solo capacity.

The Chamber Music Program is open to all members of the Haverford-Bryn Mawr Orchestra and to pianists who have passed an audition that includes sight reading. Students rehearse once a week on their own, in addition to once-weekly coaching. Performances, rehearsals and coachings are held on both campuses depending on students’ schedules and preferences.

The Haverford-Bryn Mawr Chamber Singers is a select ensemble that demands a high level of vocal ability and musicianship. The group performs regularly on both campuses and in the Philadelphia area. Tours are planned within the United States and abroad.

The Haverford-Bryn Mawr Chorale is a large auditioned chorus that gives concerts with the Haverford-Bryn Mawr Orchestra each year.

The Haverford-Bryn Mawr Women’s Ensemble emphasizes music for women’s voices and trebles and performs several times in the academic year.

Chamber Ensemble Groups are formed within the context of the Chamber Music Seminar (MUSC 215). Performances are held both on and off campus; students have the opportunity to perform in master classes with internationally known chamber musicians.
The Bryn Mawr Chamber Music Society offers extracurricular opportunities for experienced Bryn Mawr and Haverford students, faculty and staff to perform a variety of chamber works in a series of concerts held in the Music Room.

Theater

The curricular portion of the Bryn Mawr and Haverford Colleges' Theater Program focuses on the point of contact between creative and analytic work. Courses combine theory (reading and discussion of dramatic literature, history and criticism) and practical work (creative exercises, scene study and performance) to provide viable theater training within a liberal-arts context.

Minor Requirements

Requirements for the minor in Theater are six units of course work, three required (ARTT 150, 251 and 252) and three elective. Students must consult with the Theater faculty to ensure that the necessary areas in the field are covered. Students may submit an application to major in Theater through the independent major program.

Theater Performance

Numerous opportunities exist to act, direct, design and work in technical theater. In addition to the Theater Program's mainstage productions, many student theater groups exist that are committed to musical theater, improvisation, community outreach, Shakespeare, film and video work, etc. All Theater Program productions are open and casting is routinely blind with respect to race and gender.

ARTT B150 Introduction to Theater
An exploration of a wide range of dramatic works and history of theater through research, analysis and discussion to develop understanding and foundations for a theatrical production. (Iwasaki, Division III)

ARTT B230 Topics in American Drama
Considers American plays of the 20th century, reading major playwrights of the canon alongside other dramatists who were less often read and produced. Will also study later 20th-century dramatists whose plays both develop and resist the complex foundation established by canonical American playwrights and how American drama reflects and responds to cultural and political shifts. Considers how modern American identity has been constructed through dramatic performance, considering both written and performed versions of these plays. (Hemmeter, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B230) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTT B250 Twentieth-Century Theories of Acting
An introduction to 20th-century theories of acting emphasizing the intellectual, aesthetic and sociopolitical factors surrounding the emergence of each director's approach to the study of human behavior on stage. Various theoretical approaches to the task of developing a role are applied in workshop and scene study. (Lord, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTT B251 Fundamentals of Acting
An introduction to the fundamental elements of acting (scene analysis, characterization, improvisation, vocal and gestural presentation, and ensemble work) through the study of scenes from significant 20th-century dramatic literature. (Slusar, Division III)
ARTT B252 Fundamentals of Technical Theater
A practical, hands-on workshop in the creative process of turning a concept into a tangible, workable end through the physical execution of a design. Exploring new and traditional methods of achieving a coherent synthesis of all areas of technical production. (Iwasaki, Division III)

ARTT B253 Performance Ensemble
An intensive workshop in the methodologies and aesthetics of theater performance, this course is open to students with significant experience in performance. In collaboration with the director of Theater, students will explore a range of performance techniques and styles in the context of rehearsing a performance project. Admission to the class is by audition or permission of the instructor. The class is offered for a half-unit of credit. (Lord, Division III)

ARTT B254 Fundamentals of Theater Design
An introduction to the creative process of visual design for theater; exploring dramatic context and influence of cultural, social and ideological forces on theater and examining practical applications of various technical elements such as scenery, costume and lighting while emphasizing their aesthetic integration. (Iwasaki, Bochansky, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTT B255 Fundamentals of Costume Design
Hands-on practical workshop on costume design for performing arts; analysis of text, characters, movement, situations; historical and stylistic research; cultivation of initial concept through materialization and plotting to execution of design. (Iwasaki, Division III)

ARTT B259 Mask and Puppet Performance and Design
(Cromie, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTT B262 Playwriting I
(Herzog, Division III; cross-listed as ARTW B262)

ARTT B270 Ecologies of Theater: Performance, Play, and Landscape
Students in this course will investigate the notion of theatrical landscape and its relation to plays and to the worlds that those landscapes refer. Through readings in contemporary drama and performance and through the construction and evaluation of performances, the class will explore the relationship between human beings and the environments they imagine, and will study the ways in which those relationships impact how we think about our relationship to the world in which we live. The course will culminate in a series of public performances. (Lord, Division III; cross-listed as COML B269) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTT B296 Introduction to Medieval Drama

ARTT B344 Advanced Theater Design
A workshop for those who have completed either Fundamentals of Theater Design, Costume Design or Technical Theater Production or have an equivalent experience, for students to explore their specific area of interest. The focus is on translating the theories into concrete designs. Prerequisite: ARTT 252, 254 or 255 or equivalent experience. (Iwasaki, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTT B351 Acting II
Builds on the methods learned in ARTT 251, with an emphasis on strategies of preparing short solo performances. In addition to intensive exercises in naturalistic and anti-naturalistic performance techniques, the course provides opportunities for exploration of principles of design, directing, dramaturgy and playwriting as they pertain to specific projects conceived by members of the class. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (Lord, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
ARTT B353 Advanced Performance Ensemble
An advanced, intensive workshop in theater performance. Students explore a range of performance techniques in the context of rehearsing a performance project, and participate in weekly seminars in which the aesthetic and theatrical principles of the play and production will be developed and challenged. The course may be repeated. (Lord, Division III)

ARTT B356 Endgames: Theater of Samuel Beckett
An exploration of Beckett’s theater work conducted through both reading and practical exercises in performance techniques. Points of special interest include the monologue form of the early novels and its translation into theater, Beckett’s influences (particularly silent film) and collaborations, and the relationship between the texts of the major dramatic works and the development of both modern and postmodern performance techniques. (Lord, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B356) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTT B359 Directing for the Stage
A semiotic approach to the basic concepts and methods of stage direction. Topics explored through readings, discussion and creative exercises include directorial concept, script analysis and research, stage composition and movement, and casting and actor coaching. Students rehearse and present three major scenes. (staff, Division III)

ARTT B362 Advanced Playwriting
(Herzog, Division III; cross-listed as ARTW B362) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTT B403 Supervised Work
(staff)
Students may complete a major or minor in Astronomy at Haverford College.

Faculty

R. Bruce Partridge, Bettye and Howard Marshall Professor of Natural Sciences, Emeritus
Stephen P. Boughn, John Farnum Professor of Astronomy
Beth Willman, Assistant Professor of Astronomy

The astronomy department's curriculum is centered on studying the phenomena of the extraterrestrial Universe and on understanding them in terms of the fundamental principles of physics. Our department offers two majors: astronomy or astrophysics. Both majors provide substantial training in quantitative reasoning and independent thinking through work in and out of the classroom. The astronomy major is appropriate for students that desire an in-depth education in astronomy that can be applied to a wide-range of career trajectories, but who do not necessarily intend to pursue graduate study in astronomy. The astrophysics major is appropriate for students who wish to pursue the study of astronomy with additional attention to the physical principles that underlie astrophysical phenomena. The depth of the physics training required for a degree in astrophysics will prepare students who wish to pursue a career in astronomy or astrophysics, or to enter graduate study in astronomy or astrophysics. The department also offers a minor in astronomy.

Although a variety of pathways can lead to a major in the department, prospective astronomy or astrophysics majors are advised to study physics (PHYS 105 and 106, or 101 and 102, or Bryn Mawr equivalents) beginning in their first year, and to enroll in ASTR 205/206 and PHYS 213/214 in their sophomore year. It is also recommended to take ASTR/PHYS 152 in the second semester of the first year.

The department offers three courses, ASTR 101a, ASTR 112, and ASTR 114b, which can be taken with no prerequisites or prior experience in astronomy. The department also offers a half-credit course, ASTR/PHYS 152, intended for first-year students who are considering a physical science major and wish the opportunity to study some of the most recent developments in astrophysics.

The department emphasizes student research with faculty members. Students at all levels have the opportunity to apply for paid summer research assistantships at Haverford. Students have presented their work at conferences, visited colleagues at other institutions, and visited telescopes around the country. The upper level courses contain substantial project-based investigation and/or are substantially research-driven.

Students may major in astronomy or astrophysics, but not both. Astrophysics majors may not double major in either physics or astronomy, nor can they minor in either physics or astronomy. Astronomy majors may pursue a double major or a minor in physics. A concentration in scientific computing is available for astronomy and astrophysics majors. This concentration is described under the Computer Science program. The department coordinator for this concentration is Beth Willman.

Major Requirements

1. PHYS 105 (or 101), PHYS 106 (or 102), PHYS 213, PHYS 214.
2. Two mathematics courses; MATH 121 and all 200-level or higher mathematics courses can be used to satisfy this requirement.
3. ASTR 205, ASTR 206, four 300-level astronomy courses, one of which may be replaced by an upper-level physics course
4. ASTR 404, which may be replaced by approved independent research either at Haverford or elsewhere
5. Written comprehensive examinations.

Bryn Mawr equivalents may be substituted for the non-astronomy courses. ASTR/PHYS 152 is recommended but not required.

Astrophysics Major Requirements

1. PHYS 105 (or 101), PHYS 106 (or 102), PHYS 213, PHYS 214, PHYS 211 (usually taken concurrently with PHYS 213).
2. Two mathematics courses. MATH 121 and all 200-level or higher mathematics courses can be used to satisfy this requirement.
3. ASTR 205, ASTR 206, and any two 300-level astronomy courses.
4. PHYS 302, PHYS 303, and PHYS 309.
5. The Senior Seminar, PHYS 399, including a talk and senior thesis on research conducted by the student. This research can be undertaken in a 400-level research course with any member of the Physics or Astronomy departments or by doing extracurricular research at Haverford or elsewhere, e.g., an approved summer research internship at another institution. The thesis is to be written under the supervision of both the research advisor and a Haverford advisor if the research advisor is not a Haverford faculty member.

Bryn Mawr equivalents may be substituted for the non-astronomy courses. ASTR/PHYS 152 and PHYS 308 are recommended but not required.

Astronomy Minor Requirements

1. PHYS 105 (or 101); PHYS 106 (or 102)
2. ASTR 205; ASTR 206; one 300-level astronomy course.

ASTR/PHYS 152 is recommended but not required.

Requirements For Honors

All astronomy and astrophysics majors are regarded as candidates for Honors. For both majors, the award of Honors will be made in part on the basis of superior work in the departmental courses and in certain related courses. For astronomy majors, the award of Honors will additionally be based on performance on the comprehensive examinations, with consideration given for independent research. For astrophysics majors, the award of Honors will additionally be based on the senior thesis and talk.

ASTR H101 Astronomical Ideas

Fundamental concepts and observations of modern astronomy, such as the properties of planets, the birth and death of stars, and the properties and evolution of the Universe. Not intended for students majoring in the physical sciences. Typically offered in alternate years. (Willman)

ASTR H112 Survey of the Cosmos

Properties and evolution of the Universe and of large systems within it. The qualitative aspects of general relativity including black holes and of mathematical models for the geometry of the Universe are studied, along with the history of the Universe from its early exponential expansion to the formation of galaxies. The role of observations in refining modern scientific understanding of the structure and evolution of the Universe is stressed. The approach is quantitative, but any mathematics beyond straightforward algebra is taught as the class proceeds. No prerequisites but ASTR 101 is useful. Typically offered in alternate years. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

ASTR H114 Planetary Astronomy

A survey of the overall structure of the Solar System, the laws governing the motions of the planets and the evolution of the Solar System. Next, we study general processes affecting the surface properties of planets. This takes us to a detailed treatment of the properties of several planets. We end by studying the (surprising) properties of planets found in other stellar systems. Typically offered in alternate years. (staff)

Not offered in 2009-10.

ASTR H152 Freshman Seminar in Astrophysics
This half-credit course is intended for prospective physical science majors with an interest in recent developments in astrophysics. Topics in modern astrophysics will be viewed in the context of underlying physical principles. Topics include black holes, quasars, neutron stars, supernovae, dark matter, the Big Bang, and Einstein's relativity theories. Prerequisite: PHYS 101a or 105a and concurrent enrollment in PHYS 102b or 106b (or Bryn Mawr equivalents). (Boughn)

ASTR H205 Introduction to Astrophysics I
General introduction to astronomy including: the structure and evolution of stars; the structure and formation of the Milky Way; the interstellar medium; and observational projects using the Strawbridge Observatory telescopes. Prerequisite: PHYS 105 and 106 and MATH 114 or equivalent. (Boughn)

ASTR H206 Introduction to Astrophysics II
Introduction to the study of: the properties of galaxies and their nuclei; cosmology; the Hot Big Bang model; the properties and evolution of the solar system; planetary surfaces and atmospheres; and exoplanets. Prerequisite: ASTR 205a, MATH 114b or equivalent or permission of the instructor. (Willman)

ASTR H313 Observational Optical Astronomy
One credit, full year course. Five observing projects that involve using a CCD camera on a 16-inch Schmidt-Cassegrain telescope. Projects include spectroscopy; variable star photometry; H-alpha imaging; imaging and photometry of galaxies and star clusters; instruction in the use of image processing software and CCD camera operation. Students work in groups of two with minimal faculty supervision. Formal reports are required. Prerequisite: ASTR 205a. (Boughn)

ASTR H320 Cosmology and Extragalactic Astronomy
The study of the origin, evolution and large-scale structure of the Universe (Big Bang Theory). Review of the relevant observational evidence. A study of remote galaxies, radio sources, quasars, and intergalactic space. Prerequisite: ASTR 206b. Typically offered in alternate years. (Willman)

ASTR H321 Stellar Structure and Evolution
The theory of the structure of stellar interiors and atmospheres and the theory of star formation and stellar evolution, including compact stellar remnants. Prerequisite: ASTR 205 and PHYS 214. Typically offered in alternate years. (Boughn) Not offered in 2009-10.

ASTR H333 Modern Galactic Astronomy
The study of the structure, formation, and evolution of the Milky Way Galaxy using a number of observational tools including stellar populations and the interstellar medium. Students will conduct individual research projects. Typically offered in alternate years. (Willman) Not offered in 2009-10.

ASTR H404 Research in Astrophysics
Intended for those students who choose to complete an independent research project in astrophysics under the supervision of a faculty member. Prerequisite: Consent of instructor. (Boughn, Willman)

ASTR H480 Independent Study
Intended for students who want to pursue some topic of study that is not currently offered in the curriculum. In order to enroll, a student must have a faculty sponsor. Prerequisite: ASTR 206. (Boughn)
ATHLETICS AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Administration
Kathy Tierney, Director of Athletics and Physical Education
Jacob Mullins, Assistant Director of Athletics, Sports Information and Compliance
Raymond W. Tharan, Assistant Director of Athletics, Facilities and Events and Director of the Fitness Center

Faculty
Carol Bower, Senior Lecturer and Head Rowing Coach and Boat House Director
Jill Breslin, Instructor and Head Tennis Coach
Erin DeMarco, Lecturer and Head Soccer Coach
Danya Pilgrim, Senior Lecturer and Head Field Hockey Coach
Terry McLaughlin, Lecturer and Head Athletic Trainer
Daniel N. Talbot, Lecturer and Head Cross Country Coach and Head Track and Field Coach
Katie Tarr, Senior Lecturer and Senior Woman’s Administrator and Head Lacrosse Coach
Nicola Whitlock, Lecturer and Head Swimming Coach and Aquatics Manager

Staff
Joan Braid, Head Volleyball Coach
Deb Charamella, Interim Head Basketball Coach and Assistant Lacrosse Coach
Laura Kemper, Assistant Athletic Trainer

The Department of Athletics and Physical Education sponsors 12 intercollegiate sports in badminton, basketball, crew, cross country, field hockey, indoor and outdoor track and field, lacrosse, soccer, swimming, tennis and volleyball. Bryn Mawr is a NCAA Division III member and a charter member of the Centennial Conference. Club sport opportunities are available in a range of sports; including rugby, equestrian, fencing, karate, ice skating, squash, and ultimate Frisbee. Students interested in any of these programs should consult the Department of Athletics at http://www.brynmawr.edu/athletics/intercollegiate/index.htm.

Bryn Mawr's Physical Education curriculum is designed to provide opportunities to develop lifelong habits that will enhance the quality of life. From organized sport instruction, to a variety of dance offerings, lifetime sport skills, fitness classes, and a wellness curriculum, the Department provides a breadth of programming to meet the needs of the undergraduate and the greater College community. The physical education and dance curriculums offer more than 50 courses in a variety of disciplines. All students are required to complete eight units of physical education and the successful completion of a swimming-proficiency test. Students can enroll in physical education classes at Swarthmore and Haverford Colleges. For more information please consult http://www.brynmawr.edu/athletics/physical-education/index.htm.

The Department of Physical Education in conjunction with Health Services, Student Life and the Dean’s Office has developed an eight-week Wellness Seminar that focuses on a variety of issues confronting college women. The course is mandatory for all first year students and fulfills two physical education credits. The topics are generally not part of any academic discipline or lend them easily to a customs group meeting. The curriculum is designed to be interesting, interactive and provide a base of knowledge that will encourage students to think about their well being as an important partner to their academic life. The course will be taught by College faculty and staff from various disciplines and offices.
Biology

Students may complete a major or minor in Biology. Within the major, students may complete a minor in computational methods, or a concentration in environmental studies or neural and behavioral sciences.

Faculty

Peter D. Brodfuehrer, Professor
Monica Chander, Assistant Professor
Gregory K. Davis, Assistant Professor
Tamara L. Davis, Associate Professor and Chair
Wilfred A. Franklin, Instructor and Lab Coordinator, Major Adviser
Stephen L. Gardiner, Senior Lecturer
Karen F. Greif, Professor (on leave semesters I and II)
Paul Grobstein, Professor
Michael Sears, Assistant Professor
Rebecca Vandiver, Postdoctoral Fellow in Mathematics and Biology
Michelle Wien, Lecturer

The programs of the department are designed to introduce students to unifying concepts and broad issues in biology, and to provide the opportunity for in-depth inquiry into topics of particular interest through coursework and independent study. Introductory- and intermediate-level courses examine the structures and functions of living systems at all levels of organization, from molecules, cells and organisms to populations. Advanced courses encourage the student to gain proficiency in the critical reading of research literature, leading to the development, defense and presentation of a senior paper. In addition, there are opportunities for independent research projects with faculty.

Major Requirements

Course requirements for a major in Biology include two semesters of introductory biology, BIOL 101 and 102 (or 103 plus either 101 or 102, with the department’s permission); six courses at the 200 and 300 level (excluding BIOL 390-398), of which at least three must be laboratory courses; and one senior seminar course (BIOL 390-395, or 398-399). Two semesters of supervised laboratory research, BIOL 401 or 403, may be substituted for one of the required laboratory courses. In addition, two semester courses in general chemistry and three additional semester courses in physics, chemistry, geology, mathematics, computer science, psychology (courses that satisfy the Division II requirement) or statistics are required for all majors. Selection of these three science courses needs to be done in consultation with the student’s major adviser and be approved by the department. Students interested in pursuing graduate studies or medical school are encouraged to take two semesters each of physics and organic chemistry.

Students with a score of 4 or 5 on their Advanced Placement examinations, or equivalent International Baccalaureate scores, will receive divisional credit only; they may not be used for the major in biology. A student wishing to enter biology courses at the 200 level without having taken BIOL 101 and 102 must pass the departmental placement exam. Courses in other departments may be substituted for major requirements with the department’s permission.

Honors

The honors distinction requires maintaining a course average of 3.7 in the major and participating in departmental activities and events. Final selection for honors is made by the Biology faculty from the list of eligible students.
Minor Requirements

A minor in Biology consists of six semester courses in Biology. Courses in other departments may be substituted for minor requirements with the department’s permission.

Minor in Computational Methods; Concentrations in Environmental Studies and Neural and Behavioral Sciences

The Department of Biology participates with other departments in offering two concentrations within the major: environmental studies and neural and behavioral sciences. A minor in computational methods is available for students interested in computational methods and their applications to biology.

Teacher Certification

The College offers a certification program in secondary teacher education.

Animal Experimentation Policy

Students who object to participating directly in laboratory activities involving the use of animals are required to notify the faculty member of her or his objections at the beginning of the course. If alternative activities are available and deemed consistent with the pedagogical objectives of the course by the faculty member, then a student will be allowed to pursue alternative laboratory activities without penalty.

BIOL B101 Introduction to Biology I: Molecules to Cells
A comprehensive examination of topics in biochemistry, cell and molecular biology, genetics and development. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours a week. (Chander, T. Davis, Franklin, Wien, Division II with Lab)

BIOL B102 Introduction to Biology II: Organisms to Populations
A comprehensive examination of topics in organismal diversity, physiology, ecology and evolution. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours a week. BIOL 101 is strongly recommended. (Brodfuehrer, G. Davis, Franklin, Wien, Division II with Lab)

BIOL B103 Biology: Basic Concepts
An introduction to the major concepts of modern biology that both underlie and emerge from exploration of living systems at levels of organization ranging from the molecular and biochemical through the cellular and organismal to the ecological. Emphasis is placed on the observational and experimental bases for ideas that are both common to diverse areas of biology and represent important contributions of biology to more general intellectual and social discourse. Topics include the chemical and physical bases of life, cell theory, energetics, genetics, development, physiology, behavior, ecology and evolution. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours a week. (Grobstein, Division II with Lab)

BIOL B201 Genetics
An introduction to heredity and variation, focusing on topics such as classical Mendelian genetics, linkage and recombination, chromosome abnormalities, population genetics and molecular genetics. Examples of genetic analyses are drawn from a variety of organisms, including bacteria, viruses, Drosophila and humans. Lecture three hours. Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102 and CHEM 103, 104. (T. Davis, Division II)

BIOL B202 Neurobiology and Behavior
An introduction to the attempt to understand behavior in terms of the nervous system. A brief overview of fundamental principles of nervous system structure is followed by consideration of several topics chosen to illustrate how studies of the nervous system illuminate behavior and how studies of behavior contribute to better understanding of the nervous system. Examples cover a wide variety of invertebrate and vertebrate species, including humans. Lecture three hours a week. Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102 or permission of instructor. (Grobstein, Division II)

BIOL B209 Environmental Toxicology
An introduction to natural and man-made toxins and the impact they have on ecosystems. Effects on animal and plant systems are emphasized, but effects on humans are also considered. Risk analysis is presented and reference is made to their economic impact and the efforts to eliminate or control their presence in the ecosystem. Policy development and the factors—political, economic, ethical and public health—that play a role in policy development are analyzed. Lecture three hours a week. A required two-day field trip is taken in late spring; an extra fee is collected for this trip. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (staff, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B210 Biology and Public Policy
A lecture/discussion course on major issues and advances in biology and their implications for public policy decisions. Topics discussed include reproductive technologies, genetic screening and gene therapy, environmental health hazards, and euthanasia and organ transplantation. Readings include scientific articles, public policy and ethical considerations, and lay publications. Lecture three hours a week. Prerequisite: one semester of introductory biology or equivalent, or permission of instructor. (Greif, Division II)

BIOL B214 The Historical Roots of EvoDevo
This course will examine the historical roots of “evodevo,” beginning with the post-Darwin evolutionary morphologist, the split between genetics and development and the later exclusion of development from the modern synthesis during the 1930s and 1940s, looking closely at early attempts to integrate evolution and development in this pre-war period. This course is intended to compliment BIOL B394. (G. Davis, Division II)

BIOL B215 Experimental Design and Statistics
An introductory course in designing experiments and analyzing data. This course is structured to develop students’ understanding of when and how to use different quantitative methods rather than the theory of specific tests. Topics include summary statistics, sampling distributions, randomization, replication, parametric and nonparametric tests, and introductory topics in spatial statistics. The course is geared around weekly problem sets and interactive learning. Three hours of lecture/laboratory a week. Prerequisites: introductory biology, geology or permission of instructor. (staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B220 Ecology
A study of the interactions between organisms and their environments. Current environmental issues and how human activities influence the biota are also discussed. Students become familiar with ecological principles and with methods ecologists use to address tricky ecological issues. Because sound ecological theory rests on a good understanding of natural history, students learn to develop their natural history intuition by making weekly field observations and keeping a field journal. Lecture three hours a week, laboratory/field investigation three hours a week. There will be one field trip early in the semester lasting beyond regular lab hours. Prerequisite: introductory biology or GEOL 103. (Sears, Division II with Lab)

BIOL B223 The Story of Evolution and the Evolution of Stories
(Dalke, Grobstein, Division II or III; cross-listed as ENGL B223) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B225 Biology of Plants
In-depth examination of the structures and processes underlying survival, growth, reproduction, competition and diversity in plants. Three hours of lecture a week. Prerequisites: BIOL 101 and 102. (staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills) Not offered in 2009-10.
BIOL B236 Evolution
A lecture/discussion course on the development of evolutionary thought, generally regarded as the most profound scientific event of the 19th century; its foundations in biology and geology; and the extent of its implications to many disciplines. Emphasis is placed on the nature of evolution in terms of process, product, patterns, historical development of the theory, and its applications to interpretations of organic history. Lecture three hours a week. Prerequisite: a 100-level science course or permission of instructors. (Gardiner, Marenco, Division II; cross-listed as GEOL B236 and ANTH B236)

BIOL B244 Behavioral Endocrinology
An interdisciplinary-based analysis of the nature of hormones, how hormones affect cells and systems, and how these effects alter the behavior of animals. Topics will be covered from a research perspective using a combination of lectures, discussions and student presentations. Prerequisites: BIOL B102 or B202, PSYC B218 or PSYC H217. (Brodfuehrer, Division II)

BIOL B245 The Brain and Mental Health
A seminar course exploring implications of brain research for thinking about the nature of mental health and existing therapeutic approaches to mental health problems. Participants will read and discuss papers from the professional and semi-popular literature, and write papers that help others make sense of aspects of the brain/mental health interface. (Grobstein, Division II; cross-listed as GNST B245 and PSYC B245) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B250 Computational Methods in the Sciences
(Sears, Division II with Lab and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as CMSC B250 and GEOL B250)

BIOL B255 Microbiology
Invisible to the naked eye, microbes occupy every niche on the planet. This course will examine how microbes have become successful colonizers; review aspects of interactions between microbes, humans and the environment; and explore practical uses of microbes in industry, medicine and environmental management. The course will combine lecture, discussion of primary literature and student presentations. Three hours of lecture per week. Prerequisites: BIOL B101 or permission of the instructor. (Chander, Division II)

BIOL B260 Biogeography
Biogeography is the study of the distribution of species and the causal processes (physical and biological) underlying such patterns. This includes principles of speciation, spacial analysis and the effect of natural processes and human impact on species distributions. Three lectures and one three-hour lab a week. Prerequisites: GEOL 102 or 103 or BIOL 102. (staff, Division II with Lab and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as GEOL B260) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B271 Developmental Biology
An introduction to animal embryology and the concepts of developmental biology. Concepts are illustrated by analyzing the experimental observations that support them. Topics include gametogenesis and fertilization, morphogenesis, cell fate specification and differentiation, pattern formation, regulation of gene expression, neural and behavioral development, and sex determination. The laboratory focuses on vertebrate embryology and involves study of prepared slides and observations and experiments on living embryos. Lecture three hours, laboratory three scheduled hours a week; most weeks require additional hours outside of the regularly scheduled lab. Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102 or permission of instructor. (G. Davis, Division II with Lab)

BIOL B301 Organismal Biology: Vertebrate Structure
A comparative study of major organ systems in different vertebrate groups. Similarities and differences are considered in relation to organ system function and in connection with evolutionary relationships among vertebrate classes. Laboratory activities emphasize dissection of several vertebrate representatives, but also include examination of prepared microscope slides and demonstrations. Two three-hour lecture/laboratory meetings a week. Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102 or equivalent, one 200-level biology course, and permission of instructor. (Gardiner)

BIOL B303 Animal Physiology
A comprehensive study of the physical and chemical processes in tissues, organs and organ systems that form the basis of animal function. Homeostasis, control systems and the structural bases of function are emphasized. Laboratories are designed to introduce basic physiological techniques and the practice of scientific inquiry. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours a week. Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102, CHEM 103, 104 and one 200-level biology course. (Brodfuehrer) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B304 Cell and Molecular Neurobiology
A problem-based laboratory course in which students investigate cellular and molecular properties of neurons and small networks of neurons using neuron simulations and animal experiments, and through critical reading of the primary literature. Two four-hour laboratory sessions per week. Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102, 202, PSYC 218 or PSYC 217 at Haverford. (Brodfuehrer)

BIOL B309 Biological Oceanography
A comprehensive examination of the principal ecosystems of the world’s oceans, emphasizing the biotic and abiotic factors that contribute to the distribution of marine organisms. A variety of marine ecosystems are examined, including rocky intertidal, and hydrocarbon seeps, with an emphasis on the distinctive characteristics of each system and the assemblage of organisms associated with each system. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours a week. One required three-day field trip, for which an extra fee is collected, and other occasional field trips as allowed for by scheduling. Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 102 and one 200-level science course, or permission of instructor. (Gardiner)

BIOL B310 Philosophy of Science
(Grobstein, Division III; cross-listed as PHIL B310)

BIOL B313 Integrative Organismal Biology I
The first semester of a two-semester course focusing on how organisms cope with environmental challenges by investigating the requirements for life at the level of individual cells and multi-cellular organisms, the anatomical and physiological properties of cells, tissues and organ systems, and how these properties allow organisms to interact successfully with their environment. Two three-hour lecture/laboratory sessions per week. Prerequisites: Two semesters of introductory biology and general chemistry. (Gardiner, Brodfuehrer) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B314 Integrative Organismal Biology II
The second semester of Integrative Organismal Biology. Two three-hour lecture/laboratory sessions per week. Prerequisite: BIOL 313 or permission of instructor. (Gardiner, Brodfuehrer) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B321 Neuroethology
This course provides an opportunity for students to understand the neuronal basis of behavior through the examination of how particular animals have evolved neural solutions to specific problems posed to them by their environments. The topics will be covered from a research perspective using a combination of lectures, discussions and student presentations. Prerequisite: BIOL 202, PSYC 218 or PSYC 217 at Haverford. (Brodfuehrer) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B326 From Channels to Behavior
Introduces the principles, research approaches, and methodologies of cellular and behavioral neuroscience. The first half of the course will cover the cellular properties of neurons using current and voltage clamp techniques along with neuron simulations. The second half of the course will introduce students to state-of-the-art techniques for acquiring and analyzing data in a variety of rodent models linking brain and behavior. Prerequisites: BIOL 101 and one of the following: PSYC 218, PSYC 217 at Haverford, or BIOL 202. (Thomas, Brodfuehrer; cross-listed as PSYC B326) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B328 Analysis of Geospatial Data Using GIS

BIOL B340 Cell Biology
A lecture course with laboratory emphasizing current knowledge in cell biology. Among topics discussed are cell membranes, cell surface specializations, cell motility and the cytoskeleton, regulation of cell activity, energy generation and protein synthesis. Laboratory experiments are focused on studies of cell structure, making use of techniques in cell culture and immunocytochemistry. Lecture three hours, laboratory four hours a week. Prerequisites: BIOL 201 or 271, CHEM 211, 212 (may be taken concurrently), or permission of instructor. One semester of biochemistry is recommended. (Greif) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B341 Introduction to Biochemistry
A course on the structure, chemistry and function of amino acids, proteins, lipids, polysaccharides and nucleic acids; enzyme kinetics; metabolic relationships of carbohydrates, lipids and amino acids, and the control of various pathways; and protein synthesis. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours a week or library project. Prerequisite: CHEM 212. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B354 Basic Concepts and Special Topics in Biochemistry
For postbaccalaureate premedical students only. (staff)

BIOL B361 Emergence
(Blank; cross-listed as CMSC B361)

BIOL B372 Molecular Biology
This course will introduce students to molecular biology as a method for scientific inquiry. In addition to learning basic techniques for manipulation and analysis of nucleic acids, students will read and critically evaluate primary literature. Students will demonstrate knowledge of the material through written work, class discussion and oral presentations. Lecture three hours a week, laboratory three hours a week. Prerequisites: either BIOL 201, 340, 341 or permission of instructor. (T. Davis) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B375 Integrated Biochemistry and Molecular Biology I
The first semester of a two-semester course that focuses on the structure and function of proteins, carbohydrates, lipids and nucleic acids, enzyme kinetics, metabolic pathways, gene regulation and recombinant DNA techniques. Students will explore these topics via lecture, critical reading and discussion of primary literature and laboratory experimentation. Three hours of lecture, three hours of lab per week. Prerequisite: Two semesters of introductory biology and two semesters of organic chemistry. (Chander)

BIOL B376 Integrated Biochemistry and Molecular Biology II
This second semester of a two-semester course will continue investigating macromolecules, molecular pathways and gene regulation through lecture, critical reading and discussion of primary literature and laboratory experimentation. Three hours of lecture, three hours of lab per week. Prerequisite: BIOL B375 or permission of the instructor. (T. Davis)

BIOL B390 Senior Seminar in Ecology
A focus on the interactions among organisms and their environments. Students read and discuss current and classic papers from the primary literature. Topics may include biogeographic patterns, population and community dynamics, and ecosystem functioning. We may explore current issues such as global warming, habitat degradation and fragmentation, loss of biodiversity and the introduction of alien species. The effects of these human-induced changes on the biota are examined. Students write, defend and publicly present one long research paper. Three hours of class lecture and discussion a week, supplemented by frequent meetings with individual students. Prerequisite: BIOL 220 or permission of instructor. (Sears) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B391 Senior Seminar in Biochemistry
Topics of current interest and significance in biochemistry are examined with critical readings and oral presentations of work from the research literature. In addition, students write, defend and publicly present one long research paper. Three hours of class lecture and discussion a week, supplemented by frequent meetings with individual students. Prerequisites: BIOL 341, 375 or permission of instructor. (Chander) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B392 Senior Seminar in Physiology
An advanced course in the study of the organization and function of physiological systems from the molecular level to the organismal level. Specific topics related to the organization and function of physiological systems are examined in detail using the primary literature. In addition, students write, defend and publicly present one long research paper. Three hours of class lecture and discussion a week, supplemented by frequent meetings with individual students. (Gardiner)

BIOL B393 Senior Seminar in Molecular Genetics
This course focuses on topics of current interest and significance in molecular genetics, such as chromatin structure and mechanisms of gene regulation. Students critically read, present and discuss in detail primary literature relevant to the selected topic. In addition, students write, defend and publicly present one long research paper. Three hours of class lecture and discussion a week, supplemented by frequent meetings with individual students. Prerequisite: BIOL 201 or 372, or permission of instructor. (T. Davis) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B394 Senior Seminar in Evolutionary Developmental Biology
Topics of current interest and significance in evolutionary developmental biology are examined with critical readings and oral presentations of work from the research literature. In addition, students write, defend and publicly present a research paper based on their readings. Three hours of class lecture and discussion a week, supplemented by frequent meetings with individual students. Prerequisite: BIOL 236 or 271, or permission of instructor. (G. Davis)

BIOL B395 Senior Seminar: Cellular Biology of Cancer
Topics focus on the current understanding of the mechanisms of cancer, with emphasis on cell signaling pathways and tumor suppressors. Students read and make critical presentations of papers from the current research literature. In addition, students write, defend and publicly present one long research paper or proposal. Three hours of class lecture and discussion a week, supplemented by frequent meetings with individual students. Prerequisite: BIOL 340 or BIOL 372 or permission of instructor. (Greif) Not offered in 2009-10.

BIOL B396 Topics in Neural and Behavioral Science
A seminar course dealing with current issues in the neural and behavioral sciences. It provides advanced students concentrating in neural and behavioral sciences with an opportunity to read and discuss in depth seminal papers that represent emerging thought in the field. In addition, students are expected to make presentations of their own research. Required for those with the concentration. (staff; cross-listed as PSYC B396)

BIOL B397 Senior Seminar in Environmental Studies
(Barber, staff; cross-listed as GEOL B397, ANTH B397, and CITY B397)

BIOL B398 Senior Seminar in Science in Society
A seminar that addresses a variety of topics at the interface of biology and society. Students prepare and present a major scholarly work at the end of the semester. Three hours of discussion per week. (Grobstein)
BIOL B399 Senior Seminar in Laboratory Investigations
This seminar provides students with a collaborative forum to facilitate the exchange of ideas and broaden their perspective and understanding of research approaches used in various sub-disciplines of biology. There will be a focus on the presentation, interpretation and discussion of data, and communication of scientific findings to diverse audiences. In addition, students write, defend and publicly present a paper on their supervised research project. Three hours of class discussion each week. Co-requisite: enrollment in the second semester of BIOL403. (Chander)

BIOL B401 Supervised Research in Neural and Behavioral Sciences
Laboratory or library research under the supervision of a member of the Neural and Behavioral Sciences committee. Required for those with the concentration. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (staff)

BIOL B403 Supervised Laboratory Research in Biology
Laboratory research under the supervision of a member of the department. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (staff)

BIOL B425 Praxis III
(staff)
Students may complete a major or minor in Chemistry. Within the major, students may complete a minor in computational methods or education. Concentrations in biological chemistry, environmental studies or geochemistry may be completed within the major. Students may complete an M.A. in the combined A.B./M.A. program.

The undergraduate course program in Chemistry is designed to give students a sound background in both theoretical and practical aspects of four main fields: organic chemistry, physical chemistry, inorganic chemistry and biological chemistry. Furthermore, students may design courses of study that emphasize chemistry's connections to biology, earth sciences and computer science. Laboratory work is emphasized to provide students with modern training in experimental skills and analytical techniques. The core program, consisting of courses at the 100 level and 200 level, covers fundamental principles of chemistry. This core program provides the basis for advanced work at the 300 level and 400 level, in which students encounter contemporary problems in chemistry and interdisciplinary fields and the progress that is being made toward solving them.

Major Requirements

The requirements for a standard Chemistry major include the following 11 courses (or their equivalents): CHEM 103 or 113, 104, 211, 212, 221, 222, 231, 242, 251 and 252, and any two courses selected from among CHEM 311, 312, 321, 322, 332, 345, 350 or any chemistry course at the 500 level. Other required courses are MATH 101, 102 and 201 and PHYS 121/122 or 101/102 (or their equivalents). PHYS 121/122 is the recommended sequence. Students who have completed 101/102, as well as any students planning graduate work in chemistry, should consider taking PHYS 201. All A.B. recipients who complete this program with two semesters of CHEM 403 are certified by the American Chemical Society as having met that society’s high standards for an undergraduate degree in chemistry. This is the program recommended for students intending to pursue graduate studies in chemistry.

Majors are encouraged to take additional chemistry courses at the 300 (or 500) level and at the 400 (research) level beyond the requirements of the standard program. Additional courses in mathematics and other natural sciences can contribute breadth to the chemistry major. Students with a strong interest in an allied field, such as biochemistry, geochemistry, environmental chemistry, computational chemistry or education may elect a minor or concentration in the appropriate field. Upon consultation with major advisers in both fields students may select three of the four core courses, 221, 222, 231 and 242, and appropriate 300-level electives.

A typical schedule for the standard chemistry major involves taking CHEM 103 or 113 and 104 and MATH 101/102 in the first year; CHEM 211 and 212, MATH 201, and PHYS 121/122 or 101/102 in the sophomore year; CHEM 221, 222, 231, 242, 251 and 252 in the junior year; and appropriate advanced courses in the senior year. Note that MATH 201 (a fall course) or its equivalent should be completed by the end of the sophomore year. Students contemplating a chemistry major are urged to consult with the major adviser as early as possible. Those planning an interdisciplinary chemistry major should consult advisers in both departments as soon as possible.

Honors

The A.B. degree with honors in chemistry will be awarded to students who complete the major in chemistry and also meet the following further requirements: two semesters of supervised research in chemistry (CHEM 403) with a grade of at least 3.3 in each semester; the submission of an acceptable paper describing the results of that research; an additional semester of work at the 300 level (or 500 level) in chemistry beyond the two advanced courses required for the standard chemistry major; and a grade point average, calculated at the end of the senior year, of at least 3.7 in all chemistry courses taken.

Minor Requirements

A student may qualify for a minor in chemistry by completing a total of 6.5 courses in chemistry, one of which must be either CHEM 221 or 222 with either CHEM 251 or 252. BIOL 375 and 376 may be counted as one of the required six courses. At least two of the six courses must be taken at Bryn Mawr.

Minor in Computational Methods

Students may receive an A.B. degree in chemistry with a computational minor by fulfilling the core requirements in chemistry (CHEM 103 or 113, 104, 211, 212, 251 and 252) and three courses selected from 221, 222, 231 and 242, two advanced courses including CHEM 322 and CMSC 376, and by completing CMSC 110 or 205, 206, 231 and one of the following: 212, 225, 245, 246, 330, or 340. The courses selected to fulfill this minor must be approved by the major advisers in Chemistry and Computer Science.

Minor in Education

Students may receive an A.B. degree in chemistry with an education minor by fulfilling the core requirements in chemistry (CHEM 103 or 113, 104, 211, 212, 251 and 252) and three courses selected from 221, 222, 231 and 242, three advanced courses selected from CHEM 403 or electives in chemistry or education, and by completing EDUC 200, 310, 311 and 240 or 250. The courses selected to fulfill this minor must be approved by the major advisers in Chemistry and Education. Of the three advanced courses, at least one must be a chemistry course at or above the 300 level. Interested students are encouraged to investigate the 5th-year certification option offered through the Education Program.

Concentration in Biological Chemistry

Students may receive an A.B. degree in chemistry with a concentration in biological chemistry by fulfilling the requirements for a major in chemistry, including CHEM 345 as one of the two required advanced courses, and also by completing two semesters of work in biology selected from BIOL 201, 255, or 340, and BIOL 376 or their Haverford equivalents. The two biology courses chosen to fulfill this requirement must be approved by the major adviser.

Concentration in Environmental Studies

Students may receive an A.B. degree in chemistry with a concentration in environmental studies by fulfilling the core requirements in chemistry (CHEM 103 or 113, 104, 211, 212, 251, 252) and three courses selected from 221, 222, 231 and 242, two advanced courses including a chemistry elective and GEOL 302 or 397, and by completing BIOL 220 and GEOL 103 and one course listed under “Humans in the Environment” and two courses listed under “Planning and Policy”. The courses selected to fulfill this concentration must be approved by the major advisers in Chemistry and Environmental Studies.

Concentration in Geochemistry

Students may receive an A.B. degree in chemistry with a concentration in geochemistry by fulfilling the core requirements in chemistry (CHEM 103 or 113, 104, 211, 212, 251, 252) and three courses selected from 221, 222, 231 and 242, one advanced course selected from CHEM 322 or 332, and by completing three geology courses selected from GEOL 201, 202, 301 or 302. The courses selected to fulfill this concentration must be approved by the major advisers in Chemistry and Geology.

A.B./M.A. Program

To earn an M.A. degree in chemistry in the College’s A.B./M.A. program, a student must complete the requirements for an undergraduate chemistry major and also must complete six units of graduate level work in chemistry. Of these six units, as many as two units may be undergraduate courses at the 300 level taken for graduate credit (these same two courses may be used to fulfill the major requirements for the A.B. degree), at least two units must be graduate seminars at the 500 level, and two units must be graduate research at the 700 level leading to the submission of an acceptable M.A. thesis. Other requirements are a written final examination covering material in the candidate’s special field and an oral examination.

CHEM B100 The Stuff of Art
An introduction to chemistry through fine arts, this course emphasizes the close relationship of the fine arts, especially painting, to the development of chemistry and its practice. The historical role of the material in the arts, in alchemy and in the developing science of chemistry, will be discussed, as well as the synergy between these areas. Relevant principles of chemistry will be illustrated through the handling, synthesis and/or transformations of the material. This course does not count towards chemistry major requirements, and is not suitable for premedical programs. Lecture 90 minutes, laboratory three hours a week. Enrollment limited to 20. (Burgmayer, Division II with Lab; cross-listed as HART B100)

CHEM B103 General Chemistry I
For students with some background in chemistry. Students with strong preparation are directed to consider CHEM 113. Sections usually have a maximum of 50 students. Topics include aqueous solutions and solubility; the electronic structure of atoms and molecules; chemical reactions. Examples in lecture and laboratory include environmental sciences, material sciences and biological chemistry. Lecture three hours, recitation one hour and laboratory three hours a week. May include individual conferences, evening problem or peer-led instruction sessions. Prerequisite: math readiness or permission of instructor. (Lukacs, Guron, White, Division II with Lab and Quantitative Skills)

CHEM B104 General Chemistry II
A continuation of CHEM 103 or 113. Topics include chemical reactions; introduction to thermodynamics and chemical equilibria; electrochemistry; chemical kinetics. Lecture three hours, recitation one hour and laboratory three hours a week. May include individual conferences, evening problem or peer-led instruction sessions. Prerequisite: CHEM 103 or 113 with a grade of at least 2.0. (Burgmayer, Lukacs, Francl, Division II with Lab and Quantitative Skills)

CHEM B113 General Chemistry
A half-unit course for students with strong preparation in chemistry, but who are not ready to take CHEM 211 (Organic Chemistry). Topics include aqueous solutions and solubility; the electronic... structure of atoms and molecules; chemical reactions. Recitation one hour, laboratory three hours a week. Enrollment limited to 25 first-year students. Prerequisite: Advanced Placement score of 3 (or International Baccalaureate equivalent), or satisfactory performance on Bryn Mawr’s placement test given on the first day of class, or permission of instructor. Does not meet Division II requirement by itself; students must continue with CHEM 104 to receive Division II credit. (Lukacs, White)

CHEM B211 Organic Chemistry I
An introduction to the principles of organic chemistry, including synthetic and spectroscopic techniques. Lecture three hours, recitation one hour and laboratory five hours a week. Prerequisite: CHEM 104 with a grade of at least 2.0. (Mallory, Nerz-Stormes, Division II with Lab)

CHEM B212 Organic Chemistry II
A continuation of CHEM 211 with an exploration of complex chemical reactions and syntheses utilizing structure-reactivity principles. Lecture three hours, recitation one hour and laboratory five hours a week. Prerequisite: CHEM 211 with a grade of at least 2.0. (Malachowski, Bohen, Division II with Lab)

CHEM B221 Physical Chemistry I
Introduction to quantum theory and spectroscopy. Atomic and molecular structure; molecular modeling; rotational, vibrational, electronic and magnetic resonance spectroscopy. Lecture three hours. Prerequisites: CHEM 104, PHYS 121 or 103 and MATH 201. May be taken concurrently with CHEM 211 and PHYS 121 or 103. (Francl, Division II)

CHEM B222 Physical Chemistry II
Modern thermodynamics, with application to phase equilibria, interfacial phenomena and chemical equilibria; statistical mechanics; chemical dynamics. Kinetic theory of gases; chemical kinetics. Lecture three hours. Prerequisites: CHEM 104, PHYS 122 or 102 and MATH 201. May be taken concurrently with CHEM 212 and PHYS 122 or 102. (Guron, Division II)

CHEM B231 Inorganic Chemistry
Bonding theory; structures and properties of ionic solids; symmetry; crystal field theory; structures, spectroscopy, stereochemistry, reactions and reaction mechanisms of coordination compounds; acid-base concepts; descriptive chemistry of main group elements. Lecture three hours a week. Prerequisite: CHEM 212. (Burgmayer, Division II)

CHEM B242 Biological Chemistry
The structure, chemistry and function of amino acids, proteins, lipids, polysaccharides and nucleic acids; enzyme kinetics; metabolism of carbohydrates, and the control of various pathways. Lecture three hours a week. Prerequisite: CHEM 212. (White, Division II)

CHEM B251 Research Methodology in Chemistry I
This laboratory course integrates advanced concepts in chemistry from biological, inorganic, organic and physical chemistry. Students will gain experience in the use of departmental research instruments and in scientific literature searches, record-keeping and writing. One hour of lecture and five hours of laboratory per week. Prerequisite: CHEM 212. Corequisite: CHEM 221 or 242. 0.5 credit/semester. (Burgmayer, Malachowski)

CHEM B252 Research Methodology in Chemistry II
This laboratory course integrates advanced concepts in chemistry from biological, inorganic, organic and physical chemistry. Students will gain experience in the use of departmental research instruments and in scientific literature searches, record-keeping and writing. One hour of lecture and five hours of laboratory per week. Prerequisite: CHEM 212. Corequisite: CHEM 222 or 231. (Guron)
CHEM B311 Advanced Organic Chemistry: Synthesis
A survey of the methods and concepts used in the synthesis of complex organic molecules. Lecture three hours a week. Prerequisites: CHEM 212 and 222. (Malachowski, Division II)

CHEM B312 Advanced Organic Chemistry
Principles of physical organic chemistry with emphasis on reaction mechanisms, reactive intermediates and stereochemistry. Lecture three hours a week. Prerequisites: CHEM 212 and 222. (Mallory, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

CHEM B321 Advanced Physical Chemistry: Quantum Chemistry
Topics vary. Prerequisites: CHEM 221 and 222 or permission of the instructor. Lecture/seminar three hours per week. (Francl, Division II)

CHEM B322 Advanced Physical Chemistry:
Topics vary. Prerequisites: CHEM 221 and 22MATH 201 and at least junior-level standing in a science major or permission of the instructor. (Francl, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

CHEM B332 Advanced Inorganic Chemistry
Organometallic chemistry, including discussion of structure and bonding, reaction types, and catalysis; bioinorganic chemistry, illustrating structural, enzymatic and pharmaceutical applications of transition metals in biological chemistry. Lecture three hours per week. Prerequisites: CHEM 231 and 242 or permission of the instructor. (Burgmayer, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

CHEM B345 Advanced Biological Chemistry: Macromolecular Methods
Topics vary. Prerequisites: any course in biochemistry or permission of instructor. (White, Division II)

CHEM B350 Advanced Topics in Chemistry: Polymers
Prerequisites: CHEM. 212 and at least junior-level standing in a science major or permission of the instructor (Guron, Division II)

CHEM B403 Supervised Research
Many individual research projects are available, each under the supervision of a member of the faculty. Laboratory at least 10 hours a week. Oral or written presentations are required at the end of each semester. Prerequisite: permission of faculty supervisor. (staff)

Graduate seminars in chemistry are open to qualified undergraduates with the permission of the department.
Students may complete a major or minor in Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology.

Faculty

Mehmet Ali Ataç, Assistant Professor and Graduate Adviser
Alice A. Donohue, Professor and Acting Chair, semester II (on leave semester I) Astrid Lindenlauf, Assistant Professor
Peter Magee, Associate Professor and Major Adviser
James C. Wright, Professor and Chair (on leave semester II)

The curriculum of the department focuses on the cultures of the Mediterranean regions and the Near East in antiquity. Courses treat aspects of society and material culture of these civilizations as well as issues of theory, method and interpretation.

Major Requirements

The major requires a minimum of 10 courses. Core requirements are two 100-level courses distributed between the ancient Near East and Egypt and ancient Greece and Rome and two semesters of the senior conference. At least two upper-level courses should be distributed between classical and Near Eastern subjects and one other should concern method and theory in archaeology (ARCH 330 and ANTH 220). Additional requirements are determined in consultation with the major adviser. Additional coursework in subjects related to archaeology may be accepted for major credit; such courses are offered in the Departments of Anthropology, Geology, Greek, Latin and Classical Studies, Growth and Structure of Cities, and History of Art.

Each student’s course of study to meet major requirements will be determined in consultation with the undergraduate major adviser in the spring semester of the sophomore year. Students considering majoring in the department are encouraged to take the introductory courses early in their undergraduate career and should also seek advice from departmental faculty. Students who are interested in interdisciplinary concentrations or in study abroad during the junior year are strongly advised to seek assistance in planning their major early in their sophomore year.

Concentration in Geoarchaeology

The Departments of Anthropology, Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology, and Geology offer a concentration in geoarchaeology for existing majors in these departments. Please consult with Professor Magee regarding this program.

Requirements for the concentration:

A. Two 100-level units from Anthropology, Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology or Geology, of which one must be from the department outside the student’s major.
B. ANTH/ARCH/GEOL 270: Geoarchaeology (Magee, Barber).
C. BIOL/ARCH/GEOL 328: Geospatial Data Analysis and GIS (staff).
D. Two elective courses, to be chosen in consultation with the major adviser, from among current offerings in Anthropology, Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology and Geology. One of these two courses must be from outside the student’s major. Suggested courses include but are not limited to ANTH 203 (Human Ecology), ANTH 220 (Methods and Theory), ANTH 225 (Paleolithic Archaeology), ANTH 240 (Traditional Technologies), ARCH 308 (Ceramic Analysis), ARCH 332 (Field Techniques), GEOL 202 (Mineralogy), GEOL 205 (Sedimentology), GEOL 310 (Geophysics), and GEOL 312 (Quaternary Climates).
Honors

Honors are granted on the basis of academic performance as demonstrated by a cumulative average of 3.5 or better in the major.

Independent Research

Majors who wish to undertake independent research, especially for researching and writing a lengthy paper, must arrange with a professor who is willing to advise them, and consult with the major adviser. Such research normally would be conducted by seniors as a unit of independent study (403), which must be approved by the advising professor before registration.

Minor Requirements

The minor requires six courses. Core requirements are two 100-level courses distributed between the ancient Near East and Egypt and ancient Greece and Rome in addition to four other courses selected in consultation with the major adviser.

Languages

Majors who contemplate graduate study in classical fields should incorporate Greek and Latin into their programs. Those who plan graduate work in Near Eastern or Egyptian may take appropriate ancient languages at the University of Pennsylvania, such as Middle Egyptian, Akkadian and Sumerian. Any student considering graduate study in classical and Near Eastern archaeology should study French and German.

Fieldwork

The department strongly encourages students to gain fieldwork experience and assists them in getting positions on field projects in North America and overseas. The department is undertaking several field projects in which undergraduates may be invited to participate.

Professor Peter Magee conducts a for-credit field school at Muweilah, al-Hamriya and Tell Abraq in the United Arab Emirates. Undergraduate and graduate students in archaeology participate in this project, which usually takes place during the winter break.

Professor James Wright directs the Nemea Valley Archaeological Project in Greece. Currently, the collaboration with Professor R. Angus Smith (Ph.D., Bryn Mawr College, 2002) of Brock University in Canada, and under the auspices of the Canadian Institute in Greece, is excavating a Mycenaean chamber tomb cemetery in the valley. Undergraduate and graduate students in archaeology participate in this project, which focuses on excavation techniques, skeletal analysis and museum studies.

The department is collaborating with Professor Aslı Özyar (Ph.D., Bryn Mawr College, 1991) of Boğaziçi University in Istanbul, in the Tarsus Regional Project, Turkey, sponsored by Boğaziçi University. This is a long-term investigation of the mound at Gözlü Küle at Tarsus, in Cilicia, which was first excavated by Hetty Goldman, A.B. 1903. Both undergraduate and graduate students in archaeology participate in this project.

Museum Internships

The department is awarded annually two internships by the Nicholas P. Goulandris Foundation for students to work for a month in the Museum of Cycladic Art in Athens, Greece, with an additional two weeks at an archaeological field project. This is an all-expense paid internship for which students may submit an application.
Opportunities to work with the College’s archaeology collections are available throughout the academic year and during the summer. Students wishing to work with the collections should consult the curator/academic liaison or collections manager for art and artifacts.

Study Abroad

A semester of study abroad is encouraged if the program is approved by the department. Students are encouraged to consult with faculty, since some programs the department may approve may not yet be listed at the Office of International Programs. Major credit for courses taken is given on a case-by-case basis after review of the syllabus, work submitted for a grade, and a transcript. Normally credit will not be given for more than one course and not for courses that are ordinarily offered by the department.

ARCH B101 Introduction to Egyptian and Near Eastern Archaeology
A historical survey of the archaeology and art of the ancient Near East, Egypt, and the prehistoric Aegean. Three hours of class, one hour of special topics a week. (Atac, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B102 The Uses of the Past: Introduction to Classical Archaeology
A historical survey of the archaeology and art of Greece, Etruria and Rome. Three hours of class, one hour of special topics each week. (Donohue, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B104 Archaeology of Agricultural and Urban Revolutions From Egypt to India
This course examines the archaeology of the two most fundamental changes that have occurred in human society in the last 12,000 years, agriculture and urbanism, and we explore these in Egypt and the Near East as far as India. We also explore those societies that did not experience these changes. (Magee, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B104)

ARCH B110 The World Through Classical Eyes
A survey of the ways in which the ancient Greeks and Romans perceived and constructed their physical and social world. The evidence of ancient texts and monuments will form the basis for exploring such subjects as cosmology, geography, travel and commerce, ancient ethnography and anthropology, the idea of natural and artificial wonders, and the self-definition of the classical cultures in the context of the oikoumene, the “inhabited world.” (Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B110) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B115 Classical Art
An introduction to the visual arts of ancient Greece and Rome from the Bronze Age through Late Imperial times (circa 3,000 B.C.E. to 300 C.E.). Major categories of artistic production are examined in historical and social context, including interactions with neighboring areas and cultures; methodological and interpretive issues are highlighted. (Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B115, CSTS B115, and HART B115)

ARCH B120 The Archaeology, Anthropology and Sociology of Rubbish
This course aims to introduce students to a range of approaches to the study of disposal practices in past and present societies. Particular attention will be paid to the interpretation of spatial disposal patterns, the power of dirty waste to create boundaries and difference, and types and motivations of recycling. (Lindenlauf, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B125 Classical Myths in Art and in the Sky
This course explores Greek and Roman mythology using an archaeological and art historical approach, focusing on the ways in which the traditional tales of the gods and heroes were depicted, developed and transmitted in the visual arts such as vase painting and architectural sculpture, as well as projected into the natural environment. (Lindenlauf, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B125 and HART B125)
ARCH B160 Daily Life in Ancient Greece and Rome
The often-praised achievements of the classical cultures arose from the realities of day-to-day life. This course surveys the rich body of archaeological and literary evidence pertaining to how ancient Greeks and Romans—famous and obscure alike—lived and died. Topics include housing, food, clothing, work, leisure and family and social life. (Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B160 and CSTS B160) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B201 Preclassical Greek Art and Archaeology
The art and archaeology of Greece and its Mediterranean neighbors between the end of the Bronze Age and the Persian invasion (circa 1100 to 480 B.C.E.), the period which saw the rise of the city-state, the introduction of democracy and the spread of Greek civilization by colonization and trade. The architecture, painting, sculpture and minor arts will be studied with attention to their historical and cultural contexts. (Donohue, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B203 Ancient Greek Cities and Sanctuaries
A study of the development of the Greek city-states and sanctuaries. Archaeological evidence is surveyed in its historic context. The political formation of the city-state and the role of religion is presented, and the political, economic and religious institutions of the city-states are explored in their urban settings. The city-state is considered as a particular political economy of the Mediterranean and in comparison to the utility of the concept of city-state in other cultures. (Wright, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B203) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B205 Greek Sculpture
One of the best preserved categories of evidence for ancient Greek culture is sculpture. The Greeks devoted immense resources to producing sculpture that encompassed many materials and forms and served a variety of important social functions. This course examines sculptural production in Greece and neighboring lands from the Bronze Age through the fourth century B.C.E. with special attention to style, iconography and historical and social context. (Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as HART B204)

ARCH B206 Hellenistic and Roman Sculpture
This course surveys the sculpture produced from the fourth century B.C.E. to the fourth century C.E., the period beginning with the death of Alexander the Great that saw the transformation of the classical world through the rise of Rome and the establishment and expansion of the Roman Empire. Style, iconography and production will be studied in the contexts of the culture of the Hellenistic kingdoms, the Roman appropriation of Greek culture, the role of art in Roman society and the significance of Hellenistic and Roman sculpture in the post-antique classical tradition. (Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as HART B206) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B209 Aegean Archaeology
The prehistoric cultures of the Aegean area concentrating on Minoan Crete, Troy, the Aegean Islands, and Mycenaean Greece. (Wright, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B220 Araby the Blest: The Archaeology of the Arabian Peninsula from 3000 to 300 B.C.E.
A survey of the archaeology and history of the Arabian peninsula focusing on urban forms, transport and cultures in the Arabian peninsula and Gulf and their interactions with the world from the rise of states in Mesopotamia down to the time of Alexander the Great. (Magee, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B224 Women in the Ancient Near East
A survey of the social position of women in the ancient Near East, from sedentary villages to empires of the first millennium B.C.E. Topics include critiques of traditional concepts of gender in archaeology and theories of matriarchy. Case studies illustrate the historicity of gender concepts: women’s work in early village societies; the meanings of Neolithic female figurines; the representation of gender in the Gilgamesh epic; the institution of the “Tawananna” (queen) in the Hittite empire; the indirect power of women such as Semiramis in the Neo-Assyrian palaces. Reliefs, statues, texts and more indirect archaeological evidence are the basis for discussion. (Magee, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B226 Archaeology of Anatolia
One of the cradles of civilization, Anatolia witnessed the rise and fall of many cultures and states throughout its ancient history. This course approaches the ancient material remains of Anatolia from the perspective of Near Eastern Archaeology, examining the art, artifacts, architecture, cities, and settlements of this land from the Neolithic through the Achaemenid periods. Some emphasis will be on the Late Bronze Age and the Iron Age, especially phases of Hittite and Assyrian imperialism, Late Hittite states, Phrygia, Lydia, and the Urartu. (Ataç, Division III)

ARCH B228 The Archaeology of Iran: From the Neolithic to Alexander the Great
Examines the archaeology of Iran and its eastern neighbors from circa 8000 B.C.E. to the coming of Alexander at the end of the fourth century B.C.E. Focus on the emergence of agriculture and urbanism and the appearance of the Achaemenid Empire, examined in the light of contacts with states in Mesopotamia and South Asia and the abilities of the ancient inhabitants of Iran to exploit their environment. (Magee, Division III)

ARCH B230 Archaeology and History of Ancient Egypt
The cultural, social and political development of Egypt from the beginning of settled communities in the Nile Valley to the end of the New Kingdom (circa 5000 to 1100 B.C.E.), in both the African and the wider Near Eastern contexts. Emphasizes archaeological remains, but also makes use of documentary evidence. (Ataç, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B234 Picturing Women in Classical Antiquity
We investigate representations of women in different media in ancient Greece and Rome, examining the cultural stereotypes of women and the gender roles that they reinforce. We also study the daily life of women in the ancient world, the objects that they were associated with in life and death and their occupations. (Lindenlauf, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B234 and HART B234)

ARCH B240 Archaeology and History of Ancient Mesopotamia
A survey of the material culture of ancient Mesopotamia, modern Iraq, from the earliest phases of state formation (circa 3500 B.C.E.) through the Achaemenid Persian occupation of the Near East (circa 331 B.C.E.). Emphasis will be on art, artifacts, monuments, religion, kingship and the cuneiform tradition. The survival of the cultural legacy of Mesopotamia into later ancient and Islamic traditions will also be addressed. (Ataç, Division III)

ARCH B244 Great Empires of the Ancient Near East
A survey of the history, material culture, political and religious ideologies of, and interactions among, the five great empires of the ancient Near East of the second and first millennia B.C.E.: New Kingdom Egypt, the Hittite Empire in Anatolia, the Assyrian and Babylonian Empires in Mesopotamia, and the Persian Empire in Iran. (Ataç, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B244, HIST B244, and POLS B244) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B252 Pompeii
Introduces students to a nearly intact archaeological site whose destruction by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in 79 C.E. was recorded by contemporaries. The discovery of Pompeii in the mid-1700’s had an enormous impact on 18th- and 19th-century views of the Roman past as well as styles and preferences of the modern era. Examines in classical antiquity, urban life, city structure, residential architecture, home decoration and furnishing, wall painting, minor arts and craft and mercantile activities within a Roman city. (Webb, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B259) Not offered in 2009-10.
ARCH B255 Sport and Spectacle in Ancient Greece and Rome
Sport and spectacle in ancient Greece and Rome and how they compare to the institutions of education and sport in modern society. Topics are the Olympic games and other sanctuaries with athletic competitions, the built structures for athletics (stadium, gymnasium, baths, amphitheaters, circuses, and hippodrome) and spectacles, such as gladiatorial combat. (Scott, Wright, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B260, CSTS B255, and HIST B285) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B263 Roman Archaeology

ARCH B268 Greek and Roman Architecture
The course will introduce the structure of Greek and Roman cities and sanctuaries, the variety of building types and monuments found within them, and how local populations used and lived in the architectural environment of the classical world. (Webb; cross-listed as CITY B268 and HART B268) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B270 Geoarchaeology
Societies in the past depended on our human ancestors’ ability to interact with their environment. Geoarchaeology analyzes these interactions by combining archaeological and geological techniques to document human behavior while also reconstructing the past environment. Course meets twice weekly for lecture, discussion of readings and hands on exercises. Prerequisite: one course in anthropology, archaeology or geology. (Barber, Magee; cross-listed as ANTH B270 and GEOL B270)

ARCH B274 Bioarchaeology

ARCH B301 Greek Vase Painting
(Lindenlauf, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B303 Classical Bodies
An examination of the conceptions of the human body evidenced in Greek and Roman art and literature, with emphasis on issues that have persisted in the Western tradition. Topics include the fashioning of concepts of male and female standards of beauty and their implications; conventions of visual representation; the nude; clothing and its symbolism; the athletic ideal; physiognomy; medical theory and practice; the visible expression of character and emotions; and the formulation of the “classical ideal” in antiquity and later times. (Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as HART B305) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B305 Ancient Athens
Detailed analysis of the monuments, archaeology and art of ancient Athens—the home of such persons as Pericles, Plato and Sophocles. The course considers the art and monuments of ancient Athens against the historical background of the city, and is a case study in understanding the role of archaeology in reconstructing the life and culture of the Athenians. (Lindenlauf; cross-listed as CITY B305)

ARCH B308 Ceramic Analysis
Pottery is a fundamental means of establishing the relative chronology of archaeological sites and of understanding past human behavior. Included are theories, methods and techniques of pottery description, analysis and interpretation. Topics include typology, seriation, ceramic characterization, production, function, exchange and the use of computers in pottery analysis. Laboratory work on pottery in the department collections. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (Magee)
ARCH B312 The Eastern Mediterranean in the Late Bronze Age
This course will cover economic and cultural interactions among the Levant, Cyprus, Anatolia, Egypt and the Aegean. We will study the politics and powers in the Eastern Mediterranean circa 1500 to 1100 B.C.E.—the Egyptian and Hittite empires, the Mitanni, Ugarit and Syro-Palestinian polities, Cyprus and the Mycenaenans. Topics include: metallurgy, mercantile systems, seafaring, the Sea Peoples, systems collapse, and interpretive issues when working with archaeological and historical sources. (Wright, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B322 The Archaeology of the Roman Empire
An examination of the growth of the Roman Republic into the Roman Empire at its height, from its acquisitions of the Hellenistic kingdoms (second and first centuries, B.C.E.) to its domination of Europe, North Africa and the Near East. Prerequisite: ARCH B102. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B328 Analysis of Geospatial Data Using GIS

ARCH B330 Archaeological Theory and Method
An historical introduction to archaeological theory and methods. Topics: archaeology’s origins in the Renaissance; the formation of archaeology and geology and social scientific approaches to the human past; competing philosophies of knowledge, phenomenology and postmodern constructions of knowledge. (Wright, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B342 Greek Architectural Sculpture
This course examines in depth a large and important body of remains from the Archaic, Classical and Hellenistic periods, that puts the sculpture in its architectural and cultural contexts, allowing study of original examples of Greek art that are couched in a relatively well established chronology. (Webb, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B352 Ancient Egyptian Architecture: The New Kingdom
A proseminar that concentrates on the principles of ancient Egyptian monumental architecture with an emphasis on the New Kingdom. The primary focus of the course is temple design, put palaces, representative settlements, and examples of Graeco-Roman temples of the Nile Valley will also be dealt with. (Ataç)

ARCH B359 Topics in Classical Art and Archaeology
A research-oriented course taught in seminar format, treating issues of current interest in Greek and Roman art and archaeology. Prerequisites: 200-level coursework in some aspect of classical or related cultures, archeology or art history. (Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B359 and HART B358) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B369 Topics in Medieval History
(Truitt, Schwartz, Division III; cross-listed as HIST B369 and CSTS B369) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARCH B398, B399 Senior Seminar
A weekly seminar on common topics with assigned readings and oral and written reports. (Magee, Wright)

ARCH B403 Supervised Work

The study of Comparative Literature situates literature in an international perspective; examines transnational cultural connections through literary history, literary criticism, critical theory, and poetics; and works toward a nuanced understanding of the sociocultural functions of literature. The structure of the program allows students to engage in such diverse areas of critical inquiry as East-West cultural relations, global censorship and human rights, diaspora studies, film history and theory, and aesthetics of modernity. Therefore, interpretive methods from other disciplines also play a role in the comparative study of literature; among these are anthropology, ethnology, philosophy, history, history of art, religion, classical studies, area studies (Africana studies, Middle Eastern studies, Latin American studies, among others), gender studies, and other arts.

Comparative Literature students are required to have a reading knowledge of at least one foreign language adequate to the advanced study of literature in that language. Some Comparative Literature courses may require reading knowledge of a foreign language as a prerequisite for admission. Students considering graduate work in Comparative Literature should also study a second foreign language.
Major Requirements

Requirements for the Comparative Literature major are COML 200: Introduction to Comparative Literature (normally taken in the sophomore year); six literature courses at the 200 level or above, balanced between two literature departments (of which English may be one)—at least two of these (one in each national literature) must be at the 300 level or above, or its equivalent as approved in advance by the adviser; one course in critical theory; two electives; COML 398: Theories and Methods in Comparative Literature and 399: Senior Seminar in Comparative Literature.

Honors

Students who, in the judgment of the advisory committee, have done distinguished work in their courses and in the senior seminar will be considered for departmental honors.

Minor Requirements

Requirements for the minor are COML 200 and 398, plus four additional courses—two each in the literature of two languages. At least one of these four courses must be at the 300 level. Students who minor in comparative literature are encouraged to choose their national literature courses from those with a comparative component.

Both majors and minors are encouraged to work closely with the chairs and members of the advisory committee in shaping their programs.

COML B200 Introduction to Comparative Literature
This course explores a variety of approaches to the comparative or transnational study of literature through readings of several kinds: texts from different cultural traditions that raise questions about the nature and function of storytelling and literature; texts that comment on, respond to and rewrite other texts from different historical periods and nations; translations; and readings in critical theory. (Seyhan, Division III)

COML B202 Culture and Interpretation
(Krausz, Division III; cross-listed as PHIL B202) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B209 Introduction to Literary Analysis: Philosophical Approaches to Criticism
An introduction to various methods of reading the literary text from the perspective of critical methods informed by philosophical ideas. In their quest for self-understanding and knowledge, literature and philosophy share similar forms of inquiry and imaginative modeling. Selected literary texts and critical essays focus on questions of language, translation, understanding, and identity in their relation to history, epistemology, ethics, and aesthetics. One of the main objectives of the course is to provide students with the critical tools necessary for an informed reading of texts. Designated theory course. (Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B209 and PHIL B209)

COML B212 Borges y sus lectores
(Sacerio-Gari, Division III; cross-listed as SPAN B211)

COML B213 Qu’est-ce que la théorie?
Designated theory course. (Mahuzier, Division III; cross-listed as FREN B213) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B222 Aesthetics: The Nature and Experience of Art
Designated theory course. (Krausz, Division III; cross-listed as PHIL B222)
COML B223 Topics In German Cultural Studies
Topic for 2009-10: Eastern Journeys and the European Romantic Imaginary (Kenosian, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B223).

COML B229 Movies and Mass Politics

COML B231 Cultural Profiles in Modern Exile
This course is a critical introduction to the anthropological, philosophical, psychological, and, most importantly, literary aspects of modern exile. It investigates exile as the defining experience and metaphor of modernity and examines the dialectical relationship between imagined/remembered homelands and transnational identities and between language loss and bimultilingualism. Readings by Meena Alexander, Gloria Anzaldúa, Julia Alvarez, Ana Castillo, Assia Djebar, Eva Hoffman, Maxine Hong Kingston, Amin Maalouf, E.S. Özdamar, Chang-Rae Lee, Zadie Smith, among others. (Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B231 and ANTH B231)

COML B234 Postcolonial Literature in English
(Tratner, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B234)

COML B240 Literary Translation Workshop

COML B251 Romantic Prose Fiction
This seminar studies representative works of Romantic poetry’s “poor relation”—prose fiction. Readings include novels from England, France, Germany and Russia, such as Frankenstein, A Hero of Our Time, The Red and the Black, The Sorrows of Young Werther and Wuthering Heights, as well as short stories. Discussions include such topics as national varieties of Romanticism, the Romantic ideals of nature, love and the self, and the impact of the revolutionary era on art. Illustrative examples of Romantic painting and music are also considered. All readings and discussions in English. (Allen, Division III)

COML B252 The Art of Athletics: Modern Sport in 20th-Century Culture
This course, drawing upon a range of artistic media—literature, painting, and cinema—from the United States, Western Europe and Russia, explores how artists throughout the 20th century celebrated the beauty and vigorous spirit of athletics. Course discussion will focus on artists’ use of sports to probe issues of gender, race, class, and ideology. (Harte, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B257 The Realist Novel Revisited
This seminar undertakes the study of a deceptively simple cultural and literary historical concept—realism—by closely reading well-known 19th-century novels by George Eliot, Gustave Flaubert, Theodor Fontane, Henry James, Stendhal, Leo Tolstoy and Ivan Turgenev, all of which have traditionally been placed within realism’s parameters. Critical essays exploring the nature of realism, either in general or in a particular author’s works, are also discussed. The ethical implications of the realist enterprise and, more broadly, the possible relations between art and life receive special scrutiny. (Allen, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B260 Ariel/Caliban y el discurso americano (Sacerio-Gari, Division III; cross-listed as SPAN B260) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B261 The Russian Anti-Novel
(Allen, Division III; cross-listed as RUSS B261) Not offered in 2009-10.
COML B265 The Islamic Literary Tradition
This course surveys the major genres of the Islamic literary tradition, with emphasis on premodern works. We will consider the aesthetic principles that informed the tradition as well as questions of continuities and ruptures. Texts in English translation. (Kim, Division III; cross-listed as GNST B265) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B266 Travel and Transgression
(Taylor, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B266) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B269 Ecologies of Theater: Performance, Play, and Landscape

COML B270 Classical Heroes and Heroines
(Baertschi, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B270) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B274 From Myth to Modern Cinema: From Dionysus to the Silver Screen
(Baertschi, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B274) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B277 Topics in Islamic Literatures
Examines medieval and early modern Muslim travel accounts of the Islamic world and beyond, through selected texts in English translation. Looks at critical approaches to travel narrative and considers whether they are useful for Islamic context. (Kim, Division III; cross-listed as GNST B277) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B278 Reading the Middle East
This course examines major themes in modern Middle Eastern literatures through selected prose works by prominent modern writers in translation from Arabic, Hebrew, Persian and Turkish.
Topics include tradition versus modernity, gender and the family, the individual and the state, and the impact of regional conflict. (Kim, Division III)

COML B279 Introduction to African Literature
(Beard, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B279) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B299 Cultural Diversity and Its Representations
Topic for 2008-09: Middle Eastern Cultures in Germany. This course focuses on the literary and aesthetic production of writers, artists, and filmmakers from Turkey, the Arab countries, Iran, and Israel, living and working in contemporary Germany. (Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B299 and CITY B299) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B302 Le printemps de la parole féminine: femmes écrivains des débuts

COML B305 Modern German Drama—Faust: Approaches to a Legend in Literature, Drama, and Film

COML B306 Film Theory
(King, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B306 and HART B306)

COML B312 Crimen y detectives en la narrativa hispánica contemporánea
(Song, Division III; cross-listed as SPAN B311)

COML B320 Topics in German Literature
(staff, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B320, ENGL B320, and HART B320) Not offered in 2009-10.
COML B321 Advanced Topics in German Cultural Studies
(Kenosian, Meyer, Seyhan Division III; cross-listed as GERM B321)

COML B323 Culture and Interpretation
Designated theory course. (Krausz, Division III; cross-listed as PHIL B323)

COML B326 Etudes avancées
Topic for 2009-10: Le Film Noir. (Higginson, Division III; cross-listed as FREN B326)

COML B340 Topics in Baroque Art
(McKim-Smith, Division III; cross-listed as HART B340) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B350 Voix médiévales et échos modernes

COML B351 Medieval Encounters in Contemporary Fiction
Muslim, Christian and Jewish relations, particularly in the medieval period, have occupied a number of recent works of fiction in English and other languages. Why that subject has so captured the literary imagination and how individual authors treat it are the central issues the course aims to address. Selected works of fiction will serve as entry points into questions of how different religious communities interacted with and perceived one another before modern times. Another goal of the course is to make students think about how works of historical fiction serve to shape as well as to challenge current religious sensibilities. (Kim, Division III)

COML B364 Political Philosophy
(Salkever, Elkins, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B364 and PHIL B364) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B375 Interpreting Mythology
(Edmonds, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B375)

COML B387 Allegory in Theory and Practice
(Hedley; cross-listed as ENGL B387) Not offered in 2009-10.

COML B388 Contemporary African Fiction
(Beard, Division III; cross-listed with ENGL 388)

COML B398 Theories and Methods in Comparative Literature
This course, required of all senior comparative literature majors in preparation for writing the senior thesis in the spring semester, explores both theoretical and applied, or practical, literary criticism, in which literary theories are put to work, often in combination, to elucidate particular texts. Throughout the semester, students collect and review theoretical and applied critical materials bearing on their own comparative thesis topics in order to situate those topics in an appropriate critical context. (Sedley)

COML B399 Senior Seminar in Comparative Literature
(Allen, Miller)

COML B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

Haverford College currently offers the following courses in Comparative Literature:

COML H200 Introduction to Comparative Literature
COML H210 Spanish and Spanish American Film Studies
COML H213 Tragedy and the Tragic: Suffering, Representation, and Response
COML H219 Rites of Laughter: Ancient Comedy and its Legacy
COML H222 Rethinking Latin America in Contemporary Narrative
COML H229 Topics in Rhetorical Theory: Roland Barthes and the Image
COML H241 Anthropology of the Mediterranean: Seminar on Greece
COML H255 Cinema et colonialisme
COML H266 Iberian Orientalism and the Nation
COML H293 Translation and other Transformations: Theory and Practice
COML H301 Topics in Medieval English Literature
COML H308 Mystical Literatures of Islam
COML H312 Advanced Topics
COML H315 Novísima literatura hispanoamericana
COML H332 Topics in 20th Century Continental Philosophy: Philosophies of Pain and Passion
COML H334 Gender Dissidence in Hispanic Writing
COML H377 Problems in Postcolonial Literature
COML H389 Problems in Poetics: The Interpretation of Lyric
COML H398 Theories and Methods in Comparative Literature
Students may complete a major or minor in Computer Science or a minor in computational methods.

Computer Science is the science of algorithms—their theory, analysis, design and implementation. As such it is an interdisciplinary field with roots in mathematics and engineering and applications in many other academic disciplines. The department at Bryn Mawr is founded on the belief that computer science should transcend from being a subfield of mathematics and engineering and play a broader role in all forms of human inquiry.

The Computer Science Department is supported jointly by faculty at both Bryn Mawr and Haverford Colleges. The department welcomes students who wish to pursue a major in computer science. Additionally, the department also offers a minor in computer science, a concentration in computer science (at Haverford College) and a minor in computational methods (at Bryn Mawr College). The department also strives to facilitate evolving interdisciplinary majors. For example, students can propose a major in cognitive science by combining coursework from computer science and disciplines such as psychology and philosophy.

All majors, minors and concentrations offered by the department emphasize foundations and basic principles of information science, rather than engineering or data-processing applications. The aim is to provide students with skills that transcend short-term trends in computer hardware and software.

Major in Computer Science

Students are encouraged to prepare a major course plan in consultation with their academic adviser in Computer Science. The requirements for a major in computer science are three introductory courses (CMSC 110 or 205, 206 and 231), three core courses (CMSC 240, 245 and one of 330, 340 or 345), six electives of a student’s choosing and a senior thesis. Students should ensure that they have completed at least three courses in computer science by the end of their sophomore year (we highly recommend CMSC 110, 206 and 231).

Minor in Computer Science

Students in any major are encouraged to complete a minor in computer science. Completing a minor in computer science enables students to pursue graduate studies in computer science, in addition to their own major. The requirements for a minor in computer science at Bryn Mawr are CMSC 110 or 205, 206, 231, any two of CMSC 240, 245, 246, 330, 340 or 345, and two electives chosen from any course in computer science, approved by the student’s adviser in computer science. As mentioned above, these requirements can be combined with any major, depending on the student’s interest and preparation.
Minor in Computational Methods

This minor is designed to enable students majoring in any discipline to learn computational methods and applications in their major area of study. The requirements for a minor in computational methods are CMSC 110 or 205, 206, 231; one of CMSC 212, 225, 245, 246, 330, 340 or 361; any two computational courses depending on a student’s major and interests (there are over 35 such courses to choose from in various departments).

Students can declare a minor at the end of their sophomore year or soon after. Students should prepare a course plan and have it approved by at least two faculty advisers. Students minoring in computational methods are encouraged to propose senior projects/theses that involve the application of computational modeling in their major field of study.

CMSC B110 Introduction to Computing
An introduction to the nature, subject matter and branches of computer science as an academic discipline, and the nature, development, coding, testing, documenting and analysis of the efficiency and limitations of algorithms. Also includes the social context of computing (risks, liabilities, intellectual property and infringement). (Blank, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

CMSC B120 Visualizing Information
An introduction to visualization of complex data through computer manipulation. Explores the tools necessary to allow the human mind to make sense of vast amounts of data collected in many fields of study. Topics: 2D/3D representations, programming techniques, data conversion principles, color representation and introduction to virtual reality. (Allen, Division II and Quantitative Skills) Not offered in 2009-10.

CMSC B206 Introduction to Data Structures
Introduction to the fundamental algorithms and data structures of computer science: sorting, searching, recursion, backtrack search, lists, stacks, queues, trees, graphs, dictionaries. Introduction to the analysis of algorithms. Prerequisite: CMSC 205 or 110, or permission of instructor. (Blank, Division II)

CMSC B212 Computer Graphics
Presents the fundamental principles of computer graphics: data structures for representing objects to be viewed, and algorithms for generating images from representations. Prerequisite: MATH 203 or 215, or permission of instructor. (Xu) Not offered in 2009-10.

CMSC B231 Discrete Mathematics
(Hughes, Division II and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as MATH B231 and PHIL B230)

CMSC B240 Principles of Computer Organization
A lecture/laboratory course studying the hierarchical design of modern digital computers. Combinatorial and sequential logic elements; construction of microprocessors; instruction sets; assembly language programming. Lectures cover the theoretical aspects of machine architecture. In the laboratory, designs discussed in lecture are constructed in software. Prerequisite: CMSC 206 or permission of instructor. (Kumar, Division II)

CMSC B245 Principles of Programming Languages
An introduction to a wide range of topics relating to programming languages with an emphasis on abstraction and design. Design issues relevant to the implementation of programming languages are discussed, including a review and in-depth treatment of mechanisms for sequence control, the run-time structure of programming languages and programming in the large. The course has a strong lab component where students get to construct large programs in at least three different imperative programming languages. (Blank, Kumar, Division II and Quantitative Skills) Not offered in 2009-10.
CMSC B246 Programming Paradigms: Unix and C Programming
Topics course; course content varies. Topic for 2008-09 is Programming in UNIX and C. Provides an in-depth introduction to C and C++, as well as programming principles such as abstraction, encapsulation and modularization. Another focus of the class is to gain proficiency in the UNIX operating system. Assumes familiarity with conditionals, loops, functions and arrays and will focus on C-specific topics such as pointer manipulations, dynamic memory allocation and abstract data types. An excellent preparation for classes such as operating systems and software engineering principles and programming techniques to facilitate medium-scaled development projects. Prerequisite: CMSC 110 or 205. (Xu Blank, Division II and Quantitative Skills) Not offered in 2009-10.

CMSC B250 Computational Methods in the Sciences
This course is for students of all disciplines interested in learning the foundations of computational methods and modeling. Topics include the theory and role of computational methods in data analysis, an introduction to fundamental computation (combinatorics, probability and related statistics), and an introduction to statistical simulation and probability models, with a specific focus on Monte Carlo simulation. Examples will be drawn from numerous disciplines across the natural sciences. Two lectures and one two-hour problem session a week. (Allen, Division II and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as BIOL B250 and GEOL B250) Not offered in 2009-10.

CMSC B257 Gender and Technology

CMSC B312 Computer Graphics
An introduction to the fundamental principles of computer graphics: including 3D modeling, rendering and animation. Topics cover: 2D and 3D transformations; rendering techniques; geometric algorithms; 3D object models (surface and volume); visible surface algorithms; shading and mapping; ray tracing; and select others. Prerequisites: CMSC B110, CMSC B206, CMSC/MATH B231 and CMSC B246 or permission of instructor. (Xu) Not offered in 2009-10.

CMSC B325 Computational Linguistics
Introduction to computational models of understanding and processing human languages. How elements of linguistics, computer science, and artificial intelligence can be combined to help computers process human language and to help linguists understand language through computer models. Topics covered: syntax, semantics, pragmatics, generation and knowledge representation techniques. Prerequisite: some background in linguistics or computer science. (Kumar)

CMSC B330 Algorithms: Design and Practice
This course examines the applications of algorithms to the accomplishments of various programming tasks. The focus will be on understanding of problem-solving methods, along with the construction of algorithms, rather than emphasizing formal proving methodologies. Topics include divide and conquer, approximations for NP-Complete problems, data mining and parallel algorithms. Prerequisites: CMSC 206 and 231. (Kumar, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

CMSC B355 Operating Systems
A practical introduction to modern operating systems, using case studies from UNIX, VMS, MSDOS and the Macintosh. Lab sessions will explore the implementation of abstract concepts, such as resource allocation and deadlock. Topics include file systems, memory allocation schemes, semaphores and critical sections, device drivers, multiprocessing and resource sharing. (Xu)
CMSC B361 Emergence
A multidisciplinary exploration of the interactions underlying both real and simulated systems, such as ant colonies, economies, brains, earthquakes, biological evolution, artificial evolution, computers and life. These emergent systems are often characterized by simple, local interactions that collectively produce global phenomena not apparent in the local interactions. (Blank; cross-listed as BIOL B361)

CMSC B371 Cognitive Science
Cognitive science is the interdisciplinary study of intelligence in mechanical and organic systems. In this introductory course, we examine many topics from computer science, linguistics, neuroscience, mathematics, philosophy and psychology. Can a computer be intelligent? How do neurons give rise to thinking? What is consciousness? These are some of the questions we will examine. No prior knowledge or experience with any of the subfields is assumed or necessary. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

CMSC B372 Artificial Intelligence
Survey of Artificial Intelligence (AI), the study of how to program computers to behave in ways normally attributed to "intelligence" when observed in humans. Topics include heuristic versus algorithmic programming; cognitive simulation versus machine intelligence; problem-solving; inference; natural language understanding; scene analysis; learning; decision-making. Topics are illustrated by programs from literature, programming projects in appropriate languages and building small robots. (Kumar, Division II and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as PHIL B372)

CMSC B380 Recent Advances in Computer Science: Web Application Design and Development
A topical course facilitating an in-depth study on a current topic in computer science. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (Xu, Division II)

CMSC B399 Senior Conference
An independent project in computer science culminating in a written report/thesis and oral presentation. Class discussions of work in progress and oral and written presentations of research results will be emphasized. Required for all computer science majors in the spring semester of their senior year. (Xu)

CMSC B403 Supervised Work/Independent Study
(staff)

Haverford College currently offers the following courses in Computer Science:

CMSC H100 The World of Computing
CMSC H105 Introduction to Computer Science
CMSC H187 Scientific Computing: Discrete Systems
CMSC H206 Introduction to Data Structures
CMSC H210 Linear Optimization and Game Theory
CMSC H235 Information and Coding Theory
CMSC H245 Principles of Programming Languages
CMSC H287 Advanced Topics: High Performance Scientific Computing
CMSC H345 Theory of Computation
CMSC H350 Compiler Design
CMSC H394 Advanced Topics in Theoretical Computer Science & Discrete Mathematics
CMSC H399 Senior Seminar
CMSC H480 Independent Study
Students may complete a major in East Asian Studies or a minor in Chinese or Japanese.

The Bi-College Department of East Asian Studies links rigorous language training to the study of East Asian, and particularly Chinese and Japanese, culture and society. In addition to our intensive programs in Chinese and Japanese languages, departmental faculty offer courses in East Asian philosophy, linguistics, literature, religion and social and intellectual history. The East Asian Studies Department also incorporates courses by affiliated Bi-College faculty on East Asian anthropology, cities, economics, philosophy and sociology, as well as additional courses on East Asian culture and society by faculty at Swarthmore.

The intellectual orientation of the Department of East Asian Studies is primarily historical and text-based; that is, we focus on East Asia’s rich cultural traditions as a way to understand its present, through the study of primary sources (in translation and in the vernacular) and scholarly books and articles. All students wishing to specialize in this humanistic approach to the study of China, Japan and (with special approval) Korea are encouraged to consider the East Asian studies major. But we also work closely with affiliated faculty in the Bi-Co and Tri-Co community who approach East Asia from the perspective of such social science disciplines as anthropology, economics, political science, sociology and the growth and structure of cities, as well as with faculty in history, music, religion and philosophy. East Asian studies majors are encouraged to take advantage of these programs to supplement their East Asian studies coursework.

Major Requirements

Requirements for the major are:

1. Completion of at least the third-year level of (Mandarin) Chinese or Japanese (i.e., 101-102). Students who entered college with native fluency in one East Asian language (including Korean) must complete this requirement with another East Asian language.
2. EAST 200 (Major Seminar: Methods and Approaches to East Asian Studies), which highlights the emergence of East Asia as a coherent cultural region and introduces students to basic bibliographic skills and research approaches.
3. Five additional courses in East Asian cultures, as follows: one 100-level Introduction (from among EAST 120, 129, 131 or 132); two 200-level courses; and two 300-level seminars.
4. A senior seminar (EAST 398, 399, culminating in the completion of a senior thesis early in the spring semester).

Minor Requirements

The Department of East Asian Studies offers minors in both Chinese and Japanese. The requirement is six courses in either language.

Language Placement Tests

Placement tests for first-time students at all levels are conducted in the first week of the fall semester. To qualify for third-year language courses students need to finish second-year courses with a score of 3.0 or above in all four areas of training: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. In the event that students do not meet the minimum grade at the conclusion of second-year language study, they must consult with the director of the respective language program and work out a summer study plan that may include taking summer courses or studying on their own under supervision. They must take a placement test before starting third-year language study in the fall.

Honors

Honors in East Asian studies will be awarded by the departmental faculty on the basis of superior performance in two areas: coursework in major-related courses (including language classes), and the senior thesis. A 3.7 average in major-related coursework is considered the minimum necessary for consideration for honors.

Study Abroad

The Department of East Asian Studies strongly recommends study abroad to maximize language proficiency and cultural familiarity. Because study abroad provides an unparalleled opportunity to study a culture from the inside, students spending a semester or year in China, Japan or Korea will be required to prepare an essay of 10 pages on significant issues confronting their host country, based on information from local newspapers or magazines, television or personal interviews. No departmental credit will be granted for study abroad without satisfactory completion of this assignment, whose details should be worked out with the student’s adviser.

Formal approval is required by the study abroad adviser prior to the student’s travel. Without this approval, credit for courses taken abroad will not be accepted by the East Asian Studies Department.
If studying abroad is not practical, students may consider attending certain intensive summer schools approved by the East Asian Studies Department. These plans must be worked out in concert with the department’s study abroad adviser and the student’s dean.

EAST B131 Chinese Civilization
A broad chronological survey of Chinese culture and society from the Bronze Age to the 19th century, with special reference to such topics as belief, family, language, the arts and sociopolitical organization. Readings include primary sources in English translation and secondary studies. (Jiang, Division I or III; cross-listed as HIST B131)

EAST B200 Major Seminar: Methods and Approaches in East Asian Studies
Introduces current and prospective majors to the scope and methods of East Asian Studies. Employs readings on East Asian history and culture as a platform in critical analysis, bibliography, cartography, and the formulation of research topics and approaches. Culminates in a substantial research essay. Required of East Asian Studies majors, but open to others by permission, the course should be taken in the junior year if possible. Prerequisite: one year of Chinese or Japanese. (Jiang, Division I or III)

EAST B206 Modern Chinese Literature and Film
Introduces the development of modern Chinese literature and related film since the 19th century in terms of the significant motifs of enlightenment and decadence. The course enriches the understanding of heterogeneous “modernities” rather than the homogeneous “modernity” in modern China. (Zhou, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

EAST B210 Topics in Chinese Culture and History
This course is a broad chronological survey of Chinese history with a focus on foreign relations. In this period, China stood at the center of the emerging world economy. The rise of Inner Asian armies on horseback led China to be ruled by Mongolian and Manchurian leaders, fostering new notions of the empire. Interactions with Europeans became more common, from Marco Polo near the beginning of the period to British merchants at the end. Students are encouraged to relate these changes to their understanding of present day China. (Lin, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

EAST B212 Introduction to Chinese Literature: Literature of Everyday Life
The rituals of everyday life mark the passing of our personal histories: they include the basics for sustenance, as well as the extravagant and serendipitous occurrences; there is a rhythm to daily life, and there are interruptions to that rhythm. At the same time, records of daily life also reflect a given period, its culture, people or individual writers. This course explores literature about everyday life beginning from the earliest times with the Book of Songs to the great 18th-century novel, The Dream of the Red Chamber. Topics include: farm life and gardens, the “things” in life, travels, courtship, dreams, tea culture, and food. (Lin, Division III)

EAST B225 Topics in Modern Chinese Literature: Modern China through Literature, Art and Film
This course explores modern China from the early 20th century to the present through its literature, art and films, reading them as commentaries of their own time. We will begin with the May Fourth Movement and conclude with the social and ecological effects of China’s recent economic boom. Materials will include literary works of Lu Xun, Ba Jin, Zhou Zuoren, Zhang Ailing; artworks of Xu Beihong, Zhang Dali, and the modern experimentalists; films by the Chinese Fourth and Fifth Generation filmmakers, as well as documentaries by Carma Hinton and Antony Thomas. (Lin, Division III; cross-listed as HART B225 and HIST B220) Not offered in 2009-10.

EAST B229 Comparative Urbanism: Colonial and Postcolonial Cities
This course examines the issues of colonialism, postcolonialism, and urbanism in a Chinese context. As Chinese society transformed in the 19th and early 20th centuries, cities were at the forefront of change, becoming symbols of both the promise and the discontents of modernity. At the same time, Chinese cities maintained their roles as centers of economic, political, and religious activity. How did these shifts affect urban life? We will consider answers to these questions with reference to hygiene, markets, military bases, crime, imperialism and labor. (McDonogh, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B229, ANTH B229, and HART B229) Not offered in 2009-10.

EAST B263 The Chinese Revolution
Places the causes and consequences of the 20th-century revolutions in historical perspective, by examining its late-imperial antecedents and tracing how the revolution has (and has not) transformed China, including the lives of such key revolutionary supporters as the peasantry, women, and intellectuals. (Jiang, Division I; cross-listed as HIST B263)

EAST B264 Human Rights in China
This course will examine China's human rights issues from a historical perspective. The topics include diverse perspectives on human rights, historical background, civil rights, religious practice, justice system, education, as well as the problems concerning some social groups such as migrant laborers, women, ethnic minorities and peasants. (Jiang, Division I; cross-listed as HIST B260)

EAST B267 The Development of the Modern Japanese Nation
(Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B267 and ANTH B267) Not offered in 2009-10.

EAST B270 Japanese Architecture and Planning
(Hein, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B270 and HART B270) Not offered in 2009-10.

EAST B272 Topics in Early and Medieval China: Chinese Cities and City Culture
Cities are the political, cultural, and economic centers of a time and space; each is distinguished by geographic locale, architectural details, inhabitants, and its literary, artistic, and historical milieu. We investigate the literary and cultural artifacts: beginning with magnificent Chang’an and Luoyang; on to medieval Ye and Luoyang, the cosmopolitan eighth-century Chang’an, and concluding with bustling 11th-century Bianjing. Extensive use of visual materials, such as city plans and descriptions, architecture and gardens, works by notable writers and painters. (Lin, Division I; cross-listed as HART B272) Not offered in 2009-10.

EAST B325 Topics in Chinese History and Culture: China's Environment: History, Policy, and Rights
Most commentators link China’s environmental issues to the country’s post-1978 economic growth and overlook the historical roots of many of these ecological problems. This course will investigate key topics in the environmental history of China over the last three thousand years. We will begin by considering a range of analytical approaches, including environmental history, institutional politics, human rights, and political ecology, and will then explore three general periods in China’s environmental changes: imperial times, Mao’s socialist experiments, and the post-Mao reforms. (Jiang, Division III; cross-listed as HIST B326)

EAST B352 China’s Environment: History, Policy, and Rights
This seminar explores China’s environmental issues from a historical perspective. It begins by considering a range of analytical approaches, and then explores three general periods in China’s environmental changes, imperial times, Mao’s socialist experiments during the first thirty years of the People’s Republic, and the post-Mao reforms. Prerequisite: Sophomore standing. (Jiang, Division I; cross-listed as HIST B352)

EAST B354 Identity, Ritual and Cultural Practice in Contemporary Vietnam
(Pashigian, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B354) Not offered in 2009-10.
EAST B398 Senior Conference
A research workshop culminating in the writing and presentation of a senior thesis. Required of all majors; open to concentrators and others by permission. (Glassman, Lin)

EAST B399 Senior Conference
Thesis. (Glassman)

EAST B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

Haverford College currently offers the following courses in East Asian Studies:

- EAST H201 Introduction to Buddhism
- EAST H218 Chinese Calligraphy As An Art Form
- EAST H244 Anthropology of China
- EAST H265 Modern Japan
- EAST H132 Japanese Civilization
- EAST H240 Economic Development and Transformation: China vs. India
- EAST H260 Mid-Imperial China, 1600-1900
- EAST H349 Topics in Comparative History
- EAST H370 Topics in Buddhist Studies: The Lotus Sutra
- EAST H382 Topics in Chinese Syntax and Semantics

East Asian Languages

The East Asian Studies Department welcomes students who wish to combine their interests in East Asian languages with the study of an East Asian culture. These students are urged to consult the coordinator of East Asian studies on either campus, who will advise them on creating individual plans of study in appropriate departments.

Chinese Language

Tz’u Chiang
Shizhe Huang, Director
Pauline Lin
Changchun Zhang

The Chinese Language Program offers a full undergraduate curriculum of courses in Mandarin Chinese. Students who will combine language study with focused work on East Asian society and culture may wish to consider the major or minor in East Asian studies. Information about study abroad programs can be found under the East Asian studies heading in this catalog.

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College’s foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing CNSE 003 and 004 with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of 2.0 or better in CNSE 004.

CNSE B001, B002 First-year Chinese

An intensive introductory course in modern spoken and written Chinese. The development of oral-aural skills is integrated through grammar explanations and drill sessions designed to reinforce new material through active practice. Six hours a week of lecture and oral practice plus one-on-one sessions with the instructor. This is a year-long course carrying three units of credit; both semesters are required for credit. (Chiang, Zhang)
CNSE B003, B004 Second-year Chinese
Second-year Chinese aims for further development of language skills in speaking, listening, reading, and writing. Five hours of class plus one-on-one sessions with the instructor. This is a year-long course; both semesters are required for credit. (Chiang, Zhang, Language Level 2)

CNSE B101, B102 Third-year Chinese
A focus on overall language skills through reading and discussion of modern short stories, as well as on students’ facility in written and oral expression through readings in modern drama and screenplays. Readings include representative works from the May Fourth Period (1919-27) to the present. Audio- and videotapes of drama and films are used as study aids. Prerequisite: Second-year Chinese or permission of instructor. (Chiang, Language Level 2)

CNSE B201 Advanced Chinese Through Film and Art
Through reviews, interviews, newspaper articles, and essays on film and art, this course has two aims: first, to introduce students to Chinese films, documentaries, and modern Chinese art; and second, to enrich students’ vocabulary in discussing cultural issues confronting China today. We will study the works of Fourth through Sixth generation directors (Wu Tianming, Zhang Yimou, Jia Zhangke), and will look at artworks by modern Chinese artists (Li Hua to Wang Quingsong), read and write about urgent issues facing contemporary China expresses through art. Prerequisite: third-year Chinese or above. (Lin, Division III)

CNSE B202 Advanced Chinese: Readings in Contemporary Chinese Culture
Through non-fiction writings this course begins with the 1980’s and concludes with contemporary China. Enriches the students’ vocabulary in and understanding of social, cultural and business issues confronting China today. Students will read and write about urgent matters that China is facing; while enhancing aural and spoken skills through presentations and discussions. Prerequisite: Third-year Chinese or the equivalent. (Huang).

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College's foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing JNSE 003 and 004 with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of 2.0 or better in JNSE 004.

JNSE H001, H002 First-year Japanese
An intensive introduction to the four basic skills (reading, writing, speaking and listening), with special emphasis on the development of conversational fluency in sociocultural contexts. Six hours per week of lecture and oral practice. This is a year-long course; both semesters are required for credit. (Koike)

JNSE H003, H004 Second-year Japanese
A continuation of first-year Japanese, with a focus on the further development of oral proficiency, along with reading and writing skills. Five hours per week of lecture and oral practice. Prerequisite: First-year Japanese or equivalent. (staff)
JNSE H101, H102 Third-year Japanese
A continuation of language study with further development of oral proficiency. Emphasis on reading and discussing simple texts. Advanced study of grammar and kanji; introduction to composition writing. Three hours of class, one hour of oral practice. Prerequisite: Second-year Japanese or equivalent. (Koike)

JNSE H201, H202 Fourth-year Japanese
Advanced Japanese language training with a focus on reading. Students in this course will learn many new kanji, will be introduced to classical Japanese grammar, will watch movies and films dealing with contemporary topics, and will continue to deepen their understanding of the Japanese language. Prerequisite: Third-year Japanese or equivalent and consent of the instructor. (Koike)

JNSE H480 Independent Study
Modern urban Japan: advanced readings in Japanese and English.
Students may complete a major or minor in Economics. Within the major, students may complete a concentration in environmental studies.

David R. Ross, Associate Professor
Richard Stahnke, Visiting Assistant Professor

The Economics curriculum consists of courses given at Bryn Mawr and Haverford. It is designed to provide an understanding of economic processes and institutions and the interactions among economic, political and social structures. The curriculum helps students master the methods used by economists to analyze economic issues and it enables them to make reasoned assessments of alternative public policies in a wide range of fields.

Major Requirements

1. Majors must take 10 semester courses including:
   - Introduction to Economics (ECON B105, or H101-H102)
   - Intermediate Microeconomics (ECON B200 or H300)
   - Intermediate Macroeconomics (ECON B202 or H302)
   - Statistical Methods in Economics (ECON 203 or H204)

2. The Statistical Methods and Intermediate Theory requirements are best met during sophomore year and must be completed by the end of junior year or before any study away experience. These three courses should be taken at Bryn Mawr or Haverford. The department does not grant credit for Swarthmore's intermediate microeconomics course, ECON SW011, because it is not calculus-based.

3. At least one semester of calculus (MATH 101 or the equivalent) is a prerequisite for ECON B200, B202, and B304. Two semesters of calculus (MATH 102 or the equivalent) are a prerequisite for ECON H300.

4. All majors must take at least two 300-level topics courses for which one of the intermediate theory courses is a prerequisite. One of the 300-level courses must be a research seminar fulfilling the thesis course. Students are not permitted to enter a research seminar without successfully completing a course introducing the field. For example, ECON 316 or 348 are prerequisites for ECON 396. In exceptional cases, ECON 403 Independent Research may be substituted for this requirement; this requires preapproval of the instructor and department chair.

5. No more than two of the following courses can count toward an economics major or minor at Bryn Mawr: ECON B105, H100, H101, H102, B136, B140, H205, H224, H247 and any other course that does not have one of the introductory courses (ECON B105, H101 or H102) as a prerequisite. If a student has taken ECON 105, she cannot take another introductory course at Haverford or elsewhere for credit. If a student starts the two-semester sequence at Haverford (ECON H100, 101, or 102), she must complete the sequence in order to meet the introductory requirement at Bryn Mawr; she cannot take ECON 105 after completing ECON H100, 101, or 102 or similar courses at other institutions.
Students who earn a grade below 2.7 in ECON B101, H101 or H102 are advised to not major in Economics.

Graduate Study

Students intending to pursue Ph.D. work in economics or graduate degrees in public policy should plan to add ECON 304, Introduction to Econometrics, to the list of courses they take to fulfill major requirements. Students intending to pursue a Ph.D. in economics should also strongly consider a minor or double major in mathematics. Math courses that are particularly appropriate for Ph.D. study in economics include MATH 101 and 102, Calculus with Analytical Geometry; MATH 201, Multivariable Calculus; MATH 203, Linear Algebra; MATH 205, Theory of Probability and Applications; MATH 210, Differential Equations with Applications; and MATH 301 and 302, Introduction to Real Analysis. Students are strongly urged to consult with members in the Department of Mathematics as early as possible, and ideally, no later than the end of the sophomore year.

Honors

An economics major with a minimum GPA of 3.7 in economics, including economics courses taken in the second semester of the senior year, will graduate with honors in economics.

Minor Requirements

Starting with the class of 2011, the minor in economics consists of ECON 105 and 203; either ECON 200 or 202; and three electives, one of which must have ECON 200 or 202 as a prerequisite.

Students in the class of 2010 may meet the minor requirements by taking six (6) semester courses in economics, including ECON B105 (or H101 and H102), 203 and a coherent selection of four or more additional courses approved by the department chair.

A minor plan must be approved before the start of the senior year.

Advanced Placement

The department will waive the ECON 105 prerequisite for students who score a 5 on both the Microeconomics and Macroeconomics AP exams or a 6 or 7 on the Economics Higher Learning Exam of the International Baccalaureate. The waiver does not count as course credit toward the major or minor; majors and minors receiving advanced placement must still take a total of ten and six courses in economics, respectively. Students qualifying for advanced placement should see the department chair to obtain approval for the waiver and for advice on planning their course work in economics.

Study Away

Planning ahead is the key to successfully balancing a semester or year away with the economics major, so consult with the chair or other members of the department early in your career at Bryn Mawr. It is virtually impossible to major and spend junior year away (and challenging to spend a semester away) unless a student has completed ECON B105 during the first year. Students planning a semester or junior year away must complete the statistical methods and intermediate theory courses (200, 202 and 203) before going away. Majors must have at least a 3.5 GPA to qualify for a two-semester junior year away. Majors contemplating a junior year away must consult with the department chair well before the February application deadline. If a student wants a particular course to count toward the economics major or minor, she must obtain approval from the department chair before confirming registration at the host institution.
The department will grant major credit (at the 100 level) for a single business course that is the equivalent of ECON H247 (Financial Accounting) at Haverford.

Students who wish to combine their economics major with environmental studies should consult Michael Rock or David Ross early in their career.

ECON B105 Introduction to Economics
An introduction to micro- and macroeconomics: opportunity cost, supply and demand; consumer choice, the firm and output decisions; market structures; efficiency and market failure; the determination of national income, including government spending, money and interest rates; unemployment, inflation and public policy. (Crone, Rock, Division I)

ECON B136 Working with Economic Data
Applies selected principles of economics to the quantitative analysis of economic data; uses spreadsheets and other tools to collect and judge the reliability of economic data. Topics may include measures of income inequality and poverty; unemployment, national income and other measures of economic well-being; cost-benefit of public and private investments; construction of price indices and other government statistics; evaluating economic forecasts; and the economics of personal finance. (Ross, Division I and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as CITY B136)

ECON B140 Self Interest and Social Behavior
Introduces students to an interdisciplinary, decision and game theoretic model of social behavior where self interest may be sought by rational choice, biological or cultural evolution. Applications include voting, market behavior, public policy formation, mate choice, the development of ethics and structuring environments to enhance cooperation. Designed for students interested in an interdisciplinary approach to social behavior, this course may be used toward the economics major only with the permission of the instructor. Prerequisite: MATH B101 (or equivalent) or consent of the instructor. (staff, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ECON B200 Intermediate Microeconomics
Systematic development of the analytical framework economists use to explain the behavior of consumers and firms. Determination of price; partial and general equilibria; welfare economics. Application to current economic problems. Prerequisites: ECON B105, or H101 and H102, MATH B101 (or equivalent), one 200-level applied microeconomics elective (may be waived by the instructor). (Ross, Division I)

ECON B202 Intermediate Macroeconomics
The goal of this course is to provide a thorough understanding of the behavior of the aggregate economy and the likely effects of government stabilization policies. Models of output, inflation, unemployment and interest rates are developed, along with theories of consumption, investment, economic growth, exchange rates and the trade balance. These models are used to analyze the likely macroeconomic effects of fiscal and monetary policies and to explore current macroeconomic issues and problems. Prerequisites: ECON B105, or H101 and H102, MATH B101 or equivalent, and sophomore standing or permission of the instructor. (Ceglowski, Division I)

ECON B203 Statistical Methods in Economics
An introduction to econometric terminology and reasoning. Topics include descriptive statistics, probability and statistical inference. Particular emphasis is placed on regression analysis and on the use of data to address economic issues. The required computational techniques are developed as part of the course. Prerequisites: ECON B105, or H101 and H102, and a 200-level
ECON B207 Money and Banking
Analysis of the development and present organization of the financial system of the United States, focusing on the monetary and payment systems, financial markets and financial intermediaries. Prerequisites: ECON B105, or H101 and H102. (Stahnke, Division I)

ECON B213 Taming the Modern Corporation
Introduction to the economics of industrial organization and regulation, focusing on policy options for ensuring that corporations enhance economic welfare and the quality of life. Topics include firm behavior in imperfectly competitive markets; theoretical bases of antitrust laws; regulation of product and occupational safety, environmental pollution and truth in advertising. Prerequisite: ECON H101 or B105. (Ross, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B213)

ECON B214 Public Finance
Analysis of government’s role in resource allocation, emphasizing effects of tax and expenditure programs on income distribution and economic efficiency. Topics include sources of inefficiency in markets and possible government responses; federal budget composition; social insurance and antipoverty programs; U.S. tax structure and incidence. Prerequisites: ECON B105 or H101. (Stahnke, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B214)

ECON B221 U.S. Economic History
Study of the evolution of the economy of what is today the United States from the period of European settlement through the Great Depression. The course examines the roles played by technology, the environment, government and the nation’s evolving economic institutions on the course of its economic development. Prerequisites: ECON B105, or H101 and H102. (staff, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B221) Not offered in 2009-10.

ECON B225 Economic Development
Examination of the issues related to and the policies designed to promote economic development in the developing economies of Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East. Focus is on why some developing economies grow faster than others and why some growth paths are more equitable, poverty reducing and environmentally sustainable than others. Includes consideration of the impact of international trade and investment policy, macroeconomic policies (exchange rate, monetary and fiscal policy) and sector policies (industry, agriculture, education, population and environment) on development outcomes in a wide range of political and institutional contexts. Prerequisite: ECON B105, or H101 and H102. (Rock, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B225)

ECON B234 Environmental Economics
Introduction to the use of economic analysis to explain the underlying behavioral causes of environmental and natural resource problems and to evaluate policy responses to them. Topics may include air and water pollution; the economic theory of externalities, public goods and the depletion of resources; cost-benefit analysis; valuing nonmarket benefits and costs; economic justice; and sustainable development. Prerequisites: ECON B105, or H101 and H102. (Ross, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B234)

ECON B236 The Economics of Globalization
An introduction to international economics through theory, policy issues and problems. The course surveys international trade and finance, as well as topics in international economics. It investigates why and what a nation trades, the consequences of such trade, the role of trade policy, the behavior and effects of exchange rates, and the macroeconomic implications of trade and capital flows. Topics may include the economics of free trade areas, world financial crises, outsourcing, immigration and foreign investment. Prerequisites: ECON B105, or H101 and H102. The course is not open to students who have taken ECON 316 or 348. (Ceglowski, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B238)
ECON B242 Economics of Local Government Programs
How can economics help solve and learn from the problems facing rural and suburban communities? The instructor is a local township supervisor who will share the day-to-day challenges of coping with land-use planning, waste disposal, dispute resolution, and the provision of basic services. Prerequisite: ECON B105 or H101. (Ross, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ECON B243 Economic Inequality and Government Policy Choices
This course will examine the U.S. economy and the effects of government policy choices. The class will focus on the potential tradeoffs between economic efficiency and greater economic equality. Some of the issues that will be explored include tax, education, and health care policies. Different perspectives on issues will be examined. Prerequisite: ECON B105, or H101 and H102. (Vartanian, Division I)

ECON B285 Democracy and Development
From 1974 to the late 1990’s the number of democracies grew from 39 to 117. This “third wave,” the collapse of communism and developmental successes in East Asia have led some to argue the triumph of democracy and markets. Since the late 1990’s, democracy’s third wave has stalled, and some fear a reverse wave and democratic breakdowns. We will question this phenomenon through the disciplines of economics, history, political science and sociology drawing from theoretical, case study and classical literature. Prerequisite: one year of study in political science or economics. (Rock, M. Ross, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B385)

ECON B304 Introduction to Econometrics
The econometric theory presented in ECON 203 is further developed and its most important empirical applications are considered. Each student does an empirical research project using multiple regression and other statistical techniques. Prerequisites: ECON 203 or 204; B200 or both B202 and MATH 201. (Stahnke, Division I)

ECON B311 Game Theory and Applications
Teaches students to develop, use and assess the game theoretic models of imperfect competition, political economy, biological and cultural evolution. Considers how environments may be structured to enhance cooperation. Prerequisite: ECON B200 or equivalent. (staff, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ECON B313 Industrial Organization and Public Policy
The study of the interaction of buyers, sellers and government in imperfectly competitive markets. Prerequisites: ECON 203 or 204; B200. (Ross, Division I)

ECON B315 Economics of Information and Uncertainty
A study of economic behavior under conditions of incomplete information and uncertainty. Topics include problems of moral hazard and adverse selection in agency theory and signaling model, sequential games of incomplete information, bilateral bargaining and reputation. Applications include optimal insurance contracts, financial bubbles, credit rationing and the value of information. Prerequisite: ECON B200. (Stahnke, Division I)

ECON B316 International Macroeconomics
Examines the theory of, and current issues in, international macroeconomics and international finance. Considers the role of international factors in macroeconomic performance; policymaking in an open economy; exchange rate systems and exchange rate behavior; international financial integration; and international financial crises. Prerequisite: ECON B202. (Ceglowski, Division I)

ECON B320 Research Seminar on the Financial System
Thesis seminar. Each student does a semester-long research project on a relevant topic of interest. Research topics may include the monetary and payment systems, financial markets and financial intermediaries from a microeconomic perspective. Group meetings will involve presentation and discussion of research in progress. Prerequisites: ECON 207, 200 and permission of instructor. (staff, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ECON B348 International Trade
Study of the major theories offered to explain international trade. Includes analyses of the effects of trade barriers (tariffs, quotas, nontariff barriers), trade liberalization and foreign investment by multinational corporations on growth, poverty, inequality and the environment. Prerequisite: ECON B200. (Stahnke, Division I)

ECON B350 Policy Analysis and Economic Advocacy
The goal of this seminar is mastering the ability to translate the fruits of academic research and applied economic analysis for audiences outside of the academy. Participants will collaborate with faculty colleagues in the production of publishable advocacy papers in the context of two topical policy modules. Prerequisites: ECON B203, B200, B202 and at least one 200-level elective. (Ross, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

ECON B393 Research Seminar in Industrial and Environmental Regulation
Thesis seminar. Each student does a semester-long research project on a relevant topic of interest. Research topics include the interaction of buyers, sellers and government in imperfectly competitive markets. Prerequisite: ECON B200; B203; B213 or B234 or B313. (Ross, Division I)

ECON B395 Research Seminar in Economic Development
Thesis seminar. Each student is expected to engage in a semester-long research project on a relevant topic in economic development. The major work product for the seminar is a senior research paper of refereed journal article length. Students are expected to participate in all group meetings and all one-on-one meetings with the professor. Prerequisites: ECON 225 and either ECON B200 or B202. (Rock, Division I)

ECON B396 Research Seminar: International Economics
Thesis seminar. Each student does a semester-long research project on a relevant topic of interest. Research topics in international trade or trade policy, international finance, international macroeconomics and international economic integration are appropriate. Prerequisites: ECON 316 or 348, or permission of instructor. (Ceglowski, Division I)

ECON B403 Supervised Work
An economics major may elect to do individual research. A semester-long research paper is required; it satisfies the 300-level research paper requirement. Students who register for 403 must submit an application form before the beginning of the semester (the form is available from the department chair). The permission of both the supervising faculty member and department chair is required. (staff)

ECON B425 Praxis III: Independent Study
(staff)
Students may: complete a minor in education leading to a Pennsylvania certification to teach at the secondary level; complete requirements for certification in a fifth-year program; or complete a minor in educational studies.

The field of education is about teaching people how to teach—and more. The Bryn Mawr-Haverford Education Program is built around four mutually-informing pursuits: teacher preparation; the interdisciplinary study of learning as a central human and cultural activity; the investigation of the politics of schooling; and students’ growth as teachers, learners, researchers and change agents.

Courses in the Education Program address students interested in:

- The theory, process and reform of education in the United States
- Social justice, activism and working within and against systems of social reproduction
- Future work as educators in schools, public or mental health, community, or other settings
- Examining and re-claiming their own learning and educational goals
- Integrating field-based and academic learning

Each education course includes a field component through which professors seek continuously to integrate theory and practice, asking students to bridge academic and experiential knowledge in the classroom and beyond it. Field placements in schools and other educational settings range from two hours per week in the introductory course to full-time student teaching in the certification program.

The Bi-College Education Program offers several options. Students may:

- Explore one or more aspects of education in areas of particular interest—such as urban schooling—by enrolling in single courses;
- Pursue a minor in education leading to secondary teacher certification;
- Pursue a minor in educational studies
- Complete the secondary teacher certification program in a fifth-year program after they graduate at a reduced cost;
- Complete elementary certification through the Swarthmore and Eastern Colleges’ elementary education certification program;
- Sub-matriculate (as juniors or seniors) into the University of Pennsylvania, Graduate School of Education’s elementary or secondary education Master’s program; or
- In a five-year program, complete both the A.B./M.A. program in Physics or Mathematics (or possibly other departments that offer the AB/MA option) and the secondary teaching certification program.
The secondary certification sequence and the minor are described below. Students interested in either of these options—or in pursuing elementary education at Swarthmore or sub-matriculating into the University of Pennsylvania’s Graduate School of Education (not described here)—should meet with a program adviser as early as possible for advice on scheduling, preferably by the sophomore year.

Requirements for Certification

The Bryn Mawr/Haverford Education Program is accredited by the state of Pennsylvania to prepare undergraduates for secondary certification (grades 7-12) in the following areas: biology, chemistry, English, mathematics, physics, social studies (as well as citizenship education and social science), and world languages, including Chinese, French, German, Latin, Russian and Spanish. Pursuit of certification in Chinese, German, Latin and Russian is subject to availability of student-teaching placements.

Students becoming certified in a foreign language have K-12 certification. Certain interdisciplinary majors and double majors (e.g., romance languages, comparative literature, East Asian studies) may also be eligible for certification provided they meet the Pennsylvania standards in one of the subject areas listed above.

To qualify for a teaching certificate, students must complete an academic major in the subject area in which they seek certification. (Within their major, students must select courses that help them meet or exceed the state standards for teachers in that subject area.) Students must also complete a minor in education, completing the secondary certification track courses listed below:

1. EDUC 200 (Critical Issues in Education)
2. PSYC 203 (Educational Psychology)
3. EDUC 210 (Special Education)
4. Either EDUC 250 (Literacies and Education) or EDUC 260 (Multicultural Education)
5. EDUC 301 (Curriculum and Pedagogy Seminar)
6. EDUC 302 (Practice Teaching Seminar) and EDUC 303 (Practice Teaching) These courses are taken concurrently and earn triple credit.

Furthermore, for social studies certification, as well as certification in the sciences, students must take courses outside their major to meet state standards.

Students preparing for certification must also take two English and two mathematics courses and must attain a grade point average of 3.0 or higher (state requirements). They must attain a grade of 2.7 or higher in EDUC 200 (Critical Issues in Education) and EDUC 301 (Curriculum and Pedagogy Seminar) in order to practice-teach and must attain a grade of 2.7 or higher in EDUC 302 (Practice Teaching Seminar) to be recommended for certification. They must also be recommended by the director of the Education Program and the chair of their major department.

Critical Issues in Education should be taken by the end of the sophomore year if at all possible. The Curriculum and Pedagogy Seminar is offered during the fall semester for seniors and must precede Practice Teaching.

Practice Teaching is undertaken for 12 weeks in a local school during the spring semester of the senior year. Note: Practice Teaching is a commitment to be at a school for five full school days each week for those 12 weeks.

Requirements for the Minor in Educational Studies

The Bi-College minor in educational studies is an interdisciplinary exploration of the cultural, political, and interactional dimensions of teaching and learning and is designed for students with a broad range of education-related interests, such as plans for graduate study in education, pursuit of elementary or secondary certification after graduation or careers that require educational expertise. Many professions and pursuits—management and training positions, research, administration and policy work, and careers in social work, health and law—involves using an educator's skills and knowledge. Civic engagement, community development and work towards social justice also require knowledge of how people learn. Because students interested in these or other education-related pursuits major in different subject areas and have different aspirations, they are encouraged to design a minor appropriate both to their major area of study and to their anticipated futures.

All minors in educational studies must consult with a program adviser to design a coherent course of study that satisfies the requirements below:

- EDUC 200 Critical Issues in Education
- Two required education courses (EDUC 210, 225, 260, 250, 260, 266—see course descriptions below)
- One education-related elective (see program adviser for options)
- EDUC 310 Defining Educational Practice
- EDUC 311 Fieldwork Seminar

Students must attain a grade of 2.7 or higher in EDUC 310 (Defining Education Practice) in order to take EDUC 311 (Fieldwork Seminar).

