RESEARCH INTEREST

My primary research objective is to promote and retain a culturally responsive workforce. My research projects focus on the bicultural and bilingual Asian human service workers, including social workers, and their burnout with racially informed risk and protective factors based on the Asian critical race theory. Acknowledging the effect of the COVID-19 pandemic, COVID-19 related racism, and community intervention of utilizing bicultural human service workers, I focus on illuminating the racial positioning and racial realities of Asian workers who help immigrant populations with limited English proficiency.
