

COLLEGE-WIDE DEGREE REQUIREMENTS CHECKLIST

For students who entered in Fall of 2009, with expected graduation of 2013

ENGLISH COMPOSITION

Emily Balch Seminar

QUANTITATIVE SKILLS (CHECK ONE)

Q courses which carry divisional credit may count towards both the quantitative requirement and the relevant divisional requirement.

one course identified as a quantitative methods course ("Q") in the course guide

appropriate AP, IB, A-level, or other test score

LANGUAGE (CHECK ONE)

two courses above the elementary level

BMC proficiency test

690 SATII Language Score (650 if taken prior to spring 1995)

appropriate AP, IB, A-level, or other test score

a semester of College Seminar plus a second writing-intensive course, which must be approved by your dean (for qualified non-native speakers of English)

DIVISIONAL REQUIREMENT

For each division, half the requirement may be fulfilled by appropriate AP, IB, A-level, or other test score.

Division I: Social Science (list two courses)

- 1.
- 2.

Division II: Lab Science and/or Mathematics (list two courses, one of which must be designated IIL)

- 1.
- 2.

Division III: Humanities (list two courses, no more than one unit of which is in the Performing or Studio Arts)

- 1.
- 2.

Important notes regarding transfer credits:

With the exception of the Emily Balch Seminar and Foreign Language requirements, students are permitted to use transfer credits to fulfill requirements. Please consult your dean in advance about whether a particular course at another institution will fulfill a Bryn Mawr requirement.

Emily Balch Seminars must be taken at Bryn Mawr. For all languages taught at Bryn Mawr, students must complete these courses here (or at Haverford). If taken elsewhere, these courses will not count as fulfilling the requirement, and the student must still pass a proficiency test. For languages not taught at Bryn Mawr, students may use coursework from Penn. If classes are taken at a university other than Penn, the student must pass a proficiency test offered through the Penn Language Center or by special arrangement with another university. Consult your dean.

Important note regarding interdivisional courses:

Courses identified as interdivisional, e.g., "I or III" may be used by a student to satisfy either one of the relevant divisional requirements. However, no one course can be used towards more than one divisional requirement. Moreover, ordinarily only one of the two courses used to satisfy any divisional requirement may be such an interdivisional course.