The Portfolio

To synthesize their work in the minor or the certification program, students create a portfolio. The portfolio draws on the work students produce in their courses as well as in their other activities (volunteering, summer programs, community work, etc.); it serves as an ongoing forum through which students synthesize their studies. The portfolio is developed over the course of the student’s college career and is completed in the Fieldwork Seminar (minor) or the Practice Teaching Seminar (certification).

Title II Reporting: Title II of the Higher Education Act (HEA) requires that a full teacher preparation report, including the institution’s pass rate as well as the state’s pass rate, be available to the public on request. Copies of the report may be requested from Ann Brown, program administrator and adviser, by e-mail at abrown@brynmawr.edu or phone at (610) 526-5376.

EDUC B200/H200 Critical Issues in Education
Designed to be the first course for students interested in pursuing one of the options offered through the Education Program, this course is also open to students who are not yet certain about their career aspirations but are interested in educational issues. The course examines major issues in education in the United States within the conceptual framework of educational reform. Two hours a week of fieldwork are required. Enrollment is limited to 25 students per section with priority given to students pursuing certification or the minor in educational studies. Both sections are writing intensive. (Cohen, Hall, Division I)

EDUC H200 Perspectives on Special Education
The goal of this course is to introduce students to a range of topics, challenges, dilemmas, and strategies in understanding and educating all learners—those considered typical learners as well as those considered “special” learners. Students will learn more about: how students’ learning profiles affect their learning in school from a functional perspective; how and why students' educational experience is affected by special education law; major issues in the field of special education; and a-typical learners, students with disabilities, and how to meet diverse student needs in a classroom. Two-three hours of fieldwork per week required. (Flaks)
EDUC B219 Writing in Theory/Writing in Practice
(Hemmeter, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B220)

EDUC B220 Changing Pedagogies in Math and Science Education
This course examines perspectives related to teaching and learning math and science, including questioning why (if at all) it is important for people to learn these subjects, what is viewed as successful teaching and learning in these disciplines, and how people learn math and science. Students have a placement (2-3 hours/week) with a local teacher and will be expected to make connections between course concepts and these placement experiences. (Praxis I) (Glasser)

EDUC B225 Empowering Learners: Theory and Practice of Extra-Classroom Teaching
This seminar explores how to engage in tutoring, mentoring and others types of learning support in ways that draw on and enrich students’ strengths and goals. It also investigates the significance of structural, macro-level understanding and advocacy to the goal of becoming an empowering learner: one whose learning creates occasions for others' self-and/or group-empowerment. Field placements include campus roles as T.A., peer mentor, PLI leader; off-campus programs; and Bryn Mawr's Teaching and Learning Initiative. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Priority to students pursuing certification or the minor in educational studies. This is a Praxis I course. (Lesnick)

EDUC H250 Literacies and Education
A critical exploration of what counts as literacy, who decides, and what the implications are for teaching and learning. Students explore both their own and others’ experiences of literacy through reading and writing about power, privilege, access and responsibility around issues of adult, ESL, cultural, multilingual, gendered, academic and critical literacies. Fieldwork required. (Writing Intensive Praxis I) Priority given first to those pursuing certification or a minor in educational studies. (Hall, Division I)

EDUC B251 Arts Teaching in Educational and Community Settings
(Cantor, Division III; cross-listed as ARTA B251)

EDUC H260 Multicultural Education
An investigation of the continually evolving theory and practice of multicultural education in the United States. This course explores and problematizes the history, politics, definitions, focuses, purposes, outcomes, and limitations of multicultural education as enacted in a range of school subjects and settings. Central topics may include: curriculum development, teacher training, language diversity, and public policy concerns. Students will also engage in researching and reinventing what is possible in education for, with, and about a diverse world. Two-three hours of fieldwork in a related setting per week required. (Hall)

EDUC B266 Schools in American Cities
This course examines issues, challenges and possibilities of urban education in contemporary America. We use as critical lenses issues of race, class and culture; urban learners, teachers and school systems; and restructuring and reform. While we look at urban education nationally over several decades, we use Philadelphia as a focal "case" that students investigate through documents and school placements. Enrollment is limited to 25 with priority given to students pursuing certification or the minor in educational studies and to majors in Sociology and Growth and Structure of Cities. This is a Praxis I course. (Cohen, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B266 and SOCL B266)

EDUC B301 Curriculum and Pedagogy Seminar
A consideration of theoretical and applied issues related to effective curriculum design, pedagogical approaches and related issues of teaching and learning. Fieldwork is required. Enrollment is limited to 15 with priority given first to students pursuing certification and second to seniors planning to teach. (Curl, Division I)
EDUC B302 Practice Teaching Seminar
Drawing on participants’ diverse student teaching placements, this seminar invites exploration and analysis of ideas, perspectives and approaches to teaching at the middle and secondary levels. Taken concurrently with Practice Teaching. Open only to students engaged in practice teaching. (Curl, Division I)

EDUC B303 Practice Teaching in Secondary Schools
Supervised teaching in secondary schools (12 weeks). Two units of credit are given for this course. Open only to students preparing for state certification.

EDUC B310 Defining Educational Practice
An interdisciplinary inquiry into the work of constructing professional identities and roles in education-related contexts. Three to five hours a week of fieldwork are required. Enrollment is limited to 20 with priority given to students pursuing the minor in educational studies. (Lesnick, Division I)

EDUC B311 Fieldwork Seminar
Drawing on the diverse contexts in which participants complete their fieldwork, this seminar invites exploration and analysis of ideas, perspectives and different ways of understanding his/her ongoing fieldwork and associated issues of educational practice, reform, and innovation. Five to eight hours of fieldwork are required per week. Enrollment is limited to 20. Open only to students completing the minor in educational studies. (Cohen)

EDUC B377 Politics of Education Reform
(Maranto, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B377) Not offered in 2009-10.

EDUC B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

EDUC B425 Independent Study (Praxis III)
(staff)
Students may complete a major or minor in English. Within the major, students may complete a concentration in creative writing. English majors may also complete concentrations in Africana studies, in environmental studies and in gender and sexuality.

A rich variety of courses allows students to engage with all periods and genres of literature in English, as well as modern forms such as film and contemporary digital media. The department stresses critical thinking, incisive written and oral analysis, and a sense of initiative and responsibility for the enterprise of interpretation.

With their advisers, English majors design a program of study that deepens their understanding of diverse genres, textual traditions, and periods. We encourage students to explore the history of cultural production and reception and also to question the presuppositions of literary study. The major culminates in an independently written essay, developed during a senior research seminar in the fall semester and individually mentored by a faculty member in the spring.

Summary of the Major

- Eight courses, including at least three at the 300 level (exclusive of 398 and 399)
- ENGL B250 Methods of Literary Interpretation (prerequisite: two 200-level English courses)
- ENGL B398 Senior Seminar
- ENGL B399 Senior Essay

As students construct their English major, they should seek to include courses that provide:

- Historical depth—a sense of the construction of traditions.
- Formal breadth—experience with more than one genre and more than one medium: poetry, prose fiction, drama, letters, film, epic, non-fiction, essays, documentary, etc.
- Cultural range—experience with the Englishes of more than one geographical location and more than one cultural tradition, and of the exchanges and transactions between them; a course from another language or literary tradition can be valuable here.
- Different critical and theoretical frameworks—the opportunity to experiment with several models of interpretation and the debates that animate them.
Summary of the Minor

- ENGL B250 Methods of Literary Interpretation
- Five English electives (at least one at the 300 level).

Minor in Film Studies

There is no limit to the number of courses in film studies that may count toward the English major, except for a student majoring in English who is also seeking to declare a minor in film studies. In that case two (and only two) of the courses that comprise the six-course film studies minor may also count towards the 11-course English major. The minimum number of courses required to complete an English major and a minor in film studies will thus be 15 courses.

Concentration in Creative Writing

Students may elect a concentration in creative writing. This option requires that, among the eight course selections besides ENGL 250, 398 and 399, three units will be in creative writing; one of the creative writing units may be at the 300 level and may count as one of the three required 300-level courses for the major. Students enrolling in this concentration must seek the approval of their major adviser in English and of the director of the Creative Writing Program; they must enroll in the concentration before the end of their sophomore year.

Other Concentrations

The Department of English contributes courses toward concentrations in Africana Studies, in Environmental Studies, and in the Program in Gender and Sexuality.

ENGL B125 Writing Workshop

This course offers students who have already taken College Seminar 001 an opportunity to develop their skills as college writers. Through frequent practice, class discussion and in-class collaborative activity, students will become familiar with all aspects of the writing process and will develop their ability to write for an academic audience. The class will address a number of writing issues: formulating questions; analyzing purpose; generating ideas; structuring and supporting arguments; marshalling evidence; using sources effectively; and developing a clear, flexible academic voice. Students will meet regularly with the course instructor, individually and in small groups, to discuss their work. (staff, Division III)

ENGL B126 Writing Workshop for Non-Native Speakers of English

This course offers non-native speakers of English a chance to develop their skills as college writers. Through frequent practice, class discussion and in-class collaborative activity, students will become familiar with the writing process and will learn to write for an academic audience. Student writers in the class will be guided through the steps of composing and revising college essays: formulating questions; analyzing purpose; generating ideas; structuring and supporting arguments; marshalling evidence; using sources effectively; and developing a clear, flexible academic voice. Writers will receive frequent feedback from peers and the instructor. (Litsinger)

ENGL B201 Chaucer: Canterbury Tales

Access to and skill in reading Middle English will be acquired through close study of the Tales. Exploration of Chaucer’s narrative strategies and of a variety of critical approaches to the work will be the major undertakings of the semester. (Taylor, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B202 Understanding Poetry

This course is for students who wish to develop their skills in reading and writing critically about poetry. The course will provide grounding in the traditional skills of prosody (i.e., reading accentual, syllabic and accentual-syllabic verse) as well as tactics for reading and understanding the breath-based or image-based prosody of free verse. Lyric, narrative, and dramatic poetry will be discussed and differentiated. We will be using close reading and oral performance to highlight the unique fusion of language, rhythm (sound), and image that makes poetry different from prose. (Kirchwey, Division III)

ENGL B204 Literatures of American Expansion

This course will explore the relationship between U.S. narratives that understand national expansion as "manifest destiny" and narratives that understand the same phenomenon as imperial conquest. We will ask why the ingredients of such fictions—dangerous savages, empty landscapes, easy money, and lawless violence—are often combined to make the master narrative of "America," and we will explore how and where that master narrative breaks down. Critical readings will engage discourses of nation, empire, violence, race, and sexuality. Texts will include novels, travel narratives, autobiographies, legal documents, and cultural ephemera. (Schneider, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B205 Introduction to Film

This course is intended to provide students with the tools of critical film analysis. Through readings of images and sounds, sections of films and entire narratives, students will cultivate the habits of critical viewing and establish a foundation for focused work in film studies. The course introduces formal and technical units of cinematic meaning and categories of genre and history that add up to the experiences and meanings we call cinema. Although much of the course material will focus on the Hollywood style of film, examples will be drawn from the history of cinema. Attendance at weekly screenings is mandatory. (Nguyen, Division III; cross-listed as HART B205)

ENGL B209 Literary Kinds: Thinking Through Genre

Beginning with a biological evolutionary model, we examine a range of explanations for how and why new genres evolve. Readings will consist of critical accounts of genre; three hybrid novel forms will serve as imaginative test cases for these concepts. Students will identify, compare, and write an exemplar of a genre that interests them. (Dalke, Division III)

ENGL B210 Renaissance Literature: Performances of Gender

Readings chosen to highlight the construction and performance of gender identity during the period from 1550 to 1650 and the ways in which the gender anxieties of 16th- and 17th-century men and women differ from, yet speak to, our own. Texts will include plays, poems, prose fiction, diaries, and polemical writing of the period. (Hedley, Division III)

ENGL B214 Here and Queer: Placing Sexuality

The power of the marching cry "We’re here. We’re queer. Get used to it." emanates from the ambiguity of the adverb "here." Where is "here?" In the face of exclusion from civic domains, does queerness form its own geography or nationality? This course will ask what it means to imagine a queer nation, and will work towards theorizing relations between modern constructions of sexuality, nationality, and ethnicity. We will pay particular attention to the ways in which assertion of queer presence can cut both ways: both countering discourses of displacement and functioning as vehicles for colonial or racial chauvinism. (Thomas, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B220 Writing in Theory/Writing in Practice

This course is designed for students interested in tutoring college or high-school writers or teaching writing at the secondary-school level. Readings in current composition studies will pair texts that reflect writing theory with those that address practical strategies for working with academic writers. To put pedagogic theory into practice, the course will offer a Praxis dimension. Students will spend a few hours a week working in local public school classrooms or writing centers. In-class collaborative work on writing assignments will allow students to develop writing skills and share their insights into the writing process with others. (Hemmeter, Division III; cross-listed as EDUC B219)
ENGL B223 The Story of Evolution and the Evolution of Stories
In this course we will experiment with two interrelated and reciprocal inquiries—whether the biological concept of evolution is a useful one in understanding the phenomena of literature (in particular, the generation of new stories), and whether literature contributes to a deeper understanding of evolution. We will begin with several science texts that explain and explore evolution and turn to stories that (may) have grown out of one another, asking where they come from, why new ones emerge, and why some disappear. We will consider the parallels between diversity of stories and diversity of living organisms. Lecture three hours a week. (Dalke, Grobstein, Division II or III; cross-listed as BIOL B223) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B225 Shakespeare
A basic introduction to the plays of Shakespeare, this course explores Shakespeare’s dramaturgy, the material text, Bardolatry, adaptation, gender performance, cultural geography, and genre. Readings will include ten plays and poems. Film and video viewings and attendance at stage performances are also required. (Rowe, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B227 American Attractions: Leisure, Technology and National Identity

ENGL B229 Movies and Mass Politics
This course will trace in the history of movie forms a series of debates about the ways that nations can become mass societies, focusing mostly on the ways that Hollywood movies countered the appeals of communism and fascism. (Tratner, Division III; cross-listed as COML B229) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B230 Topics in American Drama
Considers American plays of the 20th century, reading major playwrights of the canon alongside other dramatists who were less often read and produced. Will also study later 20th-century dramatists whose plays both develop and resist the complex foundation established by canonical American playwrights and how American drama reflects and responds to cultural and political shifts. Considers how modern American identity has been constructed through dramatic performance, considering both written and performed versions of these plays. (Hemmeter, Division III; cross-listed as ARTT B230) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B231 Modernism in Anglo-American Poetry: After Us the Savage God
This course will familiarize students with the broad outlines of that movement in all the arts known as Modernism, and in particular, with Modernism as it was evolved in Anglo-American poetry—both from its American sources (Marianne Moore, Wallace Stevens, William Carlos Williams) and from its European sources (T.S. Eliot, Ezra Pound, Gertrude Stein). The course prepares students for ENGL 232, American Poetry Since World War II; together, these courses are intended to provide an overview of American poetry in the 20th century. (Kirchwey, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B232 Voices In and Out of School: American Poetry Since World War II
This course surveys the main developments in American poetry since 1945, both as made manifest in “movements” (whether or not self-consciously identified as such) and in highly original and distinctive poetic voices. The course will consider the work of the Beats, Black Mountain poets, Confessional poets, New York School, political-engagement poets, post-New Criticism poets, Poundians, Surrealists, Whitmanians, Zen and the environment poets, and other individual and unaffiliated voices. (Kirchwey, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B233 Spenser and Milton
The course is equally divided between Spenser’s Faerie Queene and Milton’s Paradise Lost, with additional short readings from each poet’s other work. (Briggs, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
ENGL B234 Postcolonial Literature in English
This course will survey a broad range of novels and poems written while countries were breaking free of British colonial rule. Readings will also include cultural theorists interested in defining literary issues that arise from the postcolonial situation. (Tratner, Division III; cross-listed as COML B234)

ENGL B238 The History of Cinema 1895 to 1945
(staff, Division III; cross-listed as HART B238) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B239 Women and Cinema: Social Agency and Cultural Representation

ENGL B240 Readings in English Literature 1660-1744
The rise of new literary genres and the contemporary efforts to find new definitions of heroism and wit, good taste and good manners, sin and salvation, individual identity and social responsibility, and the pressure exerted by changing social, intellectual and political contexts of literature. Readings from Defoe, Dryden, early feminist writers, Pope, Restoration dramatists and Swift. (Briggs, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B242 Historical Introduction to English Poetry I
This course traces the development of English poetry from 1360 to 1700, emphasizing forms, themes and conventions that have become part of the continuing vocabulary of poetry, and exploring the strengths and limitations of different strategies of interpretation. Featured poets: Chaucer, Donne, Jonson, Milton and Shakespeare. (Briggs, Division III)

ENGL B243 Historical Introduction to English Poetry II
The development of English poetry from 1700 to the present. This course is a continuation of ENGL 242 but can be taken independently. Featured poets: Browning, Seamus Heaney, Christina Rossetti, Derek Walcott and Wordsworth. (Briggs, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B250 Methods of Literary Study
Through course readings, we will explore the power of language in a variety of linguistic, historical, disciplinary, social, and cultural contexts and investigate shifts in meaning as we move from one discursive context to another. Students will be presented with a wide range of texts that explore the power of the written word and provide a foundational basis for the critical and creative analysis of literary studies. Students will also refine their faculties of reading closely, writing incisively and passionately, asking speculative and productive questions, producing their own compelling interpretations, and listening carefully to the textual readings offered by others. (Beard, Hedley, Thomas, Division III)

ENGL B252 Graphic Novels
The primary question driving this course is relatively simple: Are “graphic novels” simply stories with fun pictures? In an effort to reach some possible answers, the course will pair readings of graphic novels with a variety of critical texts, covering a range of interpretive methods. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B253 Romanticism
Through an emphasis on Romanticism’s readers, this course will explore the Romantic movement in English literature, from its roots in Enlightenment thought and the Gothic to contemporary visions of Romanticism. By reading over the shoulders of writers such as Jane Austen, Mary Shelley, and Tom Stoppard, the course will explore fiction, prose, and especially poetry of the period 1745 to 1848. While these years mark revolutions and expansion in almost every cultural sphere in Europe, America, and the Caribbean—politics, the arts, literature, and science—writers looked inward to the thoughts and passions of individuals as they never had before. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
ENGL B254 Subjects and Citizens in American Literature, 1750-1900: Female Subjects
This course traces the changing representation of the citizen in U.S. literatures and cultural ephemera of the 18th and 19th centuries. We will explore the ideal of American civic masculinity as it developed alongside discourses about freedom and public virtue. The course will focus on the challenges to the ideals of citizenship produced by conflicts over slavery, women's suffrage, homosexuality, and Native-white relations. In addition to critical articles, legal and political documents, and archival ephemera, texts may include works by Henry Adams, Margaret Fuller, Thomas Jefferson, Herman Melville, Catharine Maria Sedgwick, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and Harriet Wilson. (Schneider, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B256 Milton and Dissent
John Milton’s epic poem, Paradise Lost, was written during a period of cultural turmoil and innovation. This renaissance poem has helped shape the way later writers understand their profession, especially their obligation to foster dissent as a readerly practice. Exploring this legacy, readings interleave Paradise Lost and Milton’s political writings with responses by later revolutionary writers, from Blake to Philip Pullman. (Rowe, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B257 Gender and Technology
Explores the historical role technology has played in the production of gender; the historical role gender has played in the evolution of various technologies; how the co-construction of gender and technology has been represented in a range of on-line, filmic, fictional, and critical media; and what all of the above suggest for the technological engagement of everyone in today’s world. (Dalke, Blankenship, Division III; cross-listed as CMSC B257) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B259 Victorian Literature and Culture
Examines a broad range of Victorian poetry, prose, and fiction in the context of the cultural practices, social institutions, and critical thought of the time. Of particular interest are the revisions of gender, sexuality, class, nation, race, empire, and public and private life that occurred during this period. (Thomas, Division III)

ENGL B262 Survey in African American Literature: Laughin' to Keep from Cryin'
A study of African American representations of the comedic in literary and cinematic texts, in the mastery of an inherited deconstructive muse from Africa, and in lyrics that journey from African insult poetry to Caribbean calypso to contemporary rap. We will examine multiple theories about the shape and use of comedy, and decide what amendments and emendments to make to these based on the central texts of our analysis. (Beard, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B263 Toni Morrison and the Art of Narrative Conjure
All of Morrison’s primary imaginative texts, in publication order, as well as essays by Morrison, with a series of critical lenses that explore several vantages for reading a conjured narration. (Beard, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B264 Black Bards: Poetry in the Diaspora
An interrogation of poetical utterance in works of the African diaspora, primarily in English, this course addresses a multiplicity of genres, including epic, lyric, sonnet, rap, and mimetic jazz. The development of poetic theories at key moments such as the Harlem Renaissance and the Black Arts Movement will be explored. Prerequisite: Any course in poetry or African/American literature. (Beard)

ENGL B265 Escape and Exile in Caribbean Prose
Exile, immigration, colonial geography, and the elusive concept of home will be themes at the center of this study of Caribbean novels and prose. We will consider representations of national, racial, religious, gender identity and sexuality while reading a mix of contemporary and classic fiction, essays, travelogues and one “biomythography” by Caribbean, Caribbean-American and British-Caribbean authors. (Solomon, Division III)
ENGL B266 Travel and Transgression
Examines ancient and medieval travel literature, exploring movement and cultural exchange, from otherworld odysseys and religious pilgrimages to trade expeditions and explorations across the Atlantic. Mercantile documents, maps, pilgrim's logbooks, and theoretical and anthropological discussions of place, colonization, and identity formation will supplement our literary analysis. Emphasizes how those of the Middle Ages understood encounters with "alien" cultures, symbolic representations of space, and the development of national identities, exploring their influence on contemporary debates surrounding racial, cultural, religious, and national boundaries. (Taylor, Division III; cross-listed as COML B266) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B268 Native Soil: Indian Land and American Literature:1588-1840
Literatures of the violent struggle for land in the English-speaking "New World." How was private property ideologically wrested from Native land? How did the literatures of this conflict—fantasies of geographical, religious and sexual ownership and also of resistance to that conquest—affect the land and ecology itself? (Schneider)

ENGL B269 Vile Bodies in Medieval Literature
The Middle Ages imagined the physical body as the site of moral triumph and failure and as the canvas to expose social ills. The course examines medical tracts, saint's lives, poetry, theological texts, and representations of the Passion. Discussion topics range from plague and mercantilism to the legal and religious depiction of torture. Texts by Boccaccio, Chaucer, Dante, and Kempe will be supplemented with contemporary readings on trauma theory and embodiment. (Taylor, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B270 American Girl: Childhood in U.S. Literatures, 1690-1935
This course will focus on the "American Girl" as a particularly contested model for the nascent American. Through examination of religious tracts, slave and captivity narratives, literatures for children and adult literatures about childhood, we will analyze U. S. investments in girlhood as a site for national self-fashioning. (Schneider, Division III)

ENGL B271 "House of Wits": The Intersecting Wor(l)ds of Alice, Henry and William James
An extended visit with one of America’s most interesting and influential families: the unruly, expansive children of Henry James, Sr. The course will focus on the remarkable writings of the diarist Alice, who became a feminist icon; the great novelist Henry; and the groundbreaking psychologist and philosopher William. (Dalke)

ENGL B273 Masculinity in English Literature: From Chivalry to Civility
This course will examine images and concepts of masculinity as represented in a wide variety of texts in English. Beginning in the early modern period and ending with our own time, the course will focus on texts of the "long" 18th century to contextualize the relationships between masculinity and chivalry, civility, manliness, and femininity. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B275 Food Revolutions: History, Politics, Culture
This course traces an arc from the industrial revolution of the 18th and 19th centuries through to the present day food crisis. We will explore the cultural, political, philosophical, ethical and ecological histories of what and how we eat, and look towards sustainable, biodiverse and local agriculture. (Thomas, Werlen, Division III)

ENGL B276 Contemporary American Fiction: Visions and Versions
This course will focus on (relatively) recently published American novels. We will attend to questions of style, authorship and interpretation against the backdrop of contemporary cultural and political history, and explore how representations of gender, sexuality, race, ethnicity, and class inform and shape these visions/versions of the contemporary. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
ENGL B277 Nabokov in Translation
(Harte, Division III; cross-listed as RUSS B277)

ENGL B279 Introduction to African Literature
Taking into account the oral, written, aural and visual forms of African "texts" over several thousand years, this course will explore literary production, translation and audience/critical reception. Representative works to be studied include oral traditions, the Sundiata Epic, Chinua Achebe's Anthills of the Savannah, Ayi Kwei Armah’s Fragments, Mariama Bâ’s Si Longe une Lettre, Tsitsi Danga-remba’s Nervous Conditions, Bessie Head’s Maru, Sembène Ousmane’s Xala, plays by Wole Soyinka and his Burden of History, The Muse of Forgiveness and Ngugi wa Thiong’o’s A Grain of Wheat. We will address the “transliteration” of Christian and Muslim languages and theologies in these works. (Beard, Division III; cross-listed as COML B279) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B284 Women Poets: Giving Eurydice a Voice
This course covers English and American woman poets of the 19th and 20th centuries whose gender was important for their self-understanding as poets, their choice of subject matter, and the audience they sought to gain for their work. Featured poets include Elizabeth Bishop, Gwendolyn Brooks, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Lucille Clifton, H.D., Emily Dickinson, Marianne Moore, Sylvia Plath, Adrienne Rich, Christina Rossetti, Anne Sexton, and Gertrude Stein. (Hedley, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B286 Asian American Poetry, 1900 to Present
This course will provide a historical overview and a disciplinary framework through which to trace the development of Asian American poetry. We seek to understand that development in relation to larger questions of identity and citizenship, and explore how Asian American poetry intertwines with American literature as a whole. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B288 The Novel
Beginning with George Eliot and Charles Dickens, two authors whose work helped form the basis for the contemporary novel in English, we will move outwards into a wide-ranging and transhistorical expanse of texts that increase the possibilities of novel structure and scope by combining realistic narratives with a strong sense of experimentalism and play. We will address connections between content and form, and consider representations of gender, racial and class identity. This course also offers students the opportunity to investigate the novel as creative writers, and contemplate from this vantage point why authors from Eliot to Everett make the choices that they do. (Solomon, Division III)

ENGL B290 Modernisms
Literary works are generally called “Modernist” because of unusual aesthetic and formal features—because they are plotless, characterless, fragmented, or simply strange. We will seek to understand how such formal features can express cultural conceptions—can embody reactions to racial mixture, to the decay of the bourgeoisie, or to national cults of instinctive masculinity. (Tratner, Division III)

ENGL B293 Critical Feminist Studies: An Introduction
Combines the study of specific literary texts with larger questions about feminist forms of theorizing. A course reader will be supplemented with three fictional texts to be selected by the class. Students will review current scholarship, identify their own stake in the conversation and define a critical question they want to pursue at length. (Dalke, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B294 Art and Exploitation: Gender and Sexuality in 1960s American Cinema
ENGL B296 Introduction to Medieval Drama
Introduces students to the major types of dramatic production in the Middle Ages: mystery plays, morality plays, and miracle plays. Also examines early Protestant political drama known as “interludes” and the translation of medieval plays into contemporary films and novels. Explores the construction of local communities around professional acting and production guilds, different strategies of performance, and the relationship between the medieval dramatic stage and other kinds of “stages.” (Taylor, Division III; cross-listed as ARTT B296) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B297 Terror, Pleasure, and the Gothic Imagination
Introduces students to the 18th-century origins of Gothic literature and its development across genres, media and time. Exploring the formal contours and cultural contexts of the enduring imaginative mode in literature, film, art, and architecture, the course will also investigate the Gothic’s connection to the radical and conservative cultural agendas. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B299 History of Narrative Cinema
(King, Division III; cross-listed as HART B299)

ENGL B303 Piers Plowman
A contemporary of Chaucer, William Langland dedicated his life to writing and rewriting a moving poem that questions the relationship between artistic expression, social activism, and spiritual healing. We will read his great text, Piers Plowman, both as our subject and point of departure for thinking about the literary, political, and religious cultures in late 14th- and early 15th-century England. In addition, we will contextualize the poem using selections from penitential manuals, legal documents, treatises on translation, and rebel broadsides, as well as texts by contemporary authors (including Chaucer, Gower and Lydgate). (Taylor, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B306 Film Theory
An introduction to major developments in film theory and criticism. Topics covered include: the specificity of film form; cinematic realism; the cinematic “author”; the politics and ideology of cinema; the relation between cinema and language; spectatorship, identification, and subjectivity; archival and historical problems in film studies; the relation between film studies and other disciplines of aesthetic and social criticism. Each week of the syllabus pairs critical writing(s) on a central principle of film analysis with a cinematic example. Class will be divided between discussion of critical texts and attempts to apply them to a primary cinematic text. (King, Division III; cross-listed as COML B306 and HART B306) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B309 Native American Literature
This course focuses on late-20th-century Native literatures that attempt to remember and redress earlier histories of dispersal and genocide. We will ask how various writers with different tribal affiliations engage in discourses of humor, memory, repetition, and cultural performance to refuse, rework, or lampoon inherited constructions of the “Indian” and “Indian” history and culture. We will read fiction, film, and contemporary critical approaches to Native literatures alongside much earlier texts, including oral histories, political speeches, law, and autobiography. Readings may include works by Sherman Alexie, Diane Glancy, Thomas King, N. Scott Momaday, Leslie Marmon Silko, and Gerald Vizenor. (Schneider, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B310 Victorian Media
This course proposes that the Victorian era was an information age—an age in which the recording, transmission, and circulation of language was revolutionized. The railroad, the postal system, the telegraph, the typewriter, and the telephone were all 19th-century inventions. These communication technologies appeared to bring about “the annihilation of time and space” and we will examine how they simultaneously located and dislocated the 19th-century British citizen. We will account for the fears, desires, and politics of the 19th-century “mediated” citizen and analyze the networks of affiliation that became “intermediated”: family, nation, community, erotics, and empire. (Thomas, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
ENGL B311 Renaissance Lyric: Sacred and Profane Love
For roughly half the semester we will focus on the sonnet, a form that was domesticated in England during the sixteenth century. The other half of the course will focus on the “metaphysical” poetry of John Donne, George Herbert, and Andrew Marvell. There will be a strong component of critical and theoretical reading to contextualize the poetry, model ways of reading it, and raise questions about its social, political and religious purposes. (Hedley, Division III)

ENGL B315 Experimental Fictions, 1675 to 1800
This course will examine a deliberately eclectic set of readings, mostly in prose, in order to explore different dimensions—aesthetic, social, psychological, substantive—of 18th-century creativity. Readings will range from Bunyan and Defoe to Fielding and Sterne, from Aphra Behn to William Hogarth to Frances Burney. Prerequisite: sophomore standing and permission of the instructor. (Briggs, Division III)

ENGL B322 Love and Money
This course focuses on literary works that explore the relationship between love and money. We will seek to understand the separate and intertwined histories of these two arenas of human behavior and will read, along with literary texts, essays by influential figures in the history of economics and sexuality. The course will begin with The Merchant of Venice, proceed through Pride and Prejudice to The Great Gatsby, and end with Hollywood movies. (Tratner, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B323 Movies, Fascism, and Communism
Movies and mass politics emerged together, altering entertainment and government in strangely similar ways. Fascism and communism claimed an inherent relation to the masses and hence to movies; Hollywood rejected such claims. We will examine films alluding to fascism or communism, to understand them as commenting on political debates and on the mass experience of movie going. (Tratner, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B324 Topics in Shakespeare: Shakespeare on Film
Films and play texts vary from year to year. The course assumes significant prior experience of Shakespearean drama and/or Renaissance drama. (Rowe, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B329 Screen Melodrama
This course will explore the broad range of sentimental and sensationalist techniques used in the melodramatic mode of representation on screen. Our focus will be on the affective and spectacular strategies of film and television drama, and narratives in which ethical or moral judgement result in redemption, salvation, or punishment. Topics to include: Hollywood’s “woman’s weepies”; Bollywood spectacle; race films; the culture of kitsch; the family romance; rescue fantasies; music and melodrama. Critical approaches to melodrama drawn from classical literary theory, psychoanalytic and classical film theory, and feminist theory. Prerequisite: ENGL B205 or HART B299 and junior or senior standing. (staff, Division III; cross-listed as HART B329) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B333 Lesbian Immortal
Lesbian literature has repeatedly figured itself in alliance with tropes of immortality and eternity. Using recent queer theory on temporality, and 19th- and 20th-century primary texts, we will explore topics such as: fame and notoriety; feminism and mythology; epistemes, erotics and sexual seasonality; the death drive and the uncanny; fin de siecle manias for mummies and seances. (Thomas)

ENGL B334 Topics in Film Studies: Queer Cinema
The course explores how communities and subjects designated as “queer” have been rendered in/visible in the cinema. It also examines how queer subjects have responded to this in/visibility through non-normative viewing practices and alternative film and video production. We will consider queer traditions in documentary, avant-garde, transgender, AIDS, and global cinemas. (King, Division III; cross-listed as HART B334)

ENGL 336 Topics in Film Form: Found Footage Film
The course examines experimental film and video from the 1930s to the present. It will focus on the use of found footage: the reworking of existing imagery (e.g., Hollywood movies, television, historical archives, educational film, nature documentary, home movies, pornography) not created by the filmmaker herself in order to generate new aesthetic frameworks and cultural meanings. The course situates found footage film within the larger art and culture contexts of Dada, Pop Art, appropriation art, music sampling, zines, and digital visual culture. Key issues to be explored include copyright, piracy, recycling, archive, activism, affect, aesthetics, access, interactivity, and fandom. (Nguyen, Division III; cross-listed at HART B336)

ENGL B337 Contemplating Art Cinema: Michael Haneke, Claire Denis, and the Dardenne Brothers

ENGL B341 Cult Genres: Camp, Kitsch, and Trash Cinema

ENGL B344 After Beloved: Black Women Writers in the 21st Century
This course focuses on fiction, poetry and drama by black women (African and Caribbean American) published since 2000. Attendant to the diversity of aesthetic and thematic approaches in this body of literature, we will explore exploding notions of racial identity and allegiance, as well as challenges to the boundaries of genre. Prerequisites: an African or African-American literature course at the 200 level or permission of the instructor. (Solomon, Division III)

ENGL B349 Theories of Authorship in the Cinema

ENGL B354 Virginia Woolf
Virginia Woolf has been interpreted as a feminist, a modernist, a crazy person, a resident of Bloomsbury, a victim of child abuse, a snob, a socialist, and a creation of literary and popular history. We will try out all these approaches and examine the features of our contemporary world that influence the way Woolf, her work, and her era are perceived. We will also attempt to theorize about why we favor certain interpretations over others. (Tratner, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B355 Performance Studies
Introduces students to the field of performance studies, a multidisciplinary species of cultural studies which theorizes human actions as performances that both construct “culture” and resist cultural norms. Explores performance and performativity in daily life as well as in the performing arts. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B356 Endgames: Theater of Samuel Beckett

ENGL B359 Dead Presidents
Framed by the extravagant funerals of Presidents Washington and Lincoln, this course explores the cultural importance of the figure of the President and the Presidential body, and of the 19th-century preoccupations with death and mourning, in the U.S. cultural imaginary from the Revolutionary movement through the Civil War. (Schneider, Division III)

ENGL B360 Women and Law in the Middle Ages
Studies the development of legal issues that affect women, such as marriage contracts, rape legislation, prostitution regulation, and sumptuary law, including the prosecution of witches in the 14th and 15th centuries in official documents and imaginative fictions that deploy such legislation in surprising ways. Asks how texts construct and interrogate discourses of gender, sexuality, criminality, and discipline. Broadly views the overlap between legal and literary modes of analysis. Examines differences between "fact" and "fiction" and explores blurred distinctions. (Taylor, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B361 Transformation of the Sonnet: Petrarch to Marilyn Hacker

ENGL B362 African American Literature: Hypercanonical Codes
Intensive study of six 18th- to 21st-century hypercanonical African American written and visual texts (and critical responses) with specific attention to the tradition's long use of speaking in code and in multiple registers simultaneously. Focus on language as a tool of opacity as well as transparency, translation, transliteration, invention and resistance. Previous reading required. (Beard, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B367 Asian American Film Video and New Media
The course explores the role of pleasure in the production, reception and performance of Asian American identities in film, video and the internet. It will take as its focus the sexual representation of Asian Americans in mainstream texts and work produced by Asian American artists from 1915 to present, and draws on scholarship in queer studies, feminist theory, cultural studies and comparative ethnic studies. In several units of the course, we will study graphic sexual representations, including pornographic images and sex acts some may find objectionable. To maintain an atmosphere of mutual respect and solidarity among the participants in the class, no auditors will be allowed. (Nguyen, Division III; cross-listed as HART B367)

ENGL B369 Women Poets: Gwendolyn Brooks, Adrienne Rich, Sylvia Plath
In this seminar we will be playing three poets off against each other, all of whom came of age during the 1950s. We will plot each poet’s career in relation to the public and personal crises that shaped it, giving particular attention to how each poet constructed “poethood” for herself. (Hedley, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B372 Composing a Self: American Women’s Life-Writing
Beginning with Mary Rowlandson's 1682 captivity narrative and concluding with Maxine Hong Kingston's 1975 memoir The Woman Warrior, this course examines how American women have constructed themselves in print. Gender, ethnicity, spirituality, and sexuality all inform public narratives of textual self-creation. Letters and diaries serve as a counterweight, revealing women's construction of private selves. Together these genres prompt a rich exploration of authority, authorship, history, citizenship, and identity. Course will include students’ own life-writing and a final project based on archival research in the college’s Special Collections. (Bruder, Division III)

ENGL B373 Hip Hop as Literature and Discipline
An historical overview of hip hop music from its origins to the present, connecting literary, political and cultural antecedents and influences and contemporary cultural forms it has shaped through listening and close reading of lyrics, novels and poetry, films and performances. Immersing students in analytical approaches in cultural studies and literary theory, the goal is to synthesize a theoretical apparatus suited to hip hop studies. Prerequisite: at least one course in African-American literature or performance or permission of the instructor. (Solomon, Division III)

ENGL B374 Experimental Poetry: Form and Experience
This course will focus on the questions of poetic experiments and their worth: What is “experimental poetry,” and why would anyone want to write it? The course will focus on the histories of American experimental form in conjunction with the material conditions of class, race, ethnicity, gender, and sexuality. We’ll seek to understand contemporary theorizations of “form” itself, and develop a deeper understanding of the larger field of poetics and poetic theory.

Students will be responsible for in-class presentations, two essays (one of which contains a significant research component), and a number of short, creative assignments. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B377 James Joyce
Joyce’s works lend themselves particularly well to critical disagreements: he has been called the most pessimistic nihilist and the greatest optimist; a misogynist and a radical feminist; a true Catholic and a great Jewish writer; the worst of elitists and a celebrator of the common man; a fascist and a socialist; the most boring writer and the writer providing the most intense, orgasmic pleasures. We will read one novel but that journey will be broken up with forays into Joyce’s earlier works. (Tratner, Division III)

ENGL B378 Eating Culture: Food and Britain 1798 to 1929
This class will explore British culinary culture across the long 19th century. One of our main goals will be to explore the role of matters culinary in the ordering and Othering of the world and its populations. We will pay particular attention to the relationship of food to 19th-century class and labor relations, colonial and imperial discourse, and analyze how food both traces and guides global networks of power, politics and trade. We will work towards theorizing food’s materiality, considering the physiognomy of food, the aesthetics of a menu, and the hermeneutics of taste. (Thomas, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B379 The African Griot(te)
A focused exploration of the multi-genre productions of Southern African writer Bessie Head and the critical responses to such works. Students are asked to help construct a critical-theoretical framework for talking about a writer who defies categorization or reduction. (Beard, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B385 Problems in Satire
An exploration of the methodological and theoretical underpinnings of great satire in works by Blake, Dryden, Pope, Rabelais, Smiley, Swift, Wilde and others. (Briggs, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B387 Allegory in Theory and Practice
Allegory and allegories, from The Play of Everyman to The Crying of Lot 49. A working knowledge of several different theories of allegory is developed; Renaissance allegories include The Faerie Queene and Pilgrim’s Progress, 19th- and 20th-century allegories include The Scarlet Letter and Ralph Ellison’s Invisible Man. (Hedley, Division III; cross-listed as COML B387) Not offered in 2009-10.

ENGL B388 Contemporary African Fiction
Using the independence dates of so many African countries (1960 and beyond), this is an intensive study of half a century of experiments in African fictive narratives. While our texts for analysis are primarily English-language based (including pidgin, flytall, and other Africanized English forms), we will examine a few works in translation. (Beard, Division III; cross-listed as COML B388)

ENGL B398 Senior Seminar
Required preparation for ENGL 399 (Senior Essay). Through weekly seminar meetings and regular writing and research assignments, students will design a senior essay topic or topics of their choice, frame exciting and practical questions about it, and develop a writing plan for its execution. Students will leave the course with a departmentally approved senior essay prospectus, an annotated bibliography on their chosen area of inquiry, and 10 pages of writing towards their senior essay. Students must pass the course to enroll in ENGL 399. (Hemmeter, Schneider)

ENGL B399 Senior Essay
Supervised independent writing project required of all English majors. Students must successfully complete ENGL 398 (Senior Conference) and have their Senior Essay prospectus approved by the department before they enroll in ENGL 399. (staff)

ENGL B403 Supervised Work
Advanced students may pursue independent research projects. Permission of the instructor and major adviser is required. (staff)

ENGL B425 Praxis III
(staff)

Bryn Mawr currently offers the following courses in creative writing:

- ARTW B159 Introduction to Creative Writing
- ARTW B260 Short Fiction I
- ARTW B261 Poetry I
- ARTW B262 Playwriting I
- ARTW B264 News and Feature Writing
- ARTW B265 Creative Nonfiction
- ARTW B269 Writing for Children
- ARTW B360 Writing Short Fiction II
- ARTW B361 Writing Poetry II
- ARTW B364 Longer Fictional Forms
Students may complete an Environmental Studies concentration as an adjunct to any major at Bryn Mawr or Haverford, pending approval of the student’s coursework plan by the home department and the Environmental Studies director.

The Environmental Studies concentration is an interdisciplinary program involving departments and programs in the natural and social sciences and humanities. The concentration allows students to explore the interactions among earth systems, human societies and local and global environments.

General inquiries concerning the concentration should go to the Environmental Studies Program Director Donald Barber, (dbarber@brynmawr.edu). Members of the environmental studies steering committee can answer questions pertaining to the concentration in their departments or in allied programs.

The concentration consists of six courses, four of which are fixed, and two of which are chosen from approved groups. Students should consult the catalog listings of their major department for disciplinary coursework specific to the concentration, if any. Additional program information is available on the Environmental Studies Web site: http://www.brynmawr.edu/es.

All concentrators must complete GEOL/CITY B103 Earth Systems and the Environment, CITY B175 Environment and Society and BIOL B220 Ecology. These three core courses must be completed before the senior year. As seniors, all concentrators reconvene in the Environmental Studies Senior Seminar (ANTH/BIOL/CITY/GEOL B397) to discuss in-depth issues within a broader environmental theme, set by mutual consent at the beginning of the semester. Because the Environmental Studies concentration seeks to provide perspective on policy questions and the human sides of environmental issues, students must choose courses outside the natural sciences. One of these courses should address issues of planning and policy, and one other should address issues of humans in the environment. Available recommended courses are listed below, divided into these two groups. Alternative courses not shown below also may fulfill these requirements, but the Environmental Studies director must approve any such course substitution. Students also are encouraged, but not required, to take additional science courses to augment their curriculum; possible courses are listed below. In addition to checking with the department Environmental Studies contact, each student’s coursework plan for the concentration must be reviewed by the Environmental Studies director. Check the Environmental Studies Web site, for the most current listing of course offerings.

Note: Some classes shown below have prerequisites; some are not offered every year. College divisions and how often each course is offered are shown (subject to change).

Geospatial Analysis (GIS)

For a number of the courses listed above, especially those with a substantial component of independent inquiry, students are encouraged to select environmental topics.

In her senior year, in addition to the Environmental Studies Senior Seminar, each student should show evidence of advanced work in environmental studies. This may consist of a research project, a major thesis, or in some departments it would be a 300-level course in which the student deals extensively with environmental issues. In selected cases, with approval of the major department adviser and the Environmental Studies director, this advanced work may be undertaken as an internship or Praxis course. Additional courses of interest to students of all disciplines include courses at University of Pennsylvania or Swarthmore College. Certain classes from Junior Year Abroad programs may fulfill requirements for the concentration if pre-approved. These include special environmental programs like the University of Kansas Costa Rica programs and the programs sponsored by Swarthmore in Eastern Europe.

Given the flexible requirements of the concentration, it is important that students plan their curriculum as early as possible. Ideally planning should start no later than the first semester of the sophomore year.
FILM STUDIES

Students may complete a minor in Film Studies.

Director
Homay King, Associate Professor, History of Art

Faculty
Hoang Tan Nguyen, Assistant Professor

Steering Committee
Timothy Harte, Russian
Homay King, History of Art
Imke Meyer, German
Katherine Rowe, English (on leave semesters I and II)
Lisa Saltzman, History of Art (on leave semesters I and II)
Michael Tratner, English
Sharon R. Ullman, History (on leave semester I)

Film Studies is an interdisciplinary program of inquiry bringing a range of analytical methods to bear upon films, film audiences, and the social and industrial contexts of film and media production, distribution and exhibition. The courses that comprise the minor in film studies reflect the diversity of approaches in the academic study of cinema. The minor is anchored by core courses in formal analysis, history and theory. Elective courses in particular film styles, directors, national cinemas, genres, areas of theory and criticism, and issues in film and media culture add both breadth and depth to this program of study.

Film studies is a Bryn Mawr College minor. Students must take a majority of courses on the Bryn Mawr campus; however, minors are encouraged to consider courses offered in the Tri-College consortium and at the University of Pennsylvania. Students should work with the director of the Film Studies Program to develop a minor workplan when declaring the minor.

Minor Requirements

In consultation with the program director, students design a program of study that includes a range of film genres, styles, national cinemas, eras and disciplinary and methodological approaches. Students are strongly encouraged to take at least one course addressing topics in global or non-western cinema. The minor consists of a total of six courses and must include the following:

1. One introductory course in the formal analysis of film
2. One course in film history or an area of film history
3. One course in film theory or an area of film theory
4. Three electives.

At least one of the six courses must be at the 300 level. Courses that fall into two or more of the above categories may fulfill the requirement of the student's choosing, but may not fulfill more than one requirement simultaneously. Students should consult with their advisers to determine which courses, if any, may count simultaneously for multiple credentials. Final approval is at the discretion of the program director.
Film Studies courses currently offered at Bryn Mawr include:

ENGL B205 Introduction to Film
ENGL B299 History of Narrative Cinema
ENGL B334/HART B334 Topics in Film Studies: Transitional Objects: Old and New ENGL 336 Found Film: Avant-Garde and Experimental Cinema
ENGL 367 Asian American Film, Video and New Media: The Politics of Pleasure
FREN B326 Etudes avancées: Le Film noir
GERM B245 Approaches to German Literature and Culture: Post-War Austria
GERM 321 Advanced Topics in German Cultural Studies: Picturing Gender
HART B299 History of Narrative Cinema
HART B306 Film Theory
HIST B284 The Past Lives Forever
HIST B357 Topics in British Empire: Screening Empire, Projecting Home
RUSS B258 Soviet and Eastern European Cinema of the '60s
Students may complete a major in Fine Arts at Haverford College.

Faculty

Gerald Cyrus, Visiting Assistant Professor
Hee Sook Kim, Assistant Professor and Chair
Ying Li, professor
Elizabeth Whalley, Visiting Assistant Professor
William E. Williams, Audrey A. and John L. Dusseau Professor in the Humanities and Curator of Photography

The fine arts courses offered by the department are structured to accomplish the following: (1) For students not majoring in fine arts: to develop a visual perception of form and to present knowledge and understanding of it in works of art. (2) For students intending to major in fine arts: beyond the foregoing, to promote thinking in visual terms and to foster the skills needed to give expression to these in a coherent body of art works.

Fine Arts Major Requirements

Fine arts majors are required to concentrate in either painting, drawing, sculpture, photography or printmaking: four 100-level foundation courses in each discipline from each faculty member; two different 200-level courses outside the area of concentration; two 200-level courses and one 300-level course within that area; three art history courses to be taken at Bryn Mawr College or equivalent, and Senior Departmental Studies 499. For majors intending to do graduate work, it is strongly recommended that they take an additional 300-level studio course within their area of concentration and an additional art history course at Bryn Mawr College.

ARTS H101 Arts Foundation-Drawing
A seven-week introductory course for students with little or no experience in drawing. Students will first learn how to see with a painter's eye. Composition, perspective, proportion, light, form, picture plane and other fundamentals will be studied. We will work from live models, still life, landscape, imagination and masterwork. Prerequisite: Overenrollment will be determined by lottery conducted by professor on the first day of class. (staff)

ARTS H102 Arts Foundation-Drawing
Prerequisite: Overenrollment will be determined by lottery conducted by professor on the first day of class. (staff)

ARTS H103 Arts Foundation-Photography
Prerequisite: Overenrollment will be determined by lottery conducted by professor on the first day of class. (Cyrus, Williams)

ARTS H104 Arts Foundation-Sculpture
Prerequisite: Overenrollment will be determined by lottery conducted by professor on the first day of class. (staff)

ARTS H106 Arts Foundation-Drawing
Prerequisite: Overenrollment will be determined by lottery conducted by professor on the first day of class. (staff)
ARTS H107 Arts Foundation-Painting
A seven-week introductory course for students with little or no experience in painting. Students will be first introduced to the handling of basic tools, materials and techniques. We will study the color theory such as interaction of color, value & color, warms & cools, complementary colors, optical mixture, texture, surface quality. We will work from live model, still life, landscape, imagination and masterwork. Prerequisite: Preference to declared majors who need Foundations, and to students who have entered the lottery for the same Foundations course at least once without success. Preference will also be given to students with Foundations-Drawing experience. Overenrollment will be determined by lottery conducted by professor on the first day of class. (Li)

ARTS H108 Arts Foundation-Photography
Prerequisite: Overenrollment will be determined by lottery conducted by professor on the first day of class. Course is a repeat of 103D/108H. (Cyrus)

ARTS H109 Arts Foundation-Sculpture
Prerequisite: Preference to declared majors who need Foundations, and to students who have entered the lottery for the same Foundations course at least once without success. (staff)

ARTS H120 Foundation Printmaking: Silkscreen
A seven-week course covering various techniques and approaches to silkscreen, including painterly monoprint, stencils, direct drawing and photo-silkscreen. Emphasizing the expressive potential of the medium to create a personal visual statement. Prerequisite: Preference to declared majors who need Foundations, and to those who have entered the lottery for the same Foundations course at least once without success. Lottery conducted by professor on the first day of class. (Kim)

ARTS H121 Foundation Printmaking: Relief Printing
A seven-week course covering various techniques and approaches to the art of the woodcut and the linocut, emphasizing the study of design principles and the expressive potential of the medium to create a personal visual statement. Prerequisite: Preference to declared majors who need Foundations, and to students who have entered the lottery for the same Foundations course at least once without success. (Whalley)

ARTS H122 Foundation Printmaking: Lithography
A seven-week course covering various techniques and approaches to Lithography, including stone and plate preparation, drawing materials, editioning, black and white printing. Emphasizing the expressive potential of the medium to create a personal visual statement. Prerequisite: Preference to declared majors who need Foundations, and to students who have entered the lottery for the same Foundations course at least once without success. (Kim) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTS H123 Foundation Printmaking: Etching
A seven-week course covering various techniques and approaches to intaglio printmaking including monotypes, soft and hard ground, line, aquatint, chine collage and viscosity printing. Emphasizing the expressive potential of the medium to create a personal visual statement. Prerequisite: Preference to declared majors who need Foundations, and to students who have entered the lottery for the same Foundations course at least once without success. (Whalley)

ARTS H124 Foundation Printmaking: Monotype
Basic printmaking techniques in Monotype medium. Painterly methods, direct drawing, stencils, brayer techniques for beginners in printmaking will be taught. Color, form, shape, and composition in 2-D format will be explored. Individual and group critiques will be employed. Prerequisite: Preference to declared majors who need Foundations, and to those who have entered the lottery for the same Foundations course at least once without success. Lottery conducted by professor on the first day of class. (Kim)

ARTS H216 History of Photography from 1839 to the Present
An introductory survey course about the history of photography from its beginnings in 1839 to the present. The goal is to understand how photography has altered perceptions about the past, created a new art form, and become a hallmark of modern society. Prerequisite: Sophomore standing. (Williams) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTS H217 The History of African-American Art from 1619 to the Present
A survey course documenting and interpreting the development and history of African-American Art from 1619 to present day. Representative works from the art and rare book collections will supplement course readings. Prerequisite: Any HART Course, 200-level ARTS Studio Course, Anthropology of Art, AFST course. (Williams)

ARTS H218 Chinese Calligraphy As An Art Form
This course combines studio practice and creating art projects with slide lectures, readings, and museum visits. Students will study the art of Chinese Calligraphy, and its connection with Western art. No Chinese language required. (Li)

ARTS H223 Printmaking: Materials and Techniques: Etching
Concepts and techniques of B/W & Color Intaglio. Line etching, aquatint, soft and hard ground, chin-colle techniques will be explored as well as visual concepts. Developing personal statements will be encouraged. Individual and group critiques will be employed. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor by review of portfolio. (Whalley)

ARTS H224 Computer and Printmaking
Computer-generated images and printmaking techniques. Students will create photographic, computer processed, and directly drawn images on lithographic polyester plates and zinc etching plates. Classwork will be divided between the computer lab and the printmaking studio to create images using both image processing software and traditional printmaking methods, including lithography, etching, and silk-screen. Broad experimental approaches to printmaking and computer techniques will be encouraged. Individual and group critiques will be employed. Prerequisite: An intro printmaking course or permission by portfolio review. (Kim)

ARTS H225 Lithography: Material and Techniques
An intermediate course covering B/W and Color Lithography in plates and stones. Combined methods with other printmaking techniques such as Paper lithography and Monotype are explored during the course along with photographic approaches. An edition of images is required along with experimental ones. Development of technical skills in traditional Lithography and personal visual study are necessary with successful creative solutions. A strong body of work following a specific theme is required. Individual discussions and group critiques are held periodically. Additional research on the history of printmaking is requested. Prerequisite: Permission of Instructor by review of portfolio. (Kim) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTS H231 Drawing (2-D): All Media
Students are encouraged to experiment with various drawing media and to explore the relationships between media, techniques and expression. Each student will strive to develop a personal approach to drawing while addressing fundamental issues of pictorial space, structure, scale, and rhythm. Students will work from observation, conceptual ideas and imagination. Course includes drawing projects, individual and group crits, slide lectures, museum and gallery visits. Prerequisite: Fine Arts Foundations or consent. (Li)

ARTS H233 Painting: Materials and Techniques
Students are encouraged to experiment with various painting techniques and materials in order to develop a personal approach to self-expression. We will emphasize form, color, texture, and the relationship among them; influences of various techniques upon the expression of a work; the characteristics and limitations of different media. Students will work from observation, conceptual ideas and imagination. Course includes drawing projects, individual and group crits, slide lectures, museum and gallery visits. Prerequisite: Fine Arts Foundations or consent. (Li)
ARTS H241 Drawing (3-D): All Media
In essence the same problems as in Fine Arts 231A or B. However, some of the drawing media are clay modeling in half-hour sketches; the space and design concepts solve three-dimensional problems. Part of the work is done from life model. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: Fine Arts Foundations or consent. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTS H243 Sculpture: Materials and Techniques
The behavior of objects in space, the concepts and techniques leading up to the form in space, and the characteristics and limitations of the various sculpture media and their influence on the final work; predominant but not exclusive use of clay modeling techniques: fundamental casting procedures. Part of the work is done from life model. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: Fine Arts Foundations or consent. (staff)

ARTS H251 Photography: Materials and Techniques
Students are encouraged to develop an individual approach to photography. Emphasis is placed on the creation of black and white photographic prints which express plastic form, emotions and ideas about the physical world. Work is critiqued weekly to give critical insights into editing of individual student work and the use of the appropriate black and white photographic materials necessary to give coherence to that work. Study of the photography collection, gallery and museum exhibitions, lectures, and a critical analysis of photographic sequences in books and a research project supplement the weekly critiques. In addition students produce a handmade archival box to house their work which is organized into a loose sequence and mounted to archival standards. Prerequisite: ARTS 103 or equivalent. (Cyrus, Williams)

ARTS H253 The Theory and Practice of Conceptual Art
In this course, the specific mid-20th century movement called Conceptual Art will be explored, as will its progenitors and its progeny. Students will study the founding manifestos, the canonical works and their critical appraisals, as well as develop tightly structured studio practica to embody the former research. The course invites artists, writers, activists, and cultural thinkers, those who want to know what it is to make things, spaces, situations, communities, allies, and trouble—without necessarily knowing how to draw, paint, sculpt, photograph, videotape, or film. (Muse)

ARTS H260 Photography: Materials and Techniques
Prerequisite: Fine Arts Foundations or consent. (staff)

ARTS H321 Experimental Studio: Etching
An advanced course covers Color Etching using multiple plates. Viscosity printing, line etching, aquatint, soft-ground, surface roll, Chin-collè, plate preparation, registration, and editioning are covered. Students study techniques and concepts in Intaglio method as well as visual expressions through hands-on experiences. Development of technical skills of Intaglio and personal visual study are necessary and creative and experimental approaches beyond two-dimensional outcomes encouraged. A strong body of work following a specific theme is required. Individual discussions and group critiques are held periodically. Additional research on the history of printmaking is requested. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor by review of portfolio. (Kim)

ARTS H322 Experimental Studio: Printmaking: Lithography
An advanced course explores traditional and experimental lithographic printmaking techniques in multiple plates and stones. Two- and three-dimensional and design and drawing exploration in color also are addressed. During the semester, students use multiple-plate and stone lithography in colors. Registration, color separation, and edition are taught at an advanced level. Combining other mediums can be explored individually. Development of technical skills of the Lithographic process with personal visual study is necessary and creative and experimental approaches are highly encouraged. A strong body of work following a specific theme is required. Individual discussions and group critiques are held periodically. Additional research on the history of printmaking is requested. Prerequisite: One course in printmaking or consent. (Whalley)
ARTS H331 Experimental Studio: Drawing
Students will build on the work done in 200 level courses, to develop further their individual approach to drawing. Students are expected to create projects that demonstrate the unique character of drawing in making their own art. Completed projects will be exhibited at the end of semester. Class will include weekly crits, museum visits, visiting artists' lecture and crits. Each student will present a 15-minute slide talk and discussion of either their own work or the work of artists who influenced them. Prerequisite: ARTS 231A or B, or consent. (Li)

ARTS H333 Experimental Studio: Painting
Students will build on the work done in 200 level courses to develop further their individual approach to painting. Students are expected to create projects that demonstrate the unique character of their chosen media in making their own art. Completed projects will be exhibited at the end of semester. Class will include weekly crits, museum visits, visiting artists' lecture and crits. Each student will present a 15-minute slide talk and discussion of either their own work or the work of artists who influenced them. Prerequisite: ARTS 223A or B, or consent. (Li)

ARTS H341 Experimental Studio: Drawing
Prerequisite: ARTS 241A or B, or consent. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

ARTS H343 Experimental Studio: Sculpture
In this studio course the student is encouraged to experiment with ideas and techniques with the purpose of developing a personal expression. It is expected that the student will already have a sound knowledge of the craft and aesthetics of sculpture and is at a stage where personal expression has become possible. May be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: ARTS 243A or B, or consent of instructor. (staff)

ARTS H351 Experimental Studio: Photography
Students produce an extended sequence of their work in either book or exhibition format using black and white or color photographic materials. The sequence and scale of the photographic prints are determined by the nature of the student's work. Weekly classroom critiques, supplemented by an extensive investigation of classic photographic picture books and related critical texts guide students to the completion of their course work. This two semester course consists of the book project first semester and the exhibition project second semester. At the end of each semester the student may exhibit his/her project. Prerequisite: ARTS 251A and 260B. (Williams)

ARTS H460 Teaching Assistant (Kim)

ARTS H480 Independent Study
This course gives the advanced student the opportunity to experiment with concepts and ideas and to explore in depth his or her talent. Prerequisite: consent of instructor. (staff)

ARTS H499 Senior Departmental Studies
The student reviews the depth and extent of experience gained, and in so doing creates a coherent body of work expressive of the student's insights and skills. At the end of the senior year the student is expected to produce a show of his or her work. Prerequisite: Senior Majors. (staff)
Students may complete a major or minor in French and Francophone Studies. Within the major, students may complete the requirements for secondary education certification. Students may complete an M.A. in the combined A.B./M.A. program.

The Departments of French at Bryn Mawr and Haverford Colleges offer a variety of courses and two options for the major. The purpose of the major in French is to lay the foundation for an understanding and appreciation of French and Francophone culture through its literature and language, the history of its arts, its thought and its institutions. Course offerings are intended to serve both those students with particular interest in French and Francophone literature, literary theory and criticism (Literary option), as well as those with particular interest in French and French-speaking countries from an interdisciplinary perspective (Interdisciplinary Studies in French). A thorough knowledge of French is a common goal for both options, and texts and discussion in French are central to the program.

In the 100-level courses, students are introduced to the study of French and Francophone literatures and cultures, and special attention is given to the speaking and writing of French. Courses at the 200 level treat French literature and civilisation from the beginning to the present day. Two 200-level courses are devoted to advanced language training and one to the study of theory. Advanced (300-level) courses offer detailed study either of individual authors, genres and movements or of particular periods, themes and problems in French and Francophone culture. In both options, students are admitted to advanced courses after satisfactory completion of two semesters of 200-level courses in French.

All students who wish to pursue their study of French must take a departmental placement examination prior to arriving at Bryn Mawr; unless they have IB or Advanced Placement credit, they must also present the SAT II French score or take the Placement exam upon their arrival. Those students who begin French have two options: intensive study of the language in the intensive sequence (001-002 Intensive Elementary; 005 Intensive Intermediate and 102 Introduction à l’analyse littéraire et culturelle II or 005 and 105 Directions de la France contemporaine), or non-intensive study of the language in the non-intensive sequence (001-002 Elementary; 003-004 Intermediate; 101-102 or 101-105). Although it is possible to major in French using either of the two sequences, students who are considering doing so and have been placed at the 001 level are strongly encouraged to take the intensive sequence.
The Department of French and Francophone Studies also cooperates with the Departments of Italian and Spanish in the Romance Languages major.

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College’s foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing FREN 001-002 Intensive and 005 Intensive with a grade of 2.0, or by completing FREN 003 and 004 (non-intensive) with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of 2.0 or better in FREN 004.

Major Requirements

Requirements in the major subject are:

1. French and Francophone Literature: FREN 005-102 or 005-105 or 101-102 or 101-105; the 200-level language course; FREN 213 Qu’est-ce que la théorie; three semesters of 200-level literature courses, two semesters of 300-level literature courses, and the year-long Senior Experience, which consists of Senior Conference in the fall semester and either a Senior Thesis or a third 300-level course culminating in the Senior Essay during the spring semester. In either case, the work of the spring semester is capped by an oral defense.

2. Interdisciplinary Studies in French: FREN 005-102 or 005-105 or 101-102 or 101-105; the 200-level language course; two 200-level courses within the department: e.g., FREN 291 or 299; two 200-level courses to be chosen by the student outside the French departments (at BMC/HC or JYA) which contribute coherently to her independent program of study; FREN 326 Etudes avancées de civilisation plus two 300-level courses outside the departments; thesis of one semester in French or English. Students interested in this option must present the rationale and the projected content of their program for departmental approval during their sophomore year; they should have excellent records in French and the other subjects involved in their proposed program.

3. Both concentrations: all French majors are expected to have acquired fluency in the French language, both written and oral. Unless specifically exempted by the department, they are required to take the 200-level language course. Students may wish to continue from this course to hone their skills further in courses on stylistics and translation offered at Bryn Mawr College or abroad. Students placed at the 200 level by departmental examinations are exempted from the 100-level requirements. Occasionally, students may be admitted to seminars in the graduate school.

Honors and the Senior Experience

For the French and Francophone Literature option: After taking Senior Conference in semester I of the senior year, students have the choice in semester II of writing a thesis (30-40 pp.) under the direction of a faculty member or taking a 300-level course in which they write a Senior Essay (15-20 pp.) The first choice offers self-selected students who already have developed a clearly defined subject in semester I the opportunity to pursue independent research and writing of the thesis with a faculty mentor. The second choice allows students, often double majors with another thesis or pre-medical students, the opportunity to produce a substantial, but shorter, piece of work within the structure of their 300-level course in semester II. Departmental honors are awarded for excellence in the Senior Experience after the oral defense of either the Senior Thesis or the Senior Essay.

For the Interdisciplinary Studies in French option: Students take French 325 or 326 in their senior year and, if they have not already done so, complete the two 300-level courses required outside the department. In semester II they write a thesis in French or English under the direction of a member of the French faculty and a mentor outside the department. Departmental honors are awarded for excellence in the Senior Experience after the oral defense of the Senior Thesis.

Minor Requirements

Requirements for a French minor are FREN 005-102 or 005-105, or 101-102 or 101-105; the 200-level language course; and four 200-level or 300-level courses. At least one course must be at the 300 level.

Teacher Certification

The Department of French and Francophone Studies offers a certification program in secondary teacher education. For more information, see the description of the Education Program.

A.B./M.A. Program

Particularly well-qualified students may undertake work toward the joint A.B./M.A. degree in French. Such a program may be completed in four or five years and is undertaken with the approval of the department, the Special Cases Committee and the Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

Study Abroad

Students majoring in French may, by a joint recommendation of the deans of the Colleges and the Departments of French, be allowed to spend their junior year or a semester thereof in France or Francophone countries under one of the junior-year plans approved by Bryn Mawr.

Students wishing to enroll in a summer program may apply for admission to the Institut d'Etudes Françaises d'Avignon, held under the auspices of Bryn Mawr. The institut is designed for selected undergraduates with a serious interest in French and Francophone literatures and cultures, most particularly for those who anticipate professional careers requiring knowledge of the language and civilization of France and French-speaking countries. The curriculum includes general and advanced courses in French language, literature, social sciences, history, art and economics. The program is open to students of high academic achievement who have completed a course in French at the third-year level or the equivalent.

FREN B001, B002 Elementary French: Intensive and Nonintensive

The speaking and understanding of French are emphasized particularly during the first semester, and written competence is stressed as well in semester II. The work includes regular use of the Language Learning Center and is supplemented by intensive oral practice sessions. The course meets in intensive (nine hours a week) and nonintensive (five hours a week) sections. This is a year-long course. (Cherel, Zeiss, Language Level 1)

FREN B003, B004 Intermediate French

The emphasis on speaking, understanding, and writing French is continued; texts from French literature and cultural media are read; and short papers are written in French. Students use the Language Learning Center regularly and attend supplementary oral practice sessions. The course meets in nonintensive (three hours a week) sections that are supplemented by an extra hour per week with an assistant. This is a year-long course; both semesters are required for credit. (Cherel, Echtman, Higginson, Le Mentheour, Language Level 2)

FREN B005 Intensive Intermediate French

The emphasis on speaking and understanding French is continued; literary and cultural texts are read and increasingly longer papers are written in French. In addition to three class meetings a week, students develop their skills in group sessions with the professors and in oral practice hours with assistants. Students use the Language Learning Center regularly. This course prepares students to take 102 or 105 in semester II. Open only to graduates of Intensive Elementary French or to students placed by the department. Students who are not graduates of Intensive Elementary French must take either 102 or 105 to receive credit. (Armstrong, Zeiss, Language Level 2)

FREN B101 Introduction à l’analyse littéraire et culturelle I
Presentation of essential problems in literary and cultural analysis by close reading of works selected from various periods and genres and by analysis of voice and image in French writing and film. Participation in discussion and practice in written and oral expression are emphasized, as are grammar review and laboratory exercises. (Armstrong, Zeiss, Division III)

FREN B102 Introduction à l’analyse littéraire et culturelle II
Continued development of students’ expertise in literary and cultural analysis by emphasizing close reading as well as oral and written analyses of increasingly complex works chosen from various genres and periods of French and Francophone works in their written and visual modes. Readings include comic theater of the 17th or 18th centuries and build to increasingly complex nouvelles, poetry and novels of the 19th and 20th centuries. Participation in guided discussion and practice in writing increasingly complex essays continue to be emphasized, as is grammar review. Prerequisite: FREN 005 or 101. (Armstrong, Echtman, Division III)

FREN B105 Directions de la France contemporaine
An examination of contemporary society in France and Francophone cultures as portrayed in recent documents and film. Emphasizing the tension in contemporary French-speaking societies between tradition and change, the course focuses on subjects such as family structures and the changing role of women, cultural and linguistic identity, an increasingly multiracial society, the individual and institutions (religious, political, educational), and les loisirs. In addition to the basic text and review of grammar, readings are chosen from newspapers, contemporary literary texts and magazines, complemented by video materials. Participation in guided discussion and practice in writing increasingly complex essays continue to be emphasized. Prerequisite: FREN 005 or 101. (Cherel, Division III)

FREN B201 Le Chevalier, la dame et le prêtre: littérature et publics du Moyen Age
Using literary texts, historical documents and letters as a mirror of the social classes that they address, this interdisciplinary course studies the principal preoccupations of secular and religious women and men in France from the Carolingian period through 1500. Selected works from epic, lai, roman courtois, fabliau, theater, letters, and contemporary biography are read in modern French translation. (Armstrong, Division III)

FREN B204 Le Siècle des lumières
Representative texts of the Enlightenment and the Pre-Romantic movement, with emphasis on the development of liberal thought as illustrated in the Encyclopédie and the works of Montesquieu, Voltaire, Diderot, and Rousseau. (Le Mentheour, Division III)

FREN B205 Le Temps des prophètes: de Chateaubriand à Baudelaire
From Chateaubriand and Romanticism to Baudelaire, a study of selected poems, novels and plays. (Mahuzier, Division III)

FREN B206 Le Temps des virtuoses: Symbolisme, Naturalisme et leur progéniture

FREN B207 Missionnaires et cannibales: Maîtres de l’époque moderne
A study of selected works illustrating the principal literary movements from 1930 to the present. (Mahuzier, Division III)
FREN B213 Qu’est-ce que la théorie?
This course provides exposure to influential 20th-century French theorists while bringing these thinkers to bear on appropriate literary texts. It hones students’ critical skills while expanding their knowledge of French intellectual history. The explicitly critical aspect of the course will also serve students throughout their coursework, regardless of field. This course is required for the literary option of the French major. (Mahuzier, Division III; cross-listed as COML B213) Alternates between Bryn Mawr and Haverford. Offered at Haverford in 2009-10.

FREN B231 De la page à l’écran: Romans français et adaptations cinématographiques
This course proposes to examine different genres of French novels and their cinematographic adaptations. Its purpose is to expose students to different types of narratives, constructed through a wide range of literary and cinematic techniques. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

FREN B248 Histoire des Femmes en France
A study of women and gender in France from the Revolution to the present. The course will pay particular attention to the role of women in the French Revolution (declarations, manifestos, women’s clubs, salons, etc.) and in the post-revolutionary era, as well as to the more contemporary feminist manifestations in France since Simone de Beauvoir’s Deuxième Sexe and the flow of feminist texts produced in the wake of May ’68. (Mahuzier, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

FREN B251 La Mosaïque France
A study that opposes the discourse of exclusion, xenophobia, racism and the existence of a mythical, unique French identity by examining 20th-century French people and culture in their richness and variety, based on factors such as gender, class, region, colonization and decolonization, immigration and ethnic background. Films and texts by Begag, Beauvoir, Cardinal, Carles, Duras, Ernaux, Jakez Helias, Modiano, and Zobel. (Cherel, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B251) Not offered in 2009-10.

FREN B258 L’espace réinventé: Paris: rêve d’urbaniste, songe d’écrivain
The cityscape is a dominant figure in the 19th and 20th century, at a time where the notion of “writing the city” really develops, influencing and even structuring beliefs. Urban theory and cultural criticism will supplement literary analysis as we consider how novelists Mercier, Réité de la Bretonne, Balzac, Hugo, and Zola, and poets Baudelaire and Rimbaud have sought to make visible, through novelistic and lyric voices, the evolution of the perception of the city as architectural, social, and political body since the end of the 18th century. (staff, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B258) Not offered in 2009-10.

FREN B260 Stylistique et traduction
Intensive practice in speaking and writing. Conversation, discussion, advanced training in grammar and stylistics, translation of literary and nonliterary texts, and original composition. (Cherel, Zeiss)

FREN B302 Le printemps de la parole féminine: femmes écrivains des débuts
This study of selected women authors from the French Middle Ages, Renaissance and Classical periods—among them, Marie de France, the trobaritz, Christine de Pisan, Louise Labé, Marguerite de Navarre, and Madame de Lafayette—examines the way in which they appropriate and transform the male writing tradition and define themselves as self-conscious artists within or outside it. Particular attention will be paid to identifying recurring concerns and structures in their works, and to assessing their importance to female writing: among them, the poetics of silence, reproduction as a metaphor for artistic creation, and sociopolitical engagement. (Armstrong, Division III; cross-listed as COML B302) Not offered in 2009-10.
FREN B306 Libertinage et érotisme au XVIIIe siècle
A close study of works representative of the 18th-century French novel, with special attention to the memoir novel (Marivaux and Prévost), the philosophical novel (Diderot and Voltaire), and the epistolary novel. (Le Mentheour, Division III)

FREN B325, B326 Etudes avancées
An in-depth study of a particular topic, event or historical figure in French civilisation. The seminar topic rotates among many subjects: La Révolution française: histoire, littérature et culture; L’Environnement naturel dans la culture française; Mal et valeurs éthiques; Etude socio-culturelle des arts du manger en France du Moyen Age à nos jours. Topics for 2009-10: “Lumières et médecine” (semester I) and “Le film noir” (semester II) (Higginson, Le Mentheour, Division III; cross-listed as COML B325 and COML B326)

FREN B350 Voix médiévales et échos modernes
A study of selected 19th- and 20th-century works inspired by medieval subjects, such as the Grail and Arthurian legends and the Tristan and Yseut stories, and by medieval genres, such as the roman, saints’ lives, or the miracle play. Included are works by Bonnefoy, Cocteau, Flaubert, Genevoix, Giono, Gracq, Hugo, and Yourcenar. (Armstrong, Division III; cross-listed as COML
B350) Not offered in 2009-10.

FREN B398 Senior Conference
A weekly seminar examining two major French and Francophone literary texts and the interpretive problems they raise. A third theoretical text will encourage students to think beyond traditional literary categories to interrogate issues such as cultural memory, political engagement, gendered space, etc. After taking Senior Conference in semester I, students then have the choice in semester II of writing a thesis (30-40 pp.) under the direction of a faculty member or taking a 300-level course in which they develop one of the subjects treated therein into a Senior Essay
(15-20 pp.) Students presenting either a thesis or the Senior Essay will defend it in a final oral examination. (Mahuzier) Alternates between Bryn Mawr and Haverford. Offered at Bryn Mawr in semester I, 2009-10.

FREN B401 Honors
(staff)

FREN B403 Supervised Work

FREN H255 Cinema et colonialisme
FREN H312 Cinema et immigration
FREN H312 Montaigne, faits et fictions
Gender and Sexuality

Students may complete a minor or concentration in Gender and Sexuality. Students may submit an application to major in Gender and Sexuality through the independent major program.

Coordinators

Lázaro Lima, Associate Professor and Coordinator at Bryn Mawr College
Theresa Tensuan, Assistant Professor and Coordinator at Haverford College

Faculty

Gina Velasco, Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Postdoctoral Fellow in Anthropology and Gender and Sexuality Studies

Steering Committee

Dana Becker, Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research
Ann Dalke, English
Elly Truitt, History
Elizabeth McCormack, Physics
Theresa Tensuan, English (Haverford)
Sharon R. Ullman, History (on leave semester I)
Gina Velasco, Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Postdoctoral Fellow in Anthropology and Gender and Sexuality Studies
Amanda Weidman, Anthropology (on leave semesters I and II)

The Program in Gender and Sexuality is an interdisciplinary, Bi-College program that can be integrated with any major or pursued independently. Students graduate from the program with a high level of fluency and rigor in their understanding of the different ways issues of gender and sexuality shape our lives as individuals and as members of larger communities, both local and global.

Students choosing a concentration, minor or independent major in gender and sexuality plan their programs in consultation with the Gender and Sexuality coordinator on their home campus. Members of the Gender and Sexuality steering committee serve as their individual mentors. All students in the program take the core course, “Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Sex and Gender.” Other courses in the program allow them to explore a range of approaches to gender and sexual difference: critical feminist theory; women’s studies; transnational and third-world feminisms; the experiences of women of color; gender and science; the construction of masculinity; gay, lesbian, queer, transgender, and transsexual studies; the history and representation of gender and sexuality in Western and non-Western cultures.

Minor and Concentration Requirements

Six courses distributed as follows are required for the concentration:

1. An introductory course (including equivalent offerings at Swarthmore College or the University of Pennsylvania).
2. The junior seminar: Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Sex and Gender (alternating fall semesters between Bryn Mawr and Haverford).
3. Four additional approved courses from at least two different departments, two of which are normally at the 300 level. Units of Independent Study (480) may be used to fulfill this requirement.
4. Of the six courses, no fewer than two and no more than three will also form part of the student’s major.

Requirements for the minor are identical to those for the concentration, with the stipulation that no courses in gender and sexuality will overlap with courses taken to fulfill requirements in the student’s major.

Neither a senior seminar nor a senior thesis is required for the concentration or minor; however, with the permission of the major department, a student may choose to count toward the concentration a senior thesis with significant content in gender and sexuality. Students wishing to construct an independent major in gender and sexuality should make a proposal to the Committee on Independent Majors.

GNST B290 Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Gender and Sexuality
This course offers a rigorous grounding for students interested in questions of gender and sexuality. Bringing together intellectual resources from multiple disciplines, it also explores what it means to think across and between disciplinary boundaries. Team-taught by Bryn Mawr and Haverford professors from different disciplines, this course is offered yearly on alternate campuses. (Dalke, Lindgren, Division III)

Courses in the Program in Gender and Sexuality change from year to year. Students are advised to check the course guide at the beginning of each semester.

Courses in Gender and Sexuality currently offered at Bryn Mawr:

- ANTH B101 Introduction to Anthropology
- ANTH B102 Introduction to Cultural Anthropology
- ARCH B234 Picturing Women
- ENGL B210 Renaissance Literature: Performances of Gender
- ENGL B270 American Girl: Childhood in U.S. Literature 1690-1935
- ENGL B367/HART B367 Asian American Film, Video and New Media: The Politics of Pleasure
- FREN B201 Le Chevalier, la dame, le pretre
- GERM B245 Approaches to German Literature and Culture: Post-War Austria
- GERM B321 Advanced Topics in German Cultural Studies: Picturing Gender
- GNST B290 Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Gender and Sexuality
- HIST B292 Women in Britain since 1750
- PHIL B252/POLS B253 Feminist Theory
- PSYC B340 Women's Mental Health
- SOCL B217 The Family in Social Context
- SOCL B225 Women in Society
- SPAN B218 Border Crossing Narratives
- SPAN B265 Escritoras espanolas
- SPAN B309 La mujer en la lit Siglo Oro
- SPAN B310 Modernidad y Lit Mexicana

Courses in gender and sexuality currently offered at Haverford:

- ANTH H204 Anthropology of Gender
- ANTH H244 Anthropology of China
- ENGL H206 American Autobiography
- ENGL H278 Contemporary Women Writers
- ENGL H301 Topics in Medieval English Literature
- ENGL H363 Topics in American Literature
- HIST H204 History of Gender and U.S. Women to 1870
- ICPR H305 African Masculinities
- PHIL H106 The Philosophy of Consciousness and the Problem of Embodiment PHIL H332 Topics in 20th-century Continental Philosophy: Jacques Derrida
POLS H123 American Politics: Difference and Discrimination
POLS H229 Latino Politics in the U.S.

RELG H301 The Letters of Paul in Cultural Context
SPAN H334 Gender Dissidence in Hispanic Writing
GENERAL STUDIES

General studies courses focus on areas that are not usually covered in the Bryn Mawr curriculum and provide a supplement to the areas more regularly covered. These courses cut across disciplines and emphasize relationships among them. They are cross-listed and described under the departments that sponsor them.

Many general studies courses are open, without prerequisite, to all students. With the permission of the major department, they may be taken for major credit.

GNST B101 African Civilizations: An Interdisciplinary Introduction to Africana Studies
This required course introduces students to African societies, cultures and political economies with an emphasis on change and response among African people in Africa and outside. (Ngalamulume, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

GNST B103 Introduction to Swahili Language and Culture I
(Mshomba, Division I or III)

GNST B105 Introduction to Swahili Language and Culture II
(Mshomba, Division I or III)

GNST B145 Introduction to Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Peoples and Cultures
A broad, interdisciplinary survey of themes uniting and dividing societies from the Iberian Peninsula through the contemporary New World. The class introduces the methods and interests of all departments in the concentration, posing problems of cultural continuity and change, globalization and struggles within dynamic histories, political economies, and creative expressions. (Gallup-Diaz, McDonogh, Division I or III)

GNST B155 Introduction to Islamic Civilization
This course offers a basic introduction to the Islamic world, from Spain to India, in its political, social, religious, and cultural dimensions. We cover the period from the rise of Islam to early modern times (roughly 600 to 1500). Texts in English translation. (Kim, Division III; cross-listed as COML B155)

GNST B213 Introduction to Mathematical Logic

GNST B224 Gender and Science
We will question the role of women in the scientific enterprise, the contemporary feminist critique of scientific practice, and what both suggest for science education. Is the face of science changing as more women are becoming professionally involved? Does effective participation in world citizenship require the engagement of all people with scientific inquiry? Might expanding such involvement mean altering the way science is done? What role might classes at women’s colleges play in such transformations? (Dalke, McCormack) Not offered in 2009-10.

GNST B261 Palestine and Israeli Society

GNST B277 Topics in Islamic Literature: Travel Narrative
(Kim, Division III; cross-listed as COML B277) Not offered in 2009-10.
GNST B290 Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Gender and Sexuality
This course offers a rigorous grounding for students interested in questions of gender and sexuality. Bringing together intellectual resources from multiple disciplines, it also explores what it means to think across and between disciplinary boundaries. Team-taught by Bryn Mawr and Haverford professors from different disciplines, this course is offered yearly on alternate campuses. (Dalke, Lindgren, Division III)

GNST B342 Middle Eastern Diasporas
(Neuman, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B342 and HEBR B342) Not offered in 2009-10.

GNST B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

GNST B425 Praxis III—Independent Study
(staff)
Students may complete a major or minor in Geology. Within the major, students may complete concentrations in Environmental Studies, geoarchaeology or geochemistry.

Faculty

Donald C. Barber, Associate Professor
Lynne Elkins, Lecturer
Pedro Marenco, Assistant Professor
Christopher Oze, Assistant Professor (on leave semesters I and II)
W. Bruce Saunders, Professor (on leave semesters I and II)
Arlo B. Weil, Associate Professor and Chair

The department seeks to make students more aware of the physical world around them and of its development through time. The subject includes a study of the materials of which the Earth is made; of the physical processes which have formed the Earth, especially near the surface; of the history of the Earth and its organisms; and of the various techniques necessary to investigate Earth processes and history.

Each introductory course is designed to cover a broad group of topics from a different perspective. Students may elect any of the 100-level courses. Fieldwork is an essential part of geologic training and is part of all introductory courses, most other classes and most independent research projects.

Major Requirements

Thirteen courses are required for the major: GEOL 101 and 102 or 103; 202, 203, 204, and 205; MATH 101 and 102, or alternates approved by the adviser; a two-semester sequence of CHEM (103-104) or PHYS (101-102 or 121-122); GEOL 399; and either two advanced geology courses or one advanced geology course and an additional upper-level course in biology, chemistry, mathematics, physics, or computer science.

Additional courses in the allied sciences are strongly recommended and are required by most graduate schools. A student who wishes to follow a career in geology should plan to attend a summer field course, usually following the completion of the 200-level courses.

All geology majors undertake a research project (GEOL 399) and write a thesis in the senior year.

Honors

Honors are awarded to students who have outstanding academic records in geology and allied fields, and whose research is judged by the faculty of the department to be of the highest quality.

Minor Requirements

A minor in geology consists of two of the 100-level geology courses, and any four of the 200- or 300-level courses offered by the department.

Concentration in Environmental Studies

The Environmental Studies concentration allows students to explore interactions of the geosphere, biosphere and human societies. The concentration represents interdisciplinary cooperation among Bryn Mawr and Haverford departments in the natural and social sciences and
The Environmental Studies concentration in Geology consists of GEOL 101 and 103, 202 and two other 200-level geology courses, 302 or 328 (both are recommended), 397, one other 300-level geology course and 399; CITY/SOCL 175; BIOL 220; CHEM 101 or 103, and 104; and two semesters of math, statistics or computational methods. Two additional environmental courses outside of the natural sciences also are required: one addressing issues of planning and policy, and one that addresses issues of humans in the environment. The Environmental Studies Web site: (http://www.brynmawr.edu/es/core.htm) lists approved courses in these categories. Paperwork for the concentration should be filed at the same time as the major work plan. Students also should carefully consider their options with regard to study abroad in the junior year. Early consultation with the current director of Environmental Studies is advised in the planning of courses.

Concentration in Geoarchaeology

The geoarchaeology concentration allows students majoring in anthropology, archaeology or geology to explore the connections among these fields with respect to how our human ancestors interacted with past environments, and how traces of human behavior are preserved in the physical environment. In geology, the geoarchaeology concentration consists of 13 courses: GEOL 101 or 102 or 103, 202, 204, 203 or 205, 270, 328, and 399; CHEM 101 or 103, and 104; two semesters of math, statistics or computational methods; either ARCH 101 or ANTH 101; and one 200- or 300-level elective from among current offerings in Anthropology or Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology. Paperwork for the concentration should be filed at the same time as the major work plan. For course planning advice, consult with Don Barber (Geology), Rick Davis (Anthropology) or Peter Magee (Archaeology).

Concentration in Geochemistry

The geochemistry concentration encourages students majoring either in geology or in chemistry to design a course of study that emphasizes earth chemistry. In geology this concentration includes at least: GEOL 101, 103, 202, 205; 302 or 305; CHEM 101 or 103, 104 and 221 or 222. Additional chemistry courses might include 211 (Organic Chemistry). Other courses that complement this concentration are: calculus, linear algebra, computer programming and computer modeling. Paperwork for the concentration should be filed at the same time as the major work plan. For course planning advice, contact Christopher Oze (Geology) or Sharon Burgmayer (Chemistry).

GEOL B101 How the Earth Works
An introduction to the study of planet Earth—the materials of which it is made, the forces that shape its surface and interior, the relationship of geological processes to people, and the application of geological knowledge to the search for useful materials. Laboratory and fieldwork focus on learning the tools for geological investigations and applying them to the local area and selected areas around the world. Three lectures and one afternoon of laboratory or fieldwork a week. One required one-day field trip on a weekend. (Elkins, Weil, Division II with Lab)

GEOL B102 Earth History
The history of the Earth from its beginning and the evolution of the living forms that have populated it. Three lectures, one afternoon of laboratory a week. A required two-day (Fri.-Sat.) field trip is taken in April. (Elkins, Marenco, Division II with Lab)

GEOL B103 Earth Systems and the Environment
This integrated approach to studying the Earth focuses on interactions among geology, oceanography, and biology. Also discussed are the consequences of population growth, industrial development, and human land use. Two lectures and one afternoon of laboratory or fieldwork per week. A required two-day (Fri.-Sat.) field trip is taken in April. (Barber, Elkins, Division II with Lab; cross-listed as CITY B103)

GEOL B202 Mineralogy and Crystal Chemistry
The crystal chemistry of representative minerals. Descriptive and determinative mineralogy, as well as the relation between the physical properties of minerals and their structures and chemical compositions. The occurrence and petrography of typical mineral associations and rocks is also covered. Lecture three hours, laboratory at least three hours a week. Prerequisite: introductory course in geology or chemistry (both recommended). (Oze, Division II with Lab) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B203 Invertebrate Paleobiology
Biology, evolution, ecology, and morphology of the major marine invertebrate fossil groups. Three lectures and one three-hour laboratory a week. A semester-long research project introducing computer-aided morphometric analysis will be based on material collected on a two-day trip to the Tertiary deposits of the Chesapeake Bay. (Marenco, Division II with Lab)

GEOL B204 Structural Geology
Three lectures and three hours of laboratory a week, plus weekend field trips. Recognition and description of deformed rocks, map reading, and an introduction to the mechanics and patterns of deformation. Prerequisites: GEOL 101 and MATH 101. (Weil, Division II with Lab)

GEOL B205 Sedimentary Materials and Environments
An introduction to sediment transport, depositional processes, and stratigraphic analysis, with emphasis on interpretation of sedimentary sequences and the reconstruction of past environments. Three lectures and one lab a week, plus a weekend field trip. Prerequisite: GEOL 101, 102, 103 or instructor permission. Recommended: GEOL 202 and 203. (Barber, Division II with Lab)

GEOL B206 Energy Resources and Public Policy
An examination of issues concerning the supply of energy and raw materials required by humanity. This includes an investigation of requirements and supply of energy and of essential resources, of the geological framework that determines resource availability, and of the social, economic, and political considerations related to energy production and resource development. Two 90-minute lectures a week. Prerequisite: one year of college science. (Barber, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B209 Natural Hazards
A quantitative approach to understanding the earth processes that impact human societies. We consider the past, current, and future hazards presented by geologic processes, including earthquakes, volcanoes, landslides, floods, and hurricanes. The course includes discussion of the social, economic, and policy contexts within which natural geologic processes become hazards. Lecture three hours a week, with one day-long field trip. Prerequisite: one semester of college science or permission of instructor. (Weil, Division II and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as CITY B210) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B230 The Science of Soils
Physical, chemical, and biological processes within soil systems. Emphasis is on factors governing the physical properties, nutrient availability, and plant growth and production within soils. How to classify soils and to assess nutrient cycling and contaminant fate will be covered. Prerequisite: at least one introductory course in geology, biology or chemistry. (Oze, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B236 Evolution
(Gardiner, Marenco, Division II; cross-listed as ANTH B236 and BIOL B236)
GEOL B250 Computational Methods in the Sciences
(staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as CMSC B250 and BIOL B250) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B255 Problem Solving in the Environmental Sciences
Provides basic quantitative and numerical modeling skills that can be applied to any of the natural sciences, including geology and environmental studies. Students will learn fundamental quantitative concepts while exploring issues such as global warming, sudden catastrophes, and the effects of wind and water on Earth’s surface. Lecture/discussion three hours a week. (staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B260 Biogeography
(staff, Division II with Lab and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as BIOL B260) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B270 Geoarchaeology
(Barber, Magee; cross-listed as ARCH B270 and ANTH B270)

GEOL B302 Low-Temperature Geochemistry
The geochemistry of Earth surface processes. Emphasis is on the chemistry of surface waters, atmosphere-water environmental chemistry, chemical evolution of natural waters, and pollution issues. Fundamental principles are applied to natural systems with particular focus on environmental chemistry. Prerequisites: CHEM 103, 104 and GEOL 202 or two 200-level chemistry courses, or permission of instructor. (Oze) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B303 Advanced Paleobiology/Advanced Evolution Seminar
Principles, theory, and application of various aspects of paleobiology such as evolution. Seminar-based, with a semester-long research project or paper. Three hours of seminar a week and a weekend field trip. Prerequisite: GEOL 203 or permission of instructor. (Saunders, Allen) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B304 Tectonics
Three hours of lecture and a problem session a week. Plate tectonics and continental orogeny are reviewed in light of the geologic record in selected mountain ranges and certain geophysical data. Prerequisite: GEOL 204 or permission of instructor. (Weil) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B305 Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology
The origin, mode of occurrence, and distribution of igneous and metamorphic rocks. The focus is on the experimental and field evidence for interpreting rock associations and the interplay between igneous and metamorphic rock genesis and tectonics. Three lectures and three hours of laboratory or equivalent field work a week. Occasional weekend field trips. Prerequisites: GEOL 202 and CHEM 101 or 103, and 104. (Oze) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B310 Introduction to Geophysics
An overview covering how geophysical observations of the Earth’s magnetic field, gravity field, heat flow, radioactivity, and seismic waves provide a means to study plate tectonics. Also covered are the geophysical techniques used in mineral and energy resources exploration, and in the monitoring of groundwater, earthquakes and volcanoes. Three class hours a week. Prerequisites: GEOL 101 and PHYS 101, 102. (Weil)

GEOL B312 Quaternary Geology
The most recent part of Earth history provides an opportunity to analyze how and why variability in the oceans, atmosphere, and biota influence the climate. This course covers the many types of geological evidence used to reconstruct climate variability during the Quaternary Period, which covers the last two million years of Earth history. Three class hours a week, including hands-on data analysis exercises. Prerequisite: GEOL 103 or 205, or permission of instructor. (Barber) Not offered in 2009-10.

GEOL B314 Marine Geology
An introduction to the structure of ocean basins, and the marine sedimentary record. Includes an overview of physical, biological, and chemical oceanography, and modern coastal processes such as shoreline erosion. Meets twice weekly for a combination of lecture, discussion and hands-on exercises, including one day-long field trip. Prerequisite: GEOL 101, 102 or 103, and 205, or permission of instructor. (Barber)

GEOL B328 Analysis of Geospatial Data Using GIS
An introduction to analysis of geospatial data, theory, and the practice of geospatial reasoning. As part of this introduction students will gain experience in using one or more GIS software packages and be introduced to data gathering in the field by remote sensing. Each student is expected to undertake an independent project that uses the approaches and tools presented. (Reese; cross-listed as ARCH B328, BIOL B328, and CITY B328)

GEOL B350 Advanced Topics in Geology: High-Temperature Geochemistry
A seminar studying the geochemistry and origins of igneous rocks. Includes igneous petrography and examination of the chemistry of igneous materials to approach questions about igneous petrogenesis. How to use major element, trace element, and isotopic chemistry as tools to study igneous systems. Prerequisites: GEOL 202 and advanced standing in geology or consent of the instructor. (Elkins)

GEOL B397 Senior Seminar in Environmental Studies
A seminar course that encourages and facilitates environmental problem solving by interdisciplinary teams of ES concentrators. Coursework may take the form of service-learning (Praxis) projects. Students hone their research, collaboration, and leadership abilities by working on real problems facing our community and the broader world. Students will provide oral and written progress reports and submit written summaries of their findings. Collaborative research projects also are possible. Three hours per week. (Barber; cross-listed as ANTH B397, BIOL B397, and CITY B397)

GEOL B399 Senior Thesis
An independent project in the field, laboratory, or library culminating in a written report and oral presentation. Required for all geology majors in the spring semester of the senior year. (Weil)

GEOL B403 Independent Research
(staff)

GEOL B425 Praxis III
Independent or group projects with a significant emphasis on community outreach and service. Projects usually focus on addressing environmental issues through collaborative work with off-campus practitioners. Prerequisites: advanced standing in the environmental studies concentration or permission of the instructor. (Barber)
Students may complete a major or minor in German and German Studies.

The Bryn Mawr-Haverford Bi-College Department of German draws upon the expertise of the German faculty at both Bryn Mawr and Haverford Colleges to offer a broadly conceived German Studies program, incorporating a variety of courses and major options. The purpose of the major in German and German Studies is to lay the foundation for a critical understanding of German culture in its contemporary global context and its larger political, social, and intellectual history. To this end we encourage a thorough and comparative study of the German language and culture through its linguistic and literary history, systems of thought, institutions, political configurations, and arts and sciences.

The German program aims, by means of various methodological approaches to the study of another language, to foster critical thinking, expository writing skills, understanding of the diversity of culture(s), and the ability to respond creatively to the challenges posed by cultural difference in an increasingly global world. Course offerings are intended to serve both students with particular interests in German literature and literary theory and criticism, and those interested in studying German and German-speaking cultures from the perspective of communication arts, film, history, history of ideas, history of art and architecture, history of religion, institutions, linguistics, mass media, philosophy, politics, and urban anthropology and folklore.

A thorough knowledge of German is a goal for both major concentrations. The objective of our language instruction is to teach students communicative skills that enable them to function effectively in authentic conditions of language use and to speak and write in idiomatic German. A major component of all German courses is the examination of issues that underline the cosmopolitanism as well as the specificity and complexity of contemporary German culture. German majors can and are encouraged to take courses in interdisciplinary areas, such as comparative literature, film, gender and sexuality studies, growth and structure of cities, history, history of art, music, philosophy, and political science, where they read works of criticism in these areas in the original German. Courses relating to any aspect of German culture, history, and politics given in other departments can count toward requirements for the major or minor.

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College's foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing GERM 101 and 102 with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of 2.0 or better in GERM 102.
Major Requirements

The German and German studies major consists of 10 units. All courses at the 200 or 300 level count toward the major requirements, either in a literature concentration or in a German studies concentration. A literature concentration normally follows the sequence 201 and/or 202; 209 or 212, or 214, 215; plus additional courses to complete the 10 units, two of them at the 300 level; and finally one semester of Senior Conference. A German studies major normally includes 223 and/or 224 or 245; one 200- and one 300-level course in German literature; three courses (at least one at the 300 level) in subjects central to aspects of German culture, history, or politics; and one semester of GERM 321 (Advanced Topics in German Cultural Studies). Within each concentration, courses need to be selected so as to achieve a reasonable breadth, but also a degree of disciplinary coherence. Within departmental offerings, GERM 201 and 202 (Advanced Training) strongly emphasize the development of conversational, writing, and interpretive skills. German majors are encouraged, when possible, to take work in at least one foreign language other than German.

Honors

Any student who has completed a senior thesis and whose grade point average in the major at the end of the senior year is 3.8 or higher qualifies for departmental honors. Students who have completed a thesis and whose major grade point average at the end of the senior year is 3.6 or higher, but not 3.8, are eligible to be discussed as candidates for departmental honors. A student in this range of eligibility must be sponsored by at least one faculty member with whom she has done coursework, and at least one other faculty member must read some of the student’s advanced work and agree on the excellence of the work in order for departmental honors to be awarded. If there is a sharp difference of opinion, additional readers will serve as needed.

Minor Requirements

A minor in German and German studies consists of seven units of work. To earn a minor, students are normally required to take GERM 201 or 202, and four additional units covering a reasonable range of study topics, of which at least one unit is at the 300 level. Additional upper-level courses in the broader area of German studies may be counted toward the seven units with the approval of the department.

Study Abroad

Students majoring in German are encouraged to spend some time in German-speaking countries in the course of their undergraduate studies. Various possibilities are available: summer work programs, DAAD (German Academic Exchange) scholarships for summer courses at German universities, and selected junior year abroad programs.

GERM B/H001, B/H002 Elementary German
Meets five hours a week with the individual class instructor, two hours with student drill instructors. Strong emphasis on communicative competence both in spoken and written German in a larger cultural context. (Brust, Kenosian, Meyer, Language Level 1)

GERM B/H101, B/H102 Intermediate German
Thorough review of grammar, exercises in composition and conversation. Enforcement of correct grammatical patterns and idiomatic use of language. Study of selected literary and cultural texts and films from German-speaking countries. Two semesters. (Kenosian, Meyer, Schönherr, Seyhan, Language Level 2)

GERM H201 Advanced Training: Language, Text, Context
Emphasis on the development of conversational, writing, and interpretive skills through an introductory study of German cultural, intellectual, and political life and history, including literature, film, public debate, institutional practices, mass media, pop culture, cross-cultural currents, and folklore. Course content may vary. (Schönherr, Division I or III)

GERM B202 Introduction to German Studies
Interdisciplinary and historical approaches to the study of German language and culture. Selected texts for study are drawn from autobiography, anthropology, history, Märchen, satire, philosophical essays and fables, art and film criticism, discourses of gender, travel writing, cultural productions of minority groups, and scientific and journalistic writings. Emphasis is on a critical understanding of issues such as linguistic imperialism and exclusion, language and power, gender and language, and ideology and language. (Meyer, Division I or III)

GERM B209 Introduction to Literary Analysis: Philosophical Approaches to Criticism
A focus on applications and implications of theoretical and aesthetic models of knowledge for the study of literary works. (Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as COML B209 and PHIL B209)

GERM B212 Readings in German Intellectual History
Study of selected texts of German intellectual history, introducing representative works of thinkers such as Theodor W. Adorno, Hannah Arendt, Walter Benjamin, Sigmund Freud, Jürgen Habermas, Georg W. F. Hegel, Martin Heidegger, Werner Heisenberg, Immanuel Kant, G. E. Lessing, Karl Marx, Friedrich Nietzsche, Friedrich Schiller, and Ludwig Wittgenstein. The course aims to introduce students to an advanced cultural reading range and the languages and terminologies of humanistic disciplines in German-speaking countries, and seeks to develop their critical and interpretive skills. Course content varies. Topic for Spring 2010: Marx, Nietzsche, Freud, and the Rhetoric of Modernity. Previous topics include: The Enlightenment and Its Critics. (Meyer, Schönherr, Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as PHIL B204)

GERM H215 Survey of German Literature
This course introduces selected periods and genres of German-language literature in a European and/or global context. Course content varies. (Brust, Kenosian, Division III)

GERM B/H223 Topics in German Cultural Studies
Course content varies. Topic for Fall 2009: Writing Nations: Africa and Europe. Topic for Spring 2010: History in European and Middle Eastern Literature. Previous topics include: Kafka’s Prague; Decadent Munich 1890-1925. (Brust, Kenosian, Division I or III; cross-listed as CITY B247, COML B223, HART B223, and HIST B247)

GERM H224 Topics in German Visual Culture
Course content varies. Topic for Spring 2010: New German Cinema. (Brust, Division III)

GERM B231 Cultural Profiles in Modern Exile: Ethnographies of Memory: Women’s Narratives on Modern Migrancy, Exile, and Diaspora
This course investigates the anthropological, philosophical, psychological, cultural, and literary aspects of modern exile. It studies exile as experience and metaphor in the context of modernity, and examines the structure of the relationship between imagined/remembered homelands and transnational identities, and the dialectics of language loss and bi- and multi-lingualism. Particular attention is given to the psychocultural dimensions of linguistic exclusion and loss. Readings of works by Julia Alvarez, Anita Desai, Sigmund Freud, Milan Kundera, Friedrich Nietzsche, Salman Rushdie, and others. (Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as ANTH B231 and COML B231)

GERM B245 Interdisciplinary Approaches to German Literature and Culture
Course content varies. Topic for Fall 2009: Nation and Identity in Post-War Austrian Literature and Film Previous topics include: Sexualities and Gender in German Literature and Film. (Meyer, Division III; cross-listed as COML B245)
GERM B262 Film and the German Literary Imagination
Course content varies. Previous topics include: Foreign Affairs: Travel in Post-War German and Austrian Film; Global Masculinities: The Male Body in Contemporary Cinema. (Meyer, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

GERM B299 Cultural Diversity and Its Representations
A focus on representations of “foreignness” and “others” in selected German works since the 18th century, including works of art, social texts, and film, and on the cultural productions of non-German writers and artists living in Germany today. Topic for Spring 2009: Middle Eastern Cultures in Contemporary Germany. (Seyhan, Division I or III; cross-listed as CITY B299 and COML B299) Not offered in 2009-10.

GERM B303 Modern German Prose
This course focuses on selected genres, periods, and/or themes in German-language narratives. It also asks about the ways in which narratives create and shape meanings, identities, and histories that both reflect and deeply affect the cultural contexts from which they emerge. The course also situates selected German prose fiction in a European and/or global context. Course content varies. Topic for Fall 2009: Tall Tales: Modern German Prose Fiction 1795-2000. (Meyer, Division III)

GERM B305 Modern German Drama
Theory and practice of dramatic arts in selected plays by major German, Austrian, and Swiss playwrights from the 18th century to the present. Course content varies. Previous topics include: Dangerous Liaisons: Monogamy and Polygamy in Modern German Drama; Faust: Approaches to Legend in Literature, Drama, and Film; Representations of Family in German Drama. (Seyhan, Meyer, Division III; cross-listed as COML B305) Not offered in 2009-10.

GERM B308 Political Transformation in Eastern and Western Europe: Germany and Its Neighbors

GERM B310 Topics in German Literature
Course content varies. Previous topics include: Decadent Munich: 1890-1925. (Kenosian, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B322) Not offered in 2009-10.

GERM B320 Topics in German Literature and Culture
Course content varies. Previous topics include: Contemporary German Fiction; Romantic Literary Theory and Literary Modernity; Configurations of Femininity in German Literature; and Nietzsche and Modern Cultural Criticism. (Meyer, Schönherr, Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as COML B320, ENGL B320, HART B320, and HEBR B320) Not offered in 2009-10.

GERM B321 Advanced Topics in German Cultural Studies
Course content varies. Topic for Spring 2010: Picturing Gender: Masculinity and Femininity in German Cinema. Previous topics include: Vienna 1900; Berlin in the 1920s; and Kafka’s Prague. (Kenosian, Meyer, Schönherr, Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B319 and COML B321)

GERM H359 Music—Text—Performance
This course explores the rich and diverse representation of music in all its socio-aesthetic complexity from antiquity to the present. The thematic scope will range from mythological, philosophical, and religious interpretations of music through issues of gender, race, and politics in literature and opera, to theories of media, operatic performances, and psychoanalytical implications of voice and sound. (Schönherr, Division III)

GERM B380 Topics in Contemporary Art
(Saltzman, Division III; cross-listed as HART B380 and HEBR B380) Not offered in 2009-10.
GERM B/H399 Senior Seminar
(Kenosian, Meyer, Schönherr, Seyhan)

GERM B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

GERM B421 German for Reading Knowledge
This course will provide graduate and undergraduate students with the skills to read and translate challenging academic texts from German into English. We will quickly cover the essentials of German grammar and focus on vocabulary and constructions that one can encounter in scholarly writing from a variety of disciplines. Does not fulfill the Language Requirement. (Kenosian)
GREEK, LATIN, AND CLASSICAL STUDIES

Students may complete a major in Greek, Latin, Classical Languages, or Classical Culture and Society. Students may complete a minor in Greek, Latin, or Classical Culture and Society. Students may complete an M.A. in Greek or Latin in the combined A.B./M.A. program.

Faculty

Annette M. Baertschi, Assistant Professor
Francisco Barrenechea, Visiting Assistant Professor
Catherine Conybeare, Associate Professor (on leave semesters I and II)
Radcliffe Edmonds, Associate Professor, Major Adviser
Richard Hamilton, Professor (on leave semester II)
Russell T. Scott, Professor and Acting Chair

In collaboration with the Department of Classics at Haverford College, the department offers four major programs of study: Greek, Latin, Classical Languages, and Classical Culture and Society. In addition to the sequence of courses specified for each major, all majors must participate in the Senior Seminar, a full-year course. In the first term, students refine their ability to read, discuss, and critique classical texts through engagement with scholarship from various fields of Classical Studies while in the second term, they conduct independent research, culminating in a substantial thesis paper and a presentation to the department. Senior essays of exceptionally high quality may be awarded departmental honors at commencement.

Students, according to their concentrations, are encouraged to consider a term of study during junior year in programs such as the College Year in Athens or the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome.

Greek

The sequence of courses in the ancient Greek language is designed to acquaint the students with the various aspects of Greek culture through a mastery of the language and a comprehension of Greek history, mythology, religion and the other basic forms of expression through which the culture developed. The works of poets, philosophers and historians are studied both in their historical context and in relation to subsequent Western thought.

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College’s foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing GREK 101 and 104 with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of 2.0 or better in GREK 104.

Major Requirements

Requirements in the major are two courses at the introductory level, two courses at the 100 level, two courses at the 200 level, one course at the 300 level and the Senior Seminar. Also required are three courses to be distributed as follows: one in Greek history, one in Greek archaeology, and one in Greek philosophy.

By the end of the senior year, majors will be required to have completed a sight translation from Greek to English.
Prospective majors in Greek are advised to take Greek in their first year. For students entering with Greek there is the possibility of completing the requirements for both A.B. and M.A. degrees in four years. Those interested in pursuing advanced degrees are advised to have a firm grounding in Latin.

Minor Requirements

Requirements for a minor in Greek are two courses at the introductory level, two courses at the 100 level, two courses at the 200 level.

Courses for which a knowledge of Greek is not required are listed under Classical Culture and Society.

GREK B010, B011 Traditional and New Testament Greek
The first part of this year-long course will focus on introducing standard (Classical) Greek. Once the grammar has been fully introduced, early in the spring semester, the class will begin to develop facility by reading part of the New Testament, selections from Xenophon and, finally, a dialogue of Plato. (Edmonds, Language Level 1)

GREK B101 Herodotus
Selections from Herodotus’ History. (Baertschi, Edmonds, Division III) Offered at Haverford in 2009-10.

GREK B104 Homer
Selections from the Odyssey. A short essay is required. (Barrenechea, Division III)

GREK B201 Plato and Thucydides
The Symposium and the History of the Sicilian Expedition. (Hamilton, Division III)

GREK B202 The Form of Tragedy
(Edmonds, Division III) Offered at Haverford in 2009-10.

GREK B350 Topics in Greek Literature
Open only to advanced undergraduates, this course includes a weekly seminar and a translation session. Three-quarters of the reading will be from primary sources. (staff, Division III) Offered at Haverford in 2009-10.

GREK B398, B399 Senior Seminar
(Baertschi)

GREK B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

Haverford College currently offers the following courses in Greek:

GREK H001 Elementary Greek
GREK H002 Elementary Greek
GREK H101 Introduction to Greek Literature: Herodotus and Greek Lyric
GREK H202 Advanced Greek: Tragedy
GREK H350 Seminar in Greek Literature: Translating the Classics: Theory, History, Practice
GREK H480 Independent Study
Latin

The major in Latin is designed to acquaint the students with Roman literature, history and culture in all its aspects. Works in Latin language, ranging from the beginnings of Rome to the Renaissance, are examined both in their historical context and as influences on post-classical cultures and societies up to the present day.

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College's foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing LATN 003-112 or 101-112 with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of 2.0 or better in LATN 112.

Major Requirements

Requirements for the major are LATN 101, 102, two literature courses at the 200 level, two literature courses at the 300 level, HIST 207 or 208, Senior Seminar, and two courses to be selected from the following: Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology or Greek at the 100 level or above; French, Italian or Spanish at the 200 level or above.

Courses taken at the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome are accepted as part of the major.

By the end of the senior year, majors will be required to have completed a sight translation from Latin to English.

Students who place into 200-level courses in their first year may be eligible to participate in the A.B./M.A. program. Those interested should consult the department as soon as possible.

Minor Requirements

Requirements for the minor are normally six courses, including one at the 300 level. For non-majors, two literature courses at the 200 level must be taken as a prerequisite for admission to a 300-level course.

Courses for which knowledge of Latin is not required are listed under Classical Culture and Society.

LATN B001, B002 Elementary Latin
Basic grammar, composition and Latin readings, including classical prose and poetry. (Baertschi, Barrenechea, Language Level 1)

LATN B003 Intermediate Latin
Intensive grammar review and reading in classical prose and poetry. For students who have had the equivalent of two years of high school Latin or are not adequately prepared to take LATN 101. This course meets three times a week with a required fourth hour to be arranged. (Barrenechea, Language Level 2)

LATN B112 Latin Literature: Livy and Horace
Livy and Horace. Prerequisite: LATN 101 or placement by the department. (Scott, Division III)

LATN B202 Advanced Latin Literature: Latin of the Empire
Readings from major authors of the first and second centuries C.E. (Baertschi, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
LATN B203 Medieval Latin Literature
Selected works of Latin prose and poetry from the late Roman Empire through the 12th century. (Conybeare, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

LATN B205 Latin Style
A study of Latin prose style based on readings and exercises in composition. Offered to students wishing to fulfill the requirements for teacher certification in Latin or to fulfill one of the requirements in the major. (Barrenechea, Division III)

LATN B301 Vergil's Aeneid
(Baertschi, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

LATN B302 Tacitus

LATN B304 Cicero and Caesar

LATN B312 Roman Satire
(Conybeare, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

LATN B350 Topics in Latin Literature
Open only to advanced undergraduates, this course includes a weekly seminar and a translation session. Topic for semester I: Ovid Fasti. Topic for semester II: Horace Odes and Epodes. Three-quarters of the reading will be from primary sources. Prerequisite: a 200-level Latin course. (Scott, Baertschi, Division III)

LATN B398, B399 Senior Seminar
(Baertschi)

LATN B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

Haverford College currently offers the following courses in Latin:

LATN H001 Elementary Latin
LATN H002 Elementary Latin
LATN H101 Introduction to Latin Literature: The Language of Love and Hate in the Roman Republic
LATN H102 Introduction to Latin Literature: Comedy
LATN H170 Stilus: Latin Reading and Stylistics
LATN H202 Advanced Latin Literature: Ovid
LATN H350 Seminar in Latin Literature: Translating the Classics: Theory, History, Practice
LATN H399 Senior Seminar
LATN H480 Independent Study

Classical Languages

The major in classical languages is designed for the student who wishes to divide her time between the two languages and literatures.

Major Requirements

In addition to the Senior Seminar, the requirements for the major are eight courses in Greek and Latin, including at least two at the 200 level in one language and two at the 300 level in the other, and two courses in ancient history and/or classical archaeology. There are two final examinations: a sight translation from Greek to English, and another from Latin to English.

Classical Culture and Society

The major provides a broad yet individually structured background for students whose interest in the ancient classical world is general and who wish to pursue more specialized work in one or more particular areas.

Major Requirements

The requirements for the major, in addition to the Senior Seminar, are nine courses distributed as follows:

- two courses in either Latin or Greek beyond the elementary level
- one course in Greek and/or Roman history
- three courses, at least two of which are at the 200 level or higher, in one of the following concentrations: archaeology and art history, philosophy and religion, literature and the classical tradition, or history and society
- three electives, at least one of which is at the 200 level or higher, and one of which must be among the courses counted toward the history/society concentration (except in the case of students in that concentration)

Minor Requirements

For the minor, six courses drawn from the range of courses counted toward the major are required. Of these, two must be in Greek or Latin beyond the elementary level and at least one must be in classical culture and society at the 200 level.

CSTS B110 The World Through Classical Eyes
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B110) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B115 Classical Art
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B115, CITY B115 and HART B115) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B125 Classical Myths in Art and in the Sky
(Lindenlauf, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B125 and HART B125)

CSTS B160 Daily Life in Ancient Greece and Rome
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B160 and CITY B160) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B191 The Worlds of the Greek Heroes
An introduction to Greek mythology comparing the literary and visual representations of the major gods and heroes in terms of content, context, function, and syntax. (Hamilton, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B193 The Routes of Comedy
A broad survey, ranging from the pre-history of comedy in such phenomena as monkey laughs and ritual abuse to the ancient comedies of Greece and Rome and their modern descendants, from the Marx Brothers and Monty Python to Seinfeld and South Park. (Hamilton, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
CSTS B205 Greek History
A study of Greece down to the end of the Peloponnesian War (404 B.C.E.), with a focus on constitutional changes from monarchy through aristocracy and tyranny to democracy in various parts of the Greek world. Emphasis on learning to interpret ancient sources, including historians (especially Herodotus and Thucydides), inscriptions, and archaeological and numismatic materials. Particular attention is paid to Greek contacts with the Near East; constitutional developments in various Greek-speaking states; Athenian and Spartan foreign policies; and the “unwritten history” of non-elites. (Edmonds, Division III; cross-listed as HIST B205) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B206 Society, Medicine, and Law in Ancient Greece
An introduction to the social context of Greek history in the Classical and Hellenistic periods. Topics include the Greek household, occupations, slavery, literacy and education, sexuality, ancient medical practices, and the working of law in the polis. Ancient sources are emphasized, including orators, technical writers, inscriptions, and papyri. (Edmonds, Division III; cross-listed as HIST B206) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B207 Early Rome and the Roman Republic
The history of Rome from its origins to the end of the Republic with special emphasis on the rise of Rome in Italy, the Hellenistic world, and the evolution of the Roman state. Ancient sources, literary and archaeological, are emphasized. (Scott, Division III; cross-listed as HIST B207) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B208 The Roman Empire
Imperial history from the principate of Augustus to the House of Constantine with focus on the evolution of Roman culture and society as presented in the surviving ancient evidence, both literary and archaeological. (Scott, Division I or III; cross-listed as HIST B208)

CSTS B209 Eros in Ancient Greek Culture
This course explores the ancient Greek’s ideas of love, from the interpersonal loves between people of the same or different genders to the cosmogonic Eros that creates and holds together the entire world. The course examines how the idea of eros is expressed in poetry, philosophy, history, and the romances. (Edmonds, Division III)

CSTS B212 Magic in the Greco-Roman World
Bindings and curses, love charms and healing potions, amulets and talismans—from the simple spells designed to meet the needs of the poor and desperate to the complex theurgies of the philosophers—the people of the Greco-Roman world made use of magic to try to influence the world around them. This course will examine the magicians of the ancient world and the techniques and devices they used. We shall consider ancient tablets and spell books as well as literary descriptions of magic in the light of theories relating to the religious, political, and social contexts in which magic was used. (Edmonds, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B223 The Early Medieval World
(Truitt, Division I or III; cross-listed as HIST B223)

CSTS B255 Show and Spectacle in Ancient Greece and Rome
A survey of the many forms of public entertainment in the ancient world, including theater and dramatic festivals, athletic competitions, games and gladiatorial combats, and processions and sacrifices. Drawing on a wide range of literary and archaeological sources, this course will explore the social, political and religious contexts of ancient spectacle. Special consideration will also be given to modern equivalents of staged entertainment, for instance Japanese Kabuki and Noh theater, televised professional wrestling, and the representation of ancient show and spectacle in contemporary film, as well as to important interpretive approaches such as gaze studies and the theory of the carnivalesque. (Baertschi, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B255, CITY B260, and HIST B285)
CSTS B270 Classical Heroes and Heroines
An overview of ancient concepts of heroism, focusing on the model and evolution of classical heroism and different types available to men, women, and children. Topics include: social, cultural, and political functions of heroism; heroic legacies; epic vs. tragic heroes; dangers heroes and heroines may pose; personal costs of heroism; anti-heroes and heroic failures; historical ‘heroes’ and their literary representation; ancient vs. modern forms of heroism. (Baertschi, Division III; cross-listed as COML B270) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B274 From Myth to Modern Cinema: Greek Tragedy in Contemporary Film
This course explores how contemporary film, a creative medium appealing to the entire demographic spectrum like Greek drama, looks back to the ancient origins. Examining both films that are directly based on Greek plays and films that make use of classical material without being explicitly classical in plot or setting, we will discuss how Greek mythology is rewritten, re-assessed and appropriated for modern audiences and how the classical past continues to be culturally significant. In addition to literary-historical interpretation, particular attention will be paid to feminist theory, film and gender studies, and psychoanalysis. (Baertschi, Division III; cross-listed as COML B274) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B359 Topics in Classical Art and Archaeology
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B359 and HART B358) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B368 Topics in Medieval History
(Truitt, Division III; cross-listed as HIST B368) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B369 Topics in Medieval History
(Truitt, Division III; cross-listed as HIST B369 and ARCH B369) Not offered in 2009-10.

CSTS B375 Interpreting Mythology
The myths of the Greeks have provoked outrage and fascination, interpretation and retelling, censorship and elaboration, beginning with the Greeks themselves. We will see how some of these stories have been read and understood, recounted and revised, in various cultures and eras, from ancient tellings to modern movies. We will also explore some of the interpretive theories by which these tales have been understood, from ancient allegory to modern structural and semiotic theories. (Edmonds, Division III; cross-listed as COML B375)

GROWTH AND STRUCTURE OF CITIES

Students may complete a major or minor in Growth and Structure of Cities. Within the major, students may complete a concentration in Environmental Studies, Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Peoples and Cultures, and Latin American and Iberian studies (Haverford). Students may enter the 3-2 Program in City and Regional Planning, offered in cooperation with the University of Pennsylvania.

The interdisciplinary Growth and Structure of Cities major challenges students to understand the dynamic relationships connecting urban spatial organization and the built environment with politics, economics, cultures and societies worldwide. Core introductory classes present analytic approaches that explore changing forms of the city over time and analyze the variety of ways through which women and men have re-created global urban life through time and across cultures. With these foundations, students pursue their interests through classes in architecture, urban social and economic relations, urban history, studies of planning and the environmental conditions of urban life. Opportunities for internships, volunteering, and study abroad also enrich the major. Advanced seminars further ground the course of study by focusing on specific cities and topics.

Major Requirements

A minimum of 15 courses (11 courses in Cities and four allied courses in other related fields) is required to complete the major. Two introductory courses (185, 190) balance sociocultural and formal approaches to urban form and the built environment, and introduce cross-cultural and historical comparison of urban development. The introductory sequence should be completed with a broader architectural survey course (253, 254, 255) and an intensive writing course (229 or substitute). These courses should be completed as early as possible in the first and second years; at least two of them must be taken by the end of the first semester of the sophomore year.

In addition to these introductory courses, each student selects six elective courses within the Cities Department, including cross-listed courses. At least two must be at the 300 level. In the senior year, a third advanced course is required. Most students join together in a research seminar, 398. Occasionally, however, after consultation with the major advisers, the student may elect another 300-level course or a program for independent research. This is often the case with double majors.

Each student must also identify four courses outside Cities that represent additional expertise to complement her work in the major. These may include courses such as physics and calculus for architects, or special skills in design, language, or regional interests. Any minor, concentration, or second major also fulfills this requirement. Cities courses that are cross-listed with other departments or originate in them can be counted only once in the course selection, although they may be either allied or elective courses.
Both the Cities Department electives and the four or more allied courses must be chosen in close consultation with the major advisers in order to create a strongly coherent sequence and focus. This is especially true for students interested in architecture, who will need to arrange studio time (226, 228) as well as accompanying courses in math, science and architectural history; they should contact the department director or Daniela Voith in their first year. Likewise, students interested in pursuing a concentration in Environmental Studies should consult with Ellen Stroud early in their career, and those interested in pursuing Iberian, Latin American, and Latino/a themes should consult with Gary McDonogh or Juan Arbona. All students will be asked to provide a statement of their interests and goals to enrich the advising process.

Finally, students should also note that many courses in the department are given on an alternate-year basis. Many carry prerequisites in art history, economics, history, sociology, or the natural sciences.

Programs for study abroad or off campus are encouraged, within the limits of the Bryn Mawr and Haverford rules and practices. In general, a one-semester program is preferred. The Cities Department regularly works with off-campus and study-abroad programs that are strong in architectural history, planning, and design, as well as those that allow students to pursue social and cultural interests. Students who would like to spend part or all of their junior year away must consult with the major advisers and appropriate deans early in their sophomore year.

Cities majors have created major plans that have allowed them to coordinate their interests in cities with architecture, planning, ethnography, history, law, environmental studies, mass media, social justice, medicine, public health, the fine arts, and other fields. No matter the focus, though, each Cities major must develop a solid foundation in both the history of architecture and urban form and the analysis of urban culture and experience. Careful methodological choices, clear analytical writing, and critical visual analysis are primary emphases of the major. Strong interaction with faculty and other students are an important and productive part of the Cities Department, which helps us all take advantage of the major’s flexibility in an organized and rigorous way.

Minor Requirements

Students who wish to minor in the Cities Department must take at least two out of the four required courses and four cities electives, including two at the 300 level. Senior Seminar is not mandatory for fulfilling the cities minor.

3-2 Program in City and Regional Planning

Over the past two decades, many Cities majors have entered the 3-2 Program in City and Regional Planning, offered in conjunction with the University of Pennsylvania. Students interested in this program should meet with Carola Hein early in their sophomore year.

CITY B103 Earth System Science and the Environment
(Elkins, Barber, Riihimaki, Division II with Lab; cross-listed as GEOL B103)

CITY B104 Archaeology of Agricultural and Urban Revolutions
(Magee, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B104 and CITY B104)

CITY B115 Classical Art
(Doñohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B115, CSTS B115, and HART B115) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B121 Exploring Society by the Numbers
(Karen, Division I and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as SOCL B121) Not offered in 2009-10.
CITY B136 Working with Economic Data
(Ross, Division I or Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as ECON B136)

CITY B160 Daily Life in Ancient Greece and Rome
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B160 and CSTS B160) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B175 Environment and Society: History, Place, and Problems
Introduces the ideas, themes, and methodologies of the interdisciplinary field of environmental studies, beginning with definitions: what is nature? what is environment? and how do people and their settlements fit into each? Then moves to distinct disciplinary approaches in which scholarship can and does (and does not) inform others. Assignments introduce methodologies of environmental studies, requiring reading landscapes, working with census data and government reports, critically interpreting scientific data, and analyzing work of experts. (Simpson, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B175)

CITY B180 Introduction to Urban Planning
Lecture and technical class that considers broad issues of global planning as well as the skills and strategies necessary to the field. This may also be linked to the study of specific issues of planning such as waterfront development or sustainability. (staff, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B185 Urban Culture and Society
Examines techniques and questions of the social sciences as tools for studying historical and contemporary cities. Topics include political-economic organization, conflict and social differentiation (class, ethnicity and gender), and cultural production and representation. Both qualitative and quantitative methods are explored. Philadelphia features prominently in discussion, reading and exploration. (Arbona, McDonogh, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B185)

CITY B190 The Form of the City: Urban Form from Antiquity to the Present
This course studies the city as a three-dimensional artifact. A variety of factors—geography, economic and population structure, politics, planning, and aesthetics—are considered as determinants of urban form. (Cohen, Hein, Division I or III; cross-listed as ANTH B190 and HART B190)

CITY B203 Ancient Greek Cities and Sanctuaries
(Wright, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B203) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B206 Statistical Methods in Economics
(Stahnke, Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as ECON B203)

CITY B207 Topics in Urban Studies: Writing Architecture
An intensive writing course for mid-level students that we explore how we understand and write about architecture and architectural history. In 2009-10, this course fulfills the writing requirement also met by CITY B229. (Cohen, Division I or III)

CITY B209 Medical Anthropology
(Pashigian, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B210) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B210 Natural Hazards

CITY B212 Medieval Architecture
(Kinney, Division III; cross-listed as HART B212)
CITY B213 Taming the Modern Corporation
(Alger, Ross, Division I; cross-listed as ECON B213) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B214 Public Finance
(Stahnke, Division I; cross-listed as ECON B214)

CITY B217 Research Methods and Theories
This course engages quantitative, qualitative, and spatial techniques in the investigation and analysis of urban issues. While the emphasis is on designing research strategies in the context of public policy, students interested in other areas should also consider this course. This course is designed to help students prepare for their senior thesis. Form and topic will vary. (Hayes-Conroy, Division I or III)

CITY B218 Globalization and the City
This course introduces students to contemporary issues related to the urban built environment in Africa, Asia and Latin America (collectively referred to as the Third World or developing countries) and the implications of recent political and economic changes. (Hayes-Conroy, Division I)

CITY B221 U.S. Economic History
(staff, Division I; cross-listed as ECON B221) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B222 Introduction to Environmental Issues: Policy-Making in Comparative Perspective

CITY B225 Economic Development
(Rock, Division I; cross-listed as ECON B225)

CITY B226 Introduction to Architectural Design
This studio design course introduces the principles of architectural design. Prerequisites: drawing, some history of architecture, and permission of instructor. (Olshin, Voith, Division III)

CITY B227 Topics in Modern Planning: The European Metropolis
Taking European cities as an example, this course examines the distinct characters of both large and small cities. The course will try to pin down the architectural and urban particularities of these cities and to define their foundations in history, politics, economics, culture, urban planning and building laws. It will look particularly at the different histories of national intervention and local initiatives, as these gain new importance in regard to European unification. While this course concentrates on Europe, the analysis is a backdrop for the evaluation of American cities. (Hein Division I; cross-listed as HART B227)

CITY B228 Problems in Architectural Design: Advanced Architecture and Urban Design
A continuation of CITY 226 at a more advanced level. Prerequisites: CITY 226 or other comparable design work and permission of instructor. (Olshin, Voith, Division III)

CITY B229 Comparative Urbanism: Colonial and Post-Colonial Cities
This intensive writing seminar uses multiple cases around a shared theme in order to explore critical perspectives on research, interpretation and composition of a long paper through multiple stages. In 2010, the class will grapple with global issues of power and discrimination embedded in colonial cities, their forms, rights and cultures and the processes of decolonization and post-colonial reflection that challenge them. Materials will be drawn from French North Africa, Hong Kong and the Pearl River Delta, Ireland and the Mexican-American border. Fulfills writing requirement for the major. (McDonogh, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B229, EAST B229, HART B229, and SOCL B229)
CITY B234 Environmental Economics
(Rock, Division I; cross-listed as ECON B234) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B237 Themes in Modern African History: Urbanization in Africa
(Ngalamulume, Division I; cross-listed as HIST B237) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B238 The Economics of Globalization
(Ceglowski, Division I; cross-listed as ECON B236)

CITY B242 Urban Field Research Methods
(Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B242 and ANTH B242) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B244 Great Empires of the Ancient Near East
(Ataç, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B244, HIST B244, and POLS B244) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B248 Modern Middle East Cities

CITY B249 Asian American Communities
(Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B249 and SOCL B249) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B250 20th-Century U.S. Urban History
This course explores the recent history of U.S. cities as both physical spaces and social entities. How have the definitions, political roles, and social perceptions of U.S. cities changed since 1900? And how have those shifts, along with changes in transportation, communication, construction, and other technologies affected both the people and places that comprise U.S. cities? (Stroud, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B251 La Mosaïque France
(Cherel, Division III; cross-listed as FREN B251) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B253 Survey of Western Architecture
(Cast, Division III; cross-listed as HART B253 and HIST B253) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B254 History of Modern Architecture
A survey of the development of modern architecture since the 18th century, the course concentrates on the period since 1890. (Steffensen, Division III; cross-listed as HART B254)

CITY B255 Survey of American Architecture
An examination of landmarks, patterns, landscapes, designers, and motives in the creation of the American built environment over four centuries. The course will address the master narrative of the traditional survey course, while also probing the relation of this canon to the wider realms of building in the United States. (Steffensen, Cohen, Division III; cross-listed as HART B255) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B258 L’Espace réinventé
(Giraud, Anderson, Division III; cross-listed as FREN B258) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B260 Sport and Spectacle in Ancient Greece and Rome
(Scott, Wright, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B255, CSTS B255, and HIST B255) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B266 Schools in American Cities
(Cohen, Division I; cross-listed as EDUC B266 and SOCL B266) Not offered in 2009-10.
CITY B267 Philadelphia, 1682 to Present
(Shore, Division I or III; cross-listed as HIST B267)

CITY B268 Greek and Roman Architecture
(Webb; cross-listed as ARCH B268 and HART B268) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B270 Japanese Architecture and Planning
The built environment in Japan does not resemble its American or European counterparts, leading visitors to characterize it as visually chaotic even as recent observers praise its lively traditional neighborhoods. This course explores characteristics of Japanese cities, their history and presence, and examines the particular cultural, political, economic, and social contexts of urban form in Japan. (Hein, Division III; cross-listed as EAST B270 and HART B270) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B272 Race and Place in Urban America
(staff, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B272) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B273 Topics in Early and Medieval China
(Lin, Division I; cross-listed as EAST B272 and HART B272) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B278 American Environmental History
Explores major themes of American environmental history, examining changes in the American landscape, development of ideas about nature and the history of environmental activism. Explores definitions of nature, environment, and environmental history while investigating interactions between Americans and their physical worlds. (Stroud, Division I; cross-listed as HIST B278) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B286 Themes in British Empire
(Kale, Division I or III; cross-listed as HIST B286 and POLS B286) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B299 Cultural Diversity and Its Representations
(Seyhan, Division I or III; cross-listed as GERM B299 and COML B299) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B301 Topics in Modern Architecture: Frank Lloyd Wright and Le Corbusier
This course will examine the careers and influences of the American architect Frank Lloyd Wright and his European contemporary Le Corbusier. Not only will we recount their important buildings, but we will also examine their impact on such issues as the use of new materials and technology, city planning, and the development of urban and suburban housing types. As they are also two of the most prolific architect-writers of the modern period, we will also examine their role in shaping the written dialogue of modernism as well as the creation of the persona of the modern architect. (Steffensen)

CITY B303 Topics in American History
(Shore; cross-listed as HIST B303) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B305 Ancient Athens: Monuments and Art
(Lindenlauf; cross-listed as ARCH B305)

CITY B306 Advanced Fieldwork Techniques: Places in Time
A workshop for research into the histories of places, intended to bring students into contact with some of the raw materials of architectural and urban history. A focus will be placed on historical images and texts, and on creating engaging informational experiences that are transparent to their evidentiary basis. (Cohen) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B314 Topics in Social Policy
CITY B319 Advanced Topics in German Cultural Studies: Berlin in the 1920s
(Meyer, Kenosian, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B321, COML B321, and HART B348) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B322 Topics in German Literature
(Kenosian, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B310) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B323 Topics in Renaissance Art
(Cast, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B328 Analysis of Geospatial Data Using GIS
(Reese, Huber; cross-listed as GEOL B328, ARCH B328, and BIOL B328)

CITY B330 Comparative Economic Sociology
(Osirim; cross-listed as SOCL B330) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B331 Palladio and Neo-Palladianism

CITY B335 Mass Media and the City
Examines urban culture as a ground for conflict, domination, and resistance. We will work with both theoretical and applied analysis of production, texts, readings, and social action within a political/economic framework. Topics include imagery, ownership, boundaries, creation of audience and public spheres, and reinterpretation. We will also consider the implications of critical cultural policy for contemporary cities. Materials are drawn from U.S. and global media, from comics to the Internet, with special emphasis on film, news, and television. (McDonogh, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B335) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B338 The New African Diaspora: African and Caribbean Immigrants in the United States
(Osirim, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B338) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B345 Advanced Topics in Environment and Society: Feminism and Ecology
This course is designed to introduce students to both classic and current research in feminist theory that is specifically relevant to study of the natural and built environments. We will encounter the theme of gender across various spaces, scales, and temporal frames. We will spend some time examining the gendered social construction of nature and the ways in which nature and gender continually (re)define each other. Students will come to understand the basics of feminist political ecology as well as current concerns of feminist scholarship in relation to animals, bodies, and health. (Hayes-Conroy, Division I)

CITY B348 Culture and Ethnic Conflict
(Ross; cross-listed as POLS B348)

CITY B355 Topics in the History of London
(Cast, Division I or III; cross-listed as HART B355)

CITY B360 Topics in Urban Culture and Society: Food and the City
Food is the lifeblood of human settlement, the connector of cities and countryside, the embodiment of family and culture. Yet food is also a source of inequality, a site of scarcity and a cause of fear and ill health worldwide. This seminar gives students a basic foundation to understand and interpret urban food systems. The readings cover social, political, cultural and environmental approaches to urban food systems focusing on particular key topics such as local food, food access, food security, and critical analyses of public health and nutrition. (Hayes-Conroy, Division I or III; cross-listed as ANTH B359)
CITY B365 Techniques of the City: Space, Place, and Power
Critical reflections on the technologies and methods through which we know the city and envision alternatives, stressing ethnographic work as well as theoretical discussions of place, power, and change. Topics include construction and reproduction of social models, urban infrastructure, modes of representation, and patterns of control. (McDonogh, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B368 Topics in Medieval History
(staff; cross-listed as HIST B368 and CSTS B368) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B377 Topics in Modern Architecture
Advanced discussions of significant figures, places, and themes of architectural history. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B378 Formative Landscapes: The Architecture and Planning of American Collegiate Campuses
An exploration of the architecture, planning, and visual rhetoric of American collegiate campuses from their early history to the present. Historical consideration of architectural trends and projected imageries will be complemented by student exercises involving documentary research on design genesis, typological contexts, and critical reception. (Cohen, Division III)

CITY B397 Senior Seminar in Environmental Studies
(Oze, Stroud, Barber; cross-listed as GEOL B397, ANTH B397, and BIOL B397) Not offered in 2009-10.

CITY B398 Senior Seminar
An intensive research seminar designed to guide students in writing a senior thesis. (Arbona, Cohen, Hein, McDonogh)

CITY B403 Independent Study
(staff)

CITY B415 Teaching Assistant
This opportunity is available only by invitation. (staff)

CITY B425 Cities: Praxis Independent Study
(staff)

CITY B450 Urban Internships/Praxis
Individual opportunities to engage in Praxis in the greater Philadelphia area; internships must be arranged prior to registration for the semester in which the internship is taken. Enrollment is limited to five students a semester. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (staff)
HEBRB 001, B002 Elementary Hebrew
This is a year-long course. This course prepares students for reading classical religious texts as well as modern literary work. It covers grammar, composition, and conversation with primary emphasis on fluency in reading as well as the development of basic conversational skills. (Amitai, Language Level 1)

Coordinator
Russell Scott, Acting Chair of Greek, Latin, and Classical Studies at Bryn Mawr College
Tracey Hucks, Chair of Religion at Haverford College

HEBR B248 Modern Middle East Cities
(Harrold, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B248 and CITY B248) Not offered in 2009-10.

HEBR B261 Palestine and Israeli Society
(Neuman, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B261 and HIST B261) Not offered in 2009-10.

HEBR B283 Introduction to the Politics of the Modern Middle East and North Africa
(Harrold, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B283 and HIST B283) Not offered in 2009-10.

HEBR B320 Topics in German Literature and Culture
(Schlipphacke, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B320, COML B320, ENGL B320, and HART B320) Not offered in 2009-10.

HEBR B342 Middle Eastern Diasporas

HEBR B380 Topics in Contemporary Art

HEBR B403 Supervised Work in Intermediate Hebrew
(Amitai)
HISTORY

Students may complete a major or minor in History.

Faculty

Jane Dammen McAuliffe, President of the College and Professor of History
Ignacio Gallup-Díaz, Associate Professor and Chair, semester II (on leave semester I) Madhavi Kale, Professor
Kalala Ngalamulume, Associate Professor and Acting Chair, semester I (on leave semester II)
Elliott Shore, Professor
Jennifer Spohrer, Assistant Professor
Elly Truitt, Assistant Professor
Sharon R. Ullman, Professor (on leave semester I)
Veronica Martinez-Matsuda, Predoctoral Fellow in the Humanities

A primary aim of the Department of History is to deepen students’ sense of time as a factor in cultural diversity and change. Our program of study offers students the opportunity to experience the past through attention to long-range questions and comparative history.

The department’s 100-level courses, centered upon specific topics within the instructor’s field of expertise, introduce students to a wide array of subjects and themes, while at the same time exploring how historians devise narratives and provide analysis through the study of primary sources. In the 200-level courses, the department offers students the opportunity to pursue interests in specific cultures, regions, policies, or societies, and enables them to experience a broad array of approaches to history.

The department’s 300-level courses build on students’ knowledge gained in 200-level classes, and provide opportunities to explore topics at greater depth in a seminar setting.

Major Requirements

Eleven courses are required for the History major, and three—one 100-level course, Exploring History (HIST 395), and the Senior Thesis (HIST 398)—must be taken at Bryn Mawr. In Senior Thesis (HIST 398), the student selects a topic of her choice, researches it, and writes a thesis.

The remaining eight history courses may range across fields or concentrate within them, depending on how a major’s interests develop. Of these, at least two must be seminars at the 300 level offered by the Departments of History at Bryn Mawr, Haverford or Swarthmore Colleges or the University of Pennsylvania. (It is strongly recommended that at least one of these advanced courses be taken with Bryn Mawr history faculty, as it is with one of them that majors will work on their senior thesis.)

Only two 100-level courses may be counted toward the major. Credit toward the major is not given for either the Advanced Placement examination or the International Baccalaureate.

Honors

Majors with cumulative GPAs of at least 3.0 (general) and 3.5 (history) at the end of their senior year, and who achieve a grade of at least 3.7 on their senior thesis, qualify for departmental honors.
Minor Requirements

The requirement for the minor is six courses, at least four of which must be taken in the Bryn Mawr Department of History, and include one 100-level course, at least one 300-level course within the department, and two additional history courses within the department.

HIST B101 The Historical Imagination
Explores some of the ways people have thought about, represented, and used the past across time and space. Introduces students to modern historical practices and debates through examination and discussion of texts and archives that range from scholarly monographs and documents to monuments, oral traditions, and other media. (Kale, Gallup-Diaz, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B102 Introduction to African Civilizations
The course introduces students to African societies, cultures, and political economies in historical perspective, with emphasis on change and responses among African people living in Africa and outside. (Ngalamulume, Division I)

HIST B118 Comparative Media Revolutions
A comparison of technology and "media revolutions" and social change through exploring the historiography of the printing press, radio and the internet. What historical explanations are given for the development of these technologies? What kind of agency is ascribed to them? Are media inherently revolutionary, or can they be tools for stabilization and consolidation as well? (Spohrer, Division I or III)

HIST B125 The Discovery of Europe
This course is designed to introduce students to the discipline of history through a critical, historical examination of the idea of Europe. When and why have Europeans thought of themselves as such? How have the boundaries of Europe been drawn? Does Europe really exist? (Spohrer, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B127 Indigenous Leaders 1452-1750
Studies the experiences of indigenous men and women who exercised local authority in the systems established by European colonizers. In return for places in the colonial administrations, these leaders performed a range of tasks. At the same time they served as imperial officials, they exercised "traditional" forms of authority within their communities, often free of European presence. These figures provide a lens through which early modern colonialism is studied. (Gallup-Diaz, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B128 Crusade, Conversion and Conquest
This course explores the nature of Christian religious expansion and conflict in the medieval period. Based around primary sources with some background readings, topics include: early medieval Christianity and conversion; the Crusades and development of the doctrines of "just war" and "holy war"; the rise of military order such as the Templars and the Teutonic Kings; and later medieval attempts to convert and colonize Eastern Europe. (Truitt, Division I or III)

HIST B131 Chinese Civilization
(Jiang, Division I or III; cross-listed as EAST B131)

HIST B155 Islamic Civilization, A Literary Introduction
(Kim, Division III; cross-listed as GNST B155) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B156 The Long 1960s
The 1960s had a powerful effect on U.S. History. But what was it exactly? What do we mean when we say "The '60s?" Focusing heavily on primary sources, this seminar looks at what "The '60s" was (and wasn't) and assesses its long term impact on America. (Ullman, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B200 The Atlantic World 1492-1800: Indians, Europeans, and Africans
The aim of this course is to provide an understanding of the way in which peoples, goods, and ideas from Africa, Europe, and the Americas came together to form an interconnected Atlantic World system. The course is designed to chart the manner in which an integrated system was created in the Americas in the early modern period, rather than to treat the history of the Atlantic World as nothing more than an expanded version of North American, Caribbean, or Latin American history. (Gallup-Diaz, Division I or III; cross-listed as ANTH B200) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B201 American History: Settlement to Civil War
This course begins at the moment when this part of the world was a colonial playground for various competing world powers. We will look at the relationship between those powers and the native populations, continue on to the development of the political entity known as the United States and conclude at the moment when that political unit collapses in 1860. (Ullman, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B202 American History: Civil War to Present
This semester begins at the collapse of the young United States in Civil War and the subsequent rebuilding of a new country. We will look at the developing industrial and international power that will emerge in the late 19th and 20th century. The course emphasizes social history as well as political developments, and looks at the powerful impact of race, class, and gender on the production of a distinctly "American" ideology. (Ullman, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B205 Greek History
(Edmonds, Welser, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B205) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B206 Society, Medicine, and Law in Ancient Greece
(Gottesman, Division I or III; cross-listed as CSTS B206) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B207 Early Rome and the Early Republic
(Scott, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B207) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B208 The Roman Empire
(Scott, Division I or III; cross-listed as CSTS B208) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B210 Topics in Chinese Culture and History
(Wooldridge, Division III; cross-listed as EAST B210) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B212 Pirates, Travelers, and Natural Historians: 1492-1750
In the early modern period, conquistadors, missionaries, travelers, pirates, and natural historians wrote interesting texts in which they tried to integrate the New World into their existing frameworks of knowledge. This intellectual endeavor was an adjunct to the physical conquest of American space, and provides a framework through which we will explore the processes of imperial competition, state formation, and indigenous and African resistance to colonialism. (Gallup-Diaz) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B219 The Other Side of Medieval Society
(staff, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B220 Topics in Modern Chinese Literature
(Lin, Division III; cross-listed as EAST B225 and HART B225) Not offered in 2009-10.
HIST B223 The Early Medieval World
The first of a two-course sequence introducing medieval European history. The chronological span of this course is from the early 4th century and the Christianization of the Roman Empire to the early 10th century and the disintegration of the Carolingian Empire. (Truitt, Division I or III; cross-listed as CSTS B223)

HIST B224 High Middle Ages
This course will cover the second half of the European Middle Ages, often called the High and Late Middle Ages, from roughly 1000-1400. The course has a general chronological framework, and is based on important themes of medieval history. These include feudalism and the feudal economy; the social transformation of the millennium; monastic reform; the rise of the papacy; trade, exchange, and exploration; urbanism and the growth of towns. (Truitt, Division I or III; cross-listed as CSTS B203)

HIST B225 Europe in the 19th Century: Industry, Empire, and Globalization
The 19th century was a period of intense change in Europe. Some of the questions this class considers are: the relationship between empire, plantation-style agriculture and industrialization; the development of transportations and communication networks; multinational companies, a mass press, film, and tourism as early markers of globalization. (Spohrer, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B226 Europe in the 20th Century
In 2000, the European Union adopted “United in Diversity” as its motto. In this course we will look at the social, demographic, material, economic, and political forces that united and divided Europe in the 20th century, such as war, migration, mass production, mass media, and decolonization. We will also look at the policies of unity, division, homogenization, and diversity that Europeans pursued in an attempt to manage these forces. (Spohrer, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B229 Europe 1914 to 1945
In the early 20th century, elite and middle-class Europeans felt their culture and way of life were threatened by a growing “massification” of society. Modern warfare and economic crises demanded the mobilization of entire societies, while mass production, marketing and consumption, mass media and expanding suffrage poised to undermine their society. This drive to develop political institutions, ideologies and strategies suited to a new mass age was informed by theories of psychology and mass society. (Spohrer, Division I or III)

HIST B230 Europe since 1945
What are the legacies of Europe’s troubled past? How do they affect Europe and Europeans today? This overview looks at the devastation and fragmentation of the post-war period; the social and political implication of the growth of the 1950’s and 1960’s; the stagnation, turmoil and uncertainty of the 1970’s and 1980’s; and the promised and tensions renewed by the integration movements since the 1990’s. (Spohrer, Division I or III)

HIST B231 Medicine, Magic and Miracles in the Middle Ages
An exploration of the history of health and disease, healing and medical practice in the medieval period, emphasizing Dar as-Islam and the Latin Christian West. Using methods from intellectual cultural and social history, themes include: theories of health and disease; varieties of medical practice; rationalities of various practices; views of the body and disease; medical practitioners. No previous course work in medieval history is required. (Truitt, Division I or III; cross-listed as ARCH B231 and CSTS B231)

HIST B236 African History: Africa Since 1800
The course analyzes the history of Africa in the last two hundred years in the context of global political economy. We will examine the major themes in modern African history, including the 19th-century state formation, expansion, or restructuration; partition and resistance; colonial rule; economic, social, political, religious, and cultural developments; nationalism; post-independence politics, economics, and society, as well as conflicts and the burden of disease. The course will also introduce students to the sources and methods of African history. (Ngalamulume, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B237 Themes in Modern African History: Urbanization in Africa
The course examines the cultural, environmental, economic, political, and social factors that contributed to the expansion and transformation of preindustrial cities, colonial cities, and cities today. We will examine various themes, such as the relationship between cities and societies; migration and social change; urban space, health problems, city life, and women. (Ngalamulume, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B237) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B240 Modern Middle East Cities

HIST B241 American Politics and Society: 1890-1945
While the 20th century has often been called the American Century (usually by Americans), this century can truthfully be looked to as the moment when American influence and power, for good and ill, came to be felt on a national and global scale. While much of this “bigfoot” quality is associated with the post-WWII period, one cannot understand the America of today—at the dawn of the 21st century—without looking at this earlier moment. This course looks closely at the political, social, and cultural developments that helped shape America in these pivotal years. (Ullman, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B242 American Politics and Society: 1940 to the Present
From a country devastated by economic crisis and wedded to isolationism prior to World War II, America became an unchallenged international powerhouse. Massive grass roots resistance forced the United States to abandon racial apartheid, open opportunities to women, and reinvent its very definition as it incorporated immigrants from around the globe. In the same period, American music and film broke free from their staid moorings and permanently altered global culture. We will explore the political, social, and cultural factors that created modern American history. (Ullman, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B243 Atlantic Cultures: Maroon Societies
The course explores the process of self-emancipation by slaves in the early modern Atlantic World. What was the nature of the communities that free blacks forged? What were their relationships to the empires from which they had freed themselves? How was race constructed in the early modern period? Did conceptions of race change over time? Through readings and discussion we will investigate the establishment of autonomous African settlements and cultures throughout the Americas, and examine the nature of local autonomy within a strife-torn world of contending empires and nation-states. (Gallup-Diaz, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B244 Great Empires of the Ancient Near East
(Ataç, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B244, CITY B244, and POLS B244) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B251 20th-Century U.S. Urban History
(Stroud, Division I or III; cross-listed as CITY B250) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B256 Christianity and Culture in the Middle Ages
Surveys the history of Christianity from its inception until the beginnings of European colonial expansion in the first half of the 16th century. We begin in the first century and trace the growth of Christianity as it spread throughout the Mediterranean basin, into Mesopotamia, Africa, Europe, and central Asia, and eventually to sub-Saharan Africa, East Asia, and the Americas. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
HIST B257 British Empire I: Capitalism and Slavery
Focusing on the Atlantic slave trade and the slave plantation mode of production, this course explores English colonization, and the emergence and the decline of British Empire in the Americas and Caribbean from the 17th through the late 20th centuries. It tracks some of the intersecting and overlapping routes—and roots—connecting histories and politics within and between these “new” world locations. It also tracks the further and proliferating links between developments in these regions and the histories and politics of regions in the “old” world, from the north Atlantic to the South China sea. (Kale, Division I or III; cross-listed as CITY B257) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B258 British Empire: Imagining Indias
This course considers ideas about and experiences of “modern” India, i.e., India during the colonial and post-Independence periods (roughly 1757-present). While “India” and “Indian history” along with “British empire” and “British history” will be the ostensible objects of our consideration and discussions, the course proposes that their imagination and meanings are continually mediated by a wide variety of institutions, agents, and analytical categories (nation, religion, class, race, gender, to name a few examples). The course uses primary sources, scholarly analyses, and cultural productions to explore the political economies of knowledge, representation, and power in the production of modernity. (Kale, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B260 Human Rights in China
(Jiang, Division I; cross-listed as EAST B264)

HIST B261 Palestine and Israeli Society
(Neuman, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B261, GNST B261, and HEBR B261) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B263 Impact of Empire: Britain 1858-1960
Is empire (on the British variant of which, in its heyday, the sun reportedly never set) securely superseded (as some have confidently asserted) or does it endure and, if so, in what forms and domains? Focusing on the expanding British colonial empire from the 17th century on, this course considers its impact through the dynamics of specific commodities’ production, and consumption (sugar and tea, for example, but also labor and governance), their cultures (from plantations and factories to households to the state), and their disciplinary technologies (including domesticity, the nation, and discourses on history and modernity). (Kale, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B264 Passages from India: 1800-Present
This course explores the histories and effects of migration from the Indian subcontinent to far-flung destinations across the globe. It starts with the circular migrations of traders, merchants, and pilgrims in the medieval period from the Indian subcontinent to points east (in southeast Asia) and west (eastern Africa). However, the focus of the course is on modern migrations from the subcontinent, from the indentured labor migrations of the British colonial period (to Africa, the Caribbean, and the South Pacific) to the post-independence emigrations from the new nations of the subcontinent to Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, and the United States. (Kale, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B267 History of Philadelphia: 1682 to Present
This course will focus on the intersection of the sense of Philadelphia as it is popularly understood and the Philadelphia that we can reconstruct individually and together using scholarly books and articles, documentary and popular films and novels, visual evidence, and visits to the chief repositories of the city’s history. We will analyze the relationship between the official representations of Philadelphia and their sources and we will create our own history of the city. Preference given to junior and senior Growth and Structure of Cities and History majors, and those students who were previously lotteried out of the course. (Shore, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B267)

HIST B271 Medieval Islamic Society and Politics
Examines the rise and fall of Islamic empires, focusing on political, social and religious movements within the Islamic world from the early conquests until the early Ottoman state. Considers the role of geography in history, state formation and consolidation; the change from tribal societies into settled empires; the place of the medieval Islamic world in a global context; and the social and sectarian divisions that caused political turmoil. (staff, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B278 American Environmental History
(Stroud, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B278) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B283 Introduction to the Politics of the Modern Middle East and North Africa
(Harrold, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B283 and HEBR B283)

HIST B284 The Past Lives Forever
Movies are one of the most important means by which Americans come to know—or think they know—their own history. This class examines the complex cultural relationship between film and American historical self fashioning. (Ullman, Division I or III)

HIST B285 Sport and Spectacle in Ancient Greece and Rome
(Scott, Wright, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B255, CITY B260 and CSTS B255) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B286 Themes in British Empire
This course explores the politics and genealogies on nationalist movements in the Indian subcontinent from the late 19th century through the establishment of sovereign nations from 1947-72, considering the implications and legacies of empire, nationalism and anti-colonialism for the nations and peoples of the subcontinent from independence through the present. (Kale, Division I or III; cross-listed as CITY B286 and POLS B286) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B287 Immigration in the Modern U.S.
Incorporates the current immigration debate in examining the historical causes and consequences of migration. Addresses the perceived benefit and cost of immigration at the national and local levels. Explores the economic, social, cultural and political impact immigrants have on the United States over time. Close attention given to examining the ways immigrants negotiated the pressures of their new surroundings while shaping and redefining American conceptions of national identity and citizenship. (Martinez-Matsuda, Division I or III)

HIST B292 Women in Britain since 1750
Focusing on contemporary and historical narratives, this course explores the ongoing production, circulation and refraction of discourses on gender and nation as well as race, empire and modernity since the mid-18th century. Texts will incorporate visual material as well as literary evidence and culture and consider the crystallization of the discipline of history itself. (Kale, Division III)

HIST B303 Topics in American History: Comparative History of Advertising
This course examines the key period in the development of advertising in Europe and the United States. Readings will include standard historical treatments as well as fiction and memoirs and the class will use original sources that are available in the Bryn Mawr Special Collections Department and on the Web. Topics that we will explore together could include the elite disdain for advertising, the role of advertising in progressive politics and in public health, and the relationship between the development of the department store and international exhibitions to advertising and how art and photography are connected to advertising. (Shore, Division I or III)

HIST B313 Religion in Modern Europe: Enlightenment to Present
Until recently, historians agreed with Nietzsche’s 19th-century pronouncement that “God is dead,” viewing post-Enlightenment history as one of increasing secularism. This course re-examines that conclusion, looking both at recent historical research and at primary source documents like Darwin’s Descent of Man or “l'affaire du foulard” in France. If religion remained important in modern Europe, why is Nietzsche’s verdict so widely accepted? The class has a substantial writing component. (Spohrer, Division I or III)

HIST B314 New Deal America: Politics, Culture, and Labor
This course will explore how the government responded to Americans’ needs and demands during the Great Depression by developing a series of programs and policies under the rubric of the New Deal. Careful attention will be given to how matters of race, gender, and citizenship were incorporated into (or excluded from) the language and politics of this era. (Martinez-Matsuda, Division I or III)

HIST B318 Topics in Modern European History
Recent topics have included Marxism and History; Socialist Movements and Socialist Ideas. (Spohrer, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B319 Topics in Modern European History: Consumers, Fashion, and Class 1800-1950
From the 1700s to the present, Europe underwent a series of sweeping changes in how people used and related to goods: how consumer goods were produced, where they came from, how they were marketed, who could afford them, and who set the standards for fashion and taste. This seminar looks at the social and economic forces behind changes in consumption in this period, and the social anxieties and tensions they produced. Our texts include historical scholarship on European economies, consumer goods and society and treatises, novels, films and texts created by contemporaries in this period. Enrollment limited to 15 students. (Spohrer, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B325 Topics in Social History: History of Sexuality
This course addresses the social history of sexual practices, societal and governmental regulation of sex, and the changing cultural meaning of sex, from the 16th century to the present. Our focus will be on sexuality as a prime arena for the expression of social inequality in America and as an important foundation for the social construction of gender. Preference given to senior History majors and Gender and Sexuality concentrators. Course enrollment will be capped at 15. (Ullman, Division I or III)

HIST B326 Topics in Chinese History and Culture: Legal Culture and Chinese History
(Jiang; cross-listed as EAST B325)

HIST B327 Topics in Early American History
Topics have included Religious Conquest of the Americas; Comparative Indigenous Cultures and Politics. (Gallup-Diaz; cross-listed as ANTH B327) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B336 Topics in African History: Social and Cultural History of Medicine
This course examines disease and illness, and health and healing, in an African context. We will begin by focusing on indigenous Understandings of disease that extend the causes of illness beyond the patient’s body, into society and the spiritual world. The course will also include a discussion of the influences of missionary and colonial medicine, and emphasize the pluralistic nature of medicine in postcolonial Africa and the African diaspora. We will also look at examples of epidemics in Africa, including the AIDS pandemic. Enrollment limited to 15 students. (Ngalamulume, Division I)
HIST B337 Topics in African History
Recent topics have included social history of medicine; women and gender; and witchcraft ideology, fears, accusations, and trials. (Ngalamulume, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B339 The Making of the African Diaspora 1450-1800
The early modern transatlantic slave trade played a key role in several world-historical processes. Taking in an Americas-wide geographic scope, the course explores how the trade operated and changed over time; the contours of culture in the diaspora; slave resistance; and the formation of maroon communities. Enrollment limited to 15 students. (Gallup-Diaz) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B345 Advanced Topics in Environment and Society: Feminism and Ecology
(Hayes-Conroy, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B345)

HIST B349 Topics in Comparative History: Before European Hegemony in the Indian Ocean World
This course focuses on the emerging literature on the complex networks of interaction and exchange (financial, commercial, intellectual, familial) that linked and divided peoples, beliefs, cultures and polities from the eastern Mediterranean through the Red Sea, around the rim of the Indian Ocean from the Arabian Sea to the South China Sea in the 11th-15th centuries. Capitalizing on the extended presence at Bryn Mawr next fall of a leading historian of this region and period, the course will trace people, dynamics, and processes that seem at once archaic and modern and, in the process, consider in comparative context what is understood at present by “globalization.” (Kale, Division I or III)

HIST B352 China's Environment: History, Policy, and Rights
(Jiang; cross-listed as EAST B352)

HIST B355 Topics in the History of London
(Cast; cross-listed as HART B355)

HIST B357 Topics in British Empire: Screening Empire, Projecting Home: Film, Domesticity, and Modernity in India and Britain
Focusing on themes of displacement and transplantation, this course will examine films by and about men and women circulating (voluntarily or otherwise) through the British empire and the nations that supplanted it to consider the impacts of empire (at "home" and "away") on articulations of modern identities (national, sub-national and other). (Kale, Division I or III)

HIST B364: Magical Mechanisms: The Early History of Robots, Cyborgs, and Auomata
This interdisciplinary seminar examines medieval automata—artificial objects that were, or that appeared to be, self-moving copies of natural forms. From their ancient Greek origins to their central place in Muslim courts, this course explores the ways that westerners envisioned these artifacts, and how they were used to plumb and limn the boundaries between natural and artificial, between life and death, between “East” and “West.” As technological expertise in the Latin West developed, artisans and clerics built copies of existing artifacts and invented new ones. Prerequisite: at least one course in medieval history, or written permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 15 students. (Truitt; cross-listed as CSTS B364)

HIST B368 Topics in Medieval History: Dark Arts: Medieval Magic
What is magic? What does it mean to refer to magic as “the occult” or “the Dark Arts”? In medieval Europe, magical knowledge was hotly contested—widely practiced at all social levels, yet often decried as morally and intellectually suspicious. In this seminar we will investigate the definitions and practices of magic and examine what they can reveal about the traditional divides between high and low culture, as well as between licit and illicit knowledge. Enrollment limited to 15 students. (Truitt, Division III; cross-listed as CSTS B368) Not offered in 2009-10.
HIST B369 Topics in Medieval History: Medicine and Health
Enrollment limited to 15 students. (Truitt, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B369 and CSTS B369) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B371 Topics in Atlantic History: The Early Modern Pirate in Fact and Fiction
This course will explore piracy in the Americas in the period 1550-1750. We will investigate the historical reality of pirates and what they did, and the manner in which pirates have entered the popular imagination through fiction and films. Pirates have been depicted as lovable rogues, anti-establishment rebels, and enlightened multiculturalists who were skilled in dealing with the indigenous and African peoples of the Americas. The course will examine the facts and the fictions surrounding these important historical actors. (Gallup-Diaz) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B378 Origins of American Constitutionalism

HIST B381 History and Memory
This course will bring together the latest research findings from the fields of neuroscience, psychology, and neurobiology with the insights into human memory from the fields of literature and art history into a discussion of the implications for the writing of history. Prerequisite: senior standing. (Shore, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HIST B383 Two Hundred Years of Islamic Reform, Radicalism and Revolution
(Harrold, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B383)

HIST B395 Exploring History
An intensive introduction to theory and interpretation in history through the discussion of exemplary historiographical debates and analyses selected by the instructor. The coursework also includes research for and completion of a prospectus for an original research project. These two goals prepare senior majors for their own historical production, when the senior thesis is complete. Enrollment is limited to senior history majors. (Ullman)

HIST B398 Senior Thesis
Students research and write a thesis on a topic of their choice. Enrollment is limited to senior history majors. (Ngalamulume, Spohrer, Division I or III)

HIST B403 Supervised Work
Optional independent study, which requires permission of the instructor and the major adviser. (staff)

HIST B425 Praxis III: Independent Study
HISTORY OF ART

Students may complete a major or minor in History of Art.

Faculty

David J. Cast, Professor (on leave semester II)
Dorothea Dietrich, Visiting Associate Professor
Christiane Hertel, Professor and Major Adviser (A-L)
Homay King, Associate Professor
Dale Kinney, Professor
Steven Z. Levine, Professor and Chair
Grady McKim-Smith, Professor and Major Adviser (M-Z) (on leave semester I)
Lisa Saltzman, Professor (on leave semesters I and II)
Diala Touré, Lecturer

The curriculum in History of Art immerses students in the study of visual culture. Structured by a set of evolving disciplinary concerns, students learn to interpret the visual through methodologies dedicated to the historical, the material, the critical, and the theoretical. Majors are encouraged to supplement courses taken in the department with history of art courses offered at Swarthmore and the University of Pennsylvania. Majors are also encouraged to study abroad for a semester. Should they choose to do so, they should plan to undertake that work during the spring semester of their junior year.

Major Requirements

The major requires eleven units, approved by the major adviser. A usual sequence of courses would include at least one 100-level “critical approaches” seminar, four 200-level lecture courses, four 300-level seminars, and junior seminar in the fall semester of the junior year and senior conference in the spring semester of senior year. In the course of their departmental studies, students are strongly encouraged to take courses across media and areas, and in at least three of the following fields of study: Ancient and Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque, Modern and Contemporary, Film, and Non-Western.

With the approval of the major adviser, courses in fine arts or with significant curricular investment in visual studies may be counted toward the fulfillment of the distribution requirements. Similarly, courses in art history taken abroad or at another institution in the United States may be counted. Generally, no more than two such courses may be counted toward the major requirements.

A senior paper, based on independent research and using scholarly methods of historical and/or critical interpretation must be submitted at the end of the spring semester. Generally 25-40 pages in length, the senior paper represents the culmination of the departmental experience.

Honors

Seniors whose major average at the beginning of the spring semester is 3.7 or higher will be invited to write an honors thesis instead of the senior paper.

Minor Requirements

A minor in history of art requires six units: one or two 100-level courses and four or five others selected in consultation with the major adviser.
HART B103 Critical Approaches to Visual Representation: Icons and Idols
What is an icon? What is an idol? How do they differ or are they the same? And what is the relation between icons, idols, and images? This course treats potent image-objects across cultures and across time, including religious icons (Madonnas), pop icons (Madonna), and comparable image-objects of other traditions, such as African minkisi and Native American totems. Readings range from Plato and the Old Testament to contemporary criticism. (Kinney, Division III)

HART B104 Critical Approaches to Visual Representation: The Classical Tradition
An investigation of the historical and philosophical ideas of the classical, with particular attention to the Italian Renaissance and the continuance of its formulations throughout the Westernized world. (Cast, Division III)

HART B105 Critical Approaches to Visual Representation: Poetry and Politics in Landscape Art
An introduction to the representation and perception of nature in different visual media, with attention to such issues as nature and utopia; nature and violence; natural freedom; and the femininity of nature. (Hertel, Division III)

HART B107 Critical Approaches to Visual Representation: Self and Other in the Arts of France
A study of artists’ self-representations in the context of the philosophy and psychology of their time, with particular attention to issues of political patronage, gender and class, power and desire. (Levine, Division III)

HART B108 Critical Approaches to Visual Representation: Women, Feminism, and History of Art
An investigation of the history of art since the Renaissance organized around the practice of women artists, the representation of women in art, and the visual economy of the gaze. (Saltzman, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B110 Critical Approaches to Visual Representation: Identification in the Cinema
An introduction to the analysis of film through particular attention to the role of the spectator. (King, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B115 Classical Art
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B115, CITY B115, and CSTS B115) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B125 Classical Myths in Art and in the Sky
(Lindenlauf, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B125 and CSTS B125)

HART B190 The Form of the City
(Cohen, Hein, Division I or III; cross-listed as CITY B190 and ANTH B190) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B204 Greek Sculpture
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B205) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B205 Introduction to Film
(King, Nguyen, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B205) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B206 Hellenistic and Roman Sculpture
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B206) Not offered in 2009-10.
HART B209 Topics in Chinese Cultural History

HART B210 Medieval Art
An overview of artistic production in Europe antiquity to the 14th century. Special attention will be paid to problems of interpretation and recent developments in art-historical scholarship. (Kinney, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B212 Medieval Architecture
Not just Gothic cathedrals, medieval architecture includes mosques, synagogues, fortifications, palaces, monasteries and other residential structures produced in Europe, North Africa and the Middle East between about 300 and 1350 CE. This course offers a selective overview and an introduction to research in this broad and diverse field of study. (Kinney, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B212)

HART B225 Topics in Modern Chinese Literature
(Lin, Division III; cross-listed as EAST B225 and HIST B220) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B227 Topics in Modern Planning

HART B230 Renaissance Art
A survey of painting in Florence and Rome in the 15th and 16th centuries (Giotto, Masaccio, Botticelli, Leonardo, Michelangelo, Raphael), with particular attention to contemporary intellectual, social, and religious developments. (Cast, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B238 The History of Cinema 1895 to 1945
Introduction to the international history of film as a narrative and aesthetic form, with consideration of cultural, social, political, technological, and economic determinants that allowed film across the world to evolve, thrive, and become the defining artistic medium of the 20th century. (staff, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B238) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B241 Art of the Spanish-speaking World
A study of painting and sculpture in Spain from 1492 to the early 19th century, with emphasis on such artists as El Greco, Velázquez, Zurbarán, Goya and the polychrome sculptors. As relevant, commentary is made on Latin America and the Spanish world’s complex heritage, with its contacts with Islam, Northern Europe, and pre-Columbian cultures. Continuities and disjunctions within these diverse traditions as they evolve both in Spain and the Americas are noted, and issues of canon formation and national identity are raised. (McKim-Smith, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B246 Interdisciplinary Approaches to German Literature and Culture
(Meyer, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B245) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B250 Nineteenth-Century Art in France
Close attention is selectively given to the work of Cézanne, Courbet, David, Degas, Delacroix, Géricault, Ingres, Manet, and Monet. Extensive readings in art criticism are required. (Levine, Division III)

HART B253 Survey of Western Architecture
The major traditions in Western architecture are illustrated through detailed analysis of selected examples from classical antiquity to the present. The evolution of architectural design and building technology, and the larger intellectual, aesthetic, and social context in which this evolution occurred, are considered. (Cast, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B253 and HIST B253) Not offered in 2009-10.
HART B254 History of Modern Architecture
(Steffensen, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B254)

HART B255 Survey of American Architecture
(Steffensen, Cohen, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B255) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B260 Modern Art
This course will involve an inquiry into the history of 20th-century visual culture, European and American, through an exploration of art practice, art history, art criticism and art theory. Against the dominant and paradigmatic theorization of modernism, the course will introduce and mobilize materials aimed at its critique. (Dietrich, Division III)

HART B266 Contemporary Art: 1945 to the Global Present
America, Europe and beyond, from 1945 to the present, in visual media and visual theory. (Dietrich, Division III)

HART B268 Greek and Roman Architecture
(staff, cross-listed as ARCH B268 and CITY B268) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B270 Japanese Architecture and Planning
(Hein, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B270 and EAST B270) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B272 Topics in Early and Medieval China: Chinese Cities and City Culture

HART B276 Video Art
If the origins of video art date to 1965, when Sony introduced its Portapac to the United States and Nam Jun Paik shot his first piece in New York; its theorization dates to 1976, when Rosalind Krauss published her field defining essay. This course functions as both an introduction and an immersion in the history and theory of video art. Prerequisite: HART 110, HART/ENGL 205, HART 266, HART 299 or permission of instructor. (Saltzman, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B282 Arts of Sub-Saharan Africa
This course examines the significant artistic and architectural traditions of African cultures south of the Sahara in their religious, philosophical, political, and social aspects. (Touré, Division III)

HART B299 History of Narrative Cinema
(King, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B299)

HART B305 Classical Bodies
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B303) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B306 Film Theory
(King, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B306 and COML B306)

HART B311 Topics in Medieval Art
Topics vary. (Kinney, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B312) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B323 Topics in Renaissance Art
Selected subjects in Italian art from painting, sculpture, and architecture between the years 1400 and 1600. (Cast, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B323) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B331 Palladio and Neo-Palladianism
A seminar on the diffusion of Palladian architecture from the 16th century to the present. (Cast; cross-listed as CITY B331) Not offered in 2009-10.
HART B334 Topics in Film Studies: Transitional Objects: Old and New (King, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B334)

HART B340 Topics in Baroque Art: Velazquez
(McKim-Smith, Division III; cross-listed as COML B340) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B348 Advanced Topics in German Cultural Studies
(Hertel, Meyer, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B321, CITY B319, and COML B321) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B349 Theories of Authorship in the Cinema
The study of the author-director remains one of the primary categories through which film is to be understood; various directors and critical approaches to this topic will be studied. (King; cross-listed as ENGL B349) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B350 Topics in Modern Art
(Levine, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B354 Topics in Art Criticism
Individual topics in art-historical methodology, such as art and psychoanalysis, feminism, poststructuralism, or semiotics are treated. (Levine, Division III; cross-listed as COML B354 and HEBR B354) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B355 Topics in the History of London
Selected topics of social, literary, and architectural concern in the history of London, emphasizing London since the 18th century. (Cast, Division I or III; cross-listed as CITY B355 and HIST B355)

HART B358 Topics in Classical Art and Archaeology
(Donohue, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B359 and CSTS B359) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B362 The African Art Collection
This seminar will introduce students to the African art holdings that are part of the Art and Archaeology Collections. (Touré, Division III)

HART B367 Asian American Film, Video and New Media
(Nguyen, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B367)

HART B377 Topics in Modern Architecture: War, Catastrophes, and Reconstruction
(Hein, Steffensen, Division III; cross-listed as CITY B377) Not offered in 2009-10.

HART B380 Topics in Contemporary Art
Topics vary. (Dietrich, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B380)

HART B397 Junior Seminar
Designed to introduce majors to the canonical texts in the field of art history and to formalize their understanding of art history as a discipline. Beginning with such foundational figures as Plato and Pliny and ending with the leading art historical practitioners of the poststructural and the performative, junior majors will read across the history of art history. Required of and limited to History of Art majors. (Levine, Division III)

HART B399 Senior Conference
A seminar for the discussion of senior research papers and such theoretical and historical concerns as may be appropriate to them. Interim oral reports. Required of all majors; culminates in the senior paper. (Kinney, Dietrich)
HART B403 Supervised Work
Advanced students may do independent research under the supervision of a faculty member whose special competence coincides with the area of the proposed research. Consent of the supervising faculty member and of the major adviser is required. (staff)

HART B425 Praxis III
(staff)
Students may complete a minor in International Studies.

International studies is the study of relationships among people and states affected by increasingly permeable borders and facing global issues. The minor in international studies aims to prepare students to be responsible citizens by introducing them to issues of importance in an increasingly interdependent world of global dynamics in politics, economics, ideas, language, and culture. Around the world, international studies programs are preparing students for productive roles in transnational or intergovernmental institutions and in the areas of public policy, governance, business, diplomacy, development, and cultural studies. A goal of the minor is to provide a foundation for students interested in pursuing career opportunities in these areas or in entering graduate programs in international studies.

The minor combines applied and theoretical approaches to international studies and draws from an increasing number of disciplines that are now exploring the descriptive and normative aspects of living in a world impacted by features of globalization. The minor allows students to use the disciplinary methods and materials acquired in their major as a base from which to engage in the necessarily inter- and multidisciplinary course work of international studies. Finally, the minor employs a broad conception of international studies by incorporating the study of politics, economics, philosophy, and political theory (as captured in the core courses) with the complementary study of specific themes (as captured by each of the five tracks).

Although language study is not required per se for the minor, students intending to undertake graduate work in international studies should plan to acquire proficiency in a foreign language, which is a requirement (at the time of admission or graduation) in the most selective programs here and abroad.

Minor Requirements

Students minoring in International Studies must complete a total of seven courses. Four of these are core courses. Three of these courses form a coherent group coming (one each) from political science, economics, and philosophy and the fourth provides critical inquiry into cultural differences. The core courses form the base from which students can then concentrate their additional study in one of five tracks: international politics, international economics, social justice, area studies, or language and arts. Within a track, students can choose three electives from among a range of courses drawn from the social sciences and humanities. The three electives should demonstrate coherence and be approved by an adviser from the Center for International Studies.
Core courses

There are a total of four core courses. All students are required to take three courses, one from each of political science, economics, and philosophy. These disciplines have become central to international studies programs. Each of the two sets identified below form a coherent group of three courses designed to introduce students to the field as a whole by providing them with resources for studying the most basic elements of globalization in the context of international relations, economics and politics. If one of the core courses from a set is not offered in a given year, substitutions will be made with another allied course, offered at Bryn Mawr or Haverford, with the approval of an adviser from the Center for International Studies.

POLS B141 Introduction to International Politics
ECON B225 Economic Development
PHIL B344 Development Ethics

or

PHIL B221 Ethics
ECON B206 International Trade
POLS B391 International Political Economy

To complete the core requirements, students must take one course on cultural differences. This requirement allows students to acquire a greater appreciation of the significance of culture in the global context by providing an awareness of how different values, norms, beliefs, and practices affect possibilities for understanding different cultures and for cross-cultural dialogue and consensus. The course may be selected from (but is not limited to) the following:

ANTH B102 Introduction to Anthropology: Cultural Anthropology
COML/PHIL B202 or B323 Culture and Interpretation
ANTH/COML/GERM/CITY B245 Women’s Narratives on Modern Migrancy, Exile and Diaspora
FREN B251 La Mosaïque France

Electives

In addition to the four core courses listed above, three electives are required. Each of the five tracks identifies a major topic or theme in international studies that builds on or develops the core. Students should choose the three electives from the approved lists under one of the tracks identified below. Electives should demonstrate coherence and be approved by an adviser. At least one of the courses must be a 300-level course. Please refer to the International Studies Web site for detailed information regarding approved electives:
http://www.brynmawr.edu/internationalstudies.

International Politics

This track allows students to focus on the dynamics and structures of intergovernmental and transnational relationships from the perspective of the discipline of political science. Through engagement with the most salient theoretical and policy debates, students may focus upon such themes as globalization and resistance to it, development and sustainability, nationalism and sovereignty, human rights, conflict and peace, public international law and institutions, and nongovernmental or civil society organizations and movements at regional, transregional, and global levels.

The three elective courses are to be selected from an approved list or be approved by an adviser from the Center for International Studies.
International Economics

This track allows students to focus on various theoretical, empirical, and policy issues in international economics. Each of the courses in the track—trade, open-economy macroeconomics, development, and environmental economics—focuses on different economic aspects of the international or global economy. International trade looks at the major theories offered to explain trade and examines the effects of trade barriers and trade liberalization on welfare. International macroeconomics and international finance examines policy-making in open economies, exchange rate systems, exchange rate behavior, and financial integration and financial crises. Development economics is concerned, among other things, with understanding how developing countries can structure their participation in the global economy so as to benefit their development. Environmental economics uses economic analysis to examine the behavioral causes of local, regional, and global environmental and natural resource problems and to evaluate policy responses to them.

The three elective courses are to be selected from an approved list or be approved by a faculty member in Economics affiliated with the Center for International Studies.

Social Justice

This track allows students to explore issues of social and political change in the context of economic and political transition in the global context. Students gain insight into how global issues affect relationships among people and cultures within and across national boundaries and how global issues are in turn affected by these relationships. Major themes include: a) migration, imperialism, and colonialism; b) international/ethnic conflict and cooperation; c) culture and values; d) justice and global issues; e) globalization and urban development; and f) social movements and change in the global context.

A coherent set of courses can be achieved by selecting the three electives from approved lists within one of the thematic groupings or be approved by an adviser from the Center for International Studies.

Area Studies

This track allows students to situate and apply the economic, political, and social theory provided in the core to the study of a particular geopolitical area. It provides students with a global frame of reference from which to examine issues of history, migration, colonization, modernization, social change, and development through an area study.

A coherent set of courses can be achieved by selecting the three electives from approved lists within an area study or be approved by an adviser from the Center for International Studies.

Language and Arts

This track allows students to explore human interaction at the global level through language, literature, music, and arts. Students in this track focus their studies on the forms of language and the arts that are generated through global processes and in turn affect the generation and exchange of ideas in and between different societies and cultures.

A coherent set of courses can be achieved by selecting the three electives from approved lists within a language study or be approved by an adviser from the Center for International Studies.
Students may complete a major or minor in Italian.

Faculty at Bryn Mawr College

Dennis J. McAuliffe, Visiting Associate Professor
Gabriella Troncelliti, Language Assistant
Roberta Ricci, Associate Professor and Chair of Italian, Director of Summer in Pisa Program
Nancy J. Vickers, Professor
Giuliana Perko, Lecturer

Faculty at Haverford College

Ute Striker, Instructor

Based on an interdisciplinary approach that views culture as a global phenomenon, the aims of the major in Italian are to acquire a knowledge of Italian language and literature and an understanding of Italian culture, including cinema. The Department of Italian also cooperates with the Departments of French and Spanish in the Romance Languages major and with the other foreign languages in the TRICO for a major in Comparative Literature. The Italian Department cooperates also with the Center for International Studies (CIS).

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College's foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing ITAL 105 (intensive) with a grade of 2.0, or by completing ITAL 101 and 102 (non-intensive) with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of 2.0 or better in ITAL 102.

Students may obtain permission from the instructor to transfer from a regular language course to an intensive language course.

Major Requirements

Major requirements in Italian are 10 courses: ITAL 101, 102 and eight additional units, at least three of which are to be chosen from the offerings on the 300 level, and no more than one from an allied field. All students must take a course on Dante (301), one on the Italian Renaissance (304), two on modern Italian literature, and one on literary theory/literary criticism. Where courses in translation are offered, students may, with the approval of the department, obtain major credit provided they read the texts in Italian, submit written work in Italian and, when the instructor finds it necessary, meet with the instructor for additional discussion in Italian.

Courses allied to the Italian major include, with departmental approval, all courses for major credit in ancient and modern languages and related courses in archaeology, art history, history, music, philosophy, and political science. Each student’s program is planned in consultation with the department.

Students who begin their work in Italian at the 200 level will be exempted from ITAL 101 and 102 or from ITAL 105.

Honors

The opportunity to conduct a project of supervised sustained research (ITAL 403 Independent Study) is open to all majors with a 3.7 GPA. Students who want to graduate with honors are asked to write a senior thesis and to defend it with members of the Italian Department and/or a third outside reader at the end of the senior semester. Students wishing to do so will present a topic that a faculty member is willing to supervise, a written proposal of the topic chosen, and, if approved by the department, will spend one semester in the senior year working on the thesis.

Minor Requirements

Requirements for the minor in Italian are ITAL 101, 102 and four additional units including two at the 200 level and two at the 300 level. With departmental approval, students who begin their work in Italian at the 200 level will be exempted from ITAL 101 and 102 or from ITAL 105. For courses in translation, the same conditions for majors in Italian apply.

Study Abroad

Italian majors are encouraged to study in Italy during the junior year in a program approved by the College. The Bryn Mawr summer program at the University of Pisa offers courses for major credit in Italian (both in Intensive Elementary/Intensive Intermediate and in Italian Literature/Culture/Cinema), or students may study in other approved summer programs in Italy or in the United States. Courses for major credit in Italian may also be taken at the University of Pennsylvania (Department of Italian).

