Bryn Mawr is one of the world’s most distinctive, distinguished colleges. Every year, students from around the world gather on the College’s historic campus to study with leading scholars, conduct advanced research, and expand the boundaries of what’s possible. Bryn Mawr’s identity embodies the school’s tradition while at the same time looking toward to the future with a font family that is historic and also contemporary. The Bryn Mawr identity contains various elements and many colors to add different flavors to applications, thereby keeping the look fresh for years to come. With so many variables, this styleguide should be used to ensure brand consistency for current and future use.
The logo

This is the Bryn Mawr College logotype.

It is strong and decisive while being classic and elegant. A Humanist influence in the letterforms pay homage to the stonework around campus.
The Bryn Mawr logotype was carefully created using proportional spacial considerations. Never tamper with the elements of the logo or any of its elements.

The outermost dotted line indicates the minimum amount of clear space the logotype requires. No external graphic elements should ever come closer to the logotype than this line.

BRYN MAWR
The logo

Within limited horizontal spaces, the 3-line logotype configuration can be used.
This element references the rich tradition of lanterns at Bryn Mawr. The element should be used not instead of a core logotype configuration, but as an auxiliary dingbat. It should always appear small and never be overpowering.
The Bryn Mawr College monogram is another auxillary element. It can be used either very small, as a signature, or very large, as a supergraphic.
These examples show allowable uses of the logotype and elements together.

The Carter Sans typeface family is a robust, sophisticated design that melds distinction and clarity in perfect proportions. It can be purchased here: http://www.linotype.com/769928/CarterSansVolume1-product.html
National is a deceptively simple sans serif with subtle quirks in the details that give it a distinctive—but not distracting—personality.

Because Carter Sans and National might not be available to everyone working at Bryn Mawr, these alternate typefaces can be used for internal documents.

These should only be used for internal documents in Word, Excel and Powerpoint when Carter Sans and National are not available.

Never use these to design marketing and customer-facing materials.

These typefaces are acceptable on the web.
