Bryn Mawr College
New Faculty Orientation

DAY 2

SAMPLE SCHEDULE
Wyndham Alumnae House

The activities planned for the second day of new faculty orientation were developed in response to issues raised by previous new groups of continuing and interim faculty members. The activities designed to initiate the ongoing process of becoming successful teachers in this particular educational context.

You will have opportunities to reflect on your own assumptions and expectations about teaching at Bryn Mawr, hear from faculty, staff, and students about what works for them in the classroom, and identify as a group issues we may want to return to over the course of the year.

Facilitator: Alison Cook-Sather, Professor and Director of the Teaching and Learning Institute