ITAL B001, B002 Elementary Italian I/II: Non-intensive
The course is for students with no previous knowledge of Italian. It aims at giving the student a complete foundation in the Italian language, with particular attention to oral and written communication. The course will be conducted in Italian and will involve the study of all the basic structures of the language-phonological, grammatical, syntactical-with practice in conversation, reading, composition and translation. The readings are chosen from a range that includes journalistic prose, recipe books, the language of publicity, literary prose and poetry, and use of the language is encouraged through songs, games and creative composition. (McAuliffe, Troncelliti, Perco, Language Level 1)

ITAL B005, B006 Elementary Italian I/II: Intensive
This intensive communicative course is an accelerated introduction to speaking, understanding, reading, and writing. Aspects of Italian culture and contemporary life also are introduced through the use of video, songs, film, etc. The course is taught completely in Italian, and authentic contemporary materials are used to immerse the student into an integrative linguistic environment. (Perco, Language Level 1)

ITAL B101, B102 Intermediate Italian
This course provides students with a broader basis for learning to communicate effectively and accurately in Italian. While the principal aspect of the course is to further develop language abilities, the course also imparts a foundation for the understanding of modern and contemporary Italy. Students will gain an appreciation for Italian culture and be able to communicate orally and in writing in a wide variety of topics. We will read a novel, as well as newspaper and magazine articles to analyze aspects on modern and contemporary Italy. We will also view and discuss Italian films and discuss internet materials. (Ricci, Language Level 2)

ITAL B105 Intensive Intermediate Italian
This course builds on the previous two courses of intensive Italian (001-002) in the development of speaking, understanding, reading, and writing, and completes the study of Italian grammar. In addition to enriching students’ knowledge of both written and spoken Italian, this course will provide a window onto aspects of contemporary Italian culture and society. In addition we will study aspects of the evolution of Italian from a literary language through SMS messaging; festivals and folklore; political satire; popular songs as windows onto their times; and detective movies. The students will practice writing and will revise compositions after initial draft versions. (Perco, Language Level 2)
ITAL B200 Pathways to Proficiency: Culture, Language, Writing
The purpose of this course is to increase fluency in Italian and to facilitate the transition from language to literature courses. The course, taught in Italian, integrates language and cultural studies. Students are exposed not only to different topics, but also to different writing genres: from literary narrative texts, to academic texts, to argumentative or informative texts taken from Italian newspapers and periodicals. Students will also produce different types of texts: from descriptions, to letters, to film or book reviews, to argumentative texts, in order to build the skills necessary to write academic papers. (Perco)

ITAL B201 Prose and Poetry of Contemporary Italy
A study of the artistic and cultural developments of pre-Fascist, Fascist, and post-Fascist Italy seen through the works of poets such as Montale, Quasimodo, Ungaretti, and through the narratives of Carlo Emilio Gadda, Ginzburg, Italo Svevo, Primo Levi, Moravia, Pavese, Pirandello, Silone, Vittorini, Calvino, and others. We will examine issues of gender, identity, and politics, colonial and post-colonial, modernity and post-modernity. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ITAL B203 Italian Theater (in Italian)
The course consists of a close reading in Italian of representative theatrical texts from the contemporary stage to the origins of Italian theater in the 16th century, including pieces by Dario Fo, Luigi Pirandello, Carlo Goldoni, the Commedia dell’arte and Niccolò Machiavelli. Attention will be paid to the development of language skills through reading out loud, performance, and discussion of both form and content, enhanced by the use of recordings, videos and YouTube. Attention will also be paid to the development of critical-analytical writing skills through the writing of short reviews and the research and writing of a term paper. (McAuliffe, Division III)

ITAL B204 Manzoni
Why is I promessi sposi considered by many the best historical novel in Italian and one of the best in any language? What contribution did Manzoni’s novel make to the development of the Italian language? To the Italian unification movement? to the understanding of Italian Catholicism? To the Italian romantic movement? Seminar discussions will be based on a close reading of the novel, as well as short selections of Manzoni’s other works. A variety of critical methods of interpretation will be explored both in class and in research projects leading to a critical analytical research paper. Conducted in Italian. (McAuliffe, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ITAL B207 Dante in Translation
A reading of the Vita Nuova and Divina Commedia in order to discover the subtle nuances of meaning in the text and to introduce students to Dante’s tripartite vision of the afterlife. Dante’s masterpiece lends itself to study from various perspectives: theological, philosophical, political, allegorical, historical, cultural, and literary. Personal and civic responsibilities, love, genre, governmental accountability, church-state relations, economics and social justice, the tenuous balance between freedom of expression and censorship—these are some of the themes that will frame the discussions. (Ricci, McAuliffe, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ITAL B208 Petrarcha and Boccaccio in Translation
The course will focus on a close analysis of Petrarch’s Canzoniere and Boccaccio’s Decameron, with attention given also to their minor works and the historical/literary context connected with these texts. Attention will also be given to Florentine literature, art, thought, and history from the death of Dante to the age of Lorenzo de’ Medici. Texts and topics available for study include the Trecento vernacular works of Petrarch and Boccaccio; Florentine humanism from Salutati to Alberti; and the literary, artistic, and intellectual culture of the Medici court in the 1470s and 80s (Ficino, Poliziano, Lorenzo de’ Medici, Botticelli). (Ricci, McAuliffe, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
ITAL B209 Humanism and the Renaissance in Translation
As well as a detailed analysis of some of the most fascinating texts of the period, this course offers the opportunity to explore broader questions, such as the impact of the massive expansion of the printing industry on literary culture, the nature of the cultural impact of the Counter Reformation on literature, the construction of gender and the place of women in cinquecento literary culture, the questione della lingua and its impact on literary culture, the chivalric and epic genre, and the neo-Platonic debate on beauty. Prerequisite: two years of Italian or the equivalent. (Ricci, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ITAL B211 Primo Levi, the Holocaust, and Its Aftermath
A consideration, through analysis and appreciation of his major works, of how the horrific experience of the Holocaust awakened in Primo Levi a growing awareness of his Jewish heritage and led him to become one of the dominant voices of that tragic historical event, as well as one of the most original new literary figures of post-World War II Italy. Always in relation to Levi and his works, attention will also be given to other Italian women writers whose works are also connected with the Holocaust. (staff, Division III; cross-listed as COML B211 and HEBR B211) Not offered in 2009-10.

ITAL B212 Italia D'Oggi
This course, taught in Italian, will focus primarily on the works of the so-called “migrant writers” who, having adopted the Italian language, have become a significant part of the new voice of Italy. In addition to the aesthetic appreciation of these works, this course will also take into consideration the social, cultural, and political factors surrounding contemporary Italy and contemporary Italian. We will also interrogate the relationship between this multifarious discourse on other cultures and the question of the Italian national identity. Conducted in Italian. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ITAL B225 Italian Cinema and Literary Adaptation
A study of Italian cinema with emphasis placed on its relation to literature. The course will discuss how cinema conditions literary imagination and how literature leaves its imprint on cinema. We will "read" films as "literary images" and "see" novels as "visual stories." The reading of the literary sources will be followed by evaluation of the corresponding films by well-known directors, including Bellocchio, Bertolucci, Rosi, the Tavianis brothers, and L. Visconti. (Ricci) Not offered in 2009-10.

ITAL B235 The Italian Women’s Movement
This course aims to dispel the amazement of those who wonder how feminism could have taken root in a country where, for centuries, women have been wearing black shawls and their public life has been limited to an appearance at mass. Emphasis will be put on Italian women writers and film directors, who are often left out of syllabi adhering to traditional canons. Topics to be explored are: the construction of gender, the relationship of writing to identity and subjectivity, the maternal discourse, and the continuity among women (mothers, daughters, and grandmothers). (Ricci, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ITAL B255 Uomini d'onore in Sicilia
The course will explore historical and fictional presentations which contribute to the myth of the Italian and Italian-American mafia in Italian literature and cinema, starting from the “classical” example of Sicily. The course will introduce Italian studies and Italian narrative fiction from an interdisciplinary perspective and will present the historical development of the Sicilian Mafia from the mid-1800s through the 1980s with the examination of official documents, such as court files, documentaries and newspaper articles. Prerequisite: ITAL B102 or B105 or permission of the instructor. (Ricci, Division III)

ITAL B301 Dante
Prerequisite: two years of Italian and at least one 200-level course. Taught in Italian. See course description for ITAL B207. (Ricci, Division III)
ITAL B303 Petrarca and Boccaccio
The focus of the course is on The Decameron, one of the most entertaining and imitated prose works ever written. The Decameron will be read in its entirety in Italian. Special class presentations will treat questions of Boccaccio's belief system as manifested in the Decameron, his sources and his imitators, and the socio-cultural milieu in which he wrote. Attention will also be paid to Petrarca’s Canzoniere. Topics include how each author treated the courtly love tradition and how each represented women in the context of 14th-century Italy. Prerequisite: two years of Italian and at least one 200-level course. Taught in Italian. (McAuliffe, Division III)

ITAL B304 Il Rinascimento in Italia: letteratura e oltre
Prerequisite: two years of Italian and at least one 200-level course. Taught in Italian. See course description for ITAL 209. (Ricci, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

ITAL B398 Senior Seminar
(Ricci, McAuliffe)

ITAL B399 Senior Conference
Under the direction of a professor, each student prepares a senior thesis on an author or a theme that the student has chosen. This course is open only to senior Italian majors. (McAuliffe, Ricci)

ITAL B403 Supervised Work
Offered with approval of the Department. (Ricci)
LATIN AMERICAN, LATINO, AND IBERIAN PEOPLES AND CULTURES

Students may complete a concentration in Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Peoples and Cultures.

Coordinator

Gary McDonogh, Growth and Structure of Cities

Advisory Committee

Michael H. Allen, Political Science
Juan Manuel Arbona, Growth and Structure of Cities (on leave semester II)
Ignacio Gallup-Díaz, History (on leave semester I)
Lázaro Lima, Spanish
Veronica Martínez-Matsuda, Mellon Predoctoral Fellow in History
Gridley McKim-Smith, History of Art (on leave semester I)
Maria Cristina Quintero, Spanish
Enrique Sacerio-Gari, Spanish
H. Rosi Song, Spanish
Ayumi Takenaka, Sociology (on leave semesters I and II)

Latin American, Latino and Iberian peoples, histories, and cultures have represented both central agents and crucibles of transformations across the entire world for millennia. Global histories and local experiences of colonization, migration, exchange, and revolution allow students and faculty to construct a critical framework of analysis and to explore these dynamic worlds, their peoples and cultures, across many disciplines.

As a concentration, such study must be based in a major in another department, generally Spanish, Growth and Structure of Cities, History, History of Art, Political Science, or Sociology (exceptions can be made in consultation with the major and concentration adviser). To fulfill requirements, the student must complete the introductory course, GNST 145 Introduction to Latin American, Latino and Iberian Peoples and Culture, and then plan advanced courses in language, affiliated fields and the major that lead to a final project in the major that relates closely to themes of the concentration. One semester of study abroad is strongly encouraged in the concentration and students may complete some requirements with appropriately selected courses in many Junior Year Abroad (JYA) programs. The student also must show competence in one of the languages of the peoples of Iberia or Latin America.

Students are admitted into the concentration at the end of their sophomore year after submission of a plan of study worked out in consultation with the major department and the Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Peoples and Cultures (LALIPC) coordinator. At this time, students will also be asked to file a statement about their interests and goals for the program to help guide advising.

Concentration Requirements

1) Competence in a language spoken by significant collectives of Iberian or Latin American peoples to be achieved no later than junior year. This competence may be attested by a score of at least 690 on the Spanish Achievement test of the College Entrance Examination Board or by completion of a 200-level course with a merit grade. Faculty will work with students to assess languages not regularly taught in the Tri-Co, including Portuguese, Catalan, and other languages.

2) GNST B145 as a gateway course in the first or second year. The student should also take at least five other courses selected in consultation with the program coordinator, at least one of which must be at the 300 level. One of these classes may be cross-listed with the major; up to two may be completed in JYA.

3) A long paper or an independent project dealing with Iberian, Latin American, or Latina/o issues, to be completed during the junior year in one of the courses of the major or concentration and read by the LALIPC coordinator.

4) A senior essay dealing with some issue relevant to the concentration should be completed in the major and read by one faculty member participating in the concentration. All senior concentrators will present their research within the context of some LALIPC student-faculty forum as well.

Junior Year Abroad

JYA provides both classes and experience in language, society, and culture that are central to the concentration. Students interested in JYA programs in the Iberian Peninsula, Latin America, and the Caribbean should consult with both their major adviser and the concentration coordinator in order to make informed choices. We will also work with students to identify programs that may allow them to work with languages not regularly taught in the Tri-Co, especially Portuguese.

Classes

The following are Bryn Mawr classes offered in 2009-10 which may be counted toward the concentration; these are also indicative of classes and interests that are frequently present in the curriculum. Other classes may be counted with permission of the coordinator. LALIPC also accepts all classes listed under the concentration of Latin American and Iberian Studies at Haverford as well as appropriate classes from Swarthmore and Penn. Again, planning with the coordinator will make selection of courses more meaningful.

GNST B145 Introduction to Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Peoples and Cultures
A broad, interdisciplinary survey of themes uniting and dividing societies from the Iberian Peninsula through the contemporary New World. The class introduces the methods and interests of all departments in the concentration, posing problems of cultural continuity and change, globalization and struggles within dynamic histories, political economies, and creative expressions. (Gallup-Diaz, McDonogh, Division I or III)

CITY B229 Comparative Urbanism: Colonial and Postcolonial Reflections

HIST B287 Immigration in the U.S. circa 1920 to the Present

SPAN B200 Temas culturales: España e Hispanoamérica

SPAN B203 Tópicos en lít hispana: José Martí y equilibrio mundial

SPAN B218 Border Crossing Narratives

SPAN B265 Escritoras españolas

SPAN B309 La mujer en la literature del Siglo de Oro

Latin American and Iberian studies courses currently offered at Haverford include:

HIST H209 Modern Latin America

HIST H317 Visions of Mexico

POL S H229 Latino Politics in the U.S.

POL S H237 Latin American Politics

POL S H239 The United States and Latin America

SPAN H203 Writing the Jewish Trajectories in Latin America

SPAN H210 Spanish and Spanish American Film Studies

SPAN H222 Rethinking Latin America in Contemporary Narrative

SPAN H248 Poetry and Politics in Spain

SPAN H266 Iberian Orientalism and the Nation

SPAN H320 Spanish American Colonial Writings

SPAN H334 Gender Dissidence in Hispanic Writing
Students may major in Linguistics through Swarthmore College and minor in Linguistics through Haverford College.

Linguistics is the study of language, the medium which allows us to communicate and share our ideas with others. As a discipline, linguistics examines the structural components of sound, form, and meaning, and the precise interplay between them. Modern linguistic inquiry stresses analytical and argumentation skills, which will prepare students for future pursuits in any field where such skills are essential.

Linguistics is also relevant to other disciplines, such as psychology, philosophy, sociology, and anthropology.

The primary goals of the linguistics minor are to introduce students to the field of linguistics proper through a series of foundation courses in linguistics theory and methodology; to provide training in the application of certain theoretical and methodological tools to the analysis of linguistic data; and to offer an array of interdisciplinary courses that allow students to explore other related fields that best suit their interests.

Major Requirements

Students may major in linguistics through the Linguistics department at Swarthmore College (http://www.swarthmore.edu/SocSci/Linguistics/). Contact the department for more details.
Minor Requirements

Students may minor in linguistics through Haverford by completing six credits in the following three areas of study:

A. Mandatory Foundation Courses (three credits):

   LING H113 or LING S050 Introduction to Syntax
   LING H114 or LING S040 Introduction to Semantics
   LING H115 Phonetics and Phonology

B. Synthesis Courses (choose one):

   LING H282 Structure of Chinese
   LING H382 Syntax and Semantics of Mandarin Chinese
   LING S060 Structure of Navajo
   LING S062 Structure of American Sign Language
   LING S064 Structure of Tuven

C. Elective Courses (choose two):

   LING/PSYC H238 The Psychology of Language
   LING B239 Introduction to Linguistics
   LING B242 Chinese Language in Culture and Society
   LING/PHIL H253 Analytic Philosophy of Language
   LING/PHIL H260 Historical Introduction to Logic
   LING/ANTH B281 Language in the Social Context
   LING H295 Seminar in Syntax
   CMSC B325 Computational Linguistics
   LING H365 The Politics of Language in the Spanish-Speaking World

All linguistics courses offered at Swarthmore College will be accepted for credit for various categories.

Bryn Mawr College courses in Linguistics:

LING B113 Introduction to Syntax
Introduces the investigation of sentence structures in human language, emphasizing insights from linguists over the past 40 years. The class will develop an increasingly complex theory starting with basic assumptions and seeing where they lead. Students will gain a clearer understanding of grammar, develop and refine skills of analysis, writing, and argumentation. We will focus on English, occasionally using other languages to look at ways human languages are similar and how they differ. (Kandybowicz, Division I)

LING B239 Introduction to Linguistics
(Kandybowicz, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

LING B281 Language in Social Context
(Weidman, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B281) Not offered in 2009-10.

LING B325 Computational Linguistics
(Kumar, Division I; cross-listed as CMSC B325)
Haverford College currently offers the following courses in Linguistics:

LING H101 Introduction to Linguistics
LING H114 Introduction to Semantics
LING H115 Phonetics and Phonology
LING H365 The Politics of Language in the Spanish-Speaking World
LINGH382 Topics in Chinese Syntax and Semantics

Swarthmore College currently offers the following courses in Linguistics:

LING S001 Introduction to Language and Linguistic
LING S006 FYS: Language and Deafness
LING S015 Introduction to the Lenape Language
LING S021 Language, Race, and Ethnic Identities
LING S022 Latino Languages and Dialects in Contact in Families, Schools and Communities
LING S025 Language, Culture and Society
LING S034 Psychology of Language
LING S040 Semantics
LING S043 Morphology and the Lexicon
LING S045 Phonetics and Phonology
LING S050 Syntax
LING S055 Writing or Language Policy
LING S064 Structure of Tuvan
LING S075 Field Methods
LING S100 Research Seminar
LING S107 Seminar in Syntax
LING S195 Senior Honors Thesis
Students may complete a major or minor in Mathematics. With the major, students may complete the requirements for secondary school certification. Majors may complete an M.A. in Mathematics, if accepted into the combined A.B./M.A. program, or may enter the 3-2 Program in Engineering and Applied Science at the California Institute of Technology.

Faculty

Leslie C. Cheng, Associate Professor and Chair
Victor J. Donnay, Professor
Jane T. Farella, Instructor
Helen G. Grundman, Professor
Rhonda J. Hughes, Professor
Peter G. Kasius, Instructor
Paul M. Melvin, Professor (on leave Semesters I and II)
Amy N. Myers, Lecturer and Math Program Coordinator
Lisa M. Traynor, Professor (on leave Semester II)
Rebecca Vandiver, Postdoctoral Fellow in Mathematics and Biology

The Mathematics curriculum is designed to expose students to a wide spectrum of ideas in modern mathematics, train students in the art of logical reasoning and clear expression, and provide students with an appreciation of the beauty of the subject and of its vast applicability.

Major Requirements

A minimum of 10 semester courses is required for the major, including the six core courses listed below and four electives at or above the 200 level.

Core Requirements:

MATH B201 Multivariable Calculus (H121 or H216)
MATH B203 Linear Algebra (H215)
MATH B301 Real Analysis I (H317)
MATH B303 Abstract Algebra I (H333)
MATH B302 Real Analysis II (H318) or MATH B304 Abstract Algebra II (H334)
MATH B398 or B399 Senior Conference

With the exception of Senior Conference, equivalent courses at Haverford or elsewhere may be substituted for Bryn Mawr courses with approval of the major adviser. In consultation with a major adviser, a student may also petition the department to accept courses in fields outside of mathematics as electives if these courses have serious mathematical content appropriate to the student’s program.

Mathematics majors are encouraged to complete their core requirements other than Senior Conference by the end of their junior year. Senior Conference must be taken during the senior year. Students considering the possibility of graduate study in mathematics or related fields are urged to go well beyond the minimum requirements of the major. In such cases, a suitable program of study should be designed with the advice of a major adviser.

Honors

A degree with honors in mathematics will be awarded by the department to students who complete the major in mathematics and also meet the following further requirements: at least two additional semesters of work at the 300 level or above (this includes Supervised Work 403), completion of a meritorious project consisting of a written thesis and an oral presentation of the thesis, and a major grade point average of at least 3.6, calculated at the end of the senior year.
Mathematics 244

Minor Requirements

The minor requires five courses in mathematics at the 200 level or higher, of which at least two must be at the 300 level or higher.

Advanced Placement

Students entering with a 4 or 5 on the Calculus AB advanced placement test will be given credit for MATH 101 and should enroll in MATH 102 as their first mathematics course. Students entering with a 4 or 5 on the Calculus BC advanced placement test will be given credit for MATH 101 and 102, and should enroll in MATH 201 as their first mathematics course. All other students are strongly encouraged to take the Mathematics Placement Exam so they can be best advised.

A.B./M.A. Program

For students entering with advanced placement credits it is possible to earn both the A.B. and
M.A. degrees in an integrated program in four or five years.

3-2 Program in Engineering and Applied Science

See the description of the 3-2 Program in Engineering and Applied Science, offered in cooperation with the California Institute of Technology, for earning both an A.B. at Bryn Mawr and a B.S. at Cal Tech.

MATH B001 Fundamentals of Mathematics

Basic techniques of algebra, analytic geometry, graphing, and trigonometry for students who need to improve these skills before entering other courses that use them, both inside and outside mathematics. Placement in this course is by advice of the department and permission of the instructor. (Farella)

MATH B005 Math Workshop

Review of arithmetic and introduction to the basics of elementary and intermediate algebra for students whose mathematical backgrounds require such support. This course prepares students to take either MATH 001 or MATH 104 immediately thereafter. Placement in this course is by advice of the department. 0.5 course credit. (Farella)

MATH B101, B102 Calculus with Analytic Geometry I and II

Differentiation and integration of algebraic and elementary transcendental functions, with the necessary elements of analytic geometry and trigonometry; the fundamental theorem, its role in theory and applications, methods of integration, applications of the definite integral, infinite series.
May include a computer lab component. Prerequisite: math readiness or permission of the instructor. Students in the calculus sequence need a grade of 2.0 or better to continue with the next course. (Cheng, Hughes, Myers, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

MATH B104 Elements of Probability and Statistics

This course introduces students to key concepts in both descriptive and inferential statistics.
Students learn how to collect, describe, display, and interpret both raw and summarized data in meaningful ways. Topics include summary statistics, graphical displays, correlation, regression, probability, the law of averages, expected value, standard error, the central limit theorem, hypothesis testing, sampling procedures, and bias. Students learn to use statistical software to summarize, present, and interpret data. This course may not be taken after any other statistics course. Prerequisite: math readiness or permission of instructor. (Myers, Quantitative Skills)
MATH B201 Multivariable Calculus
Vectors and geometry in two and three dimensions, partial derivatives, extremal problems, double and triple integrals, line and surface integrals, Green’s and Stokes’ Theorems. May include a computer lab component. Prerequisite: MATH 102 or permission of instructor. (Donnay, Kasius, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

MATH B203 Linear Algebra
Matrices and systems of linear equations, vector spaces and linear transformations, determinants, eigenvalues and eigenvectors, inner product spaces and quadratic forms. May include a computer lab component. Prerequisite: MATH 102 or permission of instructor. (Kasius, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

MATH B205 Theory of Probability with Applications
Random variables, probability distributions on $\mathbb{R}^n$, limit theorems, random processes. Prerequisite: MATH 201. (staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills) Not offered in 2009-10.

MATH B206 Transition to Higher Mathematics
An introduction to higher mathematics with a focus on proof writing. Topics include active reading of mathematics, constructing appropriate examples, problem solving, logical reasoning, and communication of mathematics through proofs. Students will develop skills while exploring key concepts from algebra, analysis, topology, and other advanced fields. Corequisite: MATH 203; not open to students who have had a 300-level math course. (Kasius, Division II)

MATH B210 Differential Equations with Applications
Ordinary differential equations, including general first-order equations, linear equations of higher order and systems of equations, via numerical, geometrical, and analytic methods. Applications to physics, biology, and economics. Corequisite: MATH 201 or 203. (Vandiver, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

MATH B221 Introduction to Topology and Geometry
An introduction to the ideas of topology and geometry through the study of knots and surfaces in three-dimensional space. The course content may vary from year to year, but will generally include some historical perspectives and some discussion of connections with the natural and life sciences. Corequisite: MATH 201 or 203. (staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills) Not offered in 2009-10.

MATH B225 Introduction to Financial Mathematics
Topics to be covered include market conventions and instruments, Black-Scholes option-pricing model, and practical aspects of trading and hedging. All necessary definitions from probability theory (random variables, normal and lognormal distribution, etc.) will be explained. Prerequisite: MATH 102. ECON 105 is recommended. (staff, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

MATH B231 Discrete Mathematics
An introduction to discrete mathematics with strong applications to computer science. Topics include set theory, functions and relations, propositional logic, proof techniques, recursion, counting techniques, difference equations, graphs, and trees. (Hughes, Division II and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as CMSC B231)

MATH B261 Introduction to Harmonic Analysis and Wavelets
A first introduction to harmonic analysis and wavelets. Topics to be covered: Fourier series, Fourier transform, wavelets, and their applications, including signal processing and medical imaging. Prerequisite: MATH 203 or permission of instructor. (Cheng, Division II)
MATH B290 Elementary Number Theory
Properties of the integers, divisibility, primality and factorization, congruences, Chinese remainder theorem, multiplicative functions, quadratic residues and quadratic reciprocity, continued fractions, and applications to computer science and cryptography. Prerequisite: MATH 102. (staff, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

MATH B295 Select Topics in Mathematics: Geometry
This course will cover topics that are not part of the standard departmental offerings and will vary from semester to semester. Students may take this course more than once. Prerequisites vary, depending on the topic. (Kasius, Division II)

MATH B301, B302 Introduction to Real Analysis I and II
The real number system, elements of set theory and topology, continuous functions, uniform convergence, the Riemann integral, power series, Fourier series and other limit processes. Prerequisite: MATH 201. (Donnay, Division II)

MATH B303, B304 Abstract Algebra I and II
Groups, rings, and fields and their homomorphisms. Quotient groups, quotient rings, and the isomorphism theorems. Standard examples including symmetric groups, free groups, and finitely generated abelian groups; integral domains, PID’s and UFD’s, and polynomial rings; finite and infinite fields. Sylow theory and field extensions. Additional topics may include: Galois theory, modules and canonical forms of matrices, algebraic closures, and localization. Prerequisite: MATH 203. (Grundman, Division II)

MATH B308 Applied Mathematics: Math Modeling
Development, analysis, and evaluation of mathematical models for problems of current research interest in biology, ecology, geophysics, engineering, and the social sciences. Prerequisites: MATH 102 or permission of instructor. (Vandiver, Division II)

MATH B311 Partial Differential Equations
Heat and wave equations on bounded and unbounded domains, Laplace’s equation, Fourier series and the Fourier transform, qualitative behavior of solutions, computational methods. Applications to the physical and life sciences. Prerequisite: MATH 301 or permission of instructor. (staff, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

MATH B312 Topology
General topology (topological spaces, continuity, compactness, connectedness, quotient spaces), the fundamental group and covering spaces, introduction to geometric topology (classification of surfaces, manifolds). Typically offered yearly in alternation with Haverford. Corequisite: MATH 301, MATH 303, or permission of instructor. (staff, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

MATH B322 Functions of Complex Variables
Analytic functions, Cauchy’s theorem, Laurent series, calculus of residues, conformal mappings, Moebius transformations, infinite products, entire functions, Riemann mapping theorem, Picard’s theorem. Prerequisite: MATH 301 or permission of instructor. (Hughes, Division II)

MATH B390 Number Theory
Algebraic number fields and rings of integers, quadratic and cyclotomic fields, norm and trace, ideal theory, factorization and prime decomposition, lattices and the geometry of algebraic integers, class numbers and ideal class groups, computational methods, Dirichlet’s unit theorem. Prerequisite: MATH 303 or permission of instructor. (staff, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

MATH B395, B396 Research Seminar
A research seminar for students involved in individual or small group research under the supervision of the instructor. With permission, the course may be repeated for credit. Prerequisite: Permission of instructor. (staff)
MATH B398, B399 Senior Conference
A seminar for seniors majoring in mathematics. Topics vary from year to year. (Cheng, Donnay, Traynor)

MATH B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

MATH 501, 502 Graduate Analysis I and II
(staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

MATH 503, 504 Graduate Algebra I and II
(Grundman)

MATH 505, 506 Graduate Topology I and II
(Traynor)
Students may complete a concentration in Middle Eastern Studies.

Coordinators

Peter Magee, Classical and Near Eastern Archeology
Marc Ross, Political Science and Peace and Conflict Studies

There are two different tracks for students who wish to concentrate in Middle Eastern Studies.

Track 1

The first track consists of six courses in the Humanities or Social Sciences that focus on the ancient or modern Middle East distributed in the following manner:

a. An introductory course called “Themes in Middle Eastern Society and Culture” This course will be offered every other year by relevant Middle Eastern Studies Institute (MESI) faculty from Bryn Mawr and, where possible, the Tri-Co Community. The course will be taught by at least two faculty members who would follow a broadly defined theme. Possible themes include: Irrigation, Agriculture and Society; History and Collective Memory; Urbanism and Social Transformation; War and Peace, and Literature and Imagination.

b. Three elective Middle Eastern topic courses, including at least one at the 300 level in a specific area to be chosen in consultation with the student's adviser. This area might be defined in terms of conceptual, historical, or geographical interests and, in many cases, will be connected to work in the student's major.

c. Two additional Middle Eastern topic courses, at least one of which must be in either the humanities or social sciences if a student’s work in (a) and (b) does not include one or the other of these.

d. Of the six courses one must be pre-modern in content.

e. Of the six courses only three may be in the student’s major.

Track 2

The second track consists of language study and other courses. Students opting for this track must take the equivalent of two years of study of a modern Middle Eastern language or pass a proficiency exam in one of these languages, whereby they may also meet the standard set for the A.B. degree for the foreign language requirement. Four additional courses distributed as follows are required for the concentration:

a. An introductory course called “Themes in Middle Eastern Society and Culture” as defined above.

b. Three elective Middle Eastern topic courses, which meet the following conditions:

c. One course must be in the social sciences;

d. One course must be in the humanities;

e. At least one course must be at the 300 level to be selected after consultation with the student's adviser so as to expose the student to in-depth study of the Middle East with a geographic, conceptual, or particular historical focus;

f. At least one course must be pre-modern in content.

g. Of the four courses, only two may also form a part of the student’s major.
Students may complete a major or minor in Music at Haverford College.

Faculty

Ingrid Arauco, Associate Professor
Christine Cacioppo, Visiting Instructor
Curt Cacioppo, Ruth Marshall Magill Professor
Richard Freedman, Professor and Chair
Heidi Jacob, Associate Professor and Director of the Haverford-Bryn Mawr Orchestral Program
Thomas Lloyd, Associate Professor and Director of the Haverford-Bryn Mawr Choral Program

The music curriculum is designed to deepen understanding of musical form and expression through development of skills in composition and performance joined with analysis of musical works and their place in various cultures. A major in music provides a foundation for further study leading to a career in music.

The composition/theory program stresses proficiency in aural, keyboard and vocal skills, and written harmony and counterpoint. Composition following important historical models and experimentation with contemporary styles are emphasized.

The musicology program, which emphasizes European, North American, and Asian traditions, considers music in the rich context of its social, religious, and aesthetic surroundings.

The performance program offers opportunities to participate in the Haverford-Bryn Mawr Chamber Singers, Chorale, Orchestra, and ensembles formed within the context of Haverford’s chamber music program. Students can receive academic credit for participating in these ensembles (MUSC 102, 214, 215, 216, and 219). They can also receive credit for Private Study (MUSC 208, 209, 210) in voice or their chosen instrument.

Special Programs and Funds

The Music Department Guest Artists Series presents distinguished and emerging performers in public concerts, master classes, lecture-demonstrations, reading sessions, and informal encounters. Among artists recently featured have been Native American flutist Mary Youngblood, the Cuarteto Latinoamericano, pianist Charles Abramovic, violinist Arnold Steinhardt, the Network for New Music, and the American String Quartet. The William Heartt Reese Music Fund was established in 1977 to honor William Heartt Reese, professor of music and conductor of the glee club and orchestra at Haverford from 1947 to 1975. The fund supports applied music lessons for students enrolled in the department’s private study program. The John H. Davison ’51 Fund for Student Composers supports new works by student composers. This fund recognizes John’s 40 years of teaching and musical creativity at Haverford. The Orpheus Prize is awarded for exceptional achievement in the practice of tonal harmony. The Kessinger Family Fund for Asian Performing Arts sponsors musical performances and lecture-demonstrations that enrich Haverford’s cross-cultural programs. Since its inception in 1997, the fund has sponsored visits by artists representing traditions of South, Central, and East Asia, and Indonesia.

Major Requirements

1) Theory-composition: 203a, 204b, 303a.

2) Musicology: three courses chosen from 221a/b, 222a/b, 223a/b, 224a/b, 325a/b.
3) Two electives in music, chosen from: 207a/b, 221a/b, 222a/b, 223a/b, 224a/b, 227a/b, 228a/b, 250a/b, 251a/b, 265a/b, 266a/b, 304a/b, and 325a/b.

4) Performance: participation in a department-sponsored performance group is required for at least a year. Music 208, 209, or 210f,i instrumental or vocal private study for one year. Continuing ensemble participation and instrumental or vocal private study are strongly urged.

5) An additional full credit course equivalent is required of music majors in their senior year. The senior experience in music may be fulfilled through an independent study project (usually a composition, performance, or research paper pursued in the context of Music 480) or through enhancement of a regular advanced course offering to include an independent study component. The format of the senior experience will be determined prior to the beginning of the student’s senior year, after consultation with the department.

6) Majors are expected to attend the majority of department-sponsored concerts, lectures, and colloquia.

Minor Requirements

1) Theory-Composition: 203a, 204b

2) Musicology: two courses chosen from 221a/b, 222a/b, 223a/b, 224a/b.

3) One elective chosen from: 207a/b, courses not already taken in fulfillment of requirement two, 228a/b, 250a/b, 265a/b, 266a/b, 303a, 304b, 325a/b

4) MUSC 208, 209, 210f,i instrumental or vocal private study or department ensemble participation for one year. Continuing ensemble participation and instrumental or vocal private study are strongly urged.

Substitutions for Haverford College courses in fulfillment of the major or minor in music must be approved in advance by the music department.

Requirements for Honors

Departmental Honors or High Honors will be awarded on the basis of superior work in music courses combined with exceptional accomplishment in the senior experience.

Theory and Composition

MUSC H110 Musicianship and Literature
Intensive introduction to the notational and theoretical materials of music, complemented by work in sight-singing and keyboard harmony. Discussion of musical forms and techniques of melody writing and harmonization; short projects in composition. (Cacioppo)

MUSC H203 Tonal Harmony I
The harmonic vocabulary and compositional techniques of Bach, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, and others. Emphasis is on composing melodies, constructing phrases, and harmonizing in four parts. Composition of minuet and trio, set of variations, or other homophonic piece is the final project. Three class hours plus laboratory period covering related aural and keyboard harmony skills. Prerequisite: MUSC 110 or consent. (Arauco)

MUSC H204 Tonal Harmony II
Continuation of MUSC 203, introducing chromatic harmony and focusing on the development of sonata forms from the Classical through the Romantic period. Composition of a sonata exposition is the final MUSC H251 Project. Three class hours plus laboratory period covering related aural and keyboard harmony skills. Prerequisite: MUSC 203. (Cacioppo)

MUSC H265 Symphonic Technique and Tradition
In this course, we will be familiarizing ourselves with significant orchestral repertory of the past three centuries, learning to read the orchestral score, studying the capabilities of various orchestral instruments and how they are used together, and tracing the evolution of orchestral writing and orchestral forms from the Classical period to the present. Short exercises in scoring for orchestra; final project is a presentation on a major orchestral work of your choice. Prerequisite: MUSC 203. (Arauco)

MUSC H266 Composition
An introduction to the art of composition through weekly assignments designed to invite creative, individual responses to a variety of musical ideas. Scoring for various instruments and ensembles; experimentation with harmony, form, notation and text setting. Weekly performance of student pieces; end-of-semester recital. Prerequisite: MUSC 204 or consent of instructor. (Arauco)

MUSC H303 Advanced Tonal Harmony
Study of late nineteenth-century harmonic practice in selected works of Liszt, Wagner, Brahms, Faure, Wolf, Debussy, and Mahler. Exploration of chromatic harmony through analysis and short exercises; final composition project consisting of either art song or piano piece such as nocturne or intermezzo. Musicianship lab covers related aural and keyboard harmony skills. Prerequisite: MUSC 204. (Cacioppo)

MUSC H304 Counterpoint
18th century contrapuntal techniques and forms with emphasis on the works of J. S. Bach. Canon; composition of two-part invention; fugal writing in three parts; chorale prelude; analysis. Three class hours plus laboratory period covering related aural and keyboard harmony skills. Prerequisite: MUSC 204. (Arauco)

MUSC H325 Seminar in 20th Century Theory and Practice
Classic and contemporary 20th-century composers, works, and trends, with reference to theoretical and aesthetic writings and the broader cultural context. Prerequisite: MUSC 303a or 224. (Cacioppo)

Performance

MUSC H102 Chorale
Chorale is a large mixed chorus that performs major works from the oratorio repertoire with orchestra. Attendance at weekly two-hour rehearsals and dress rehearsals during performance week is required. Prerequisite: Audition and consent of the instructor. (Lloyd)

MUSC H107 Introductory Piano
MUSC 107 is an introduction to music and the art of playing the piano. The course consists of a weekly hour long session on Tuesday evenings (lecture, directed listening, or playing workshop) plus an individual lesson of 20 minutes at an arranged time. A short paper on the listening assignments is required, as is playing on the class recital at the end of the term (these together will comprise the final exam). Enrollment limited to 16 students (5 spaces for majors/minors). (Christine Cacioppo)

MUSC H207 Topics in Piano
Combines private lessons and studio/master classes, musical analysis, research questions into performance practice and historical context, critical examination of sound recorded sources. Preparation of works of selected composer or style period for end of semester class recital is required. Topic for Fall 2008: The Italian Keyboard Tradition. Topic for Spring 2009: American Roots. Prerequisite: Audition and consent of instructor. (Cacioppo) Not offered in 2009-10.

MUSC H208 Private Study: Instrumental
All students enrolled in the private study program should be participating in a departmentally directed ensemble or activity (Chorale, Orchestra, etc.) as advised by their program supervisor. All students in the private study program perform for a faculty jury at the end of the semester. Students assume the cost of their private lessons, but may apply for private study subsidies at the beginning of each semester's study through the department. Prerequisite: Departmental audition and consent of supervisor. (Jacob)

MUSC H209 Private Study: Voice
Prerequisite: Departmental audition and consent of supervisor. (Lloyd)

MUSC H210 Private Study: Piano and Organ
Prerequisite: Departmental audition and consent of supervisor. (Cacioppo)

MUSC H214 Chamber Singers
Chamber Singers is a 30-voice mixed choir that performs a wide range of mostly a cappella repertoire from the Renaissance to the present day in original languages. Attendance required at three 80-minute rehearsals weekly. Prerequisite: Audition and consent of instructor. (Lloyd)

MUSC H215 Chamber Music
Intensive rehearsal of works for small instrumental groups, with supplemental research and listening assigned. Performance is required. The course is available to those who are concurrently studying privately, or who have studied privately immediately prior to the start of the semester. Prerequisite: Audition and consent of instructor. (Jacob)

MUSC H216 Orchestra
For students participating in the Haverford-Bryn Mawr Orchestra, this course addresses the special musical problems of literature rehearsed and performed during the semester. Prerequisite: Audition and consent of instructor. (Jacob)

MUSC H219 Art Song
A performance course devoted to the French, German, English, and American art song literature from Schubert to the present. Weekly performance classes will be accompanied by weekly individual coachings with the instructor, culminating in a public recital at the end of the semester. Prerequisite: Audition and consent of instructor. (Lloyd)

Musicology

MUSC H111 Introduction to Western Music
A survey of the European musical tradition from the middle ages to modern times. Students will hear music by Monteverdi, Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Wagner, Stravinsky, Glass, among many others, developing both listening skills and an awareness of how music relates to the culture that fosters it. In addition to listening and reading, students will attend concerts and prepare written assignments. (Freedman)

MUSC H221 Medieval and Renaissance Music
Music of the 12th through 16th centuries, emphasizing changing approaches to composition, notation, and expression in works by composers such as Hildegard von Bingen, Guillaume de Machaut, Josquin Desprez, and Orlando di Lasso, among many others. Classroom assignments will consider basic problems raised by the study of early music: questions of style and structure, debates about performance practice, and issues of cultural history. Extensive reading and listening culminating in individual research or performance projects. Prerequisite: MUSC 110 or 111 or consent of instructor. (Freedman) Not offered in 2009-10.

MUSC H222 Baroque Music
Music of the 17th and 18th centuries, with focus on central developments of opera, sacred music, and instrumental genres. Through careful study of works by Monteverdi, Lully, Corelli, Handel, Rameau, and Bach, students will explore changing approaches to musical style and design, basic problems of performance practice, and how musicologists have sought to understand the place of music in cultural history. Prerequisite: MUSC 110 or 111 or consent of instructor. (Freedman)
MUSC H223 Classical Music
The music of Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, and Schubert, among many others. Classroom assignments will lead students to explore the origins and development of vocal and instrumental music of the years around 1800, and to consider the ways in which musicologists have approached the study of this repertory. Prerequisite: MUSC 110 or 111 or consent of instructor. (Freedman)

MUSC H224 Romantic Music
Music by Schubert, Chopin, Schumann, Verdi, Wagner, Dvorak, Brahms, and Mahler, among others, with special focus on changing approaches to style of expression, and to the aesthetic principles such works articulate. Themes for Fall 2008 include "Sounds and Images", "Ballads and Myths", "Nationalisms", and "Nostalgia and History". Assignments will allow students to explore individual vocal and instrumental works, and will give students a sense of some of the perspectives to be found in the musicological literature on 19th century music. Prerequisite: MUSC 110 or 111, or consent of instructor. (Freedman) Not offered in 2009-10.

MUSC H246 Words and Music: Wagner's Ring and the Modern World
(Freedman)

MUSC H480 Independent Study
Prerequisite: Approval of department and consent of instructor. (Arauco, Cacioppo, Freedman, Jacob Lloyd)

Diverse Traditions

MUSC H149 Native American Music and Belief
Surveys the principal styles of Native North American singing in ceremonial and secular contexts; discusses contemporary Indian musical cross-overs and the aesthetic of multi-culturalism; emphasizes class participation in singing traditional Indian songs. (Cacioppo) Not offered in 2009-10.

MUSC H227 Jazz and the Politics of Culture
A study of jazz and its social meanings. Starting with an overview of jazz styles and European idioms closely bound to jazz history, the course gives students a basic aural education in musical forms, the process of improvisation, and the fabric of musical performance in the context of how assumptions about order and disorder in music reflect deeply-felt views about society and culture. Enrollment limited to 35 students. Prerequisite: Sophomore standing or higher. (Freedman) Not offered in 2009-10.
NEURAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

Students may complete a concentration in Neural and Behavioral Sciences within the majors of biology and psychology.

Wendy F. Sternberg, Concentration Adviser for Psychology at Haverford College

The desire to understand human and animal behavior in terms of nervous system structure and function is long standing. Historically, this task has been approached from a variety of disciplines including medicine, biology, psychology, and physiology. The field of neuroscience emerged as an interdisciplinary approach, combining techniques and perspectives from these disciplines to yield new insights into the workings of the nervous system and behavior.

The concentration in Neural and Behavioral Sciences is designed to allow students to pursue their interests in behavior and the nervous system across disciplines. The concentration is offered by the Departments of Biology and Psychology at Bryn Mawr and the Departments of Biology and Psychology at Haverford College. Students undertaking the concentration must major in one of these four departments.

The concentration consists of two components. Students must satisfy the requirements of the department in which they major, with appropriate modifications related to the concentration (consult departmental advisers listed above). For the concentration itself, students must take a series of courses that represent the background in the neural and behavioral sciences and other sciences common to all approaches to the nervous system and behavior.

Concentration Requirements

1. One semester of introductory coursework in Biology and Psychology (with lab)
2. One of the following courses in neural and behavioral sciences:
   Neurobiology and Behavior (BIOL 202 at Bryn Mawr)
   Behavioral Neuroscience (PSYC 218 at Bryn Mawr)
   Biological Psychology (PSYC 217 at Haverford)

   Requirements 1 and 2 must be completed before the senior year.
3. Two semesters of senior research (BIOL 401, PSYC 401 at Bryn Mawr).
4. Senior Seminar for concentrators (BIOL 396, PSYC 396 at Bryn Mawr).
5. Participation in faculty-student concentration events (approximately two per semester).
6. Three courses from the list below or a course approved by the student’s major department, with at least two courses drawn from outside the student’s major department.

List Of Courses

Note—not all courses are offered in a given year and two half-semester courses equal one full-semester course

Psychology

B209 Abnormal Psychology
B212 Human Cognition
H213 Memory and Cognition
H220 Psychology of Time
H238 Psychology of Language
H240 Psychology of Pain and Pain Inhibition
H250 Biopsychology of Emotion and Personality
H260 Cognitive Neuroscience
B323 Cognitive Neuroscience
B350 Developmental Cognitive Disorders
B351 Developmental Psychopathology
H370 Neuroscience of Mental Illness
B395 Psychopharmacology

Biology

H187 Computing Across the Sciences
B250 Computational Models in the Sciences
B271 Developmental Biology
B303 Animal Physiology
B304 Cell and Molecular Neurobiology
H306 Inter and Intra Cellular Communication (half-semester course)
H309 Molecular Neurobiology (half-semester course)
H312 Development and Evolution (half-semester course)
B313/314 Integrative Organismal Biology I and II
B321 Neuroethology
B322 From Channels to Behavior
H350 Pattern Formation in the Nervous System (half-semester course)
B364 Developmental Neurobiology

Allied disciplines

Computer Science

B120 Visualizing Information
B250 Computational Models in the Sciences
B325 Computational Linguistics
B361 Emergence
B371 Cognitive Science
B372 Introduction to Artificial Intelligence
B376 Androids: Design and Practice
B380 Developmental Robotics
Linguistics

The goal of the Bi-College concentration is to present a range of social science theories and methods relevant to explaining human conflict and cooperation in settings ranging from local small communities to the international system. It reflects Bryn Mawr’s and Haverford’s interest to the study of war and social conflict, peacemaking, and social justice as well as related issues of human rights. The concentration offers students the opportunity to sustain a thematic focus across disciplinary boundaries and to enrich their major program in the process. Students in the concentration can pursue a wide range of theoretical and substantive interests concerning questions such as: intra-state and international causes of conflict; the economics and ethics of scientific, health, and medical research and practices; cooperative and competitive strategies of negotiation and bargaining; intergroup relations and the role of culturally constituted institutions and practices in conflict management; social movements; protests and revolutions; representations of others (of women, of non-Western societies) and the social and political implications of those; the role of religion in social conflict and its mitigation; human rights and transitional justice in post-conflict societies; and social justice, identity, and human rights questions arising from ethnic, religious, biological, gender, and/or cultural diversity and the implications of these for the distribution of material and symbolic resources as well as the practical capacities to engage individuals and groups across constructions of difference by linking practice and theory. Students in the concentration are encouraged to explore alternative conceptions of peace and social justice in different disciplines/fields, cultural contexts, and historical moments. The concentration fosters the connections between the intellectual scaffolding needed to analyze the construction of social identities and the social, political, and economic implications of these constructions for the distribution of material and symbolic resources within and between societies. It provides students support as they take on the challenges and opportunities of engaging individuals and groups to move their communities and societies towards peace and social justice.

Concentration Requirements

The concentration is composed of a six-course cluster centering on conflict, cooperation and social justice within and between nations. Of these six courses, no more than three may be in the student’s major. The Peace and Conflict Studies concentration builds upon the long-standing interest in war, conflict and peacemaking, and social justice, as well as questions derived from work in the fields of anthropology, economics, history, political science, social psychology, and sociology. It draws on these fields for theoretical understandings of matters such as bargaining, social, economic, and political sources of conflict, cooperative and justice and examines competitive strategies of negotiation, intergroup relations, human rights, transitional justice, post-conflict peacemaking, and the role of institutions in conflict management.

Students meet with the coordinator in the spring of their sophomore year to work out a plan for the concentration. All concentrators are required to take three core courses: the introductory course, ANTH/POLS 111 (offered as ICPR 111 at Haverford); either ANTH/POLS 206 or an equivalent 200 level course; and ANTH/POLS 347. It is advised that concentrators complete at least two of these three courses by the end of their junior year.

Students are required to take three additional courses chosen in consultation with the coordinator, working out a plan that focuses this second half of their concentration regionally, conceptually, or around a particular substantive problem. These courses might include international conflict and resolution; ethnic conflict in general or in a specific region of the world (e.g., South Africa, the Middle East, Northern Ireland); a theoretical approach to the field, such as nonviolence, bargaining, or game theory; an applied problem, such as reducing violence among youth, minority-majority relations, the arts and peacemaking, community mediation, or post-conflict peacebuilding and reconciliation.

Peace and Conflict Studies courses currently available at Bryn Mawr include:

ANTH B111/POLS B111 Introduction to Peace and Conflict Studies
ANTH B206/POLS B206 Conflict and Conflict Management: A Cross-Cultural Approach
ANTH B261 Palestine and Israeli Society
ANTH B337 Settler Colonialism
ANTH B347/POLS B347 Advanced Issues in Peace and Conflict Studies
CITY B348/POLS B348 Culture and Ethnic Conflict
ECON B285/POLS B385 Democracy and Development
POLS B141 International Politics
POLS B217 State/Transformation/Conflict
POLS B358/PSYC B358 Political Psychology: Ethnic Conflict
POLS B383 Islamic Reform and Radicalism

Peace and Conflict Studies courses currently available at Haverford include:

HIST H240 History and Principles of Quakerism
ICPR H281 Violence and Public Health
ICPR H301 Human Rights: Development and International Activism
POLS H151 International Politics
POLS H253 Introduction to Terrorism Studies
POLS H257 The State System
POLS H339 Transitional Justice
POLS H345 Islam, Democracy and Development
POLS H339 Transitional Justice
POLS H357 International Relations Theory: Conflict and the Middle East
POLS H362 Global Justice
POLS H365 Solidarity Economic Movements
PHILOSOPHY

Students may complete a major or minor in Philosophy.

Faculty

Robert J. Dostal, Professor
Christine M. Koggel, Professor and Chair
Michael Krausz, Professor
Bharath Vallabha, Assistant Professor

The Department of Philosophy introduces students to some of the most compelling answers to questions of human existence and knowledge. It also grooms students for a variety of fields that require analysis, conceptual precision, argumentative skill, and clarity of thought and expression. These include administration, the arts, business, computer science, health professions, law, and social services. The major in Philosophy also prepares students for graduate-level study leading to careers in teaching and research in the discipline.

The curriculum focuses on three major areas: the systematic areas of philosophy, such as logic, theory of knowledge, metaphysics, ethics, and aesthetics; the history of philosophy through the study of key philosophers and philosophical periods; and the philosophical explication of methods in such domains as art, history, religion, and science.

The department is a member of the Greater Philadelphia Philosophy Consortium comprising 13 member institutions in the Delaware Valley. It sponsors conferences on various topics in philosophy and an annual undergraduate student philosophy conference.

Major Requirements

Students majoring in Philosophy must take a minimum of 11 semester courses and attend the monthly noncredit departmental colloquia. The following five courses are required for the major: the two-semester Historical Introduction (PHIL 101 and 201); Ethics (PHIL 221); Theory of Knowledge (PHIL 211), Metaphysics (PHIL 212), or Logic (PHIL 103); and Senior Conference (PHIL 398 and PHIL 399). At least three other courses at the 300 level are required. Majors must take one historical course that concentrates on the work of a single philosopher or a period in philosophy.

Philosophy majors are encouraged to supplement their philosophical interests by taking advantage of courses offered in related areas, such as anthropology, history, history of art, languages, literature, mathematics, political science, psychology, and sociology.

Honors

Honors will be awarded by the department based on the senior thesis and other work completed in the department. The Milton C. Nahm Prize in Philosophy is a cash award presented to the graduating senior major whose senior thesis the department judges to be of outstanding caliber. This prize need not be granted every year.

Minor Requirements

Students may minor in Philosophy by taking six courses in the discipline at any level. They must also attend the monthly noncredit departmental colloquia.
Cross-Registration

Students may take advantage of cross-registration arrangements with Haverford College, Swarthmore College, and the University of Pennsylvania. Courses at these institutions may satisfy Bryn Mawr requirements, but students should check with the chair of the department to make sure specific courses meet requirements.

Prerequisites

No introductory-level course carries a prerequisite. However, most courses at both the intermediate and advanced levels carry prerequisites. Unless stated otherwise in the course description, any introductory course satisfies the prerequisite for an intermediate-level course, and any intermediate course satisfies the prerequisite for an advanced-level course.

PHIL B101 Historical Introduction to Philosophy: Ancient Philosophy
Introduces some of the central questions of philosophy: How is the mind related to the body? What is knowledge and truth? What is the good life and why should we be moral? What is philosophy? Starting with Socrates’ conception of philosophy, considers his influence on Plato’s rationalism, Aristotle’s naturalism, Sextus’ skepticism and Augustine’s theism. Also focuses on evaluating their arguments and developing our own views. (Dostal, Vallabha, Division III)

PHIL B102 Introduction to Problems in Philosophy
Contemporary formulations of certain philosophical problems are examined, such as the nature of knowledge; persons; freedom and determinism; the grounds of rationality; cognitive and moral relativism; and creativity in both science and art. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B103 Introduction to Logic
Training in reading and writing proof discourses (i.e., those segments of writing or speech that express deductive reasoning) to gain insight into the nature of logic, the relationship between logic and linguistics, and the place of logic in theory of knowledge. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B201 Historical Introduction to Philosophy: Modern Philosophy
Can consciousness be explained from an objective perspective? Is knowledge based on reason or perception? Is belief in God incompatible with reason? What are the foundations of morality? These questions were first articulated in the modern period. We will consider Descartes’ rationalism, Hume’s empiricism, Kant’s critical philosophy, Mill’s utilitarianism and Nietzsche’s genealogy. Our aim will be to understand these philosopher’s responses to each other, to evaluate their arguments and thereby develop our own views. (Dostal, Vallabha, Division III)

PHIL B202 Culture and Interpretation
A study of methodological and philosophical issues associated with interpreting alternative cultures, including whether ethnocentrism is inevitable, whether alternative cultures are found or imputed, whether interpretation is invariably circular or relativistic, and what counts as a good reason for one cultural interpretation over another. (Krausz, Division III; cross-listed as COML B202) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B204 Readings in German Intellectual History
(Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B212)

PHIL B209 Introduction to Literary Analysis: Philosophical Approaches to Criticism
(Seyhan, Division III; cross-listed as GERM B209 and COML B209)

PHIL B211 Theory of Knowledge
This course will be an introduction to the theory of knowledge, or epistemology. We will examine in detail arguments about two central concerns of epistemologists in the 20th century: skepticism about our knowledge of objects in the external world and epistemological naturalism. (Krausz, Division III)

PHIL B212 Metaphysics: Free Will and Personal Identity
Prerequisite: One course in Philosophy recommended. Metaphysics is the inquiry into basic features of the world and ourselves. This course considers two topics of metaphysics, free will and personal identity, and their relationship. What is free will and are we free? Is freedom compatible with determinism? Does moral responsibility require free will? What makes someone the same person over time? Can a person survive without their body? Is the recognition of others required to be a person? (Vallabha, Division III)

PHIL B221 Ethics
An introduction to ethics by way of an examination of moral theories and a discussion of important ancient, modern, and contemporary texts which established these theories: virtue ethics, deontology, utilitarianism, emotivism, care ethics. This course considers questions concerning freedom, responsibility, and obligation. What is the relation of ethics to religion? How should we think about ethics in a global context? Is ethics independent of culture? A variety of practical questions will be considered. (Koggel, Division III)

PHIL B222 Aesthetics: Nature and Experience of Art
Prerequisite: One introductory course in philosophy. Here are some questions we will discuss in this course: What sort of thing is a work of art? Can criticism in the arts be objective? Do such cultural entities answer to more than one admissible interpretation? What is the role of a creator’s intentions in fixing upon admissible interpretations? What is the nature of aesthetic experience? What is creativity in the arts? Readings will be drawn from contemporary sources from the analytic and continental traditions, including John Dewey, Art as Experience, and works in Gary Iseminger, ed., Intention and Interpretation. (Krausz, Division III; cross-listed as COML B222)

PHIL B228 Introduction to Political Philosophy: Ancient and Early Modern (Salkever, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B228) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B229 Concepts of the Self
In this course, we will discuss several related philosophical questions about the nature of the self, introspection, self-knowledge, and personal identity. What kind of thing is the self? Is the self identical with your body or something distinct from it? What is introspection? What are you conscious of when you are self-conscious? How does knowledge of your own thoughts, sensations, and desires differ from other kinds of knowledge? What kinds of changes can you undergo and still remain the same person you were before? We will address these issues by reading work from both historical and contemporary sources. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B230 Discrete Mathematics
(Hughes, Division II and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as MATH B231 and CMSC B231)

PHIL B231 Introduction to Political Philosophy: Modern (Salkever, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B231) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B238 Science, Technology, and the Good Life
This course considers questions concerning what is science, what is technology, and what is their relationship to each other and to the domains of ethics and politics. We will consider how modern science defined itself in its opposition to Aristotelian science. We will examine the Cartesian and Baconian scientific models and the self-understanding of these models with regard to ethics and politics. Developments in the philosophy of science will be considered, e.g., positivism, phenomenology, feminism, sociology of science. Biotechnology and information technology illustrate fundamental questions. The “science wars” of the 1990s provide debates concerning science, technology, and the good life. (Dostal, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B238)
PHIL B243 Twentieth-Century Continental Philosophy
Surveys 20th-century continental philosophy: phenomenology, existentialism, hermeneutics, Marxism and the Frankfurt school, structuralism, and post-structuralism and deconstruction. Themes include meaning and truth, the basis for ethics and politics, embodiment, language, the "other," and feminism. Philosophers discussed include Derrida, Foucault, Gadamer, Habermas, Heidegger, Husserl, Merleau-Ponty, and Sartre. Prerequisites: PHIL B101 or PHIL B201. (Dostal, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B244 Philosophy and Cognitive Science
Cognitive science is a multidisciplinary approach to the study of human cognition. It goes from the abstract study of concepts of cognition at one end to well-defined empirical research into language and cognition and the specifics of cognitive modeling on computers at the other. Philosophy, linguistics, psychology, computer science, and neuroscience are the major contributors to cognitive science. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B245 Philosophy of Law
(Elkins; cross-listed as POLS B245)

PHIL B252 Feminist Theory
An examination of feminist critiques of traditional philosophical conceptions of morality, the self, reason, and objectivity; philosophical contributions to issues of concern for feminists, such as the nature of equality, justice, and oppression, are studied. Prerequisite: one course in philosophy or permission of instructor. (Koggel, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B253)

PHIL B254 Philosophy of Religion
An introduction to principle topics in the philosophy of religion: Does God exist? Is belief in God compatible with reason and science? Is God's existence compatible with deep suffering and pain? Does the fact that there are many religions show that there is no religious truth? Includes readings from eastern and western traditions and from analytic and continental philosophy. Authors will include Aquinas, Aurobindo, Dalai Lama, Dennett, James, Kierkegaard and Wittgenstein. (Vallabha, Division III)

PHIL B257 Philosophy of Action
What are actions? How are they related to mental states such as beliefs and desires and the physical environment? This course considers three important contemporary theories of action: Davidson's causal theory; Anscombe's neo-Aristotelian view; and Frankfurt's hierarchical theory. Topics include: free will; the nature of intentions; an agent's knowledge of her actions; and the weakness of the will. Prerequisite: at least one course in philosophy. (Vallabha, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B259 Philosophy, Modern Physics, and Ideals of Interpretation
In the modern era, interpretive ideals like objectivity, certainty, and causality have been intensely scrutinized. Must there be a fact of the matter independently of all interpretive practices? Must there be a single right interpretation for all physical and cultural phenomena? Various readings will explore these and other questions. Prerequisite: one course in Philosophy or Physics or permission of an instructor. Sophomore standing. (Krausz, McCormack, Division III)

PHIL B300 Nietzsche, Kant, Plato: Modes of Practical Philosophy
(Salkever, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B300) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B310 Philosophy of Science
An examination of positivistic science and its critics. Topics include the possibility and nature of scientific progress from relativistic perspectives. (Krausz, Division III; cross-listed as BIOL B310) Not offered in 2009-10.
PHIL B314 Existentialism
The course examines the philosophical roots and development of existentialism through selected readings (including novels and plays where relevant) in the works of Simone de Beauvoir, Camus, Heidegger, Jaspers, Kierkegaard, Marcel, Nietzsche, and Sartre. The focus will be on the main features of the existentialist outlook, including treatments of freedom and choice, the person, subjectivity and intersubjectivity, being, time, and authenticity. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B317 Philosophy of Creativity
This course will address the following questions: What are the criteria of creativity? Is explaining creativity possible? Should we understand creativity in terms of persons, processes or products? What is the relation between creativity and skill? What is genius? What is creative imagination? Is there a difference between creativity in the arts and creativity in the sciences? What is the relation between the context of discovery and the context of justification? What is the relation between tradition and creativity? Is there a significant relationship between creativity and self-transformation? This course follows upon PHIL 222 Aesthetics, but does not presuppose it. (Krausz, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B318 Philosophy of Language: Early Analytic
In this course we will examine core philosophical questions about the nature of language and meaning. What are meanings, and how can linguistic entities (such as words and sentences) “have” them? How do words refer? How can they refer to non-existent entities (Santa Claus, Gandalf)? What is the relation of language to thought? We shall also consider the (supposed) importance of the analysis of language to philosophy (and the so-called “Linguistic Turn” in philosophy). We shall address these questions primarily through a study of the writings of the early analytic philosophers, especially Frege, Russell, and the early Wittgenstein. (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B319 Topics in Philosophy of Mind: Philosophy of Emotions
Our lives are filled with emotions such as love, happiness, envy, boredom and excitement, and they are central to our experience of the world. In this seminar we will focus on the following questions: What is the nature and phenomenology of emotions? Can there be unconscious emotions? Are emotions in the brain or are they forms of behavior? Are emotions guided by reason or are they beyond the control of reason? Readings will include Damasio, Freud, James, Nussbaum, Sartre, Soloman and others. (Vallabha, Division III)

PHIL B321 Greek Political Philosophy Aristotle: Ethics and Politics
(Salkever, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B320)

PHIL B323 Culture and Interpretation
This course will pursue such questions as the following. For all objects of interpretation, must there be a single right interpretation? If not, what is to prevent one from sliding into an interpretive anarchism? Does interpretation affect the nature or the number of an object of interpretation? Does the singularity or multiplicity of interpretations mandate either realism or constructivism or any other ontology? Discussions will be based on contemporary readings. (Krausz, Division III; cross-listed as COML B323)

PHIL B325 Philosophy of Classical Music
This course will consider philosophical issues pertaining to the ontology of works of music, meaning and understanding of music, emotions and expressiveness of music, music and intentionality, scores in relation to performances, the idea of rightness of interpretation, music and morality, and music in relation to other arts and practices. Examples of works will be provided in class. Prerequisite: a 200-level philosophy course or a course in music, music theory, or criticism, or permission of instructor. (Krausz, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
PHIL B326 Relativism: Cognitive and Moral
Cognitive relativists believe that truth is relative to particular cultures or conceptual schemes. In an analogous way, moral relativists believe that moral rightness is relative to particular cultures or conceptual schemes. Relativistic theories of truth and morality are widely embraced in the current intellectual climate, and they are as perplexing as they are provocative. This course will examine varieties of relativism and their absolutistic counterparts. Readings will be drawn from contemporary sources. (Krausz, Division III)

PHIL B327 Political Philosophy in the 20th Century
(Salkever, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B327)

PHIL B330 Kant
Prerequisite: PHIL 201 or the equivalent. The significance of Kant’s transcendental philosophy for thought in the 19th and 20th centuries cannot be overstated. His work is profoundly important for both the analytical and the so-called “continental” schools of thought. This course will provide a close study of Kant’s breakthrough work: The Critique of Pure Reason. We will read and discuss the text with reference to its historical context and with respect to its impact on developments in epistemology, philosophy of mind, philosophy of science, philosophy of religion as well as developments in German Idealism and 20th-century phenomenology. (Dostal, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B338 Phenomenology: Heidegger and Husserl
This upper-level seminar will consider the two main proponents of phenomenology—a movement in philosophy in the 20th century that attempted to restart philosophy in a radical way. Its concerns are philosophically comprehensive: ontology, epistemology, philosophy of science, ethics, and so on. Phenomenology provides the important background for other later developments in 20th-century philosophy and beyond: existentialism, deconstruction, postmodernism. This seminar will focus primarily on Edmund Husserl’s Crisis of the European Sciences and Martin Heidegger’s Being and Time. Other writings to be considered include some of Heidegger’s later work and Merleau-Ponty’s preface to his Phenomenology of Perception. (Dostal, Division III)

PHIL B344 Development Ethics
This course explores the questions and moral issues raised by development in the context of globalization. Questions to be considered include: In what direction and by what means should a society develop? What are the obligations, if any, of rich countries to poor countries? What role, if any, should rich countries, international institutions, and nongovernmental organizations have in the development or self-development of poor countries? To what extent, if any, do moral relativism, national sovereignty, and universalism pose a challenge to cross-cultural ethical inquiry about theories of human flourishing, human rights, and justice? (Koggel, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B344) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B347 Philosophy of Perception
A discussion of several issues in the philosophy of perception. What exactly do we perceive? What is the role of concepts in our experience? What is the relation between perceptual experience and empirical judgment? Does our capacity to think depend on our ability to perceive? (staff, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B349 Social and Political Theory
(staff, Division I or III; cross-listed as SOCL B349) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B364 Political Philosophy
(Salkever, Elkins, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B364 and COML B364) Not offered in 2009-10.
PHIL B368 The Enlightenment and Its Critics
(staff, Division III; cross-listed as POLS B368) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B371 Topics in Legal and Political Philosophy
(Elkins, Division I or III; cross-listed as POLS B371) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHIL B372 Introduction to Artificial Intelligence
(Kumar, Division II and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as CMSC B372)

PHIL B398 Senior Seminar
Senior majors are required to write an undergraduate thesis on an approved topic. The senior seminar is a two-semester course in which research and writing are directed. Seniors will meet collectively and individually with the supervising instructor. (Koggel, Division III)

PHIL B399 Senior Seminar
(Koggel, Division III)

PHIL B403 Supervised Work
(staff)
Students may complete a major or minor in Physics. Within the major, students may complete a minor in educational studies or complete the requirements for secondary education certification.
Students may complete an M.A. in the combined A.B./M.A. program.

