The Department of Special Collections offers a summer graduate internship working with its collections of art, artifacts, rare books, manuscripts and archives. The internship will provide opportunities in a number of areas of special collections work, including exhibitions, social media, web sites, cataloging projects, and digital projects. In recent years the projects have involved working with the library’s collection of 15th century printed books; cataloging and curating an exhibition of 20th century prints; and working with Greek and Roman objects in the archaeology collections. The intern's exact assignments will depend upon the interests of the successful applicant and the priorities of the Special Collections Department. The position is funded by the Friends of the Bryn Mawr College Library.

Eligibility: Open to Bryn Mawr College graduate students. Experience in exhibitions or working with art, historical, or cultural collections is preferred, but not required.

Pay: $15 per hour.

Duration: The internship is for any ten week period between mid-May and late August, and is funded for up to 35 hours per week.

Deadline for applications: March 10, 2017

To apply: Submit letter of application, vita, and the names of two references to:
