

Background Info & Demographic Info

Thank you for your interest in the Bi-Co Ghana Lagim Tehi Tuma Fellowship for Summer 2019.

This program is a partnership with LILAC, CPGC, and Global Bryn Mawr. Bryn Mawr students are funded by LILAC to participate in this program.

This internship is open to Haverford and Bryn Mawr College students. Haverford students should apply through CPGC.

We strongly recommend downloading the application to preview the questions, and only entering your answers in the online form when you are ready to submit. This will help to ensure that your answers are not lost.

A complete application includes:

- (1) This LILAC Summer Funding Application Form
- (2) A one-page resume and personal statement (uploaded through this form)
- (3) A Recommendation Letter from a TriCo Faculty or Staff member. Please send the following link to your recommender to submit their letter: https://brynmawr.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_3WvbGXLxEHH8VX7

For questions about the application, please contact Jennifer Prudencio at internshipfunding@brynmawr.edu. Questions about the Fellowship can be directed to Professor Alice Lesnick at alesnick@brynmawr.edu

Health & Safety International Experiences | Passport Information

All students participating in the BiCo Ghana Lagim Tehi Tuma Fellowship are required to have a passport valid for six months after their return date.

Do you currently have a passport valid for six months after the return date of your internship program?

Yes

No

Health & Safety: Successful applicants for international destinations will receive travel and medical insurance from Haverford and Bryn Mawr Colleges, issued by Europ Assistance. This insurance will cover emergency medical treatment and evacuation, if necessary. This insurance is intended to be supplemental to your personal insurance. It is your responsibility to confirm that your personal insurance will cover you for the length of your project and reimburse you for care given in your intended destination. If your personal insurance does not provide coverage while traveling abroad, the CPGC will purchase insurance for you.

Routine vaccinations as listed on the Center for Disease Control website are REQUIRED for travel with CPGC programs and are to be covered at the student's own expense. These include flu, chickenpox, hepatitis A & B, polio, MMR (measles/mumps/rubella), and T-Dap (tetanus/diphtheria/pertussis). It is the responsibility of the student to check if their vaccines are current and to confirm coverage with their health insurance.

LILAC and the CPGC will cover the cost non-routine vaccinations that are REQUIRED for travel to your international destination. However, you must demonstrate that you have done sufficient research to understand what vaccinations and prophylactic medications are necessary. You can find a list of vaccinations that are required for travel to particular regions on the Center for Disease Control website.

LILAC and the CPGC will cover the cost of the following vaccinations and medications for participants in the Lagim Tehi Tuma Fellowship Program.

1. Yellow Fever
2. Typhoid
3. Malaria

Please confirm coverage for these vaccines with your personal health insurance. LILAC and the CPGC will not cover the cost of the Rabies vaccinations, as it is not required to accomplish the work required of you during your internship.

I acknowledge and have read this statement. Please initial below:

You may combine your answers in an essay of no more than 500 words.

agya School

- 1. What draws you to this experience?
- 2. What skills, experiences, or interests would you bring to the various communities and organizations in play, and more specifically to your colleagues in the BiCo and northern Ghana?
- 3. What academic and experiential preparation do you have? (This can include relevant classes you have taken, projects you have pursued, as well as extracurricular experiences you have had that have prepared you for the challenges of this fellowship.)
- 4. How would you like this experience to inform your future academic/community work/professional life?

Much of this program is an undertaking and experiment in shared learning and collaboration with other Bi-Co students, with Ghanaian students, with faculty members, community members, community mentors, younger people, and older people -- often across languages and in relation to demanding questions of culture, power, and identity. What do you anticipate some of the benefits and challenges of living and working in communities with the same people for 10 weeks to be? (This refers to the Bi-Co students you journey with as well as the local communities) How will you handle these potential challenges? In what ways are you equipped to engage in this complex work of collaborating and negotiating meaning? What are your current questions about this work? What prior experiences will you draw on in this work, and what experiences might make this work challenging for you?

Anticipated challenges and obstacles (200 words max): Describe another major challenge or obstacle you anticipate either for yourself or for the work you hope to do. How will you address this challenge or obstacle? What resources (internal and external) will you seek to access? How will you measure your success in meeting this challenge or obstacle?

Ethical Preparations: (200 words): What is your current understanding of the ethical dimension of your engagement in this program? What are your questions about this? What methods will you use to be as ethically aware as possible? What will you do when you stumble or fail here? How do you understand this project to relate to the CPGC (for Haverford students) and LILAC (for Bryn Mawr students)'s missions to encourage informed reflection and social action?

LILAC Competencies (200 words): Demonstrate that you have perspective on how your proposed project relates to LILAC's mission of preparing liberal arts students to be effective, self-aware leaders in their chosen life pursuits. Please select two of the LILAC competencies from the list below and discuss how you hope to grow in these areas.

- Social Responsibility: ethical behavior in relation to the groups and communities of which one is a part
- Communication: articulation of thoughts and experiences to influence, inspire and explain
- Conceptual Thinking: creative search for new ideas and solutions
- Connection: establishment of authentic, purposeful relationships and collaboration with others
- Cultural Competency: respectful engagement with people of diverse identities and backgrounds in different contexts
- Implementation: thoughtful translation of ideas and theories into action
- Reflective Practice: intentional synthesis of experiences, both successes and challenges, to make connections, explore meaning and inform future choices

Bringing It Back (150 words): How do you plan on sharing what you learn during your internship with others in the Bi-Co and beyond?

Health & Safety: (250 words): If you will be working in a culture that is unfamiliar to you, there may be customs, norms, or expectations that will be critical to be aware of. This is so often especially true of projects related to peace, conflict, and social justices issues, which may be politically sensitive. What special precautions might you need to take to maintain your health and ensure your personal safety? Please indicate what steps you are taking to address these circumstances.

The colleges require that you familiarize yourself with the travel safety advisories for Ghana as listed on the U.S. State Department's website.

Students selected for this fellowship are required to attend a pre-departure orientation in April. Students who will be off campus for the Spring 2019 semester will be required to work with LILAC and a CPGC program coordinator to complete pre-departure requirements. All interns, including those returning for a 2nd internship, are required to enroll in a course for returned interns during the Fall 2019 semester. Students may fill the course requirement with an appropriate substitute course relating to the issues explored in the internship, with approval of the CPGC's Academic Director. Students studying off campus for the Fall 2019 semester will be required to fulfill this course requirement during the Spring or Fall 2020 semester.

In addition, as a Bryn Mawr College-funded student, I will submit required documentation for my internship with the LILAC Summer Funding Program and participate in Bryn Mawr and Beyond event in Fall 2019.

Budget

LILAC will cover the cost of food, lodging, visa, airfare, and local travel for the duration of your internship. In addition to direct costs of the Legim Tehi Tuma Ghana Fellowship, LILAC will cover the summer earnings expectations for students who have that stipulation in their AY financial aid packages, based on the length of your internship. Please note: For international students at Bryn Mawr, the financial aid packages do not use the construct of the Summer Earnings Expectation and allocate this support in another way. In order to gain an understanding of their specific packages and to plan accordingly, international students at Bryn Mawr interested in the program are encouraged to meet and discuss this with the Financial Aid Office.