Faculty

Peter A. Beckmann, Professor and Undergraduate Adviser (on leave semester II)
Xuemei May Cheng, Assistant Professor
Mark D. Matlin, Senior Lecturer and Laboratory Coordinator (on leave semester I)
Elizabeth F. McCormack, Professor and Dean of the Graduate School
David J. Nice, Visiting Assistant Professor
Michael W. Noel, Associate Professor and Chair
Michael B. Schulz, Assistant Professor and Graduate Adviser

The courses in Physics emphasize the concepts and techniques that have led to our present way of modeling the world around us. They are designed to both relate the individual parts of physics to the whole and to treat the various subjects in depth. Opportunities exist for interdisciplinary work and for participation by qualified majors in research with members of the faculty and their graduate students. In addition, qualified seniors may take graduate courses.

Required Introductory Courses for the Major and Minor

The introductory courses required for the physics major and minor are PHYS 121 and PHYS 122
(or PHYS 101 and 102) and MATH 101 and MATH 102. Although College credit is given for a score of 4 or 5 on the AP tests and for a score of 5 or above on the IB examination, the AP and IB courses are not equivalent to PHYS 121 and PHYS 122 and advanced placement will not, in general, be given. However, students with a particularly strong background in physics are encouraged to take the departmental advanced placement examination either during the summer before entering Bryn Mawr or just prior to, or during, the first week of classes. Then, the department can place students in the appropriate course. Students are not given credit for courses they place out of as a result of taking this placement exam. It is best for a student considering a physics major to complete the introductory requirements in the first year. However, the major sequence is designed so that a student who completes the introductory sequence by the end of the sophomore year can major in physics.

Major Requirements

Beyond the two introductory physics courses and the two introductory mathematics courses, nine additional courses are required for the major. (Haverford courses may be substituted for Bryn Mawr courses where appropriate.) Six of the nine courses must be PHYS 201, 214, 306, 331, and MATH 201, 203. The remaining three courses must be chosen from among the other 300-level physics courses, one of which may be substituted with any one course from among ASTR 320, 321, and 333, or any 300-level math course.

The department has been very successful in preparing students for graduate school in physics, physical chemistry, materials science, engineering, and related fields. To be well prepared for graduate school, students should take, at a minimum, PHYS 302, 303, 308, and 309 (in addition to PHYS 306 and 331 which are required for the major). PHYS 322 AND PHYS 325 are also highly recommended. These students should also take any additional physics, mathematics, and chemistry courses that reflect their interests, and should engage in research with a member of the faculty by taking PHYS 403. (Note that PHYS 403 is usually two semesters and does not count towards the 13 courses required for the major.) Seniors can take graduate courses, usually PHYS 501: Quantum Mechanics or PHYS 503: Electromagnetism, to get a head start on graduate school.

Typical plans for a basic four-year major in physics are listed below.

Four-Year Plan meeting the minimum requirements for the major:

1st Year  PHYS 121, 122
          MATH 101, 102
2nd Year  PHYS 201, 214
          MATH 201, 203
3rd Year  PHYS 306, 331, and one other 300-level physics course
4th Year  Two 300-level physics courses

Four-Year Plan providing a minimum preparation for graduate school:

1st Year  PHYS 121, 122
          MATH 101, 102
2nd Year  PHYS 201, 214
          MATH 201, 203
3rd Year  PHYS 306, 331, and either 303, 309 or 308, 302
4th Year  PHYS 308, 302 or 303, 309
          PHYS 403 (both semesters)

The physics program at Bryn Mawr allows for a student to major in physics even if the introductory courses are not completed until the end of the sophomore year, as long as calculus (MATH 101 and 102) is taken in the first year. It is also possible for the student majoring in three years to be adequately prepared for graduate school. To do this, the outline below should be supplemented with (at least) PHYS 403 for both semesters in the 4th year.

Three-Year Plan meeting the minimum requirements for the major:

1st Year  MATH 101, 102
2nd Year  PHYS 121, 122
          MATH 201, 203
3rd Year  PHYS 201, 214, 306, 331
4th Year  Three 300-level physics courses

Honors

The A.B. degree may be awarded with honors in physics. The award is based on the quality of original research done by the student and a minimum grade point average. The research must be described in a senior thesis presented to the department. A grade point average of 3.4 or higher in 200- and 300-level physics courses (including MATH 201 and 203 but excluding PHYS 380, 390, and 403) and an overall grade point average of at least 3.0, both calculated at the end of the senior year, must be achieved.

Minor Requirements

The requirements for the minor, beyond the introductory sequence, are PHYS 201, 214, 306, 331; MATH 201, 203; and one additional 300-level physics course. The astronomy and mathematics courses described under “Major Requirements” may not be substituted for the one additional 300-level physics course.
Minor in Educational Studies or Secondary-School Teacher Certification

Students majoring in physics can pursue a minor in educational studies or state certification to teach at the secondary-school level. Students seeking the minor need to complete six education courses including a two-semester senior seminar, which requires five to eight hours per week of fieldwork. To earn secondary-school certification (grades 7-12) in physics, students must:

- complete the physics major plus two semesters of chemistry and one semester as a teaching assistant in a laboratory for introductory or intermediate physics courses;
- complete six education courses; and
- student-teach full-time (for two course credits) second semester of their senior year.

A.B./M.A. Program

To earn an M.A. degree in physics in the College’s A.B./M.A. program, a student must complete the requirements for an undergraduate physics major and also must complete six units of graduate level work in physics. Of these six units, as many as two units may be undergraduate courses at the 300 level taken for graduate credit (these same two courses may be used to fulfill the major requirements for the A.B. degree), at least two units must be graduate seminars at the 500 level, and two units must be graduate research at the 700 level leading to the submission and oral defense of an acceptable M.A. thesis.

3-2 Program in Engineering and Applied Science

The 3-2 Program in Engineering and Applied Science is offered in cooperation with the California Institute of Technology. Students spend three years at Bryn Mawr, during which time they must complete all non-major requirements. Students then apply to Caltech as a transfer student and admission is determined by Caltech. Students earn both an A.B. at Bryn Mawr and a B.S. at Caltech. Financial aid is not available at Caltech for non-US citizens.

Courses at Haverford College

Many upper-level physics courses are taught at Haverford and Bryn Mawr in alternate years as indicated in the listings of the specific courses below. These courses (numbered 302, 303, 308, 309, and 322) may be taken at either institution to satisfy major requirements. In addition, 100- and 200-level courses can be used to replace 100- and 200-level courses at Bryn Mawr but these courses are not identical and careful planning is required.

Introductory Physics Sequences

Students on a pre-health professions track wanting to take one year of physics should take PHYS 101 and PHYS 102. Some students on a physical sciences major track could take PHYS 121 and PHYS 122 and others might take PHYS 122 and PHYS 201. See your major adviser and carefully note the math pre- and co-requisites for these courses. PHYS121/122/201/214 is a coordinated, four-semester sequence in physics.

PHYS B101, B102 Introductory Physics

Intended primarily for students on the pre-health professions track. Emphasis is on developing an understanding of how we study the universe, the ideas that have arisen from that study, and on problem solving. Topics are taken from among Newtonian kinematics and dynamics, relativity, gravitation, fluid mechanics, waves and sound, electricity and magnetism, electrical circuits, light and optics, quantum mechanics, atomic and nuclear physics, and particle physics and cosmology. An effective and usable understanding of algebra and trigonometry is assumed. First year students who will take or place out of MATH 101 should take PHYS 121. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours. (staff, Division III and Quantitative Skills)
PHYS B107 Physics, Evolution, and Literature: Humans Modeling Their World
This course addresses how human beings model physical systems far from the everyday realm, as well as how human senses work and the role of biological evolution. We develop models for electromagnetism, quantum mechanics, special relativity, general relativity, cosmology, particle physics, and nuclear physics. No mathematics is used. Readings include Abbott’s Flatland, Wells’ The Country of the Blind, Borges’ Library of Babel, Kafka’s Metamorphosis, other short stories, and selected scientific articles. Lecture three hours, discussion session one hour, laboratory three hours. This course does not satisfy the Quantitative Skills requirement. Also see PHYS 157 which is PHYS 107 without the laboratory. (Beckmann, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHYS B108 Contemporary Physics: From Superstrings to the Multiverse
The twentieth century brought two major revolutions in our understanding of the physical universe – the theories of relativity and quantum physics. We will take a close look at each of these theories and their consequences. Newer theories that might unify these, and reconcile our understanding of the very small and the very large, also will be touched on. We also will explore the third major theory of the last century, commonly called "chaos theory," which applies to phenomena ranging from electrical activity in the brain during seizures to the stability of solar systems. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours. This course does not satisfy the Quantitative Skills requirement. Also see PHYS 158 which is PHYS 108 without the laboratory. (Matlin, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHYS B109 How Things Work
This course gives students the opportunity to explore the physical principles that govern the objects and activities familiar in their everyday lives. For example, objects such as roller coasters, rockets, light bulbs and Xerographic copiers will be used to explore motion, fluids, heat, and electricity. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours. Note: this course does not satisfy the Quantitative Skills requirement. Also: see PHYS 159 which is PHYS 109 without the laboratory. (Noel, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHYS B121 Modeling the Physical World: Foundations and Frontiers
This course presents current conceptual understandings and mathematical formulations of fundamental ideas used in physics. Students will develop physical intuition and problem-solving skills by exploring key concepts in physics such as the conservation of energy and momentum and modern topics in physics including the unification of the fundamental forces, relativistic space-time, nuclear and particle physics, and cosmology. This course can serve as a stand-alone survey of physics or as the first of a four-semester sequence designed for those majoring in the physical sciences. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours. Corequisite: MATH 101. (staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

PHYS B122 Classical Mechanics
The lecture material covers Newtonian Mechanics of single particles, systems of particles, rigid bodies, and continuous media with applications, one-dimensional systems including forced and nonlinear oscillators, scattering and orbit problems. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours. Prerequisites: PHYS 121 and MATH 101. Corequisite: MATH 102. (staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

PHYS B157 Physics, Evolution, and Literature: Humans Modeling Their World.
PHYS 107 but without the laboratory. (Beckmann, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.

PHYS B158 Contemporary Physics: From Superstrings to the Multiverse
PHYS B108 but without the laboratory. (Matlin, Division II).

PHYS B159 How Things Work
PHYS 109 but without the laboratory. (Noel, Division II) Not offered in 2009-10.
PHYS B201 Electromagnetism
The lecture material covers electrostatics, electric currents, magnetic fields, electromagnetic induction, Maxwell's equations, and electromagnetic waves. Scalar and vector fields and vector calculus are introduced and developed as needed. The laboratory involves passive and active circuits and analog and digital electronics. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours. Prerequisite: PHYS 102 or 122. Corequisite: MATH 201. (staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

PHYS B214 An Introduction to Quantum Mechanics
An introduction to the principles governing systems at the atomic scale or below. Topics include the experimental basis of quantum mechanics, wave-particle duality, Schrödinger's equation and its solutions, the time dependence of quantum states, angular momentum in the microscopic world, simple atoms, and atomic nuclei. Recent developments, such as paradoxes calling attention to the counter-intuitive aspects of quantum physics, will be discussed. The laboratory involves quantum mechanics, solid state physics, and optics experiments. Lecture three hours, laboratory three hours. Prerequisite: PHYS 201, MATH 201. Corequisite: MATH 203. (staff, Division II and Quantitative Skills)

PHYS B302 Advanced Quantum Mechanics and Applications
This course presents nonrelativistic quantum mechanics, including Schrödinger's equation, the eigenvalue problem, the measurement process, the hydrogen atom, the harmonic oscillator, angular momentum, spin, the periodic table, time-independent perturbation theory, and the relationship between quantum and Newtonian mechanics. Lecture three hours and additional recitation sessions as needed. Prerequisites: PHYS 214 and PHYS 306. (staff) Alternates between Bryn Mawr and Haverford; 2009-10 at Bryn Mawr.

PHYS B303 Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics
This course presents the statistical description of the macroscopic states of classical and quantum systems, including conditions for equilibrium, the microcanonical, canonical and grand canonical ensembles, and Bose-Einstein, Fermi-Dirac and Maxwell Boltzmann statistics. The statistical basis of classical thermodynamics is investigated. Examples and applications are drawn from among solid state physics, low temperature physics, atomic and molecular physics, electromagnetic waves, and cosmology. Lecture three hours and additional recitation sessions as needed. Prerequisite: PHYS 214. Corequisite: PHYS 306. (staff) Alternates between Bryn Mawr and Haverford; 2009-2010 at Haverford.

PHYS B306 Mathematical Methods in the Physical Sciences
This course presents topics in applied mathematics useful to students, including physicists, engineers, physical chemists, geologists and computer scientists studying the natural sciences. Topics are taken from Fourier series, integral transforms, advanced ordinary and partial differential equations, special functions, boundary-value problems, functions of complex variables, and numerical methods. Lecture three hours and additional recitation sessions as needed. Prerequisites: MATH 201 and 203. (staff)

PHYS B308 Advanced Classical Mechanics
This course presents kinematics and dynamics of particles and macroscopic systems using Newtonian, Lagrangian, and Hamiltonian mechanics. Topics include oscillations, normal mode analysis, inverse square laws, nonlinear dynamics, rotating rigid bodies, and motion in noninertial reference frames. Lecture three hours and additional recitation sessions as needed. Prerequisite: PHYS 214. Corequisite: PHYS 306. (staff) Alternates between Bryn Mawr and Haverford; 2009-10 at Bryn Mawr.

PHYS B309 Advanced Electromagnetic Theory
This course presents electrostatics and magnetostatics, dielectrics, magnetic materials, electrodynamics, Maxwell's equations, electromagnetic waves, and special relativity. Examples and applications are taken from superconductivity, plasma physics, and radiation theory. Lecture three hours and additional recitation sessions as needed. Prerequisites: PHYS 214 and 306. (staff) Alternates between Bryn Mawr and Haverford; 2009-2010 at Haverford.
Physics 271

PHYS B322 Solid State Physics
This course presents the physics of solids. Topics include crystal structure and diffraction, the reciprocal lattice and Brillouin zones, crystal binding, lattice vibrations and normal modes, phonon dispersion, Einstein and Debye models for the specific heat, the free electron model, the Fermi surface, electrons in periodic structures, the Bloch theorem, and band structure. Additional topics are taken from semiclassical electron dynamics, semiconductors, superconductivity, 0-D (quantum dots), 1-D (quantum wires), and 2-D (graphene) structures and the microscopies used to investigate them. Lecture three hours and additional recitation sessions as needed. Prerequisites: PHYS 214 and 306. (staff) Alternates between Bryn Mawr and Haverford; 2009-2010 at Haverford.

PHYS B325 Advanced Theoretical Physics
This course presents one or more of several subjects, depending on instructor availability and student interest. The possible subjects are (1) special relativity, general relativity, and gravitation, (2) the standard model of particle physics, (3) particle astrophysics and cosmology, (4) relativistic quantum mechanics, (5) grand unified theories, (6) string theory, loop quantum gravity, and causal set theory. Lecture three hours and additional recitation sessions as needed. Prerequisites: PHYS 306 and 308. Corequisite: PHYS 302. (staff).

PHYS B331 Advanced Experimental Physics
This laboratory course consists of set-piece experiments as well as directed experimental projects to study a variety of phenomena in atomic, molecular, optical, nuclear, and solid state physics. The experiments and projects serve as an introduction to contemporary instrumentation and the experimental techniques used in physics research laboratories in industry and in universities. Students write papers in a format appropriate for research publications and make a presentation to the department. Laboratory eight hours a week. Prerequisite: PHYS 201. Corequisite: PHYS 214. (staff)

PHYS B380 Physics Pedagogy
Students work with a faculty member as assistant teachers in a college course in physics, or as assistants to a faculty member developing new teaching materials. Students will be involved in some combination of the following: directed study of the literature on teaching and learning pedagogy, construction and design of parts of a course, and actual teaching in a lecture course or laboratory. Prerequisite: PHYS 201. (Matlin)

PHYS B390 Independent Study
At the discretion of the department, juniors or seniors may supplement their work in physics with the study of topics not covered in regular course offerings. (staff)

PHYS B403 Supervised Research
At the discretion of the department, juniors and seniors may supplement their work in physics with research in one of the faculty research groups. Students provide a written paper and give an oral presentation at the end of the semester or year. Students are encouraged to contact individual faculty members and the departmental Web pages for further information. (Beckmann, Cheng, McCormack, Noel, Nice, Schulz).
Students may complete a major or minor in Political Science. Within the major, students may complete a concentration in environmental studies.

The major in Political Science aims at developing the reading, writing and thinking skills needed for a critical understanding of the political world. Coursework includes a variety of approaches to the study of politics: historical/interpretive, quantitative/deductive, and philosophical. Using these approaches, students examine political life in a variety of contexts from the small-scale neighborhood to the international system, asking questions about the different ways in which humans have addressed the organization of society, the management of conflicts, and the organization of power and authority.

Major Requirements

The major consists of a minimum of 10 courses, including 398 and 399. Two of these must be chosen from among any of the following entry-level courses: 101, 121, 131, 141, 205, 220, 228, and 231. The major must include work done in two distinct fields. A minimum of three courses must be taken in each field, and at least one course in each field must be at the 300 level. Majors take the Senior Seminar (398) in the first semester of the senior year and write the Senior Essay (399) in the second.

Fields are not fixed in advance, but are set by consultation between the student and departmental advisers. The most common fields have been American politics, comparative politics, international politics, and political philosophy, but fields have also been established in American history, East Asian studies, environmental studies, Hispanic studies, international economics, political psychology, public policy, and women and politics, among others.

Up to three courses from departments other than Political Science may be accepted for major credit, if in the judgment of the department these courses are an integral part of the student’s major plan. This may occur in two ways: an entire field may be drawn from courses in a related department (such as economics or history) or courses taken in related departments will count toward the major if they are closely linked with work the student has done in political science. Ordinarily, courses at the 100 level or other introductory courses taken in related departments may not be used for major credit in political science. In addition, at least three of the courses taken towards completion of the major must be taken in the Bryn Mawr Department of Political Science, not counting POLS 398 and 399.

Honors

Students who have done distinguished work in their courses in the major and who write outstanding senior essays will be considered by the department for departmental honors.
Minor Requirements

A minor in Political Science consists of six courses distributed across at least two fields. At least two of the courses must be at the 300 level. At least three of the courses must be taken from the Bryn Mawr Department of Political Science course offerings.

Concentration in Environmental Studies

The Department of Political Science participates with other departments in offering a concentration within the major in environmental studies.

Cross-Registration

All Haverford political science courses count toward the Bryn Mawr major; courses in related departments at Haverford that are accepted for Political Science major credit will be considered in the same way as similar courses taken at Bryn Mawr. All Bryn Mawr majors in Political Science must take at least three courses in Political Science at Bryn Mawr, not counting POLS 398 and 399.

POLS B101 Large Questions in Political Science
An introduction to various theoretical and empirical approaches to the study of politics with emphasis on three concepts central to political life in all societies: authority, community, and conflict. The course examines these concepts in relation to local communities, nations, and the international system. (Harrold, Ross, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B111 Introduction to Peace and Conflict Studies
A broad and interdisciplinary overview of the study of conflict management. Areas to be introduced will include interpersonal conflict and conflict management, alternative dispute resolution and the law, community conflict and mediation, organizational, intergroup, and international conflict, and conflict management. This course will also serve as a foundation course for students in or considering the Peace and Conflict Studies concentration. (Neuman, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B111)

POLS B121 Introduction to American Politics
An introduction to the major features and characteristics of the American political system. Features examined include voting and elections; the institutions of government (Congress, the Presidency, the courts and the bureaucracy); the policy-making process; and the role of groups (interest groups, women, and ethnic and racial minorities) in the political process. Enrollment is limited to 35 students. (Wooten, Division I)

POLS B131 Comparative Politics
An introduction to the comparative study of political systems. A sampling of major questions addressed by comparative approaches such as why authority structures differ across countries; how major issues such as inequality, environmental degradation, and ethno-nationalism arise in different polities; and why governmental responses to those issues differ so widely. Comparisons are made across time and space. Emphasis is placed on institutional, cultural, and historical explanations. Enrollment is limited to 35 students. (Hager, Division I)

POLS B141 International Politics
An introduction to international relations, exploring its main subdivisions and theoretical approaches. Phenomena and problems in world politics examined include systems of power management, imperialism, war, cold war, bargaining, and peace. Problems and institutions of international economy and international law are also addressed. This course assumes a reasonable knowledge of modern world history. Enrollment is limited to 35 students. (Allen, Division I)
POLLS B205 European Politics: Between Unification and Dissolution
An analysis of the accelerating process of European unification and the increasing political divisiveness within individual European countries. We focus on the evolution of the state-society relationship in selected countries and the emergence of new sources of conflict in recent years. These are placed in the context of a changing international scene: the eastward expansion of the European Union, European social and economic unity and the introduction of the Euro. (Hager, Division I)

POLLS B206 Conflict and Conflict Management: A Cross-Cultural Approach
This course examines cross-cultural differences in the levels and forms of conflict and its management through a wide range of cases and alternative theoretical perspectives. Conflicts of interest range from the interpersonal to the international levels and an important question is the relevance of conflict and its management in small-scale societies as a way to understand political conflict and dispute settlement in the United States and modern industrial settings. Prerequisite: one course in political science, anthropology, or sociology. (Ross, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B206)

POLLS B217 The State and the Transformation of Conflict
State institutions have a profound effect on conflicts. State sponsored conflicts may be more violent, more deadly and transform society. The state’s power may affect conflict management, enforcing agreements and providing incentives for cooperation. Weak states may not manage difference or conflict; ineffective states may be bypassed by citizens seeking protection or to plunder assets. Readings include theoretical texts as well as empirical accounts of the state’s role in structuring and enforcing conflict management. Prerequisite: one course in political science or social science (Harrold, Division I)

POLLS B220 Constitutional Law
A consideration of some of the leading cases and controversies in American constitutional law. The course will focus on such questions as the role of the constitution in mediating the relationship between public and private power with respect to both difference and hierarchy, and on the role of judicial review within a constitutional system. Enrollment is limited to 35 students. (Elkins, Division I)

POLLS B222 Introduction to Environmental Issues: Policy-making in Comparative Perspective
An exploration of the ways in which different cultural, economic, and political settings have shaped issue emergence and policy-making. Consideration is given to the prospects for international cooperation in solving environmental problems. (Hager, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B222) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLLS B228 Introduction to Political Philosophy: Ancient and Early Modern
An introduction to the fundamental problems of political philosophy, especially the relationship between political life and the human good or goods. Readings from Aristotle, Hobbes, Machiavelli, Plato, and Rousseau. (Salkever, Division III; cross-listed as PHIL B228)

POLLS B231 Introduction to Political Philosophy: Modern
A continuation of POLS 228, although 228 is not a prerequisite. Particular attention is given to the various ways in which the concept of freedom is used in explaining political life. Readings from Hegel, Locke, Marx, J.S. Mill, and Nietzsche. (Salkever, Division III; cross-listed as PHIL B231) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLLS B234 Legal Rights in the Administrative State
Through an intensive examination of judicial opinions and secondary texts, this course considers the nature of law and rights in the administrative state. Topics include the sources of legitimate agency power, the role of courts and agencies in interpreting statutes, and the rights of individuals to participate in agency decision-making and to challenge agency action. (Elkins, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B235 Transitional Justice in Post-Conflict Societies
(staff, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B235) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B241 The Politics of International Law and Institutions
An introduction to international law, which assumes a working knowledge of modern world history and politics since World War II. The origins of modern international legal norms in philosophy and political necessity are explored, showing the schools of thought to which the understandings of these origins give rise. Significant cases are used to illustrate various principles and problems. Prerequisite: POLS 141. (Allen, Division I)

POLS B243 African and Caribbean Perspectives in World Politics
This course makes African and Caribbean voices audible as they create or adopt visions of the world that explain their positions and challenges in world politics. Students learn analytical tools useful in understanding other parts of the world. Prerequisite: POLS 141. (Allen, Division I)

POLS B244 Great Empires of the Ancient Near East
(Ataç, Division III; cross-listed as ARCH B244, CITY B244, and HIST B244) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B245 Philosophy of Law
Introduces students to a variety of questions in the philosophy of law. The specific topics may change form year to year, depending on student interest and current events. Sample topics include: defining law; law and morality; purpose of law; law as surprise; rule violations and civil disobedience; law and pluralism; and feminist jurisprudence. (Elkins, Division I; cross-listed as PHIL B245)

POLS B246 Middle Eastern Political Fiction
Where life is infused with politics, fiction can be a realm where the personal and social aspects of politics are examined. Where censorship is important, other forms of writing are means to discuss political and social issues. Our novels in translation address issues of nationalism, patriarchy and gender relations, war and peace, dilemmas of development, and cultural conflict. Readings from Iran, Israel, Turkey, and the Arabic speaking world will include works by Leila Abuzaix, Ghassan Khanafani, Naguib Mahfouz, Orhan Pamuk, and A.B. Yehoshua. (Harrold, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B248 Modern Middle East Cities
Taking advantage of the considerable new scholarship on cities, the course will draw from diverse fields to bring different methods to the study of Middle Eastern cities and urbanization. The course will treat the negotiation of state control, urban planning and its alterations in urban practices, social movements and new spaces of politics, competing architectural visions, globalizations, and new local identities. It will treat such topics as Islamic charities in Cairo, shopping malls as public space in Dubai City, Islamic politics in public space in Istanbul, the restructuring of Beirut, and ideas of modernity in the construction of Tel Aviv. (Harrold, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B248, HEBR B248, and HIST B240) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B251 Politics and the Mass Media
A consideration of the mass media as a pervasive fact of U.S. political life and how they influence American politics. Topics include how the media have altered American political institutions and campaigns, how selective attention to particular issues and exclusion of others shape public concerns, and the conditions under which the media directly influence the content of political beliefs and the behavior of citizens. Prerequisite: one course in political science, preferably POLS 121. (Chomsky, Division I)
POLS B253 Feminist Theory
(Koggel, Division III; cross-listed as PHIL B252)

POLS B255 Media and Elections
Addresses the role of mass media in the electoral process, considering the importance of information for citizens and voters. Evaluates the nature, quality, and character of media coverage; candidate statements and campaign ads; and considers the impact of media coverage on elections. Finally considers the implications of the electoral process for democracy. (Chomsky, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B262 Who Believes What and Why: the Sociology of Public Opinion

POLS B265 Political Data Analysis (Paradigms and Perestroika)
This course invokes renewed emphasis in the discipline of political science on methodological pluralism. In that spirit, it introduces students to a variety of different ways in which to gather data in order to make knowledge claims about politics. Data are construed broadly to encompass qualitative information as well as quantitative. Methods range from historical contextualization to experiments, surveys, field studies, and interpretations of texts and images. (Schram, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B273 Race and the Law in the American Context
An examination of the intersection of race and law, evaluating the legal regulations of race, the history and meanings of race, and how law, history and the Supreme Court helped shape and produce those meanings. It will draw on materials from law, history, public policy, and critical race theory. (Albert)

POLS B278 Oil, Politics, Society, and Economy
Examines the role oil has played in transforming societies, in shaping national politics, and in the distribution of wealth within and between nations. Rentier states and authoritarianism, the historical relationships between oil companies and states, monopolies, boycotts, sanctions and demands for succession, and issues of social justice mark the political economy of oil. (Harrold, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B282 The Exotic Other: Gender and Sexuality in the Middle East
This course is concerned with the meanings of gender and sexuality in the Middle East, with particular attention to the construction of tradition, its performance, reinscription and transformation, and to Western interpretations and interactions. Prerequisite: one course in social science or humanities. (Harrold, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B283 Introduction to the Politics of the Modern Middle East and North Africa
This course is a multidisciplinary approach to understanding the politics of the region, using works of history, political science, political economy, film, and fiction as well as primary sources. The course will concern itself with three broad areas: the legacy of colonialism and the importance of international forces; the role of Islam in politics; and the political and social effects of particular economic conditions, policies, and practices. (Harrold, Division I; cross-listed as HEBR B283 and HIST B283)

POLS B286 Themes in British Empire
(Kale, Division I or III; cross-listed as HIST B286 and CITY B286) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B300 Nietzsche, Kant, Plato: Modes of Practical Philosophy
A study of three important ways of thinking about theory and practice in Western political philosophy. Prerequisites: POLS 228 and 231, or PHIL 101 and 201. (Salkever; cross-listed as PHIL B300) Not offered in 2009-10.
POLS B308 Political Transformation in Eastern and Western Europe: Germany and Its Neighbors
This course examines the many recent changes in Europe through the lens of German politics. From the two World Wars to the Cold War to the East European revolutions of 1989 and the European Union, Germany has played a pivotal role in world politics. We will identify cultural, political, and economic factors that have shaped this role and analyze Germany’s actions in the broader context of international politics. (Hager; cross-listed as GERM B308) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B310 Comparative Public Policy
A comparison of the policy-making process and policy outcomes in a variety of countries. Focusing on particular issues such as environmental, social welfare, and economic policy, we will identify institutional, historical, and cultural sources of the differences. We will also examine the growing importance of international-level policy-making and the interplay between international and domestic pressures on policy makers. (Hager)

POLS B316 The Politics of Ethnic, Racial, and National Groups
An analysis of ethnic and racial conflict and cooperation that will compare and contrast the experiences of regional and immigrant minorities in Europe. Particular attention is paid to the processes of group identification and political organization; the politicization of racial and ethnic identity; patterns of conflict and cooperation between minorities and the majority population over time; and different paths to citizenship. The course will examine the experiences of white ethnic groups, African Americans, Hispanic Americans, Asian Americans as well as Islamic, African, Asian, and regional national groups in Europe. (Ross) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B320 Greek Political Philosophy: Aristotle: Ethics and Politics
A consideration of major works by Thucydides, Plato, and Aristotle, along with readings from the current debate over the relevance of Greek philosophy to philosophy and politics today. (Salkever; cross-listed as PHIL B321)

POLS B321 Technology and Politics
An analysis of the complex role of technology in Western political development in the industrial age. We focus on the implications of technological advance for human emancipation. Discussions of theoretical approaches to technology will be supplemented by case studies illustrating the politics of particular technological issues. Prerequisite: one course in political science or permission of instructor. (Hager; cross-listed as CITY B321)

POLS B327 Political Philosophy in the 20th-21st Centuries
A study of 20th-century extensions of three traditions in Western political philosophy: the adherents of the German and English ideas of freedom and the founders of classical naturalism. Authors read include Hannah Arendt, Jurgen Habermas, and John Rawls. Topics include the relationship of individual rationality and political authority, the “crisis of modernity,” and the debate concerning contemporary democratic citizenship. Prerequisites: POLS 228 and 231, or PHIL 101 and 201. Enrollment is limited to 18 students. (Salkever; cross-listed as PHIL B327)

POLS B344 Development Ethics
(Koggel, Division III; cross-listed as PHIL B344) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B347 Advanced Issues in Peace and Conflict Studies: Utopias, Dystopias, and Peace
An in-depth examination of crucial issues and particular cases of interest to advanced students in peace and conflict studies through common readings and student projects. Various important theories of conflict and conflict management are compared and students undertake semester-long field research. The second half of the semester focuses on student research topics with continued exploration of conflict-resolution theories and research methods. Prerequisite: POLS 206, 111, or Haverford’s POLS 247. (Neuman; cross-listed as ANTH B347)
POLS B348 Culture and Ethnic Conflict
An examination of the role of culture in the origin, escalation, and settlement of ethnic conflicts. This course examines the politics of culture and how it constrains and offers opportunities for ethnic conflict and cooperation. The role of narratives, rituals, and symbols is emphasized in examining political contestation over cultural representations and expressions such as parades, holy sites, public dress, museums, monuments, and language in culturally framed ethnic conflicts from all regions of the world. Prerequisites: two courses in the social sciences. (Ross; cross-listed as CITY B348)

POLS B349 Social and Political Theory
(Hay, Division I or III; cross-listed as PHIL B349) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B354 Comparative Social Movements: Power, Protest, and Mobilization
A consideration of the conceptualizations of power and “legitimate” and “illegitimate” participation, the political opportunity structure facing potential protesters, the mobilizing resources available to them, and the cultural framing within which these processes occur. Specific attention is paid to recent movements that have occurred both within and across countries, especially the feminist, environmental, and peace movements. (Hager; cross-listed as SOCL B354) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B358 Political Psychology of Group Identification
(McCauley; cross-listed as PSYC B358)

POLS B364 Political Philosophy: Irony and Inquiry
In the work of both Plato and Nietzsche, there is a special and important relation between substance and “style”—that is, between what is said, how it is said, and what it is meant to do. Through a close reading of primary texts, this course will explore this relation. In the course of our inquiry, we will explore such questions as the relationship of truth and power; of immanence and transcendence; of thought, action, and the good life; and the notion of philosophical irony. (Salkever, Elkins, Division III; cross-listed as COML B364 and PHIL B364) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B371 Topics in Legal and Political Philosophy
This course examines a variety of topics on the relationship between justice, authority, community, violence, and law. Specific issues include the role of violence in liberal polities and legal regimes, civil disobedience, the relationship of law, state, and society, morality and war, and hate speech. (Elkins; cross-listed as PHIL B371) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B374 Gender and Power in Comparative Context: Patriarchy Across Cultures
Patriarchy and fraternity are powerful forms of authority in traditional and modern societies, forms of authority that operate along lines of gender and age and have proved resilient and resistant to feminist challenge. This course examines patriarchy, fraternity, and forms of resistance through political theory and empirical analysis of social practices. Our studies will include different historical practices of veiling in Muslim countries, violence and nature in the American West, young women factory workers in Malaysia and labor protest, women politicians in Turkey, fathers, sons, and soldiers in Israel, and discourses of respect, respectability, and masculinity for African American men. (Harrold) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B375 Women, Work, and Family
As the number of women participating in the paid workforce who are also mothers exceeds 50 percent, it becomes increasingly important to study the issues raised by these dual roles as well as to study women’s decisions to participate in the paid workforce itself. This seminar will examine the experiences of working and nonworking mothers in the United States, the roles of fathers, the impact of working mothers on children, and the policy implications of women, work, and family. (Golden; cross-listed as SOCL B375) Not offered in 2009-10.
POLS B378 Origins of American Constitutionalism
This course will explore some aspects of early American constitutional thought, particularly in the periods immediately preceding and following the American Revolution. The premise of the course is that many of the questions that arose during that period—concerning, for example, the nature of law, the idea of sovereignty, and the character of legitimate political authority—remain important questions for political, legal, and constitutional thought today, and that studying the debates of the revolutionary period can help sharpen our understanding of these issues. Prerequisites: sophomore standing and previous course work in American history, American government, political theory, or legal studies. (Elkins, Division I or III; cross-listed as HIST B378) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B379 The United Nations and World Order
The United Nations has grown and evolved in significant ways since its establishment in 1945, and is now charged with confronting a wide range of threats, including atrocities, poverty, hunger, disease, and climate change. This international organization has become the centerpiece of world order, playing a pre-eminent role in issues of international peace and security, economic development, and human rights and humanitarian affairs. This class examines the major theoretical approaches to understanding the United Nations and world order and takes up questions of the world order and various sources of division as well as efforts to promote peace and humanitarian interventions. Prerequisite: a year of political science or peace and conflict studies courses or permission of the instructor. (Hoffman, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B383 Two Hundred Years of Islamic Reform, Radicalism, and Revolution
This course will examine the transformation of Islamic politics in the past two hundred years, emphasizing historical accounts, comparative analysis of developments in different parts of the Islamic world. Topics covered include the rationalist Salafy movement; the so-called conservative movements (Sanussi of Libya, the Mahdi in the Sudan, and the Wahhabi movement in Arabia); the Caliphate movement; contemporary debates over Islamic constitutions; among others. The course is not restricted to the Middle East or Arab world. Prerequisites: a course on Islam and modern European history, or an earlier course on the Modern Middle East or 19th-century India, or permission of instructor. (Harrold, Division I; cross-listed as HIST B383)

POLS B385 Democracy and Development
(Rock, Ross, Division I; cross-listed as ECON B285)

POLS B387 Politics, Markets and the Presidency of Barack Obama
An in-depth examination of the changing relationship of the state and the market in the U.S. today, the course uses history, theory and empirical research to examine whether the public policies being enacted are producing a fundamental shift in the U.S. political economy. The course centers on the implication for the relationship of democracy to capitalism. Prerequisite: POLS B121 (Schram, Division I)

POLS B391 International Political Economy
This seminar examines the growing importance of economic issues in world politics and traces the development of the modern world economy from its origins in colonialism and the industrial revolution. Major paradigms in political economy are critically examined. Aspects of and issues in international economic relations such as finance, trade, migration, and foreign investment are examined in the light of selected approaches. (Allen)

POLS B393 U.S. Welfare Politics: Theory and Practice
Major theoretical perspectives concerning the welfare state with a focus on social policy politics, including recent welfare reforms and how in an era of globalization there has been a turn to a more restrictive system of social provision. Special attention is paid to the ways class, race, and gender are involved in making of social welfare policy and the role of social welfare policy in reinforcing class, race, and gender inequities. Prerequisite: POLS B121 or SOCL B102. (Schram, Division I; cross-listed as SOCL B393) Not offered in 2009-10.

POLS B398 Senior Conference
Required of senior majors. This course is divided into two parts. During the first eight weeks of the term, department faculty meet weekly with senior majors to discuss core questions of method and epistemology in political science and to consider a few selected examples of outstanding work in the discipline. The rest of the term is devoted to individual reading and tutorial instruction in preparation for writing the senior essay. (Allen, Elkins, Hager, Ross, Salkever)

POLS B399 Senior Essay
(Allen, Elkins, Hager, Ross, Salkever)

POLS B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

POLS B425 Praxis III: Independent Study
(staff)
PSYCHOLOGY

Students may complete a major or minor in Psychology. Within the major, students may complete a concentration in neural and behavioral sciences.

Faculty

Kimberly Wright Cassidy, Professor and Provost
Mary Eno, Lecturer
Stacy Heidel, Lecturer
Clark R. McCauley, Professor
Lauren Myers, Visiting Assistant Professor
Paul Neuman, Senior Lecturer
Leslie Rescorla, Professor (on leave semester II)
Carol Roberts, Lecturer
Alexis Rosenfeld, Lecturer
Marc Schulz, Professor
Anjali Thapar, Associate Professor and Chair
Earl Thomas, Professor
Robert H. Wozniak, Professor (on leave semester II)

The department offers the student a major program that allows a choice of courses from among a wide variety of fields in psychology: clinical, cognitive, developmental, physiological, and social. In addition to the considerable breadth offered, the program encourages the student to focus on more specialized areas through advanced coursework, seminars and especially through supervised research. Students have found that the major program provides a strong foundation for graduate work in clinical, cognitive, developmental, experimental, physiological, and social psychology, as well as for graduate study in law, medicine, and business.

Major Requirements

Major requirements in Psychology are either PSYC 101 or 102 (or a one-semester introductory psychology course taken elsewhere); PSYC 205; and additional courses at the 200 and 300 levels, as described below. Students may choose to take either PSYC 101 or 102, or they can elect to take both, as the content areas differ. If a student takes one of the 100-level courses (101 or 102), the major requires at least eight courses above the 100 level, not including PSYC 205: four 200-level and four 300-level courses, or five 200-level and three 300-level courses. If a student takes both 101 and 102, she must take four 200-level and three 300-level courses. With permission of the department, two semesters of supervised research may be substituted for one 300-level course.

Majors may substitute advance placement credit (score of 5 on the Psychology Advanced Placement exam) for either PSYC 101 or 102.

Courses at the 200 level survey major content areas of psychological research. With the exception of PSYC 205, all 200-level courses require PSYC 101 or 102 or the permission of the instructor. Courses at the 300 level have a 200-level survey course as a prerequisite and offer either specialization within a content area or integration across areas.

The Psychology major requires two courses with a laboratory, one at the 100 level (101 or 102) and one at the 200 or 300 level. If a major elects to take both 101 and 102, a laboratory course at the 200 or 300 level is still required. If a student takes introductory psychology elsewhere, and the course has no laboratory, or the student receives advanced placement credit for introductory psychology, then two laboratory courses must be taken at the 200 or 300 level to fulfill major requirements.

Majors are also required to attend a one-hour, weekly seminar in the junior year for one semester. This seminar is designed to sharpen students’ analytical and critical thinking skills, to introduce students to faculty members’ areas of research, to provide additional opportunities for student-faculty interactions, and to build a sense of community.

The selection of courses to meet the major requirements is made in consultation with the student’s major adviser. Any continuing faculty member can serve as a major adviser. It is expected that the student will sample broadly among the diverse fields represented in the curriculum. Courses outside the department may be taken for major credit if they satisfy the above descriptions of 200-level and 300-level courses and are approved by the student’s major adviser. Students should contact their major adviser about major credit for a course outside the department before taking the course.

Honors

Departmental honors (called Honors in Research in Psychology) are awarded on the merits of a report of research (the design and execution; and the scholarship exhibited in the writing of a paper based on the research). To be considered for honors, students must have a grade point average in psychology of 3.6 or higher at the end of the fall semester of the senior year.

Minor Requirements

A student may minor in Psychology by taking PSYC 101 or 102 and any other five courses that meet the requirements of the major.

Concentration in Neural and Behavioral Sciences

An interdepartmental concentration in Neural and Behavioral Sciences is available as an option to students majoring in either biology or psychology. Students electing this option must fulfill requirements of both the major and the concentration, which is administered by an interdepartmental committee.

For a Psychology major with a concentration in Neural and Behavioral Sciences, students must complete five required courses: PSYC 101 or 102, 205, 212, 218, and one of the following 300-level courses—PSYC 323, 326, 350, 351, or 395.

Five additional psychology courses at the 200, 300, and 400 levels are required to complete the Psychology major with a concentration in Neural and Behavioral Sciences. These should be chosen in consultation with the major adviser to ensure that the distribution of 200- and 300-level courses satisfies the Psychology major requirements. Some of these courses (such as Supervised Research) may also fulfill core major requirements.

These departmental requirements are in addition to the requirements for the Neural and Behavioral Sciences concentration.

Minor in Computational Methods

Students majoring in psychology can minor in computational methods. Requirements for the minor are listed in Computer Science.
Certain courses currently offered at Haverford College may be substituted for the equivalent Bryn Mawr courses for purposes of the Bryn Mawr psychology major.

Introductory psychology at Haverford may be substituted for 101/102. PSYC 200 at Haverford may be substituted for PSYC 205. The following courses at Haverford will count as 200-level courses for the major: PSYC 213 (Memory and Cognition), PSYCH 215 (Introduction to Personality Psychology), PSYC 217 (Biological Psychology), PSYC 224 (Social Psychology), PSYC 238 (Psychology of Language), PSYC 260 (Cognitive Neuroscience).

The following Haverford courses will count as 300-level courses for the major: PSYC 214 (Psychology of Adolescence), PSYC 220 (The Psychology of Time), PSYC 221 (The Primate Origins of Society), PSYC 222 (Evolution and Behavior), PSYCH 225 (Self and Identity), PSYC 240 (Psychology of Pain and Pain Inhibition), PSYC 250 (Biopsychology of Emotion and Personality), PSYC 311 (Advanced Personality Psychology: Freud), PSYC 325 (The Psychology of Close Relationships), PSYC 340 (Human Neuropsychology), PSYC 350 (Biopsychology of Stress), PSYC 370 (Neuroscience of Mental Illness). Students who take Haverford courses with the half credit laboratory attachments may count the lab portion of the course toward fulfilling the advanced lab requirement for the Bryn Mawr major.

PSYC B101, B102 Experimental Psychology
Both PSYC 101 and 102 present psychology as a natural science and provide a survey of methods, facts, and principles relating to basic psychological processes. Topics covered in 101 include neural bases of behavior, learning and motivation, and psychosocial development and abnormal psychology. Topics covered in 102 include human cognition, cognitive development, individual differences, and social psychology. Lecture three hours and laboratory four hours a week (for both 101 and 102). (McCauley, Myers, Rescorla, Thomas, Division II with Lab)

With the exception of PSYC 205, all 200-level courses require PSYC 101 or 102 or the permission of the instructor.

PSYC B201 Learning Theory and Behavior
This course covers the basic principles of behavior, most of which were discovered through animal research, and their application to the understanding of the human condition. Traditionally, learning has been described in terms of operant and Pavlovian processes, with modeling treated as a special kind of operant conditioning. The basic procedures and principles of operant and Pavlovian conditioning are examined, and their relation to complex human functioning, such as concept formation and awareness, is explored. An introduction to functional assessment and analysis—the benchmarks of applied behavior analysis—will follow. Lecture three hours, laboratory one to two hours a week. (Neuman, Division II with Lab) Not offered in 2009-10.

PSYC B203 Educational Psychology
Topics in the psychology of human cognitive, social, and affective behavior are examined and related to educational practice. Issues covered include learning theories, memory, attention, thinking, motivation, social/emotional issues in adolescence, and assessment/learning disabilities. This course provides a Praxis Level I opportunity. Classroom observation is required. (Cassidy, Division I)

PSYC B205 Experimental Methods and Statistics
An introduction to experimental design, general research methodology, and the analysis and interpretation of data. Emphasis will be placed on issues involved with conducting psychological research. Topics include descriptive and inferential statistics, experimental design and validity, analysis of variance, and correlation and regression. Each statistical method will also be executed using computers. Lecture three hours, laboratory 90 minutes a week. (Thapar, Division I and Quantitative Skills)
PSYC B206 Developmental Psychology
A topical survey of psychological development from infancy through adolescence, focusing on the interaction of personal and environmental factors in the ontogeny of perception, language, cognition, and social interactions within the family and with peers. Topics include developmental theories; infant perception; attachment; language development; theory of mind; memory development; peer relations, schools and the family as contexts of development; and identity and the adolescent transition. (Myers, Division I)

PSYC B208 Social Psychology
A survey of theories and data in the study of human social behavior. Special attention to methodological issues of general importance in the conduct and evaluation of research with humans. Topics include group dynamics (conformity, leadership, encounter groups, crowd behavior, intergroup conflict); attitude change (consistency theories, attitudes and behavior, mass media persuasion); and person perception (stereotyping, essentializing, moral judgment). Participation in a research project is required. (McCauley, Division I)

PSYC B209 Abnormal Psychology
This course examines the experience, origins, and consequences of psychological problems. What do we mean by abnormal behavior or psychopathology? How is psychopathology assessed and classified? How do psychologists study and treat it? What causes psychological difficulties and what are their consequences? Are psychological states linked to physical health? Do psychological treatments (therapies) work? This course will consider major psychological, social, and biological explanatory models in addressing these questions. Readings, lecture, and discussion will introduce a broad range of psychological disturbances. Two lectures, one discussion section a week. (Rescorla, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

PSYC B212 Human Cognition
This course covers a variety of topics that deal with the scientific study of human cognition. Topics include perception, pattern recognition, attention, memory, visual imagery, language, reasoning, decision making, and problem solving. Historical as well as contemporary perspectives will be discussed, and data from behavioral experiments, cognitive neuroscience, and computational modeling will be reviewed. The laboratory consists of experiments related to these topics. Lecture three hours, laboratory 90 minutes a week. (Thapar, Division II with Lab)

PSYC B218 Behavioral Neuroscience
An interdisciplinary course on the neurobiological bases of experience and behavior, emphasizing the contribution of the various neurosciences to the understanding of basic problems of psychology. An introduction to the fundamentals of neuroanatomy, neurophysiology, and neurochemistry with an emphasis upon synaptic transmission; followed by the application of these principles to an analysis of sensory processes and perception, emotion, motivation, learning, and cognition. Lecture three hours a week. (Thomas, Division II)

The prerequisite for courses at the 300 level is a 200-level survey course.

PSYC B301 Advanced Research Methods
This course deals with psychology research and design methodology. An important purpose of the course is to help students with their undergraduate thesis research. Topics include: internal and external validity, reliability, characteristics of various methods (survey, case, observational, and experimental), data coding, levels of measurement, research ethics, and publication. (Myers)

PSYC B308 Adult Development and Aging
The course explores the biological, psychological, and social aspects of aging into middle and late adulthood. Topics include: psychological and social developmental challenges; core biological changes; research methodology; demands and impact on care givers and families; common psychopathology; social welfare policies and programs; and political, social, and academic discourse on aging in the 21st century. Different aging experiences by race, ethnicity, gender, class, culture, and sexual orientation are considered. Prerequisite: junior, senior or graduate status. (Thapar, Bressi, Nath) Not offered in 2009-10.

PSYC B310 Advanced Developmental Psychology
This course details theory and research relating to the development of children and adolescents with family, school, and cultural contexts. We examine topics including (but not limited to): developmental theory, infant perception, language, attachment, self-awareness, social cognition, symbolic thought, memory, parent-child relations, peer relations, and gender issues. (Wozniak)

PSYC B312 History of Modern American Psychology
An examination of major 20th-century trends in American psychology and their 18th- and 19th-century social and intellectual roots. Topics include physiological and philosophical origins of scientific psychology; growth of American developmental, comparative, social, and clinical psychology; and the cognitive revolution. Open only to juniors and seniors majoring in psychology or by permission of the instructor. (Wozniak)

PSYC B326 From Channels to Behavior
(Thomas, Brodfuehrer, Division II; cross-listed as BIOL B326) Not offered in 2009-10.

PSYC B328 Exploring Animal Minds
This course examines the question of animal cognition with a focus on natural behaviors as well as lab research. Topics include personality, communication, and social cognition. The importance of good research design and critical reading of research papers will be stressed. Prerequisite: contact instructor. (McCauley) Not offered in 2009-10.

PSYC B340 Women’s Mental Health
This course will provide an overview of current research and theory related to women’s mental health. We will discuss psychological phenomena and disorders that are particularly salient to and prevalent among women, why these phenomena/disorders affect women disproportionately over men, and how they may impact women’s psychological and physical well-being. Psychological disorders covered will include: depression, eating disorders, dissociative identity disorder, borderline personality disorder, and chronic pain disorders. Other topics discussed will include work-family conflict for working mothers, the role of sociocultural influences on women’s mental health, and mental health issues particular to women of color and to lesbian women. Prerequisite: PSYC B209 or PSYC B351. (Rosenfeld, Division I)

PSYC B346 Pediatric Psychology
This course uses a developmental-ecological perspective to understand the psychological challenges associated with physical health issues in children. The course explores how different environments support the development of children who sustain illness or injury and will cover topics including: prevention, coping, adherence to medical regimens, and pain management. The course will consider the ways in which cultural beliefs and values shape medical experiences. Prerequisite: PSYC B206 highly recommended. (Rourke, Division I)

PSYC B350 Developmental Cognitive Disorders
This course uses a developmental and neuropsychological framework to study several cognitive disorders (e.g., language delay, specific reading disability, nonverbal learning disabilities, and autism). Cognitive disorders are viewed in the context of the normal development of language, memory, attention, reading, and quantitative/spatial abilities. More general issues of curriculum/pedagogical adjustment, educational placement, law and policy for children with disabilities will also be covered. Students will participate in a course-related placement approximately four hours a week. This course provides a Praxis Level I opportunity. (Edge, Schmidt) Not offered in 2009-10.
PSYC B351 Developmental Psychopathology
An examination of research and theory addressing the origins, progression, and consequences of maladaptive functioning in children, adolescents, and families. Major forms of psychopathology, such as depression and disruptive behavior syndromes, will be considered. An important focus of the course is on the identification of biological, social, and psychological risk and protective factors for psychopathology and the implications of these factors for prevention and treatment efforts. The role of family-based risk and protective factors, such as marital conflict and parenting quality, will be emphasized. Prerequisite: PSYC 206 or 209. (Schulz)

PSYC B352 Advanced Topics in Developmental Psychology: Development of Symbolic Thought
This course will provide an in-depth exploration of the development of the concept of gender and the formation of gender stereotypes in children. We will examine the major theoretical positions relating to children’s understanding of gender and the empirical data that supports those positions. The course will involve the critical exploration of popular press books on gender development, focusing on the broader issue of how psychological research gets translated for public consumption. In addition, the course contains a laboratory component, which will involve original research designed by the class for both children and adults. Prerequisite: PSYC 206. (Myers, Division II with Lab)

PSYC B358 Political Psychology of Group Identification
This seminar will explore the common interests of psychologists and political scientists in the phenomena of group identification. The focus will be identification with ethnic and national groups, with special attention to the ways in which research on small-group dynamics can help us understand identification and conflict for these larger groups. The seminar will review major theories of group identity and examine several historical or current cases of successful and unsuccessful development of national identity. Prerequisite: PSYC 208 or two semesters of political science. (McCaulley; cross-listed as POLS B358)

PSYC B364 Behavior Analytic Theory
Although behavior analysis is reputed to be a “tough minded” natural scientific approach to psychology, it is also rich in theory. Behavior analysis is as different in what is said and how it is said as in how research is conducted. Readings will be theoretical in nature from behavior analysis and other traditions that apply established principles to everyday concerns such as roommate disagreements as well as why we are not acting to save the world. Prerequisite: PSYC 201. (Neuman, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

PSYC B395 Psychopharmacology
A study of the role of drugs in understanding basic brain-behavior relations. Topics include the pharmacological basis of motivation and emotion; pharmacological models of psychopathology; the use of drugs in the treatment of psychiatric disorders such as anxiety, depression, and psychosis; and the psychology and pharmacology of drug addiction. Prerequisite: PSYC 218. (Thomas)

PSYC B396 Topics in Neural and Behavioral Science
(Thomas, Greif, Grobstein; cross-listed as BIOL B396) Not offered in 2009-10.

PSYC B398 Cognitive Issues in Personality and Social Psychology
An examination of recent research in relation to issues of social perception (e.g., stereotypes and judgments of members of stereotyped groups), intergroup conflict (e.g., sources of group cohesion and “groupthink”), and identification (e.g., emotional involvement with film characters, possessions, and ethnic/national groups). Prerequisite: PSYC 208. (McCaulley) Not offered in 2009-10.
PSYC B401 Supervised Research in Neural and Behavioral Sciences
(staff)

PSYC B403 Supervised Research
Laboratory or field research on a wide variety of topics. Students should consult with faculty members to determine their topic and faculty supervisor, early in the semester prior to when they will begin. (staff)

PSYC B425 Praxis III
(staff)
Students may complete a major in Religion at Haverford College.

Faculty

J. David Dawson, Constance and Robert MacCrater Professor in Social Responsibility
Tracey Hucks, Associate Professor
Terrence L. Johnson, Assistant Professor
Kenneth Koltun-Fromm, Associate Professor
Naomi Koltun-Fromm, Associate Professor and Chair
Anne M. McGuire, Kies Family Associate Professor in the Humanities
Travis Zadeh, Assistant Professor

The Department of Religion at Haverford views religion as a central aspect of human culture and social life. Religions propose interpretations of reality and shape very particular forms of life. In so doing, they make use of many aspects of human culture, including art, architecture, music, literature, science, and philosophy – as well as countless forms of popular culture and daily behavior. Consequently, the fullest and most rewarding study of religions is interdisciplinary in character, drawing upon approaches and methods from disciplines such as anthropology, comparative literature and literary theory, gender theory, history, philosophy, psychology, political science, and sociology.

A central goal of the department is to enable students to become critically informed, independent, and creative interpreters of some of the religious movements, sacred texts, ideas and practices that have decisively shaped human experience. In their coursework, students develop skills in the critical analysis of the texts, images, beliefs, and performances of various religions, including Judaism, Christianity, Islam, and Buddhism. Students especially interested in Asian religions may work out a program of study in conjunction with the East Asian Studies department at Haverford and Bryn Mawr and with the Religion department at Swarthmore. Like other liberal arts majors, the religion major is meant to prepare students for a broad array of vocational possibilities. Religion majors typically find careers in law, public service (including both religious and secular organizations), medicine, business, ministry, and education. Religion majors have also pursued advanced graduate degrees in anthropology, history, political science, biology, Near Eastern studies, and religious studies.

For more information, see the department Web site at http://www.haverford.edu/relg/index.html.

Major Requirements

Eleven courses are required for the major in religion. The exact structure of the student’s program must be determined in consultation with the major advisor, whom the student chooses from among the regular members of the department. All majors should seek, with their advisors, to construct a program that achieves breadth in the study of various religious traditions, as well as a concentration in one of the department’s three areas.

The major program must satisfy the following requirements:

a. Six courses within one of the department’s three areas of concentration:

   A. Religious Traditions in Cultural Context. The study of religious traditions and the textual, historical, sociological, and cultural contexts in which they develop. Critical analysis of formative texts and issues that advance our notions of religious identities, origins, and ideas.

   B. Religion, Literature, and Representation. The study of religion in relation to literary expressions and other forms of representation, such as performance, music, film, and the plastic arts.
C. Religion, Ethics, and Society. The exploration of larger social issues such as race, gender, and identity as they relate to religion and religious traditions. Examines how moral principles, cultural values, and ethical conduct help to shape human societies.

These six courses within the area of concentration must include the department seminar in the major’s area of concentration: RELG 301 for Area A; RELG 303 for Area B; RELG 305 for Area C. Where appropriate and relevant to the major’s program, up to three courses for the major may be drawn from outside the field of religion, subject to departmental approval.

b. Junior Colloquium: An informal required gathering of the Junior majors once each semester. Students should complete a worksheet in advance in consultation with their major advisor and bring copies of the completed worksheet to the meeting.

d. At least four additional half-year courses drawn from among outside the major’s area of concentration.

e. At least six of each major’s 11 courses must be taken in the Haverford religion department. Students planning to study abroad should construct their programs in advance with the department. Students seeking religion credit for abroad courses should write a formal petition to the department upon their return and submit all relevant course materials. Petitioned courses should be included within the student’s designated area of concentration.

f. In some rare cases, students may petition the department for exceptions to the major requirements. Such petitions must be presented to the department for approval in advance.

g. Final evaluation of the major program will consist of written work, including a thesis, and an oral examination completed in the context of the Senior Seminar, RELG 399b.

Requirements for Honors

Honors and High Honors in religion are awarded on the basis of the quality of work in the major and in the Senior Thesis (399b).

Introductory Courses

RELG H101 Introduction to the Study of Religion [A,B,C]
An introduction to the study of religion from three perspectives: overviews of several religions with classroom discussion of primary sources; cross-cultural features common to many religions; theories of religion and approaches to its study and interpretation. Typically offered in alternate years. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H108 Vocabularies of Islam
Introduction to the foundational concepts of Islam and the diverse ways in which Muslims understand and practice their religion. Topics include scripture, prophethood, law, ritual, theology, mysticism, and art. (Zadeh) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H118 Hebrew Bible: Literary Text and Historical Context
The Hebrew Bible, which is fundamental to both Judaism and Christianity, poses several challenges to modern readers. Who wrote it, when, and why? What was its significance then and now? How does one study the Bible from an academic point of view? Using literary, historical, theological, and archeological interpretive tools, this course will address these questions and introduce students to academic biblical studies. (N. Koltun-Fromm)
RELG H121 Varieties of Judaism in the Ancient World [A,B]
From Abraham to Rabbi Judah the Prince, Judaism has been transformed from a local ethnic religious cult to a broad-based, diverse religion. Many outside cultures and civilizations, from the ancient Persians to the Imperial Romans, influenced the Jews and Judaism through language, culture and political contacts. Absorbing and adapting these various and often opposing influences, the Israelite, and then Jewish, community re-invented itself, often fragmenting into several versions at once. After the destruction of the temple, in 70 CE, one group, the rabbis, gradually came to dominate Jewish life. Why? This course will study those changes and developments which brought about these radical transformations. Typically offered in alternate years. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H122 Introduction to the New Testament
An introduction to the New Testament and early Christian literature. Special attention will be given to the Jewish origins of the Jesus movement, the development of traditions about Jesus in the earliest Christian communities, and the social contexts and functions of various texts. Readings will include non-canonical writings, in addition to the writings of the New Testament canon. (McGuire)

RELG H124 Introduction to Christian Thought [C]
An examination of some central concepts of the Christian faith, approached within the context of contemporary theological discussion. Basic Christian ideas will be considered in relation to one another and with attention to their classic formulations, major historical transformations, and recent reformulations under the pressures of modernity and postmodernity. (Dawson) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H130 Material Religion in America [C]
An introduction to various forms of religious material practices in America. We will examine how persons and communities interact with material objects and media to explore and express religious identity. Topics may include religion and sports, dance and ritual, food and dress, and the visual arts. Typically offered in alternate years. (K. Koltun-Fromm) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H132 Varieties of African American Religious Experience
This course will examine the history of religion in America as it spans several countries. Each week lectures, readings, and discussions will explore the phenomenon of religion within American society. The goal is to introduce students to American religious diversity as well as its impact in the shaping of larger historical and social relationships within the United States. This study of American religion is not meant to be exhaustive and will cover select traditions each semester. (Hucks) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H137 Black Religion and Liberation Theology
An introduction to the theological & philosophical claims raised in Black Religion & Liberation Thought in 20th C America. In particular, the course will examine the multiple meanings of liberation within black religion, the place of religion in African American struggles against racism, sexism and class exploitation and the role of religion in shaping the moral and political imaginations of African Americans. (Johnson) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H155 Themes in the Anthropology of Religion
(Ngwane)

Intermediate Courses

RELG H200 Religion and Liberalism [A]
An examination of political liberalism in debates on religion, democracy and tradition. Particular attention is given to the relationship between liberal and theological responses to debates on individual rights and the common good. (Johnson)

RELG H201 Introduction to Buddhism
(Glassman)
RELG H203 The Hebrew Bible and its Interpretations [A,B]
This course will critically study select Hebrew Biblical passages (in translation) as well as Jewish and Christian Biblical commentaries in order to better understand how Hebrew Biblical texts have been read, interpreted and explained by ancient and modern readers alike. Students will also learn to read the texts critically and begin to form their own understandings of them. Typically offered in alternate years. (N. Koltun-Fromm) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H206 History and Literature of Early Christianity [A,B]
The history, literature and theology of Christianity from the end of the New Testament period to the time of Constantine. Typically offered in alternate years. (McGuire) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H212 Jerusalem: City, History and Representation
An examination of the history of Jerusalem as well as a study of Jerusalem as religious symbol and how the two interact over the centuries. Readings from ancient, medieval, modern and contemporary sources as well as material culture and art. (N. Koltun-Fromm)

RELG H214 Prophetic Imaginations in the American Tradition
An examination of prophecy as a form of social criticism in colonial and contemporary America. The course identifies the prophetic tradition as an extension of the American Jeremiad. Particular attention is given to Reinhold Niebuhr and Martin Luther King Jr. (Johnson) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H216 Images of Jesus
Critical examination of the varied representations of Jesus from the beginnings of Christianity through contemporary culture. The course will focus primarily on literary sources (canonical and non-canonical gospels; prayers; stories; poems; novels), but artistic, theological, academic, and cinematic images of Jesus will also be considered. (McGuire) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H221 Women and Gender in Early Christianity [A,C]
An examination of the representations of women and gender in early Christian texts and their significance for contemporary Christianity. Topics include interpretations of Genesis 1-3, images of women and sexuality in early Christian literature, and the roles of women in various Christian communities. Typically offered in alternate years. (McGuire)

RELG H222 Gnosticism [A,B]
The phenomenon of Gnosticism examined through close reading of primary sources, including the recently discovered texts of Nag Hammadi. Topics include the relation of Gnosticism to Greek, Jewish, and Christian thought; the variety of Gnostic schools and sects; gender imagery, mythology and other issues in the interpretation of Gnostic texts. Typically offered in alternate years. (McGuire)

RELG H231 Religious Themes in African American Literature [B]
This course will explore African American literary texts as a basis for religious inquiry. Throughout the course we will examine African American novelists and literary scholars using their works as a way of understanding black religious traditions and engaging important themes in the study of religion. Authors discussed may include Zora Neale Hurston, James Baldwin, Ishmael Reed, Maryse Conde and others. (Hucks) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H240 History and Principles of Quakerism
(Lapsansky)

RELG H242 Topics in Religion and Intellectual History: The Religious Writings of James Baldwin [A]
Typically offered in alternate years. (Hucks) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H245 Slavery, Catechism, and Plantation Missions in Antebellum America
This course will examine the influence of forms of Islam on the African American community throughout its history. Though the course will begin with the intra-African slave trade and the antebellum period, the bulk of the course will focus on 20th Century persons and events, particularly the Nation of Islam, its predecessors and successors. (Hucks) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H248 The Quran
Overview of the Qur'an—the scripture of Islam. Major themes include: orality / textuality; sanctity and material culture; revelation, translation, and inimitability; calligraphy, bookmaking and architecture; along with modes of scriptural exegesis as practiced over time by both Muslims and non-Muslims alike. (Zadeh) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H250 Jewish Images, Imagining Jews
(K. Koltun-Fromm) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H256 Zen Thought, Zen Culture, Zen History
(Glassman) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H260 Getting Medieval: Tolerance, Persecution, and Religious Violence [A]
Explores literary and philosophical exchanges, alongside religious violence and persecution, amongst Jews, Christians, and Muslims in late Antiquity and the Middle Ages. Prerequisite: None. (Zadeh)

RELG H264 Religion and Violence
T. Johnson
Drawing on rich anthropological and theological traditions, this course will explore the logic, function and rhetoric of phenomena such as sacrifice, martyrdom, and scapegoating. Our efforts to understand touchstone works of modern philosophy and anthropology will be aided by the screening of thematically related movies. Prerequisite:

RELG H270 War and Morality [A]
This course studies Christian, Islamic, and Western secular versions of “just war” tradition, and compares them critically with realist and Christian pacifist approaches to warfare, political justice, and the nature of peace. As often as possible, course discussions will revolve around concrete cases that address past, present, and future (?) wars, as well as the continuing challenge of peace. (Werpehowski) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H277 Modern Christian Thought [C]
The impact of modernity on traditional Christian thought in the Nineteenth Century West. Readings may include Hume, Kant, Schleiermacher, Hegel, Feuerbach, Nietzsche, Kierkegaard, and others. (Dawson)

RELG H278 Christian Thought from Modernity to Post-modernity [A,B]
Twentieth-century and Twenty-First Century Christian thought in the West. Readings may include Barth, Bultmann, Reinhold Niebuhr, Rahner, von Balthasar, Segundo, Tracey, Frei, McFague, Irigaray, Cone, Lindbeck, Marion, and others. Offered occasionally. (Dawson)

RELG H284 American Judaism [A]
An exploration of the cultural, social, and religious dynamics of American Judaism. The course will focus on the representation of Jewish identity in American culture, and examine issues of Jewish material, gender, and ritual practices in American history. We will study how Jews express identity through material objects, and how persons work with objects to produce religious meaning. (K Koltun-Fromm) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H286 Religion and American Public Life [A]
This course examines the role of Christianity in shaping America’s religious identity(ies) and democratic imagination(s). The course will also examine whether, if at all, citizens are justified in retrieving their religious commitments in public debates. (Johnson) Not offered in 2009-10.
RELG H299 Theoretical Perspectives in the Study of Religion [A,B,C]
An introduction to the history of the study of religion in the modern West. Beginning with Kant's distinction between natural and revealed religion we will follow the curious and contested history of second-order reflection upon religion as it has been carried out in theological, philosophical, psychological, anthropological, and sociological spheres. Readings may include: Kant, Schleiermacher, Hegel, Marx, Nietzsche, Freud, Tylor, Durkheim, Weber, James, Otto, Benjamin, Eliade, Geertz, Foucault, Douglas, Smith, Haraway, and Derrida. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

Seminars and Independent Study

All religion department seminars may be repeated for credit with change of content.

RELG H301 Seminar A: Religion in Cultural Context: The Parables of Jesus [A]
Typically offered every fall. (staff)

RELG H303 Seminar B: Religion, Literature, and Representation: Blake's Religion in Word and Image [B]
Typically offered every fall. (staff)

RELG H305 Seminar C: Religion, Ethics, and Society: Religion, Ethnography, and The Ethical Dimensions of Fieldwork [C]
Typically offered every fall. (Hucks)

RELG H306 Of Monsters and Marvels: Wonder in Islamic Traditions
From contemplating the cosmos to encountering the monstrous, this course explores the place of wonder in Islamic traditions through readings from the Qur'an, exegesis, prophetic traditions, popular literature, travel narratives, descriptive geography, philosophy and theology. Prerequisite: Consent of the instructor. (Zadeh) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H307 Imagining Islam: Icon, Object, and Image
Explores the place of material and visual culture in Islam, examining how Muslims have conceptualized and deployed material and visual forms of religious expressions in a number of historical contexts. Prerequisite: None. (Zadeh)

RELG H308 Mystical Literatures of Islam
Overview of the literary expressions of Islamic mysticism through the study of poetry, philosophy, hagiographies, and anecdotes. Topics include: unio mystica; symbol and structure; love and the erotic; body / gender; language and experience. (Zadeh)

RELG H310 Sex and Gender in Japanese Buddhism
(Kaneko) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H330 Seminar in the Writings of Women of African Descent [C]
This seminar will examine the writings of women of African descent from Africa, North America, and the Caribbean. Using primary and secondary texts from the nineteenth to the twentieth centuries, this course will explore the various religious traditions, denominations, sects, and religious and cultural movements in which women of African descent have historically participated. The course will also analyze the ways in which specific social conditions and cultural practices have historically influenced the lives of these women within their specific geographical contexts. (Hucks) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H338 Seminar in American Civil Religion [A,C]
(staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H343 Seminar in Religions of Antiquity and Biblical Literature [A,B]
Prerequisite: Consent. (McGuire) Not offered in 2009-10.
RELG H360 Seminar in Modern Christian Thought [B,C]
(Dawson) Not offered in 2009-10.

RELG H370 Topics in Buddhist Studies
Prerequisite: EAST 201 or PHIL 242 or permission. (Glassman)

RELG H399 Senior Seminar and Thesis [A]
Research and writing of the senior thesis in connection with regular meetings with a thesis advisor from the department. Prerequisite: Religion 301, 303, or 305 and the approval of the Department of Religion. (Dawson, Johnson, K. Koltun-Fromm, N. Koltun-Fromm, McGuire, Zadeh)

RELG H460 Teaching Assistant [A]
(staff)

RELG H480 Independent Study [A]
Conducted through individual tutorial as an independent reading and research project. (staff)
ROMANCE LANGUAGES

Students may complete a major in Romance Languages.

Coordinators:

Grace M. Armstrong, French Adviser
María Cristina Quintero, Spanish Adviser
Roberta Ricci, Italian Adviser

The Departments of French and Francophone Studies, Italian, and Spanish cooperate in offering a major in Romance Languages that requires advanced work in at least two romance languages and literatures. Additional work in a third language and literature is suggested.

Major Requirements

The requirements for the major are a minimum of nine courses, including the Senior Conference or Senior Essay, described below, in the first language and literature and six courses in the second language and literature, including the Senior Conference in French. Students should consult with their advisers no later than their sophomore year in order to select courses in the various departments that complement each other.

The following sequence of courses is recommended when the various languages are chosen for primary and secondary concentration, respectively (see the departmental listings for course descriptions).

First Language and Literature

French
FREN 101-102 or 101-105; or 005-102 or 005-105.
Four literature courses at the 200 level.
FREN 200-level language course.
Two courses at the 300 level.

Italian
ITAL 101, 102, or 105.
Four courses at the 200 level.
Three courses at the 300 level.

Spanish
SPAN 200.
SPAN 202.
Four courses at the 200 level.
Two courses at the 300 level.
Second Language and Literature

French
FREN 101-102 or 101-105; or 005-102 or 005-105.
Two literature courses at the 200 level.
FREN 200-level language course.
One course at the 300 level.

Italian
ITAL 101, 102, or 105.
Two literature courses at the 200 level.
Two literature courses at the 300 level.

Spanish
SPAN 200 or 202.
SPAN 206.
Two courses at the 200 level.
Two courses at the 300 level.

In addition to the coursework described above, when the first language and literature is Spanish, majors in Romance Languages must enroll in SPAN 398 (Senior Seminar).* When French is chosen as either the first or second language, students must take the first semester Senior Conference in French (FREN 398) in addition to the coursework described above. When Italian is chosen, students must take ITAL 399, offered in consultation with the department, in addition to the coursework described above in order to receive honors. An oral examination (following the current model in the various departments) may be given in one or both of the two languages, according to the student's preference, and students follow the practice of their principal language as to written examination or thesis.

Please note that 398 does not count as one of the two required 300-level courses.

Interdepartmental courses at the 200 or 300 level are offered from time to time by the cooperating departments. These courses are conducted in English on such comparative Romance topics as epic, romanticism, or literary vanguard movements of the 20th century. Students should be able to read texts in two of the languages in the original.

* In order to receive honors, students whose first language is Spanish are required to write a senior essay (SPAN 399).

 For students whose first language is French, honors are awarded on the basis of performance in Senior Conference and on a successfully completed thesis or senior essay.

 In order to receive honors, students whose first language is Italian are required to write a senior essay (ITAL 399)
Students may complete a major or minor in Russian.

The Russian major is a multidisciplinary program designed to provide students with a broad-based understanding of Russian literature, thought, and culture. The major places a strong emphasis on the development of functional proficiency in the Russian language. Language study is combined with a specific area of concentration to be selected from the fields of Russian literature, history, economics, language/linguistics, or area studies.

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College’s foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing RUSS 101 and 102 with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of 2.0 or better in RUSS 102.

Major Requirements

A total of 10 courses is required to complete the major: two in Russian language at the 200 level or above; four in the area of concentration, two at the 200 level and two at the 300 level or above (for the concentration in area studies, the four courses must be in four different fields); three in Russian fields outside the area of concentration; and either RUSS 398, Senior Essay, or RUSS 399, Senior Conference.

Majors are encouraged to pursue advanced language study in Russia in summer, semester, or year-long academic programs. Majors may also take advantage of intensive immersion language courses offered during the summer by the Bryn Mawr Russian Language Institute. As part of the requirement for RUSS 398/399, all Russian majors take senior comprehensive examinations that cover the area of concentration and Russian language competence.

Honors

All Russian majors are considered for departmental honors at the end of their senior year. The awarding of honors is based on a student’s overall academic record and all work done in the major.

Minor Requirements

Students wishing to minor in Russian must complete six units at the 100 level or above, two of which must be in the Russian language.
RUSS B001, B002 Elementary Russian Intensive
Study of basic grammar and syntax. Fundamental skills in speaking, reading, writing, and oral comprehension are developed. Nine hours a week including conversation sections and language laboratory work. Both semesters are required for credit; three units of credit are awarded upon completion of RUSS 002. (Davidson, Language Level 1)

RUSS B101, B102 Intermediate Russian
Continuing development of fundamental skills with emphasis on vocabulary expansion in speaking and writing. Readings in Russian classics and contemporary works. Seven hours a week. (Bain, Language Level 2)

RUSS B112 The Great Questions of Russian Literature
This course examines profound questions about the nature and purpose of human existence raised by preeminent 19th- and 20th-century Russian authors in major literary works, including Bulgakov’s The Master and Margarita, Chekhov’s The Seagull and The Cherry Orchard, Dostoevsky’s The Brothers Karamazov, Solzhenitsyn’s One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich, Tolstoy’s War and Peace and Turgenev’s Sketches from a Hunter’s Album. Discussions address the definition of good and evil, the meaning of freedom, the role of rationality and the irrational in human behavior, and the relationship of art to life. No knowledge of Russian is required. (Allen, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B115 The Golden Age of Russian Literature
An introduction to the great 19th-century Russian authors and some of their most famous, seminal works, including Pushkin’s “The Queen of Spades” and Eugene Onegin, Gogol’s The Inspector General and “The Overcoat”, Turgenev’s Fathers and Sons, Dostoevsky’s “The Double” and “White Nights” and Tolstoy’s Childhood, Boyhood and Youth. All readings, lectures, and discussions are conducted in English. (Allen, Division III)

RUSS B201, B202 Advanced Russian
Intensive practice in speaking and writing skills using a variety of modern texts and contemporary films and television. Emphasis on self-expression and a deeper understanding of grammar and syntax. Five hours a week. (Bain)

RUSS B212 Russian Modernism: Early 20th-Century Russian Art and Literature
This course focuses on Russia’s modernist trends in the first three decades of the 20th century. Along with discussion of Russian modernist literature, significant coursework will be devoted to studying the development of Russian “avant-garde” painting (Kandinsky, Malevich, et. al.), ballet, and film during this tumultuous, yet fruitful period. No knowledge of Russian is required. (Harte, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B221 The Serious Play of Pushkin and Gogol
This course explores major contributions to the modern Russian literary tradition by its two founding fathers, Aleksander Pushkin and Nikolai Gogol. Comparing short stories, plays, novels, and letters written by these pioneering artists, the course addresses Pushkin’s and Gogol’s shared concerns about human freedom, individual will, social injustice, and artistic autonomy, which each author expressed through his own distinctive filter of humor and playfulness. No knowledge of Russian is required. (Allen, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B223 Russian and East European Folklore
This interdisciplinary course introduces students to major issues in Russian and East European folklore including epic tales, fairy tales, calendar and life-cycle rituals, and folk beliefs. The course also presents different theoretical approaches to the interpretation of folk texts as well as emphasizes the influence of folklore on literature, music, and art. No knowledge of Russian is required. (Bain, Division III)
RUSS B225 Dostoevsky: Daydreams and Nightmares
A survey of novels, novellas, and short stories highlighting Dostoevsky’s conception of human creativity and imagination. Texts prominently portraying dreams, fantasies, delusions, and visual and aural hallucinations, as well as artists and artistic creations, permit exploration of Dostoevsky’s fundamental aesthetic, psychological, and moral beliefs. Readings include The Brothers Karamazov, The Double, "The Dream of a Ridiculous Man," "The Gentle Creature," The Idiot, Notes from Underground, and White Nights. (Allen, Division III)

RUSS B235 The Social Dynamics of Russian
An examination of the social factors that influence the language of Russian conversational speech, including contemporary Russian media (films, television and the Internet). Basic social strategies that structure a conversation are studied, as well as the implications of gender and education on the form and style of discourse. Prerequisites: RUSS 201, 202, may be taken concurrently. (Davidson, Division I)

RUSS B252 The Masterpieces of Russian and Soviet Cinema
This course explores the major trends and most significant works of Russian and Soviet cinema. Emphasis placed on the wildly disparate phases of Soviet and Russian cinema: Russia’s silent films; the innovations of the 1920s; Stalinist cinema; “thaw” films; and post-Soviet experimentation. All films shown with subtitles; no knowledge of Russian required. (Harte, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B254 Russian Culture and Civilization
A history of Russian culture—its ideas, its value and belief systems—from the origins to the present that integrates the examination of works of literature, art, and music. (Bain, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B258 Soviet and Eastern European Cinema of the 1960s
This course examines 1960s Soviet and Eastern European “New Wave” cinema, which won worldwide acclaim through its treatment of war, gender, and aesthetics. Films from Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Russia, and Yugoslavia will be viewed and analyzed, accompanied by readings on film history and theory. All films shown with subtitles; no knowledge of Russian or previous study of film required. (Harte, Division I or III)

RUSS B261 The Russian Anti-Novel
A study of 19th- and 20th-century Russian novels focusing on their strategies of opposing or circumventing European literary conventions. Works by Bulgakov, Dostoevsky, Nabokov, Pushkin, and Tolstoy, are compared to Jane Austen’s Pride and Prejudice and other exemplars of the Western novelistic tradition. All readings, lectures, and discussions in English. (Allen, Division III; cross-listed as COML B261) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B277 Nabokov in Translation
A study of Vladimir Nabokov’s writings in various genres, focusing on his fiction and autobiographical works. The continuity between Nabokov’s Russian and English works is considered in the context of the Russian and Western literary traditions. All readings and lectures in English. (Harte, Division III; cross-listed as ENGL B277)

RUSS B305, B306 Advanced Russian: Syntax and Style
This course focuses on stylistic variations in oral and written Russian. Examples are drawn from contemporary film, television, journalism, fiction, and nonfiction. Emphasis is on expansion and refinement of speaking and writing skills. (Harte)

RUSS B310 Old Russian
This advanced undergraduate seminar introduces students to the language and literary activities of Kyivan Rus (11th-14th century). Students will gain a reading knowledge of Old Church Slavonic and Old Russian sufficient for close reading and analysis of such seminal texts as the earliest translations of the Gospels, the Primary Chronicle, Ilarion’s Sermon on Law and Grace, the legend of Boris and Gleb, and others. The political and cultural background of the period will be addressed. Conducted in Russian and English. (Davidson, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B330 The Structure of Modern Russian I: Phonetics, Phonology, and Morphology
This seminar introduces advanced undergraduates and graduate students to the linguistic structure of contemporary standard Russian. Topics to be discussed include theoretical and practical issues in the description of Russian phonology, phonetics, and intonation; verbal and nominal morphology; and accentuation. Conducted primarily in Russian. Followed by RUSS 331. (Davidson) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B331 The Structure of Modern Russian II: Syntax, Semantics, Pragmatics
This seminar introduces advanced undergraduate students to the study of pragmatic norms in contemporary spoken and written Russian. Based on the understanding of language as a series of actions or communicative functions, the course will explore topics in speech act theory, politeness theory, and relevance theory. Discussions will also address practical issues for the acquisition of Russian, such as cross-cultural pragmatics, interlanguage pragmatics, and the teaching of foreign languages. (Davidson) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B335 Intercultural Pragmatics in Second Language Acquisition
Examines language use in cross-cultural contexts and the acquisition of conversational Russian. Compares the linguistic structure of speech acts in Russian and English, such as requests, commands, apologies, complaints, and threats and explores communication and social relationships between learners of Russian and native speakers. Other topics include the pragmatics of gender, body language, and etiquette in Russian. Prerequisites: RUSS B101, B102 or equivalent. (Bain, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B342 Russian Culture Today
This seminar focuses on current cultural trends in Russia, with special emphasis on the interplay between various artistic media and post-Soviet Russia’s rapidly developing society. Students will be introduced to contemporary Russian literature, painting, television, film, and music while considering such topics as Russia’s ambiguous attitude toward the West, the rise of violence in Russian society, and Russia’s evaluation of the past. Prerequisite: RUSS 102 or the equivalent. (Harte, Division I or III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B347 Qualitative Methods in Second Language Acquisition
This course introduces students to qualitative research design and its application in the study of second language acquisition. Considering ethnography as a research paradigm, discussions will critique existing second language acquisition research that is conducted using qualitative methods. This class will also give students an opportunity to apply their theoretical understanding of qualitative methods to the design of their own research project. (Bain) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B360 Identity and Second Language Acquisition
Introduces the concept of linguistic identity in relation to other identity facets (i.e., gender, ethnicity, class, and culture) and explores ways in which acquisition of a second language affects self-conception and self-representation. Employs critical discourse analysis to discuss how second language learners construct identities through socialization into new speech communities. No knowledge of Russian is required. (Shardakova, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B365 Russian and Soviet Film Culture
This seminar explores the cultural and theoretical trends that have shaped Russian and Soviet cinema from the silent era to the present day. The focus will be on Russia’s films and film theory, with discussion of the aesthetic, ideological, and historical issues underscoring Russia’s cinematic culture. No previous study of cinema required, although RUSS 201 or the equivalent is required. (Harte, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
RUSS B370 Acquisition of Russian as a Second Language
This seminar introduces advanced undergraduate students to current theoretical and practical issues of Russian second-language acquisition. Topics to be discussed include formal and informal learning, measurement of competencies, standards and assessment issues, and cultural aspects of second-language acquisition. Conducted primarily in Russian. (Davidson) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B375 Language and Identity Politics of Language in Europe and Eurasia
A brief general introduction to the study of language policy and planning with special emphasis on the Russophone world, the newly independent states of the former Soviet Union. Surveys current theoretical approaches to bilingualism and language shift. Analyzes Soviet language and nationality policy using published census data for the Soviet period through 1989. Focus on the current "language situation" and policy challenges for the renewal of functioning native languages and cultures and maintenance of essential language competencies, lingua franca, both within the Russian Federation and in the “Near Abroad.” (Davidson, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

RUSS B380 Seminar in Russian Studies: New Developments in Contemporary Russian Language
An examination of a focused topic in Russian studies, such as a particular literary genre, theme, or decade; an area of Russian linguistics, such as phonetics, morphology, or semantics; an aspect of Russian culture, such as music, religion, or pop culture; or current events. Introduces students to close reading and detailed critical analysis of Russian texts in the original language. Readings in Russian. Most discussions and lectures in Russian. Prerequisites: RUSS 201 and one 200-level Russian literature course. (Davidson, Division III)

RUSS B390 Russian for Pre-Professionals I
This capstone to the overall language course sequence is designed to develop linguistic and cultural proficiency in Russian to the “advanced level,” preparing students to carry out advanced academic study or research in Russian in a professional field. Prerequisite: RUSS 305-306 or equivalent, certified proficiency levels of 2- or 2 in two skills, one of which must be oral proficiency. (Prokopenko, Division III)

RUSS B391 Russian for Pre-Professionals II
Second part of year long capstone language sequence designed to develop linguistic and cultural proficiency to the “advanced level,” preparing students to carry out advanced academic study or research in Russian in a professional field. Prerequisite: RUSS 390 or equivalent. (Prokopenko, Division III)

RUSS B398 Senior Essay
Independent research project designed and conducted under the supervision of a departmental faculty member. May be undertaken in either fall or spring semester of senior year. (staff)

RUSS B399 Senior Conference
Exploration of an interdisciplinary topic in Russian culture. Topic varies from year to year. Requirements may include short papers, oral presentations, and examinations. (Allen)

RUSS B403 Supervised Work
(staff)

Haverford College currently offers the following courses of interest to Russian majors:

RUSS H211 The Soviet System and Its Demise
RUSS H225 Dostoevsky: Daydreams and Nightmares
RUSS H245 Russia in the 20th Century
Students may complete a major or minor in Sociology.

Faculty

David Karen, Professor (on leave semesters I and II)
Mary J. Osirim, Professor and Chair
Christopher McDonald-Dennis, Lecturer
Judith Porter, Katharine E. McBride Professor
Sanford Schram, Visiting Professor, Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research
Ruth Simpson, Visiting Assistant Professor in Sociology and Environmental Studies
Ayumi Takenaka, Associate Professor (on leave semesters I and II)
Robert E. Washington, Professor (on leave semesters I and II)
Nathan Wright, Assistant Professor

The major in Sociology provides a general understanding of the structure and functioning of modern society, its major institutions, groups, and values, and the interrelations of these with personality and culture. Students examine contemporary social issues and social problems, and the sources of stability, conflict, and change in both modern and developing societies. The department offers rigorous preparation in social theory and problem-driven training in quantitative and qualitative methodologies.

Major Requirements

Requirements for the major are SOCL 102, 265, 302, 303, Senior Seminar (398), five additional courses in sociology (one of which may be at the 100 level and at least one of which must be at the 300 level), and two courses in an allied subject. Some courses offered by the Graduate School of Social Work and Social Research (GSSWSR) give major or minor credit in Sociology (see list at the end of the Sociology section). No more than two courses from GSSWSR can be applied to the major or minor. After completing SOCL 398, the student and faculty member may decide that the student will enroll in SOCL 403 to write a senior thesis. Allied courses are chosen from a list provided by the department. Further information is available at http://www.brynmawr.edu/sociology/major.shtml.

The Department of Sociology offers concentrations in gender and society, Asian American studies and African American studies. In pursuing these concentrations, majors should inquire about the possibility of coursework at Haverford and Swarthmore Colleges and the University of Pennsylvania.

Concentrations Within the Sociology Major

Gender and Society

Three courses are required for this concentration—at least two of these courses must be in sociology. The remaining course can be in sociology or an allied social science field. Students who pursue this concentration are required to take at least one of the core courses in this area offered by the department: The Study of Gender in Society (SOCL 201) or Women in Contemporary Society: The Southern Hemisphere (SOCL 225). The department encourages students in this concentration to take courses that focus on the study of gender in both the Global North and the Global South. In addition to taking courses in this field at Bryn Mawr, students may also take courses towards this concentration in their study abroad programs or at Haverford, Swarthmore, and the University of Pennsylvania. Any course taken outside of the Bryn Mawr Department of Sociology must be approved by the department for concentration credit. Majors are urged to consult Mary Osirim about this concentration.
Asian American Studies

Students pursuing this concentration are required to take Asian American Communities (SOCL 249), in addition to two other courses. One of them must be either Challenges and Dilemmas of Diversity (SOCL 215) or Immigrant Experiences (SOCL 246). The other course can be in anthropology, East Asian studies, or any other relevant field, and must be approved by the department for concentration credit. Please contact Ayumi Takenaka for further information.

African American Studies

Three courses are required for this concentration—at least two of these courses must be in sociology. The remaining course can be in either sociology or an allied field. Students who pursue this concentration are required to take the core course offered by the Bryn Mawr Department of Sociology: Black America In Sociological Perspective (SOCL 229). Students are encouraged to take courses on Black America listed under the Bryn Mawr and Haverford Africana Studies Programs. Courses taken outside the Bryn Mawr Department of Sociology must be approved by the department for concentration credit. Majors interested in this concentration should consult Robert Washington for further information.

Honors

Honors in Sociology are available to those students who have a grade point average in the major of 3.5 or higher and who write a senior thesis that is judged outstanding by the department. The thesis would be written under the direction of a Sociology faculty member. Students are required to submit a thesis proposal which must be approved by the department in the semester prior to writing the thesis. Students should have prior course work in the subject area in which they plan to write a thesis.

Minor Requirements

Requirements for the minor are SOCL 102, 265, 302, and three additional courses within the department.

Students may choose electives from courses offered at Haverford College. Bryn Mawr majors should consult their department about major credit for courses taken at other institutions.

SOCL B102 Society, Culture, and the Individual

Analysis of the basic sociological methods, perspectives, and concepts used in the study of society, with emphasis on culture, social structure, personality, their component parts, and their interrelationship in both traditional and industrial societies. The sources of social tension, order, and change are addressed through study of socialization and personality development, inequality, power, and modernization. (Karen, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B103 U.S. Social Structure

Analysis of the structure and dynamics of modern U.S. society. Theoretical and empirical study of statuses and roles, contemporary class relations, the distribution of political power, and racial, ethnic, and gender relations in the United States; and stratification in education systems, the labor market, and the modern family. (Osirim, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B121 Exploring Society by the Numbers

Using a wide range of quantitative sources, the course will explore sociological concepts and develop a sociological perspective on a range of issues—crime, education, family, health, politics, etc.—that can be explored through quantitative data analysis. International, U.S., and Philadelphia databases will be used. (Karen, Division I and Quantitative Skills; cross-listed as CITY B121) Not offered in 2009-10.
SOCL B160 The United States and International Social Problems
Examining a broad range of social problems (for example, crime, drugs, pollution, racism, etc.), focus is on: how social problems come to be identified as such; how research is conducted and possible policy implications; whether there are categories of problems that may have a common origin; the persistence of some problems; and how problems are structured by the dominant social forces of our society. Race, class, and gender will be considered. (Wright, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B165 Environmental Problems: The Natural and Built Environment
(For 2009-10, this course substitutes for SOCL B102). This course situates the development of sociology as responding to major social problems in the natural and built environment and demonstrates how the key theoretical developments and empirical findings of sociology are crucial in understanding how these problems develop, persist, and are addressed or fail to be addressed. (Wright, Division I)

SOCL B175 Environment and Society: History, Place, and Problems
Introduces the ideas, themes, and methodologies of the interdisciplinary field of environmental studies beginning with definitions: what is nature? What is environment? And how do people and their settlements fit into each? The course then moves to distinct disciplinary approaches in which scholarship can and does (and does not) inform our perceptions of the environment. Assignments introduce methodologies of environmental studies, requiring reading landscapes, working with census data and government reports, critically interpreting scientific data, and analyzing work of experts. (Simpson, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B175)

SOCL B201 The Study of Gender in Society
The definition of male and female social roles and sociological approaches to the study of gender in the United States, with attention to gender in the economy and workplace, the historical origins of U.S. families, and analysis of class and ethnic differences in gender roles. Of particular interest in this course is the comparative exploration of the experiences of women of color in the United States. (Osirim, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B207 The Social Dynamics of Oppression
This course offers an introduction to prejudice and the dynamics of oppression at the individual, institutional and sociocultural levels. The course provides a theoretical framework for understanding social oppression and inter-group relations. This course will also examine the theory behind how social identity groups form and how bias develops. (MacDonald-Dennis, Division I)

SOCL B215 Challenges and Dilemmas of Diversity
This course will explore the sociological theories of racial/ethnic prejudice, discrimination, and conflict; the historical development of racial/ethnic groups in the United States; and current patterns and problems of racial/ethnic relations and the social policies being proposed to resolve those problems. (Washington, Takenaka, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B217 The Family in Social Context
A consideration of the family as a social institution in the United States, looking at how societal and cultural characteristics and dynamics influence families; how the family reinforces or changes the society in which it is located; and how the family operates as a social organization. Included is an analysis of family roles and social interaction within the family. Major problems related to contemporary families are addressed, such as domestic violence and divorce. Cross-cultural and subcultural variations in the family are considered. (Osirim, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B220 Medicine, the Body and Society
An introduction to the sociology of health and illness within a particular focus on the sociology of the body. Topics include: cross-cultural perceptions of the body and disease; the definition of “legitimate” medical knowledge and practice; social determinants of health and access to healthcare; management of healthcare costs. (Simpson, Division I)

SOCL B225 Women in Society: The Southern Hemisphere
A study of the contemporary experiences of women of color in the Global South. The household, workplace, community, and the nation-state, and the positions of women in the private and public spheres are compared cross-culturally. Topics include feminism, identity politics, and self-esteem; and tensions and transitions encountered as nations embark upon development. (Osirim, Division I)

SOCL B227 Sports in Society
Using a sociological, historical, and comparative approach, this course examines such issues as the role of the mass media in the transformation of sports; the roles played in sports by race, ethnicity, class, and gender; sports as a means of social mobility; sports and socialization; the political economy of sports; and sports and the educational system. (Washington, Karen) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B229 Black America in Sociological Perspective
This course provides sociological perspectives on various issues affecting black America: the legacy of slavery; the formation of urban ghettos; the struggle for civil rights; the continuing significance of discrimination; the problems of crime and criminal justice; educational underperformance; entrepreneurial and business activities; the social roles of black intellectuals, athletes, entertainers, and creative artists. (Washington, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B237 Crime, Law, and Society
Critically examines the interplay between crime, law, and the administration of justice in the United States and how these are shaped by larger societal factors. Provides a theoretical and empirical overview of the criminal justice system, emphasizing such issues as: the function and purpose of crime control; the roles of the actors/subjects in the criminal justice system; crime and violence as cultural and political issues; racial disparities; and juvenile justice. (staff, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B242 Urban Field Research Methods
This Praxis course intends to provide students with hands-on research practice in field methods. In collaboration with the instructor and the Praxis Office, students will choose an organization or other group activity in which they will conduct participant observation for several weeks. Through this practice, students will learn how to conduct field-based primary research and analyze sociological issues. (Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B242 and CITY B242) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B246 Immigrant Experiences: Introduction to International Migration
The course will examine the causes and consequences of immigration by looking at various immigrant groups in the United States in comparison with Western Europe, Japan, and other parts of the world. How is immigration induced and perpetuated? How are the types of migration changing (labor migration, refugee flows, return migration, transnationalism)? How do immigrants adapt differently across societies? We will explore scholarly texts, films, and novels to examine what it means to be an immigrant, what generational and cultural conflicts immigrants experience, and how they identify with the new country and the old country. (Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B258) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B249 Asian American Communities
This course is an introduction to the study of Asian American communities that provides comparative analysis of major social issues confronting Asian Americans. Encompassing the varied experiences of Asian Americans and Asians in the Americas, the course examines a broad range of topics—community, migration, race and ethnicity, and identities—as well as what it means to be Asian American and what that teaches us about American society. (Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B249 and CITY B249) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B252 Sociology of Popular Music
This course explores the production, distribution, and consumption of popular music, paying particular attention to the interrelationships among artists, fans, the music industry, and the societal context. Themes include the tension between mainstream commercial success and artistic independence, popular music and politics, and music consumption and identity, gender, and sexuality. (Wright, Division I)

SOCL B257 Marginals and Outsiders: The Sociology of Deviance
An examination of unconventional and criminal behavior from the standpoint of different theoretical perspectives on deviance (e.g., social disorganization, symbolic interaction, structural functionalism, Marxism) with particular emphasis on the labeling and social construction perspectives; and the role of conflicts and social movements in changing the normative boundaries of society. Topics will include alcoholism, drug addiction, homicide, homosexuality, mental illness, prostitution, robbery, and white-collar crime. (Washington, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B258 Sociology of Education
Major sociological theories of the relationships between education and society, focusing on the effects of education on inequality in the United States and the historical development of primary, secondary, and post-secondary education in the United States. Other topics include education and social selection, testing and tracking, and micro- and macro-explanations of differences in educational outcomes. This is a Praxis I course; placements are in local schools. (Karen, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B262 Who Believes What and Why: The Sociology of Public Opinion
This course explores public opinion: what it is, how it is measured, how it is shaped, and how it changes over time. Specific attention is given to the role of elites, the mass media, and religion in shaping public opinion. Examples include racial/ethnic civil rights, abortion, gay/lesbian/transgendered sexuality, and inequalities. (Wright, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B262) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B265 Research Design and Statistical Analysis
An introduction to the conduct of empirical, especially quantitative, social science inquiry. In consultation with the instructor, students may select research problems to which they apply the research procedures and statistical techniques introduced during the course. Using SPSS, a statistical computer package, students learn techniques such as crosstabular analysis, multiple regression-correlation analysis, and factor analysis. Required of and limited to Bryn Mawr sociology majors and minors. (Wright, Division I and Quantitative Skills)

SOCL B266 Schools in American Cities
(Cohen, Division I; cross-listed as EDUC B266 and CITY B266)

SOCL B267 The Development of the Modern Japanese Nation
An introduction to the main social dimensions central to an understanding of contemporary Japanese society and nationhood in comparison to other societies. The course also aims to provide students with training in comparative analysis in sociology. (Takenaka, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH B267 and EAST B267) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B269 Comparative Urbanism: Global Suburbia
(McDonogh, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B229)
Amidst increasing racial and ethnic diversity in the United States there is growing concern that racial and ethnic minorities in American cities will face greater inequalities with respect to housing, resources, educational/employment opportunities, etc. This course will analyze the relationship between race/ethnicity and spatial inequality, emphasizing the institutions, processes, and mechanisms that shape the lives of urban dwellers and surveys major political approaches and empirical investigations of racial and ethnic stratification in several urban cities, notably Philadelphia, Chicago, and Los Angeles. (staff, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B272) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B273 Race and Law in the American Context
(Albert; cross-listed as POLS B273)

SOCL B275 Introduction to Survey Research Methods
Introduces the many facets of the survey collection process from start to finish. Topics include proposal development, instrument design, measurement, sampling techniques, survey pretesting, survey collection media, interviewing, index and scale construction, data analysis, interpretation, and report writing. Examines the effects of demographic and socioeconomic factors in contemporary survey data collection. Prerequisite: one course in social science. (Consiglio, Division I)

SOCL B286. Cultural Perspectives on Ethnic Identity in the Post Famine Irish Diaspora
(Kilbride, Division I; cross-listed as ANTH 286)

SOCL B287 Urbanism as a Way of Life
How do cities affect our understanding of ourselves as individuals and our perceptions of the larger group? This course examines the urban experience which extends far beyond the boundaries of the city itself. An introduction to urban sociology, the course will also make use of history, anthropology, literature, and art. (Simpson, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B287).

SOCL B302 Social Theory
Analysis of classical and modern theorists selected because of their continuing influence on sociological thought. Among the theoretical conceptions examined are: alienation, bureaucracy, culture, deviance, modernization, power, religion and the sacred, social change, social class, social conflict, social psychology of self, and status. Theorists include: Durkheim, Firestone, Gramsci, Marx, Mead, Mills, and Weber. Required of and limited to BMC sociology majors and minors. (Schram, Division I)

SOCL B303 Junior Conference: Discipline-Based Intensive Writing
This course will require students to engage, through reading and writing, a wide range of sociological issues. The emphasis of the course will be to develop a clear, concise writing style, while maintaining a sociological focus. Substantive areas of the course will vary depending on the instructor. Required of and limited to Bryn Mawr sociology majors. (Osirim, Wright)

SOCL B309 Sociology of Religion
An analysis of the relationship between religion and society, emphasizing the connection between religious systems and secular culture, social structure, social change, secular values, and personality systems in cross-cultural perspective. The theories of Durkheim, Freud, Marx, and Weber, among others, are applied to analysis of the effect of religion on economic modernization, political nationalism, and social change and stability, and the effect of social class, secular culture, and personality patterns on religion. Prerequisite: at least one social science course or permission of the instructor. (Wright) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B310 Sociology of AIDS
An analysis of major sociological issues related to AIDS, including the social construction of the disease, social epidemiology, the psychosocial experience of illness, public opinion and the media, and the health care system. The implications of political and scientific controversies concerning AIDS will be analyzed, as will the impact of AIDS on the populations most affected in both the United States and Third World countries. Must be taken concurrently with SOCL 315. (Porter, Division I)

SOCL B315 Sociology of AIDS Internship
An internship open only to those who are concurrently enrolled in SOCL 310. (Porter, Division I)

SOCL B316 Science, Culture and Society
Science is a powerful institution in American life with extensive political and personal consequences. Through case studies and cross-disciplinary readings, this course challenges students to examine the social forces that influence how science is produced and used in public (and private) debates. (Simpson, Division I)

SOCL B325 Sociology of Culture
This seminar analyzes the sociological bases and ramifications of culture—by exploring (1) the role of social forces behind the cultural constructions of television programs, advertisements, journalism, movies, literary works, and politics; and (2) the sociological significance of those cultural constructions as normative messages pertaining to race relations, gender relations, class relations, and other spheres of social life. (Washington; cross-listed as ENGL B305) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B330 Comparative Economic Sociology: Societies of the North and South
A comparative study of the production, distribution, and consumption of resources in societies of the global north and south from a sociological perspective, including analysis of precapitalist economic formations and of the modern world system. Topics include the international division of labor, entrepreneurship, and the role of the modern corporation. Evidence drawn from Brazil, Britain, Jamaica, Nigeria, and the United States. Prerequisite: at least one social science course or permission of the instructor. (Osirim, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B330) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B335 Community-Based Research
This course links each student researcher to a community organization to carry out and complete a research project. Students learn the specific needs of the organization and develop the necessary research skills for their particular project. Projects will be available in a variety of local schools and non-profit organizations in Philadelphia and Montgomery County. Students may contact the department in advance for information about the types of participating organizations during a particular semester. Prerequisite: at least one social science course and permission of the instructor. (Karen) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B338 The New African Diaspora: African and Caribbean Immigrants in the United States
An examination of the socioeconomic experiences of immigrants who arrived in the United States since the landmark Hart-Cellar Act of 1965. After exploring issues of development and globalization at "home" leading to migration, the course proceeds with the study of immigration theories. Major attention is given to the emergence of transnational identities and the transformation of communities, particularly in the northeastern United States. Prerequisite: at least one social science course or permission of the instructor. (Osirim, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B338) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B346 Advanced Topics in Environment and Society
This course will examine the meaning of "nature" and "environment" and how we understand our own relationship to it. We explore the social factors that shape how people define nature as variously savage or bountiful, a site of danger or entertainment, toxic or unspoiled, a force that controls human fates or a resource for humans to manipulate. (Simpson, Division I; cross-listed as CITY B345)
Throughout human history, powerless groups of people have organized social movements to improve their lives and their societies. Powerful groups and institutions have resisted these efforts in order to maintain their own privilege. Some periods of history have been more likely than others to spawn protest movements. In American history, we think of the 1930s and 1960s in this way. What factors seem most likely to lead to social movements? What determines their success/failure? We will examine 20th-century social movements in the United States to answer these questions. Includes a film series. Prerequisite: at least one social science course or permission of the instructor. (Karen, Division I) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B360 Topics in Urban Culture and Society: Food and Society
(Hayes-Conroy; cross-listed as CITY B360)

SOCL B375 Women, Work and Family
(Golden, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B375) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B393 U.S. Welfare Politics: Theory and Practice
(Schram, Division I; cross-listed as POLS B393) Not offered in 2009-10.

SOCL B398 Senior Conference
Seminar on a major topic in the field of sociology. Students write a research paper that may form the basis of an optional senior thesis that is completed in the spring semester. Open to Bryn Mawr senior sociology majors only. (Osirim)

SOCL B403 Supervised Work
Students have the opportunity to do individual research projects under the supervision of a faculty member. (staff)

SOCL B425 Praxis III: Independent Study
(staff)

The major in Spanish offers a program of study in the language, literature, and culture of Spain, Latin America, and U.S. Latino communities. The program is designed to develop linguistic competence and critical skills, as well as a profound appreciation of the culture and civilization of the Hispanic world.

The language courses provide solid preparation and practice in spoken and written Spanish, including a thorough review of grammar and vocabulary, supplemented with cultural readings and activities. SPAN 200 and SPAN 202 prepare students for advanced work in literature and cultural studies while improving competence in the language. The introductory literature courses treat a selection of the outstanding works of Spanish and Spanish-American, and U.S. Latino literature in various periods and genres. SPAN 206 is devoted to advanced language training and affords practice in written Spanish. Three-hundred-level courses deal intensively with individual authors, topics, or periods of special significance.

Students in all courses are encouraged to make use of the Language Learning Center and to supplement their coursework with study in Spain or Spanish America either in the summer or during their junior year.

All students who have taken Spanish at other institutions and plan to enroll in Spanish courses at Bryn Mawr must take a placement examination. The exam is offered online by the department. Details are available from the Dean's Office.

The Department of Spanish also cooperates with the Departments of French and Italian in the Romance Languages major.

College Foreign Language Requirement

The College's foreign language requirement may be satisfied by completing SPAN 105 (intensive) with a grade of 2.0, or by completing SPAN 101 and 102 (non-intensive) with an average grade of at least 2.0 or with a grade of at least 2.0 in SPAN 102.

Major Requirements

Requirements for the Spanish major are SPAN 200 (formerly 110, Temas culturales), SPAN 202 (formerly 120, Análisis literario), four 200-level courses, three 300-level courses, and SPAN 398 (Senior Seminar). Two courses must be in Peninsular literature, and one should focus on pre-1700 literature. Students whose training includes advanced work may, with the permission of the department, be exempted from taking SPAN 200 and/or SPAN 202. SPAN 399 (Senior Essay) is optional for majors with a grade point average of 3.7 who want to graduate with honors, and may not be counted as one of the 300-level requirements. This major program prepares students appropriately for graduate study in Spanish.

Please note: the department offers some courses taught in English. In order to receive major and minor credit, students must do substantial reading and written work in Spanish. No more than two courses taught in English may be applied toward a major, and only one toward a minor.

Independent research (SPAN 403) is offered to students recommended by the department. The work consists of independent reading, conferences, and a long paper.

Honors

Departmental honors are awarded on the basis of a minimum grade point average of 3.7 in the major, the recommendation of the department and a senior essay (SPAN 399).

Minor Requirements

Requirements for a minor in Spanish are six courses in Spanish beyond Intermediate Spanish, at least one of which must be at the 300 level. At least one course should be in Peninsular literature.

Concentration in Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Peoples and Cultures

The Department of Spanish participates with other departments in offering a concentration in Latin American, Latino, and Iberian Peoples and Cultures.

Teacher Certification

The department also participates in a teacher-certification program. For more information see the description of the Education Program.

SPAN B001, B002 Elementary Spanish (Non-Intensive)
A communicative-based language course that introduces students to grammar, vocabulary, conversation, listening comprehension, and Hispanic cultures. This is a year-long course at the end of which students are expected to advance to an intermediate-low level by ACTFL standards. (Arribas, Breña, Mayer, Language Level 1)

SPAN B001, B002 Elementary Spanish (Intensive)
An accelerated and intensive 9 hours-per-week course of Spanish at the beginner level. Grammar, composition, conversation, listening comprehension, culture, and readings from Spain, Spanish America, and the Hispanic community in the United States. This is a year-long course at the end of which students are expected to advance to an intermediate-mid level by ACTFL standards. (Arribas, Language Level 1)

SPAN B101, B102 Intermediate Spanish
Course continues practice in listening, conversation, reading and writing in Spanish while reviewing grammatical structures and presenting advanced ones. This is a year-long course at the end of which students are expected to advance to an intermediate-high or advanced level by ACTFL standards. Prerequisite: SPAN 002 or placement. (Arribas, Breña, Lima, Quintero, Song, Language Level 2)

SPAN B105 Intensive Intermediate Spanish
A thorough review of grammar with intensive oral practice, frequent writing assignments, readings, and oral presentations intended to further develop the students language proficiency. Prerequisite: Intensive Elementary Spanish or the recommendation of the department. (Mayer, Language Level 2)
SPAN B107 Conversación: Intensive Practice in Conversational Spanish
This course seeks to enhance speaking proficiency through the development of vocabulary, pronunciation skills, and correct grammatical usage. Students participate in daily practice of speaking on a wide variety of topics, as well as give formal presentations. Prerequisite: SPAN 102 or 105. (Song)

SPAN B200 Estudios culturales de España e Hispanoamérica
An introduction to the history and cultures of the Spanish-speaking world in a global context: art, folklore, geography, literature, sociopolitical issues, and multicultural perspectives. Prerequisite: SPAN 102 or 105, or placement. (Lima, Division III)

SPAN B202 Introducción al análisis literario
Readings from Spanish and Spanish-American works of various periods and genres (drama, poetry, short stories). Main focus on developing analytical skills with attention to improvement of grammar. Prerequisite: SPAN 102 or 105, or placement. (Quintero, Song, Division III)

The prerequisite for all the following 200-level courses is SPAN 200 or 202, placement, or permission of instructor.

SPAN B203 Tópicos en la literatura hispana: José Martí y equilibrio mundial
Topics course: content varies. Topic for Fall 2009: José Martí y equilibrio mundial. A study of José Martí’s humanism and political philosophy and his influence in today’s struggle for national liberation and social justice. (Sacerio-Garí, Division III)

SPAN B206 Composición (nivel superior)
A course designed to develop a student’s written expression in Spanish. This course includes a systematic study of the structure of modern Spanish and a variety of frequent written assignments. (staff) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B208 Drama y sociedad en España
A study of the rich dramatic tradition of Spain from the Golden Age (16th and 17th centuries) to the 20th century within specific cultural and social contexts. The course considers a variety of plays as manifestations of specific sociopolitical issues and problems. Topics include theater as a site for fashioning a national identity; the dramatization of gender conflicts; and plays as vehicles of protest in repressive circumstances. (Quintero, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B211 Borges y sus lectores
Primary emphasis on Borges and his poetics of reading; other writers are considered to illustrate the semiotics of texts, society, and traditions. (Sacerio-Garí, Division III; cross-listed as COML B212)

SPAN B214 Encuentros caribeños: entre imperios y diásporas
This course examines Hispanic Caribbean literary and cultural production from the early colonial chronicles of exploration to contemporary Caribbean performance artists. By studying pivotal moments in Caribbean literary and cultural history we will engage the “New World’s” first multicultural center through the analysis of its complex legacies: racism, slavery, mestizaje, empire building and its dissolution, and emancipation. Course taught in Spanish. Prerequisite: SPAN B200 or B202, or any 200-level Spanish course, placement, or permission of instructor. (Lima, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B218 Border Crossing Narratives and Films
Our view of Latin American and U.S. Latino immigration and migration has affected film and literature. Studies border crossing and (im)migration and the debates about the nature of national affiliation for the Latino “minority” and the borders these groups transgress. Examines stereotypes about border-crossers in mainstream media and literature, and how Latino and Latin-American filmmakers have attempted to subvert these images by presenting a more complex representations and experiences. Prerequisite: SPAN B202 or equivalent. (Lima, Division III)

SPAN B223 Género y modernidad en la narrativa del siglo XIX
A reading of 19th-century Spanish narrative by both men and women writers, to assess how they come together in configuring new ideas of female identity and its social domains, as the country is facing new challenges in its quest for modernity. (Song, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B225 La poesía hispanoamericana
Study of poetic language from the Avant-garde movements to the present. Special attention to key figures. (Sacerio-Gari, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B227 Genealogía de la literatura latina de los Estados Unidos
This course examines the emancipatory and sometimes collusive appropriation of “American” literature by Latina/os. The course begins a genealogical survey of Latino writing and cultural production from the 19th century to the present in order to contextualize the eventual rise of Latino ethnic particularisms from the 1960s. We will analyze how Latina/os, often living inside two languages and cultures, inflect the national landscape by erasing both literal and linguistic “American” borders in a country made up largely of immigrants. We will analyze how the mass media constructs “insiders” and “outsiders” by delimiting access to cultural capital with demands for assimilation. (Lima, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B231 El cuento y novela corta en España
Traces the development of the novella and short story in Spain, from its origins in the Middle Ages to our time. The writers will include Pardo Bazán, Cervantes, Clarín, Don Juan Manuel, Matute, María de Zayas, and a number of contemporary writers such as Julián Marías and Soledad Puértolas. Our approach will include formal and thematic considerations, and attention will be given to social and historical contexts. (Quintero, Division III)

SPAN B240 Historia y cultura en América Latina
A brief survey of the political, social, and cultural history of Spain and Spanish America. Topics include Spanish nation/state/empire, indigenous cultures, polemics about the “Indians” in the new world, Spanish-American independence, current social and economic issues, Latin America’s multiculturalism, and Latinos in the United States. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. (Sacerio-Gari, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B260 Ariel/Calibán y el discurso Americano
A study of the transformations of Ariel/Calibán as images of Latin American culture. (Sacerio-Gari, Division III; cross-listed as COML B260) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B265 Escritoras españolas: tradición, renovación, migración
Fiction by women writers from Spain in the 20th and 21st century. Breaking the traditional female stereotypes during and after Franco’s dictatorship, the authors explore through their creative writing changing sociopolitical and cultural issues including regional identities and immigration. Topics of discussion include gender marginality, feminist studies and the portrayal of women in contemporary society. (Song, Division III)

The prerequisite for 300-level courses is SPAN 202 plus another 200-level course (numbered above 202) in Spanish or permission of instructor.

SPAN B307 Cervantes
A study of themes, structure, and style of Cervantes’ masterpiece Don Quijote and its impact on world literature. In addition to a close reading of the text and a consideration of narrative theory, the course examines the impact of Don Quijote on the visual arts, music, film, and popular culture. (Quintero, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.
SPAN B309 La mujer en la literatura española del Siglo de Oro
A study of the depiction of women in the fiction, drama, and poetry of 16th- and 17th-century Spain. Topics include the construction of gender; the idealization and codification of women’s bodies; the politics of feminine enclosure (convent, home, brothel, palace); and the performance of honor. The first half of the course will deal with representations of women by male authors (Calderón, Cervantes, Lope, Quevedo) and the second will be dedicated to women writers such as Teresa de Ávila, Ana Caro, Juana Inés de la Cruz, and María de Zayas. (Quintero, Division III)

SPAN B310 La condición pos-mortem: pos/modernidad periférica en la narrativa e historia actual mexicana.
The figuration of “death” in Mexican literature and culture has served as a central metaphor for the critique of modernity and has become one of Mexico’s principle symbols of cultural identity. The counter revolutionary movements of the ’60s, however, initiated a series of post-mortem (after death) identity projects that served as aesthetic responses to Mexico’s considerable investment in modernity’s unfulfilled cultural, political and economic promises. This new post-mortal aesthetic has begun to reconceptualize the fictions of national progress by focusing on the corporeality of citizenship and migration. Prerequisites: one 200-level Spanish course or permission of the instructor. (Lima, Division III)

SPAN B311 Crimen y detectives en la narrativa hispánica contemporánea
An analysis of the rise of the hardboiled genre in contemporary Hispanic narrative and its contrast to classic detective fiction, as a context for understanding contemporary Spanish and Latin American culture. Discussion of pertinent theoretical implications and the social and political factors that contributed to the genre’s evolution and popularity. (Song, Division III; cross-listed as COML B312)

SPAN B320 Surrealismo español: poesía, arte, y cine
A multimedia study of the development of a surrealist ethic in Spain in the 20th century as represented chiefly in the works of Federico García Lorca, Luis Buñuel, and Salvador Dalí, among others. The scope and validity of the Spanish surrealist movement will be examined in relation to its originating principles: Freud’s psychoanalytic theory, and the artistic and political manifestos of the avant-garde. Through the study of works of poetry, art, and film, we will also discuss the relationship between the theoretical and historical background of this artistic movement as we contrast art and politics, artistic freedom and political commitment. (Song, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B321 Del surrealismo al realismo mágico
Examines artistic texts that trace the development and relationships of surrealism, lo real maravilloso americano, and magic realism. Manifestos, literary and cinematic works by Spanish and Latin American authors will be emphasized. Prerequisite: a 200-level Spanish course. (Sacerio-Gari, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B327 La novela latina en la edad de la globalización
In the United States Latino literature is often construed as a “minority” literature, charting immigrant experiences. In Latin America, it is often seen as testing the limits and considered “inferior.” This course studies this phenomenon in relation to the linguistic, historical, racial, ethnic, and sexual assumptions that undergird the study of national literatures. (Lima) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B331 TransNation: U.S. Latino and Latin American Queer Diasporas
Engages current U.S. Latino and Latina American debates about state formation in the construction of citizenship from the perspective of queer and transgender studies. Explores recent theoretical and cultural works to consider the challenges posed to understanding gender, sexuality, ethnic identity, nationalism, state-formation, citizenship, and the body. Analyzes the limits of cultural and theoretical interface between U.S. Latino/Latin American and Anglo-American cultural theory. Prerequisites: SPAN B202 or ENGL B250 or equivalent. (Lima, Division III) Not offered in 2009-10.

SPAN B351 Tradición y revolución: Cuba y su literatura
An examination of Cuba, its history and its literature with emphasis on the analysis of the changing cultural policies since 1959. Major topics include slavery and resistance; Cuba’s struggles for freedom; the literature and film of the Revolution; and literature in exile. (Sacerio-Gari, Division III)

SPAN B398 Senior Seminar
The study of special topics, critical theory and approaches with primary emphasis on Hispanic literatures. Topics will be prepared jointly with the students. (Sacerio-Gari)

SPAN B399 Senior Essay
Available to students whose proposals are approved by the department. (staff)

SPAN B403 Supervised Work
Independent reading, conferences, and a long paper; offered to senior students recommended by the department. (staff)
