Abstract:

Given a finitely presented group $G$ with generating set $S$, we can consider the shortest paths in its Cayley graph. These shortest paths are called geodesics, and can give rise to geodesic words with respect to the generating set $S$. We will investigate cases when the geodesic words form a regular language and special properties of these regular language.