VIRTUAL STUDY ABROAD OPPORTUNITIES
SUMMER 2020

The following are among the online, remote and virtual study abroad programs being offered by organizational and institutional partners of Bryn Mawr College. This is list is by no means comprehensive but is provided as a starting point for students who are interested in continuing their intercultural learning this summer. This list does not constitute an endorsement, as many programs are newly developed and thus have not been reviewed but is provided for informational purposes only.

APA Paris
Website: https://www.apaparis.com/program/online-francophone-summer/?topic=Overview
Deadline to Apply: June 5th

Description: Students can register for one or two courses from the six offered, led by experts in their respective fields. All courses are taught in French and are worth four credit hours. Courses include: Cross-Cultural Management, Culture and Women's Rights in the Francophone World, Development Economics, Francophone Cinema in Focus: Sub-Saharan Africa and the Maghreb, French Colonization and Decolonization, and Gender and Francophone Literature.

Professors come from APA's host countries of France, Morocco, and Senegal, with multiple courses having two lead instructors to add to the comparative nature of these subjects. Guest speakers will join the virtual cohort to contribute to the collaborative nature of the online discussions of class topics.

Arcadia
Website: https://studyabroad.arcadia.edu/find-a-program/virtual-europe/
Deadline for summer session 2 (July 6th – July 31st): June 15th

Description: Join Arcadia faculty in London, Dublin, Edinburgh, Barcelona, Granada, Athens or Rome for a range of online courses and internships to earn up to nine credits in eight weeks. Choose one course per session and add on an internship if you wish. Virtual internship placements are with employers in London, Rome and Athens.
Charles University, Prague

Website: https://eces.ff.cuni.cz/onl/

Session 1 Deadline: June 8th

Session 2 Deadline (July 13th – July 30th): June 29th

Description: ECES is an interdisciplinary program at Charles University, Faculty of Arts, in Prague – one of Central Europe’s oldest and most prestigious universities. The program was founded in 1992 and offers courses in six academic fields during the fall, spring, and summer terms. ECES provides an opportunity for English-speaking students to immerse themselves within the Charles University academic community. ECES prides itself on assisting students in creating a comprehensive cultural and academic program as a way to elevate their undergraduate experiences.

Courses are offered via a combination of collaborative online interactions and independent offline coursework; professors will deliver video lectures, assign projects, lead virtual walks and museum visits, and facilitate interactive discussions. Each course is worth three credits.

During courses, students will be able explore topics such as how Central and Eastern European filmmakers saw the science fiction genre as a space for exploration, critique, and as one of the last refuges of imagination during times of crisis; how songs relate to people’s attitudes to public life, and conversely, how attitudes to public life translate into songs; and be introduced to the fundamental aspects of psycholinguistic research, for example.

The professors, experts in their fields, bring a Central European perspective to those who cannot travel to experience it for themselves. These courses can be a great way for students to prepare to travel to Prague on a future study abroad program.

University of Edinburgh

Website: https://www.summerschool.ed.ac.uk/courses-and-fees

Description: The University of Edinburgh Summer School is offering two online programs for undergraduate students, taught fully online in July and August 2020 and allowing students the opportunity to immerse themselves in their subjects:

Medieval Scotland | 6-31 July 2020
Deadline to Apply: June 21st
20 credits/10 ECTS/4 US | 4 weeks | 72 contact hours
An intensive course introducing the history of Medieval Scotland where students will develop historical skills. Using a range of primary sources - physical objects and documents in translation - the course aims to expand writing and presentation skills, and to develop students' source handling and understanding of the subject area. The course will draw extensively on the rich cultural heritage of Scotland, with privileged online access to Edinburgh's museums, galleries and archives and remains of medieval churches.

Business Communication and Social Media | 3-14 August 2020
Deadline to Apply: June 19th
Non-credit | 2 weeks | 35 contact hours
Explore key topics in business use of social media, including Web 2.0, current social media platforms, how international companies and organizations use social media effectively, corporate dialogue, and social media strategies and metrics. This course is offered as non-credit, but Partner Universities may find that this course fulfils the credit criteria of their institution.

IFSA Butler

Website: https://www.ifsa-butler.org/program/IFSAOnline/

Deadline: May 15th

Description: IFSA Butler allows you to harness the power of global connections by networking with international instructors and fellow students from across the country in this unique and affordable learning opportunity. You can build your own experience with a combination of remote internships and IFSA-curated classes in areas such as psychology, health sciences, economics, Spanish, political science, or marketing and communications.

Choose among courses such as Introduction to Medical Spanish, Contemporary Issues in Public Health, Multicultural Psychology and Exploring Community and Culture in a Global Context.

Internships are available in a variety of fields. Interns are engaged for 15 or more hours per week for eight weeks through a combination of project hours and associated academic seminars. Internships are jointly supervised by your site supervisor and Internship and Methodology Seminar Instructor.
ISI Florence

Website: https://isiflorence.org/online/

Deadline (for June 24th-July 22nd): June 15th

Deadline (for July 27th – Aug 21st): July 17th

Description: ISI Florence offers a virtual Italian experience with online courses this summer. Students may take up to six credits and choose from among the most popular courses taught from Italy by expert faculty. Classes start June 1st and last six (6) weeks.

Choose from courses including the History and Culture of Food in Italy; The Art of Florence; History and Cinema of the (Anti) Mafia; and Digital Branding: Italian Fashion and Luxury.

With ISI Florence’s online now, travel later option, students can join next summer in Italy with a $1,500 discount voucher exclusively offered to summer 2020 online participants! All Summer 2020 Online participants automatically qualify for enrollment in ISI Florence’s Summer 2021 programs in either Florence, Italy (ISI Florence), or in Perugia, Italy with the Umbra Institute.

SIT Study Abroad

Website: https://studyabroad.sit.edu/programs/new-summer-program-offerings/

Description:

3+3 Thematic Programs

Deadline to Apply: June 15th

These programs offer three weeks of online study and an optional three weeks abroad. The online course in July is open to all applicants; the in-person winter J-term is open to college undergraduates who have completed the online term.

3+3 Language Programs

Deadline to Apply: June 15th

These programs offer three weeks of online study and an optional three weeks abroad. Choose from among 12 different languages, including Wolof, Tibetan, and Quechua. The online course in July is open to all applicants. The in-person winter J-term is open to college undergraduates who have completed the online term, or who provide proof of language equivalency.

Study Away USA Programs

Deadline to Apply: June 1st

These hybrid programs include both online and in-person programming to examine a critical global issue from a U.S. perspective. The online study is scheduled for 10 days in late July.
followed by two weeks of face-to-face on-site programming August 1-14. Programs include Georgia From Field to Fork; Public Health in Montana; Public Health in Washington DC; and Migration on the US-Mexico Border.

Online Internships

Deadline to Apply: June 1st
SIT virtual internships are 5-credits and place students with partner organizations in five global locations for an immersive virtual experience: Jordan, Kenya, Netherlands, Serbia, South Africa.