THE SLADE SOCIETY

“We shall reach our goal because it is essential to the future of Bryn Mawr, and that future is of immense significance.”

— CAROLINE McCORMICK SLADE, BRYN MAWR BULLETIN, 1948

In 1919, Bryn Mawr Trustee Caroline McCormick Slade, Class of 1896, pushed the boundaries for women philanthropists and raised a remarkable sum of nearly $2.5 million to support faculty salaries.

“Now more than ever our leadership support is vital and ensures that Bryn Mawr remains exceptional.”

— ANN LOGAN, CLASS OF 1976, BOARD OF TRUSTEES CHAIR

BOARD OF TRUSTEES CHALLENGE

This year, as the College continues with the Defy Expectation Campaign to raise a minimum of $250 million, the Board of Trustees is offering this exclusive opportunity to join them in exhibiting leadership and investing in Bryn Mawr today.

For every 200 Slade members, the Board of Trustees will contribute $50,000 to The Bryn Mawr Fund, making your gift go that much further in support of our students, faculty and beautiful campus. The goal is to have 800 Slade Society members this academic year—the highest number in recent history —for a Trustee award of $200,000.

For 18 years, members of The Slade Society have followed Caroline McCormick Slade’s vision by providing a strong base of leadership support to Bryn Mawr College. Each year, Slade members represent only 10% of donors but contribute more than 75% of the dollars that sustain Bryn Mawr as a top-tiered liberal arts college and a remarkable place to live and learn.

The success of any great endeavor is dependent upon the leadership of a significant few.
